CLASS OF 2005

Looking Back: Barnard's Past

As the 10th president of Columbia, Frederick A. P. Barnard strongly believed in equal education for women. In 1879, he began arguing for co-education at Columbia, without support from trustees and faculty. Interestingly, Barnard was against the establishment of a separate institution for women.

After leaving Columbia College's collegiate course for women, a tutoring program especially for women, Annie Nathan Meyer called for the establishment of an "affiliated" women's institution starting in 1888. The next year, on October 7th, Barnard College opened at 343 Madison Avenue.

The Annual, the first student publication, began production in 1894. It was eventually replaced by The Mortarboard. Currently the oldest student publication at Barnard College, The Mortarboard was established in 1898 and has had 111 editions.

Along with Columbia, Barnard moved to its Morningside Heights location in 1897. Three years later, Columbia and Barnard established their affiliation arrangements. Barnard has its own trustees, faculty, and financial responsibilities and Barnard graduates receive Columbia degrees.

Frederick A. P. Barnard was named the 10th president of Columbia College in 1864.

In 1983, as the last Ivy League to become co-educational, Columbia College admitted women for the first time to the Class of 1987.

Barnard College celebrated the centennial in 1989.

The Arthur Ross Greenhouse opened October 8, 1998 on top of Milbank Hall replacing the previous greenhouse which was built in 1928.

Millicent McIntosh became the first President of Barnard College on July 1, 1953. The previous three administrative heads held the title of Dean.

Brooks Hall, the first permanent dormitory, was built in 1907 and was named for the Reverend Arthur Brooks.

New York City

New York is the greatest city in the world. With so much to offer, there is something for everyone. From arts and entertainment to shopping and cuisine, it is truly the city that never sleeps.

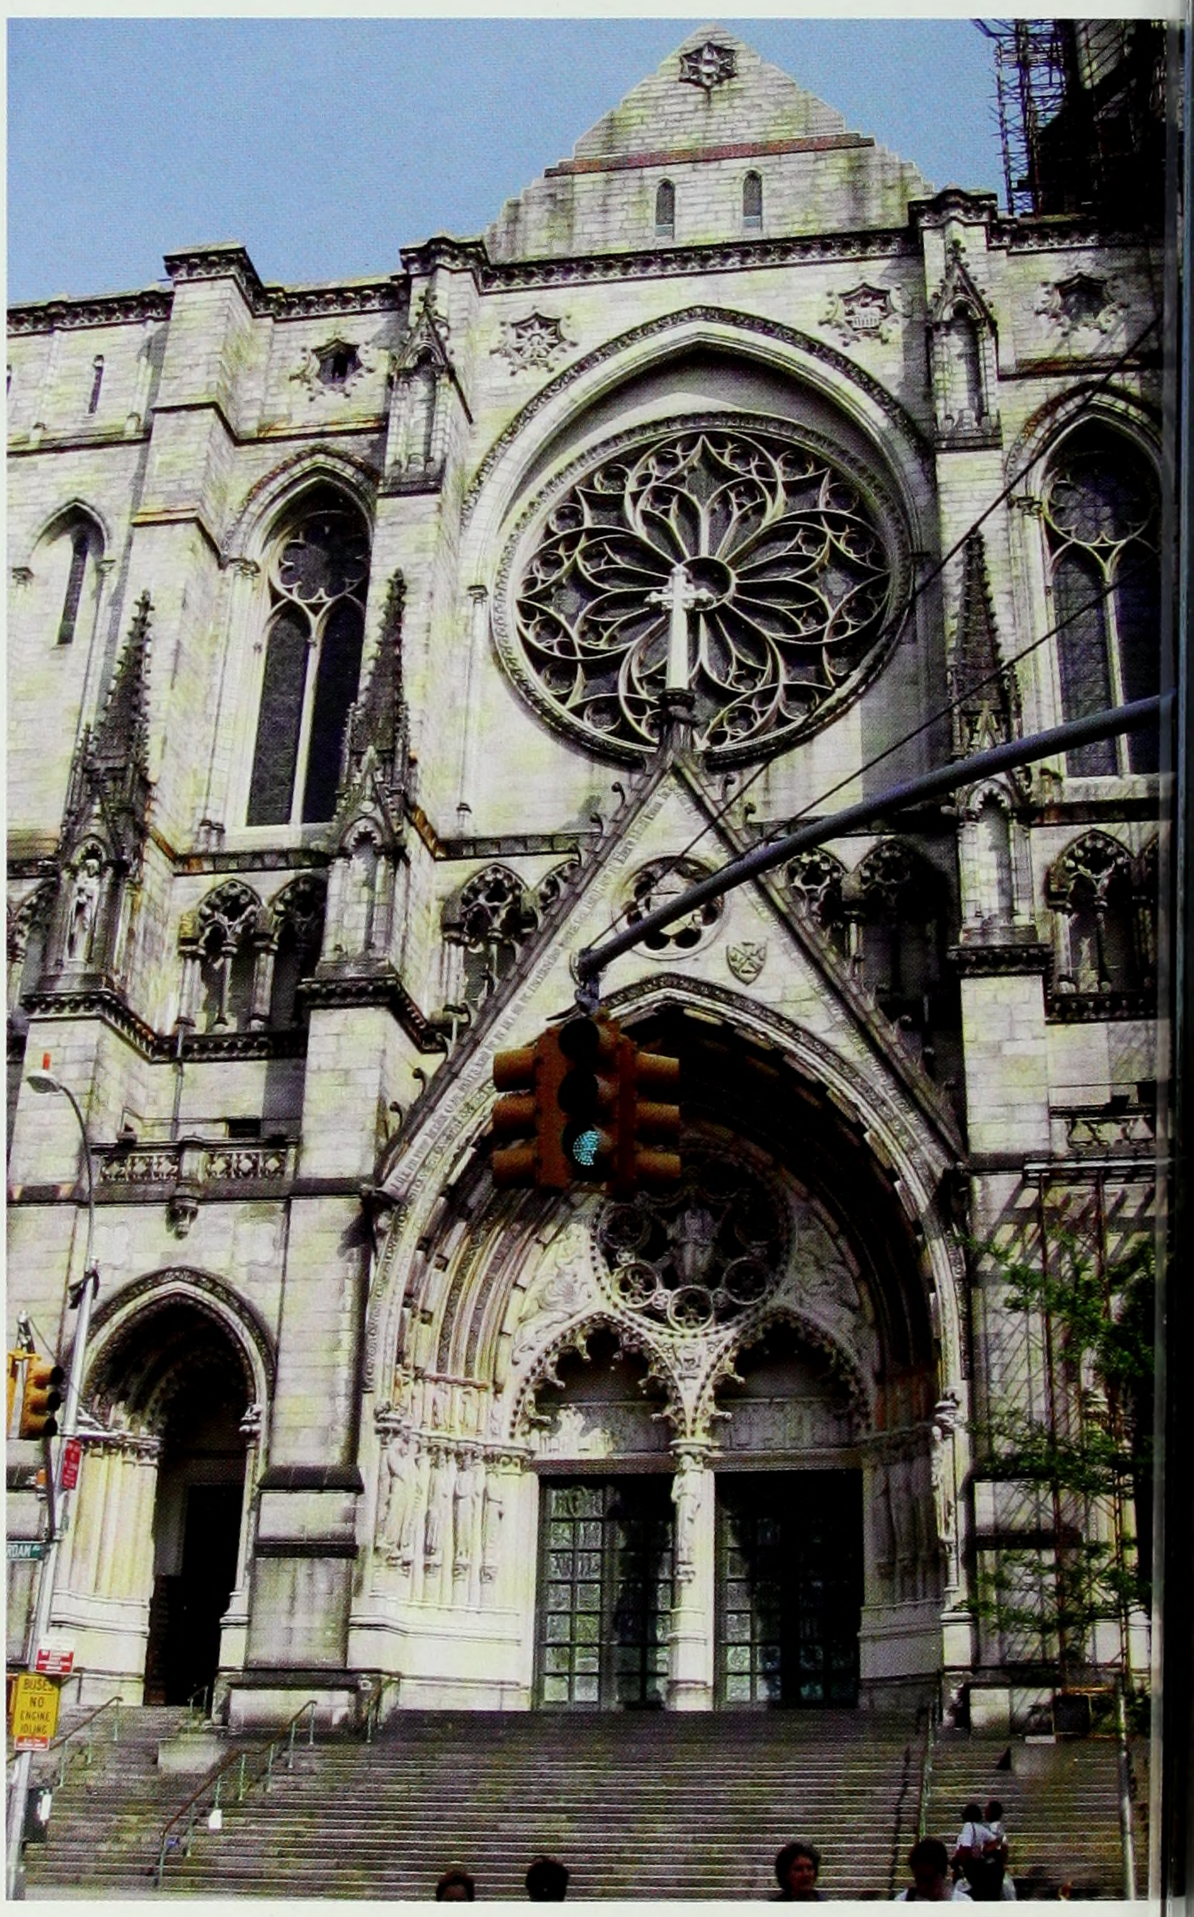
2005

The 1/9 train is the area's connection to the rest of New York.

The West End is one of the most popular local restaurants among students.

For baked goods, the Hungarian Pastry Shop is a favorite destination for many.

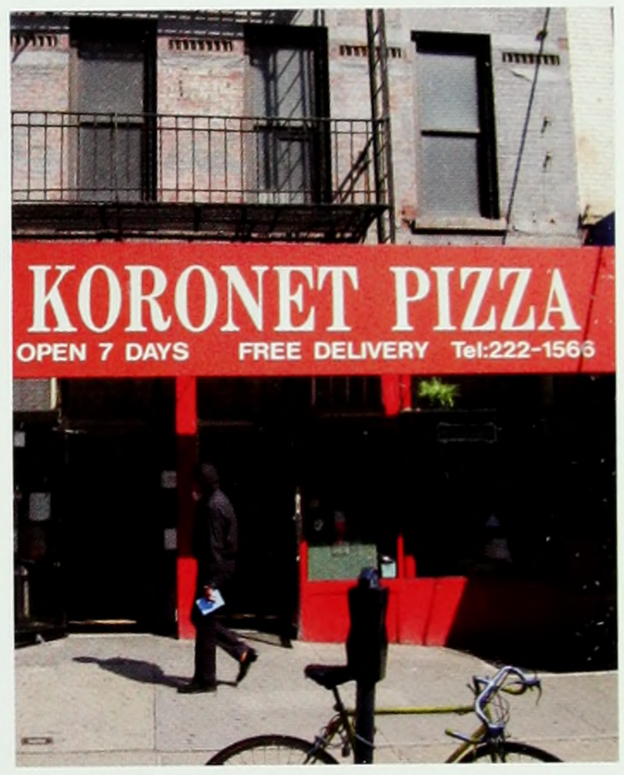
Famous for its appearances on Seinfeld, Tom's Restaurant is the perfect place for a late night meal.



The Cathedral of St. John the Divine is the largest cathedral in North America.

Morningside Heights

Technically part of Harlem, Morningside Heights remains a distinct neighborhood due to the abundance of college professors and students. It is known as the "academic acropolis" because it's home to not only the Barnard and Columbia campuses, but also the Jewish Theological Seminary, Union Theological Seminary, Bank Street College of Education, and the Manhattan School of Music. Geared toward students, Broadway hosts numerous restaurants and bookstores. It's rare to walk down Broadway without bumping into a fellow student or professor. Walk over to Amsterdam along 114th Street and you'll find yourself on Frat Row. Amsterdam is packed with bodegas and mom and pop shops and you will also find St.Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital and St. John the Divine along the way.

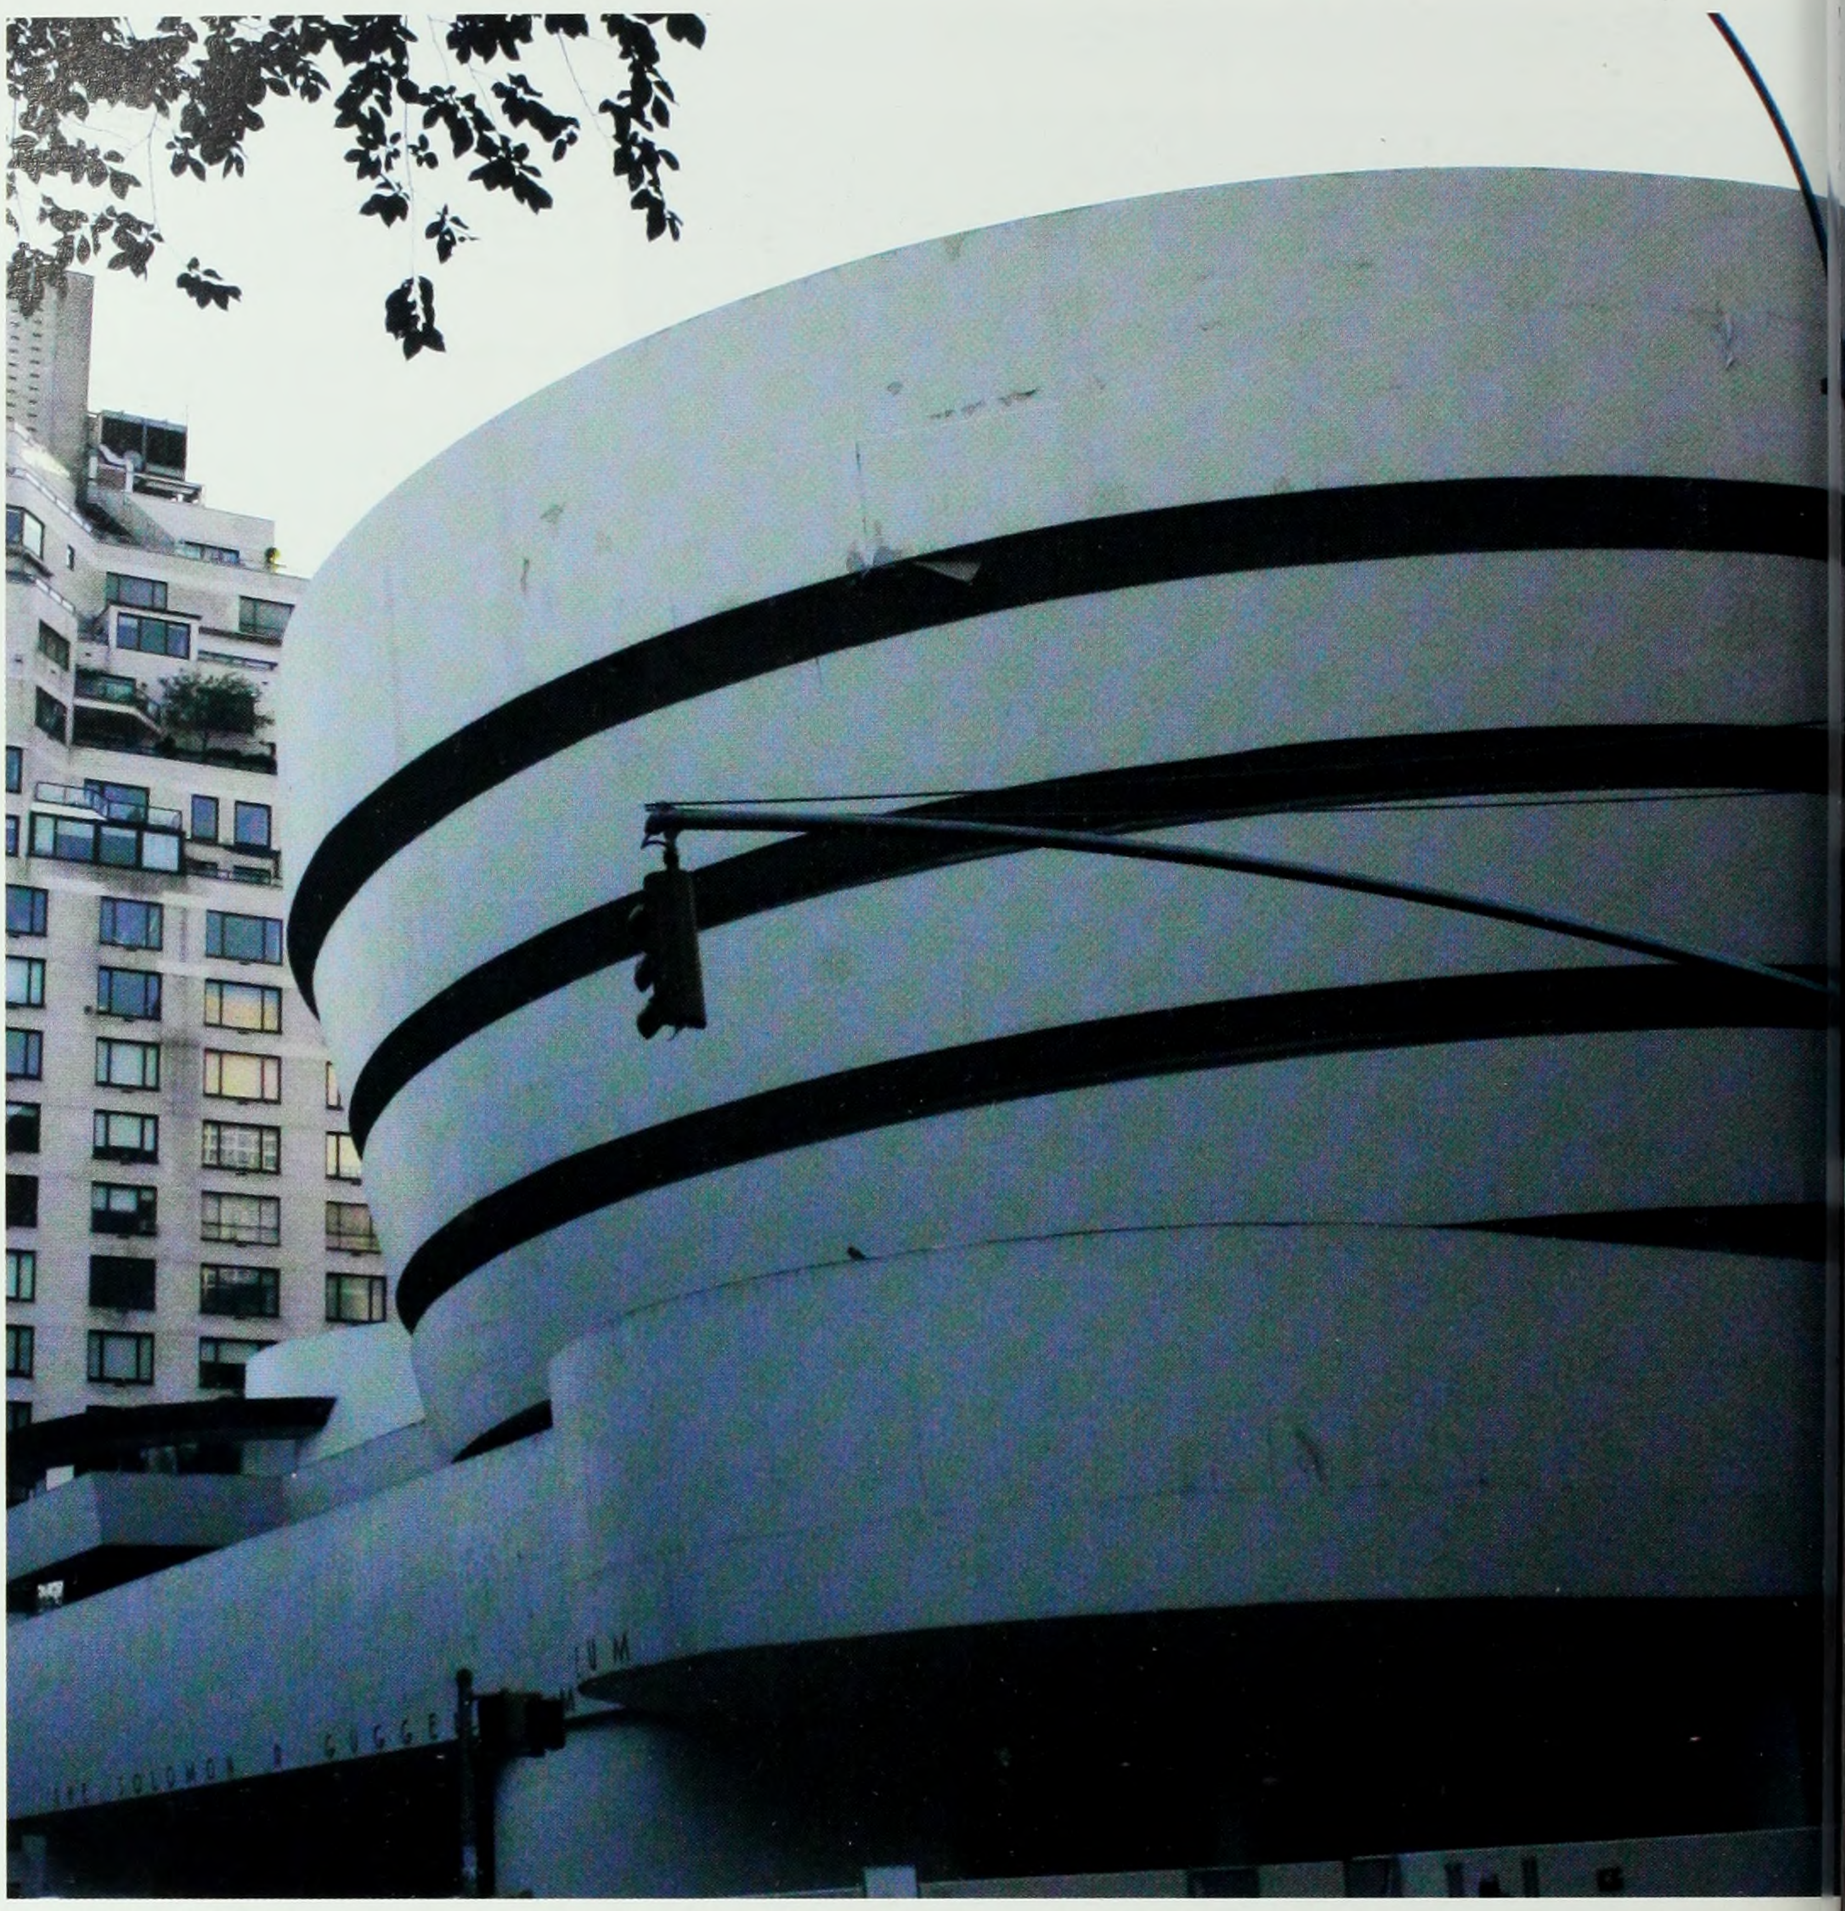


Known for large slices and reasonable prices, Koronet's is the place for great pizza.

The memorial to Ulysses S. Grant and his wife, known as Grant's Tomb, is made from 8,000 tons of granite.

The Guggenheim Museum was designed by famed architect Frank Lloyd Wright.

The New York City Ballet, the Metropolitan Opera, and the New York Philharmonic are all located at the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts.

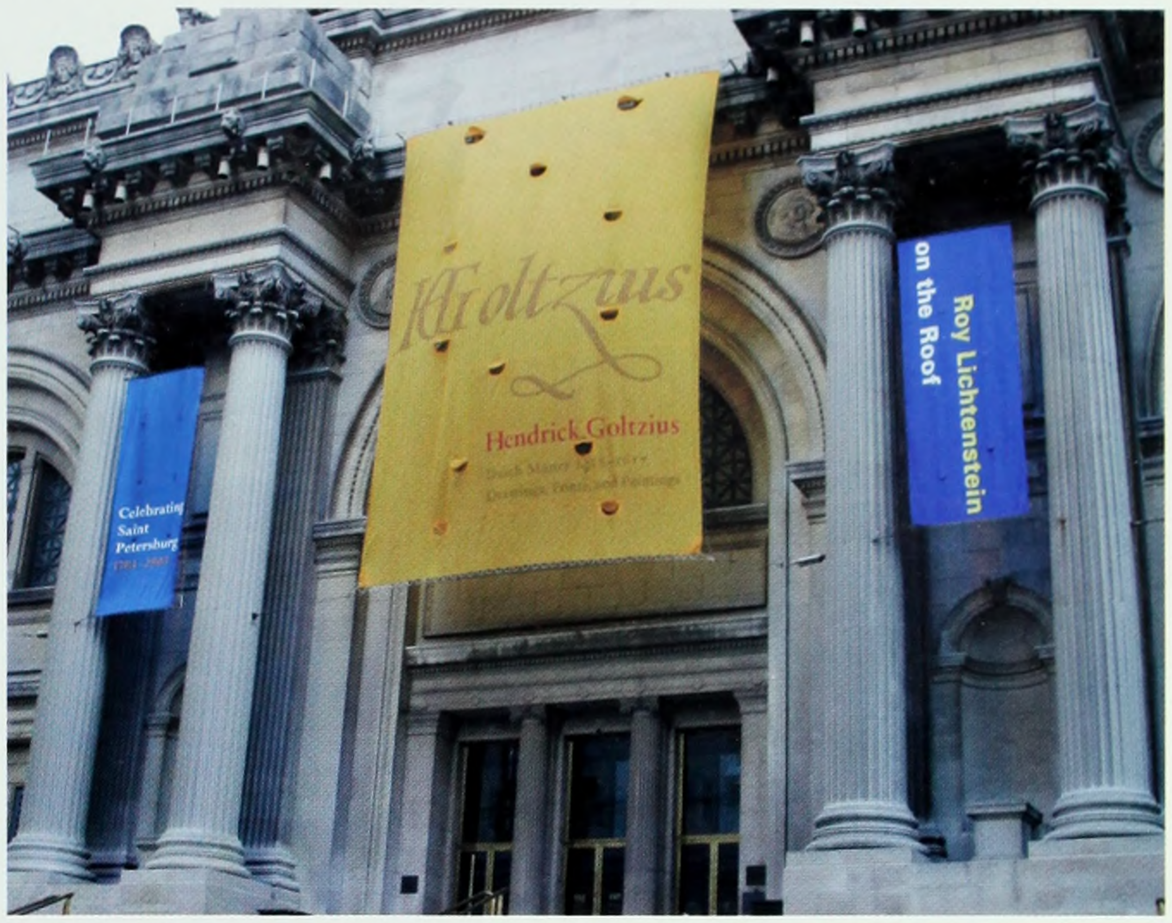


Uptown

Palatial luxurious apartments and small crowded studio apartments comprise the Upper East Side and Upper West Side of Manhattan. The Upper East Side's Museum Mile is the place to go for stunning masterpieces of art. Make sure to go to the Metropolitan Museum of Art to check out its stellar permanent collection as well as the many extraordinary temporary exhibits that come and go throughout the year. If you've got some extra money, indulge yourself in the many posh and elegant stores aligning Madison Avenue. On the other side of Manhattan lies the Upper West Side. The Upper West Side has long been central to liberal and intellectual life and its Broadway stretch bustles with activity. Enjoy the opera at Lincoln Center or go shopping around Columbus Circle. And don't forget the many stores, restaurants, bars and dessert cafes all along Broadway, Amsterdam, and Columbus Ave!

The Plaza is one of the most famous hotels in the city drawing visitors from all over the world.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art is located on the East side of Central Park and is home to more than two million works of art.



Columbus Circle is not only a subway hub, but it has recently become a center for shopping and entertainment.

Madison Square Garden, one of the world's most famous arenas, holds sporting events, concerts, and theater productions.

Since 1927, Macy's Department Store in Herald Square has hosted the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

One of the most famous Christmas trees has been found at Rockefeller Center every year since 1931.

The Garment District is the center for fashion in New York City.

At 102 stories, The Empire State Building held the title of tallest building in the world from 1931-1972.

Midtown

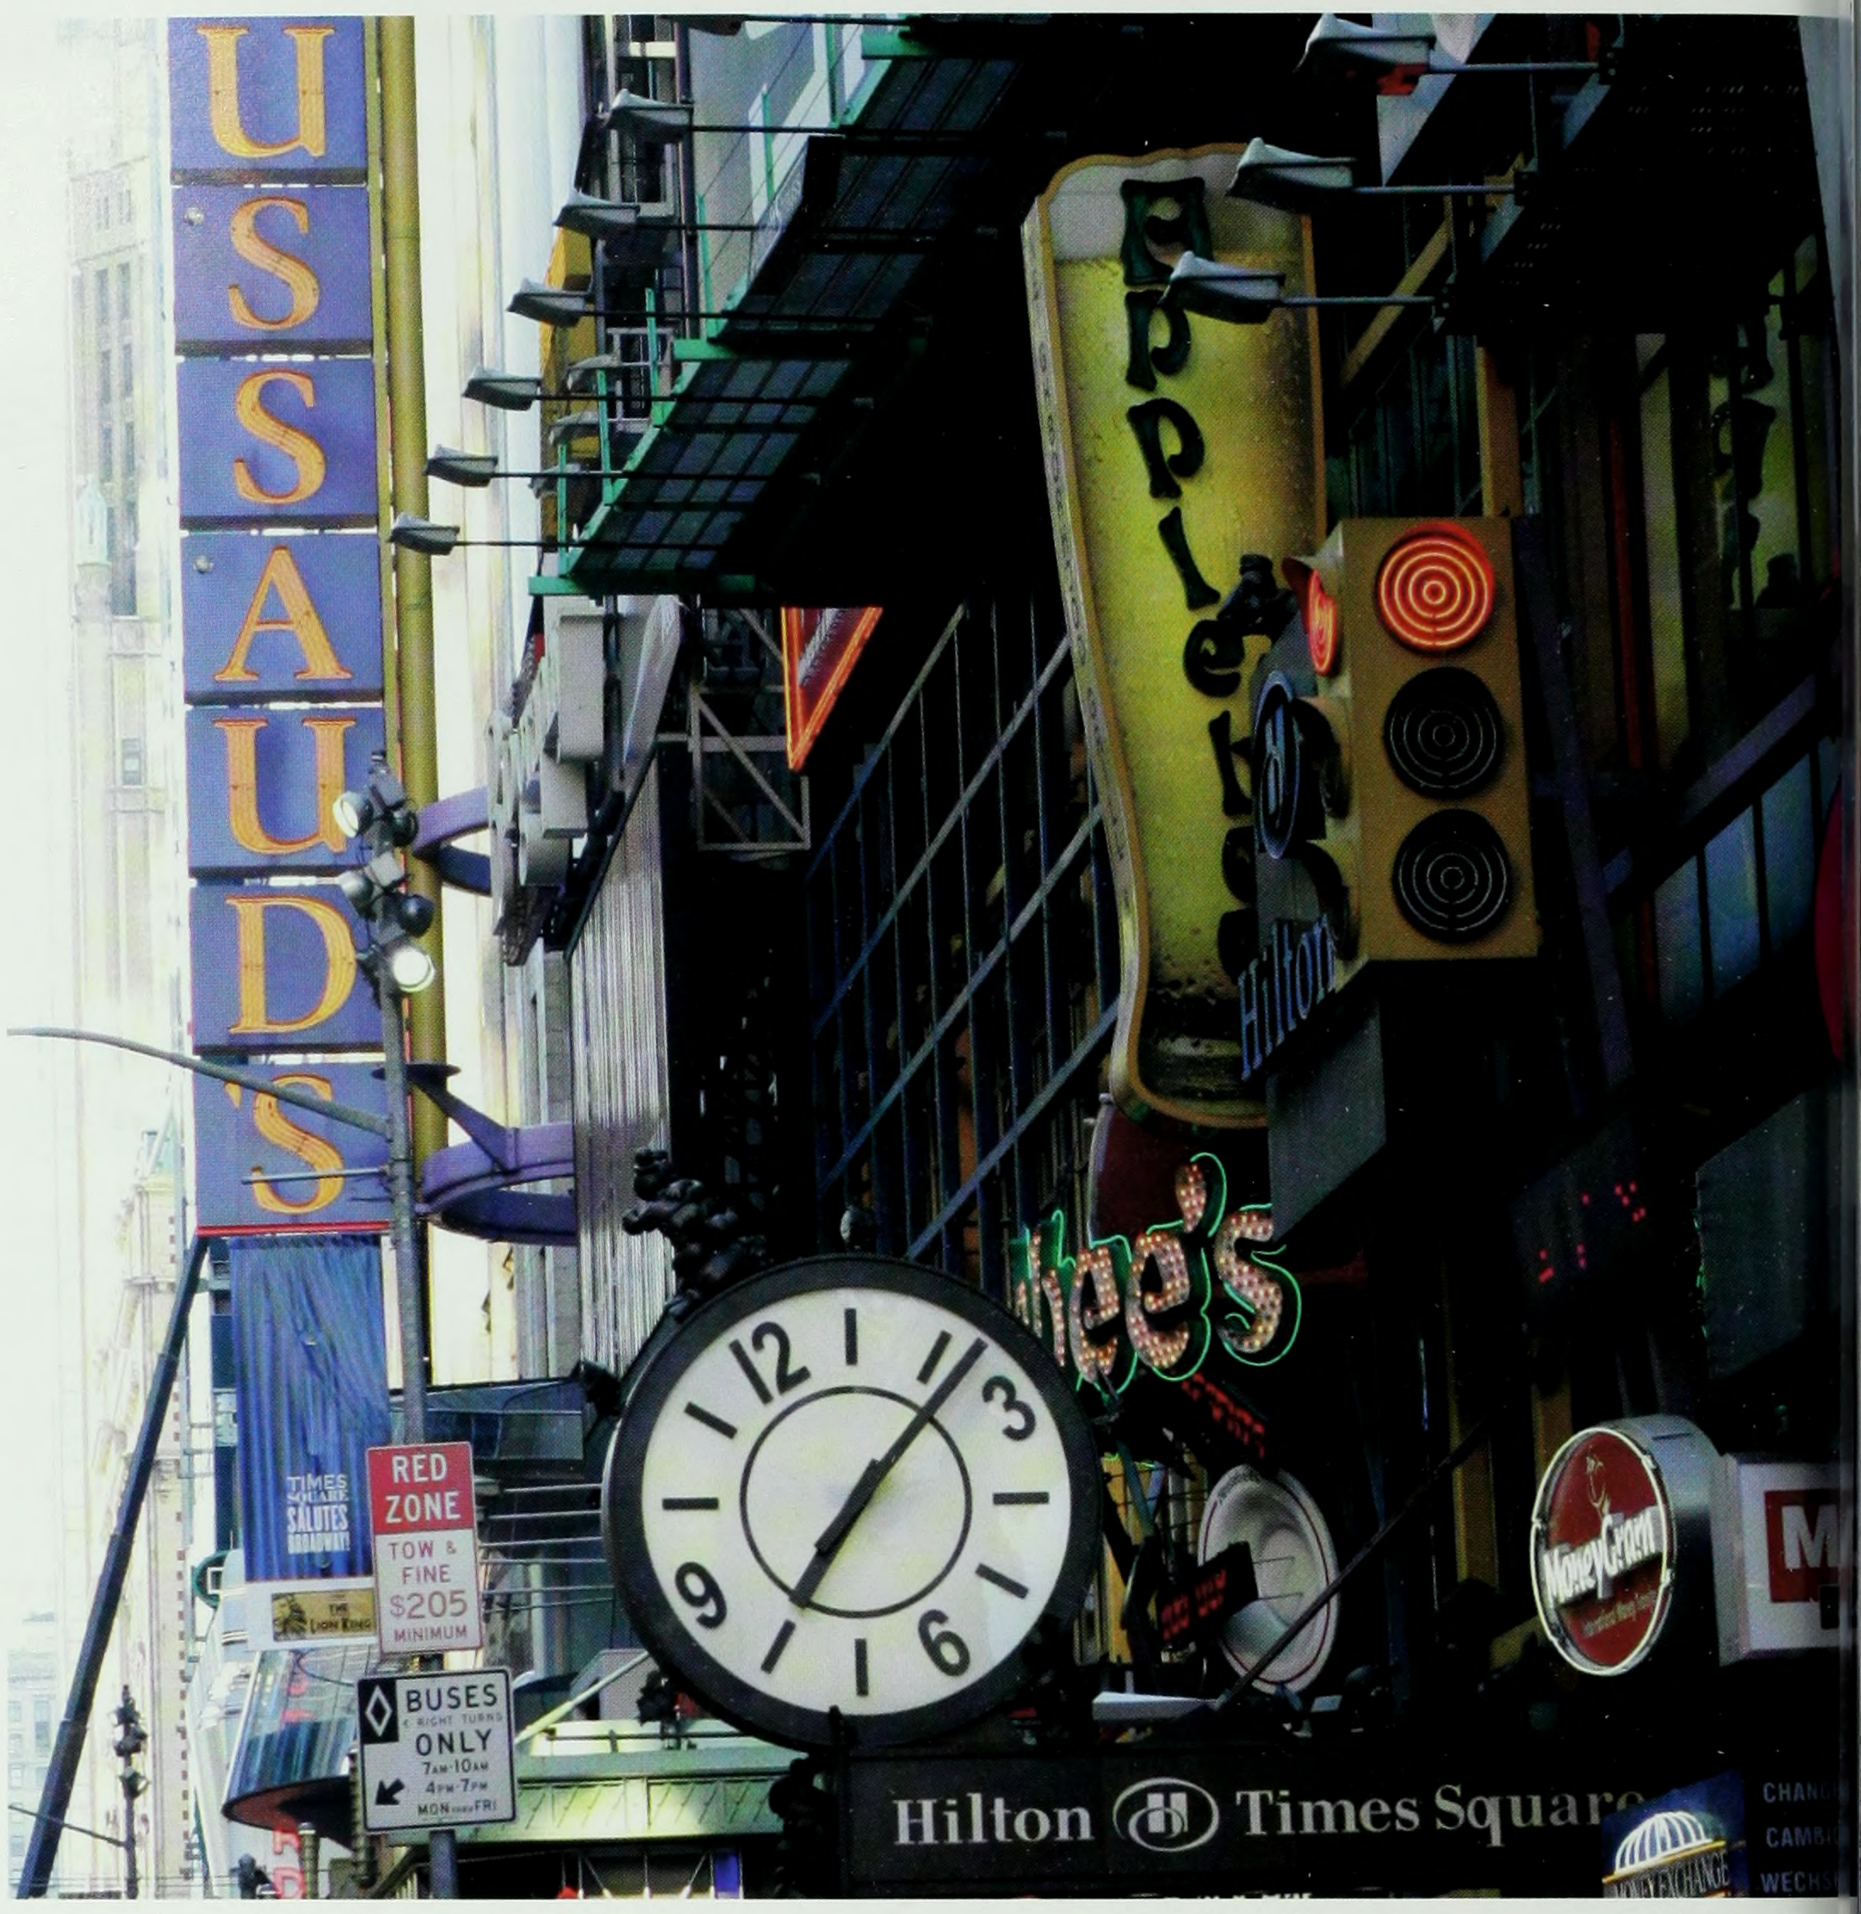
Midtown offers just about every pleasure that can be bought - from the vulgar to the surreal. Take a walk down the Great White Way known as Broadway, join in the commercial tourism, or experience the magnificence of Rockefeller Center. Midtown is also home to countless bars, restaurants, and stores. It's the center of Manhattan and you can get from midtown to just about anywhere thanks to Grand Central Station, Penn Station, and Port Authority. Midtown also includes numerous Fortune 500 companies, the Empire State Building, Carnegie Hall, Madison Square Garden, Macy's Herald Square, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Trump Tower, F.A.O. Schwarz, and the New York Public Library.

The altar in St. Patrick's Cathedral was designed by Tiffany and Company. The Cathedral is visited by over 3 million people each year.

Not only is Radio City Music Hall home to the high-kicking Rockettes, but it also hosts many concerts throughout the year.

Almost every store and restaurant in Times Square boasts brightly lit signs.

At Hershey's Times Square, customers can request to have their names in lights on the scrolling marquee.



Times Square

Longacre Square was renamed Times Square when the New York Times constructed a building on 43rd Street at the turn of the 19th century. Today you can visit Times Square and join in the commercial tourism while you revel in the glamour and flamboyance of it all. Get rush tickets at TKTS for some of the best shows that Broadway has to offer! See the Naked Cowboy while you wait outside of MTV's TRL or go see the celebrities at Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum. Make sure to be there for Dick Clark's New Year's Eve Countdown as all of New York City packs into Times Square to ring in the New Year.

No need to worry about going to the box office to get tickets to your favorite Broadway musical when the TKTS booth offers discount tickets everyday.

Times Square is a popular destination for New York City tourists.

The Ed Sullivan Theater is now the site for the Late Show with David Letterman.

Not to be left out, even the subway has flashing lights in Times Square.

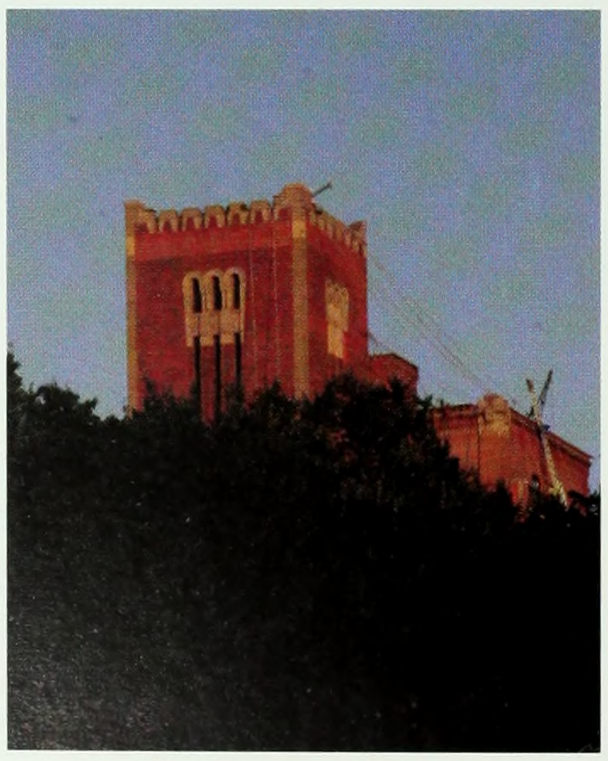
Times Square is famous for its many extremely large billboards.

The Reservoir is the largest enclosed area of water in Manhattan and has a 1.5 mile perimeter.

Central Park provides a great escape from the concrete and skyscrapers of the city.

The park contains 22 arches and bridges which cross over both streets and water.

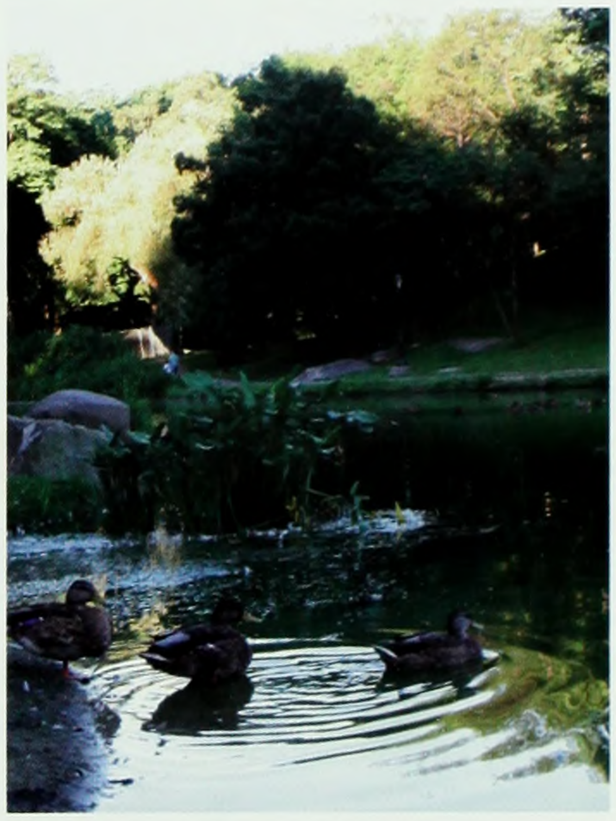
Central Park is home to many historic sites, memorials, and statues.



Along Central Park South, the statue of Simón Bolívar depicts the South American military leader known as "The Liberator."

Central Park

Central Park is a verdant oasis amidst the concrete buildings of New York. Head to Central Park on a warm sunny day and you'll find yourself in a world far removed from the hustle and bustle of New York City. Instead, you'll see countless runners, sunbathers, picnic-goers, and amateur athletes. As one of the best and cheapest ways to spend a summer afternoon in New York City, Central Park also offers numerous opportunities to attend performances in the park by the Metropolitan Opera or Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra. You can also take a ride in a horse-drawn carriage or explore the Conservatory Garden. From the professional performances to the impromptu games of baseball, there is something for everyone.



The North Meadow is the largest open space in Central Park with 16-acres of lawn and twelve official ballfields.

The Gates

Twenty-five years in the making, New York artists Christo and Jeanne-Claude finally accomplished their temporary work of art: The Gates, Central Park, New York, 1979-2005. The installation required 600 volunteers who were responsible for constructing The Gates. The work of art included 7,503 steel gates from which saffron fabric panels were hung. The Gates remained in the Park for 16 days from February 12, 2005 to February 28, 2005. The Gates, each 16 feet tall, covered 23 miles of walkways throughout Central Park. The Gates and their panels could be seen from great distances through the bare branches of the trees.

New York's Chinatown is the largest in the country and has over 200 restaurants.

It took 13 years to complete the Brooklyn Bridge, which is now a National Historic Landmark.

In all of New York City, you can always find fresh flowers for sale.

Built in 1902, the Flatiron Building, famous for its unusual triangular shape, is one of the oldest remaining skyscrapers in New York.

A national symbol of freedom, the Statue of Liberty was a gift from France in 1886.

Downtown

Downtown Manhattan is constantly bustling with activity and people from all walks of life. Lower Manhattan is where you can play all day and all night. Head downtown and you'll find yourself anywhere from the Financial District, where fortunes are made and skyscrapers abound, to Chinatown, a bustling center with just about anything you can imagine. Or perhaps you'll stop in SoHo, where fashion reigns, or head to Greenwich Village, home to generations of arists, writers, and revolutionaries. Exotic boutiques, tattoo and piercing parlors, art museums, and dance clubs are also quite prevalent. Downtown Manhattan is the epicenter of diverse neighborhoods, great entertainment, and plenty of fun!

The Staten Island Ferry is the most common mode of transportation between Manhattan and Staten Island.

The New York harbor was historically one of the most important American ports.

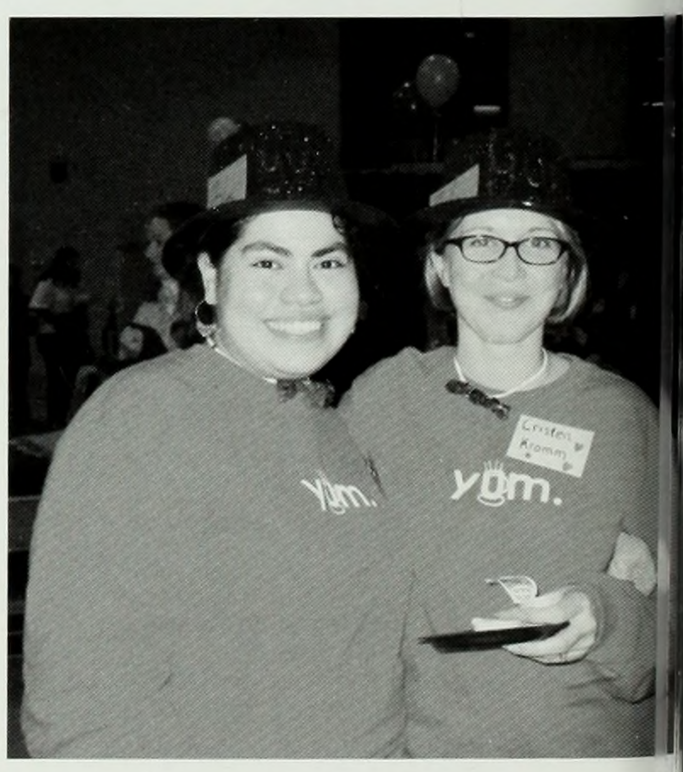
MIDNIGHT BREAKFAST

YUM.

The Mad-Hatter's Tea Party in the fall and Pirates in the spring made the semi-annual Midnight Breakfast one of the most memorable and fulfilling events on campus. Midnight Breakfast is held each semester during final exam week and administrators relieve stress by serving students breakfast in LeFrak Gymnasium.

Students take a break from studying to enjoy breakfast with friends.

Members of CAO and other faculty and administrators all join in to create a fun and delicious break for students during reading week.



One of the most entertaining parts of Midnight Breakfast is dancing with the Barnard Bear.

Aaarrrgh! Pirates' Booty was bountiful at the spring Midnight Breakfast.

President Judith Shapiro happily serves students eggs.

Students get to socialize and eat good food after many hours of studying.

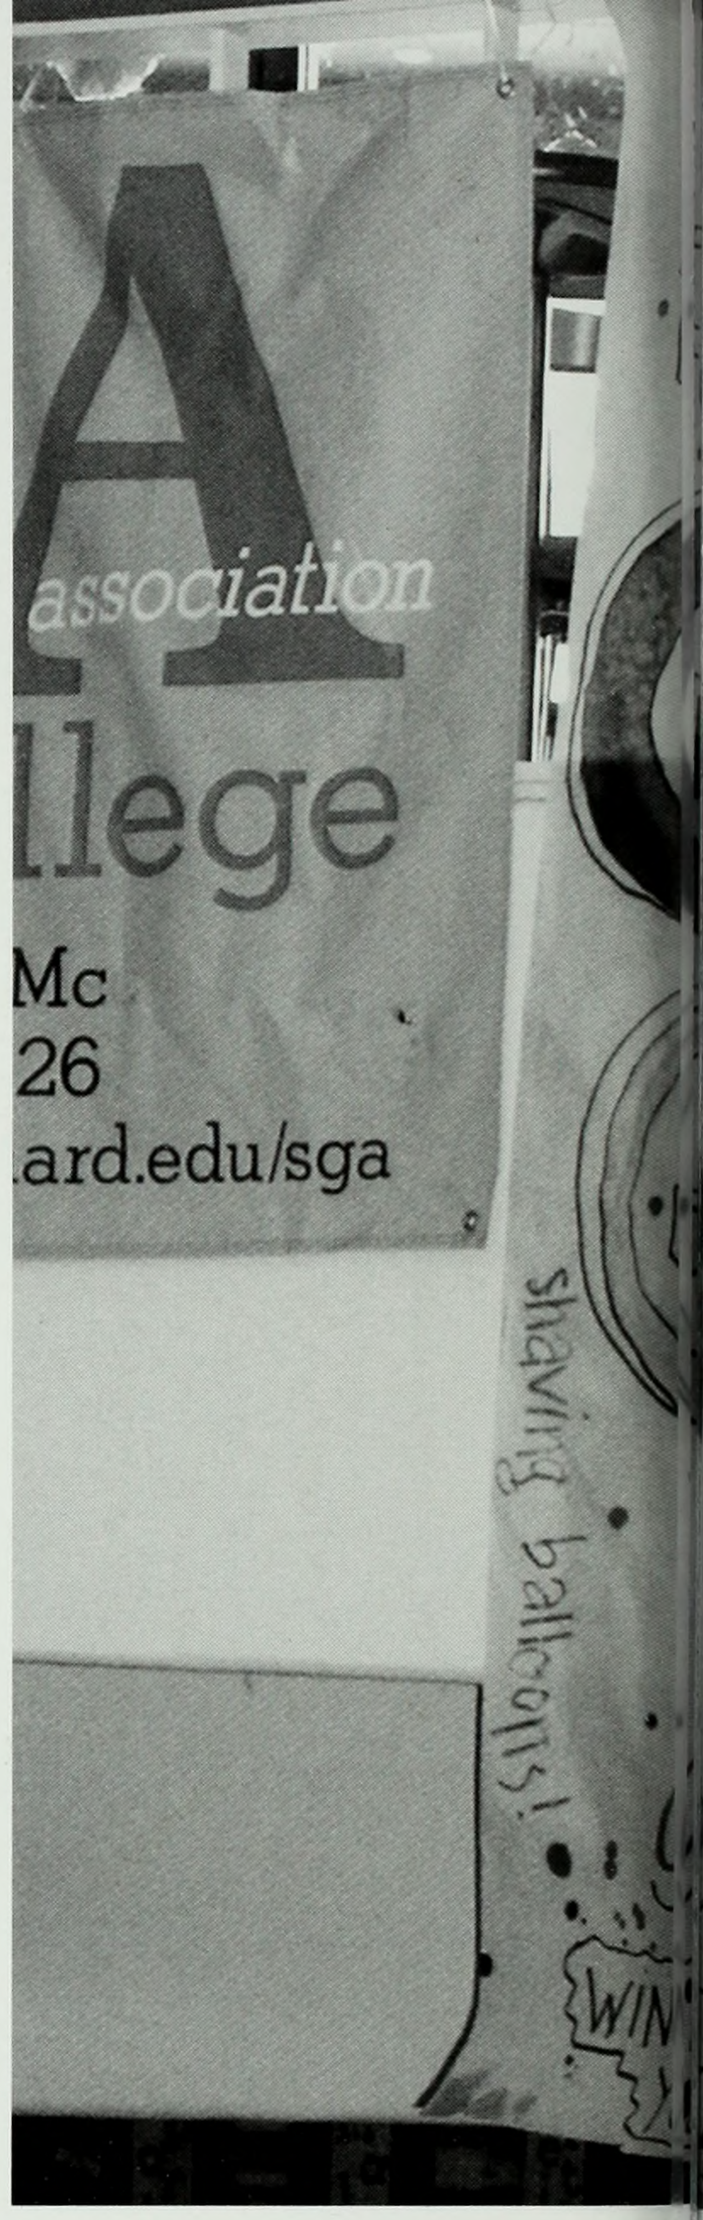
GREEK GAMES & BIG SUB

TWO BARNARD TRADITIONS

The Barnard Greek Games started in 1903 as a competition between the Barnard First-Year and Sophomore classes, but the tradition was lost after 1965 until it was revived in the spring of 2000 by a dedicated student. Today, Barnard students of all four classes participate in the Games or cheer on their friends as they compete for the torch trophy in events as varied as tug-of-war, Twister, and dodgeball.

In the fall and the spring, McAC hosts the "Big Sub" event. The sandwich, which is over 700 feet long, spans the entire Barnard campus from the Quad Lawn to Milbank Hall. Despite the massive quantities, students manage to consume the sandwich in less than half an hour after opening. It is divided into six stations representing the diversity of eating habits: vegan, vegetarian, kosher, meat, tuna, and poultry.

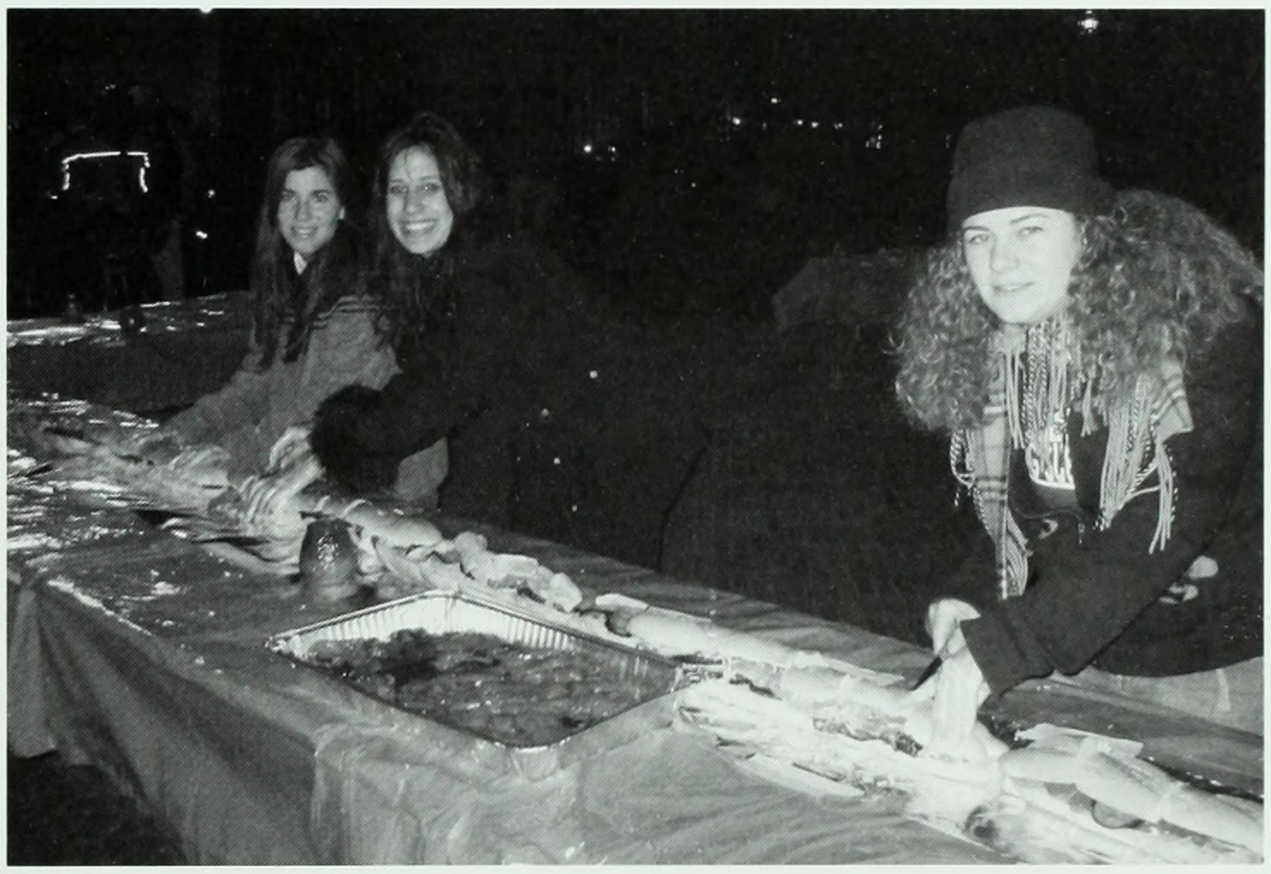
President Judith Shapiro, inspired by Athena, kicks off the Greek Games in a toga.



One of the most popular events during the Greek Games is the tug-of -war.

Hanging in McIntosh, a banner encourages students to participate in the Greek Games.

Over 700 feet long, The Big Sub is served twice a year and spans Barnard's entire campus from the Quad to Milbank.



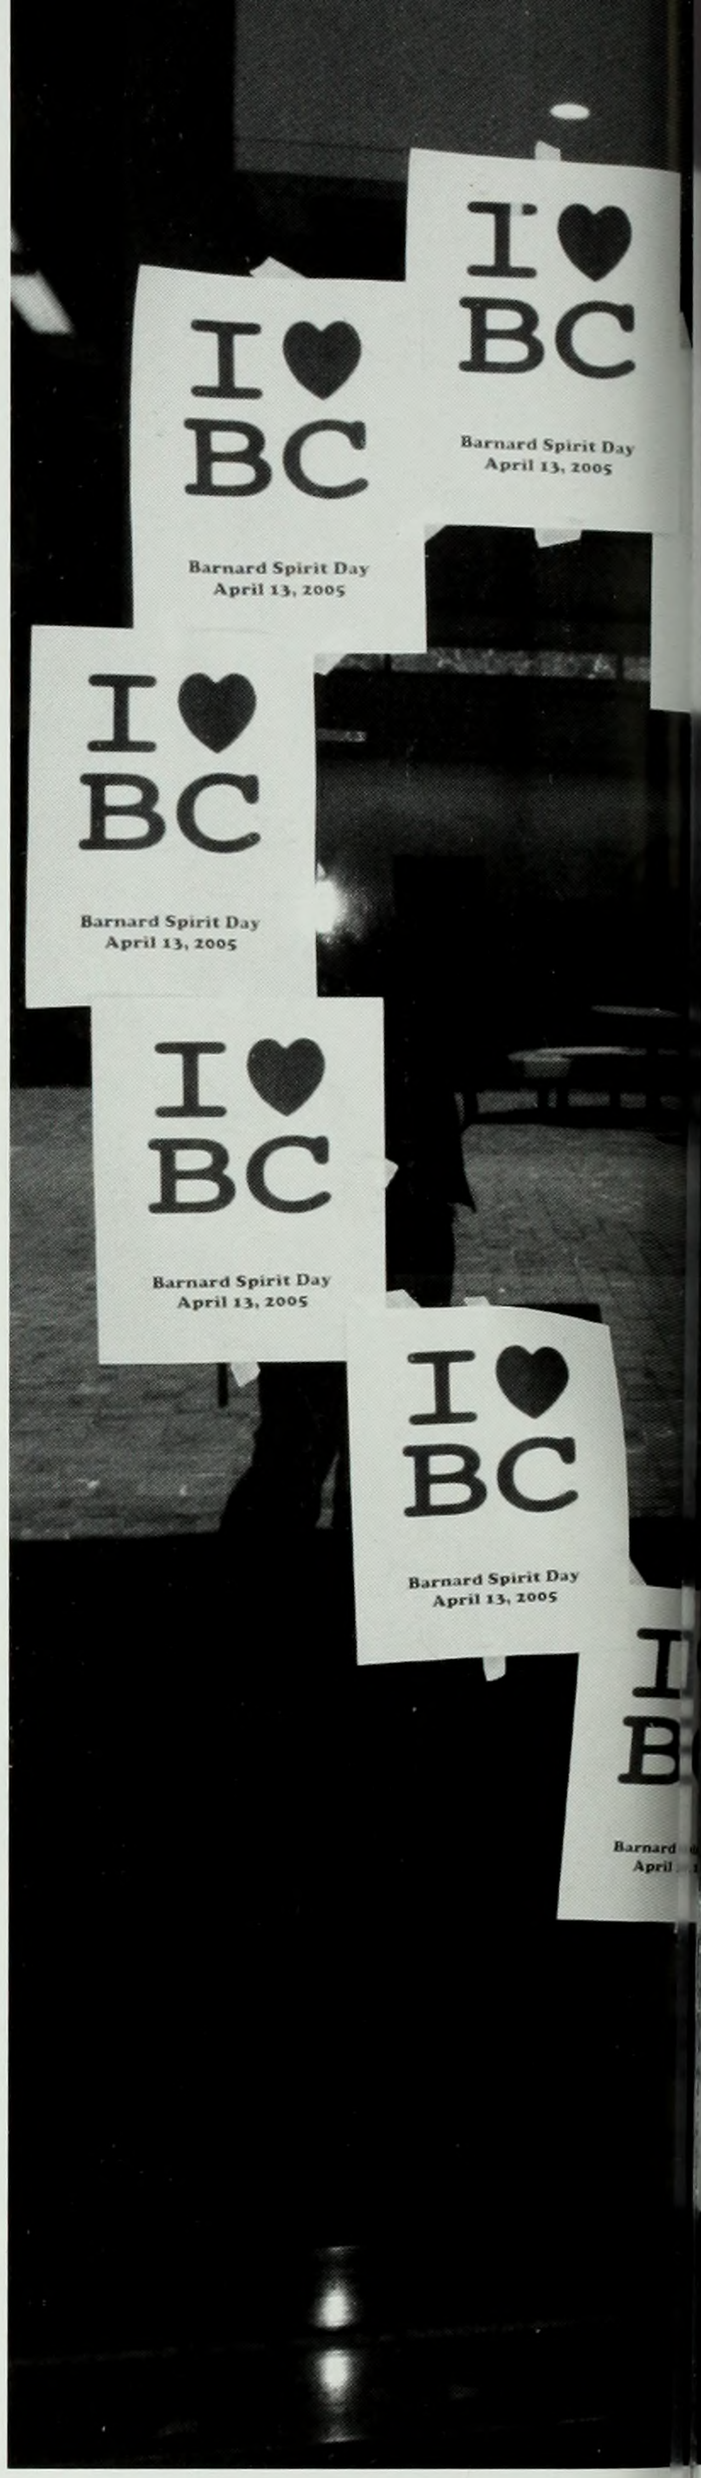
SPIRIT DAY

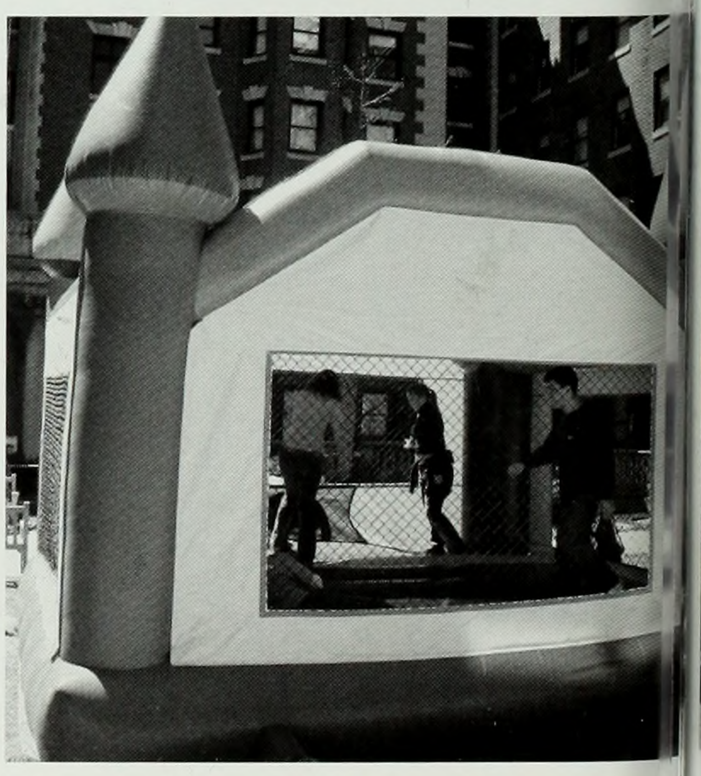
APRIL 13, 2005

Spirit Day is the time for anybody and everybody who LOVES Barnard to show that they heart BC! Festivities that celebrate Barnard and Barnard Spirit last all day throughout campus in April. Primarily organized by SGA and McAC, Spirit Day involves all departments and attracts students from both the Barnard and Columbia campuses to celebrate Barnard.

Free food brings students together to celebrate Barnard.

Spirit Day events cover the entire campus.

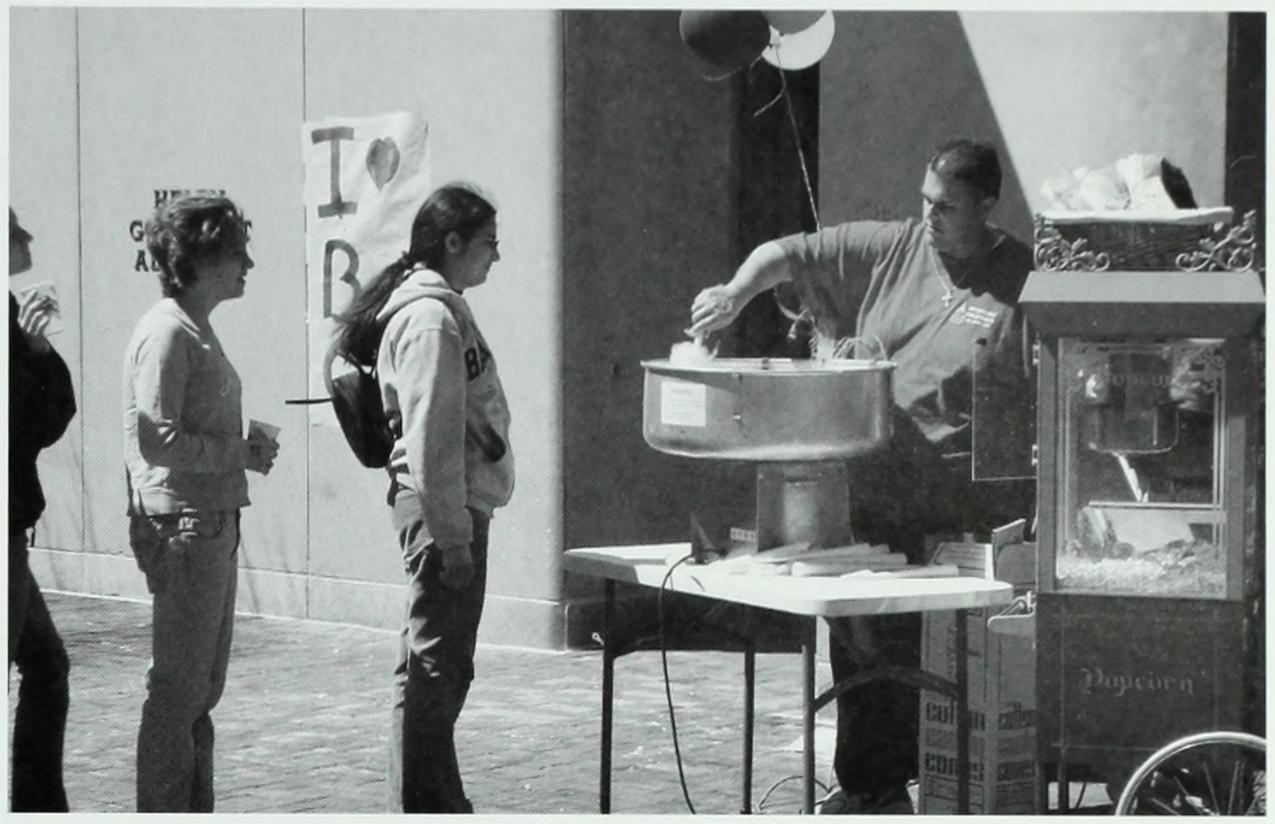




The moon-bounce in the Quad Lawn provided spirited fun for students.

Flyers on the windows on McIntosh show students' love for Barnard.

Waiting in line was worth it for cotton candy and popcorn.



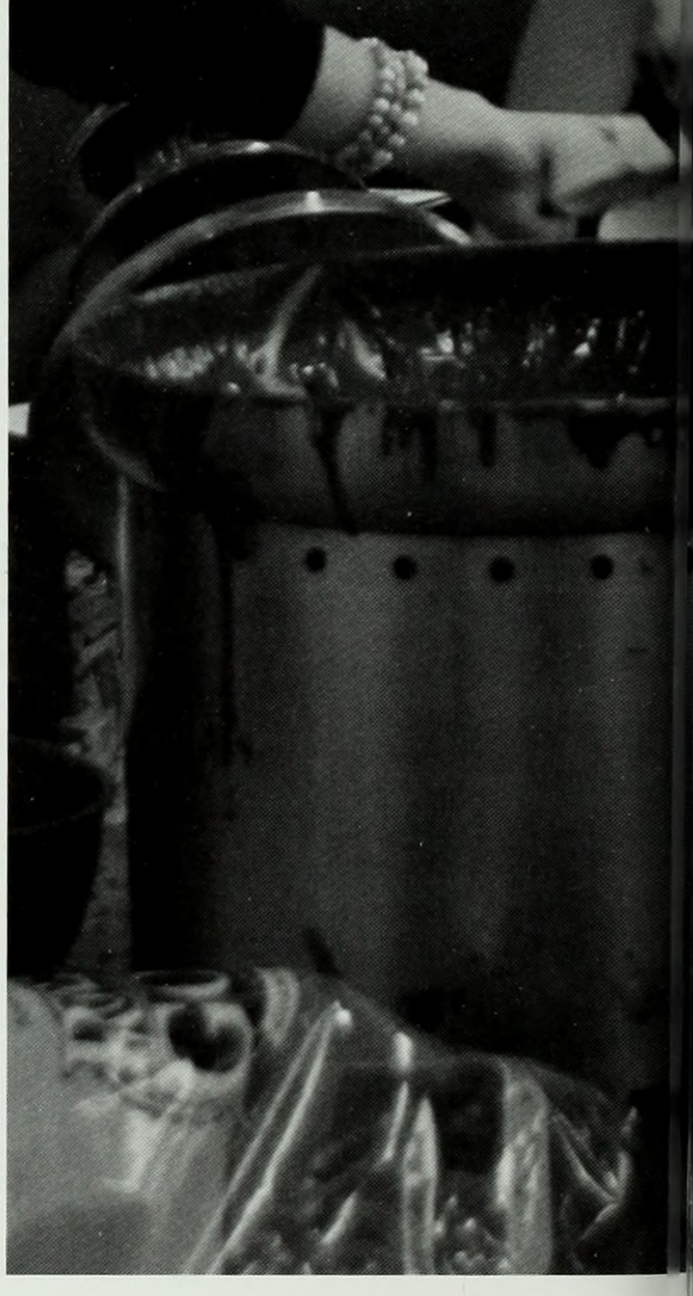
Students display their BC love and pride by wearing various Barnard t-shirts.

Columbia men compete for the title of "Barnard Fan of the Year."

STUDENT LIFE

SO MUCH TO DO, SO LITTLE TIME

New York City may be our playground, but Barnard has plenty of events to keep students on campus during the school year. From the Greek Games to Midnight Breakfast to Spirit Day, students have many opportunities to partake in the various festivities and special events that occur on Barnard's campus. McAC, our student activities council, plans numerous activities throughout the year.



Students lucky enough to have class outside get to enjoy the beautiful weather in the spring.

Following the annual Tree-Lighting Ceremony in early December, students experience the Yule Log and listen to Christmas carols sung by various student a cappella groups in John Jay lounge.

The Chocolate Fondue Fountain was just one of the many events that McAC hosted for students during the year.

Earth Week is an annual event on Barnard campus to promote environmental awareness.

Sandra Day O'Connor, with President Judith Shapiro, was one of the illustrious speakers to visit Barnard in 2005.

One of the biggest campus events, the Dance Marathon attracts hundreds of students to help raise money for the fight against pediatric AIDS.

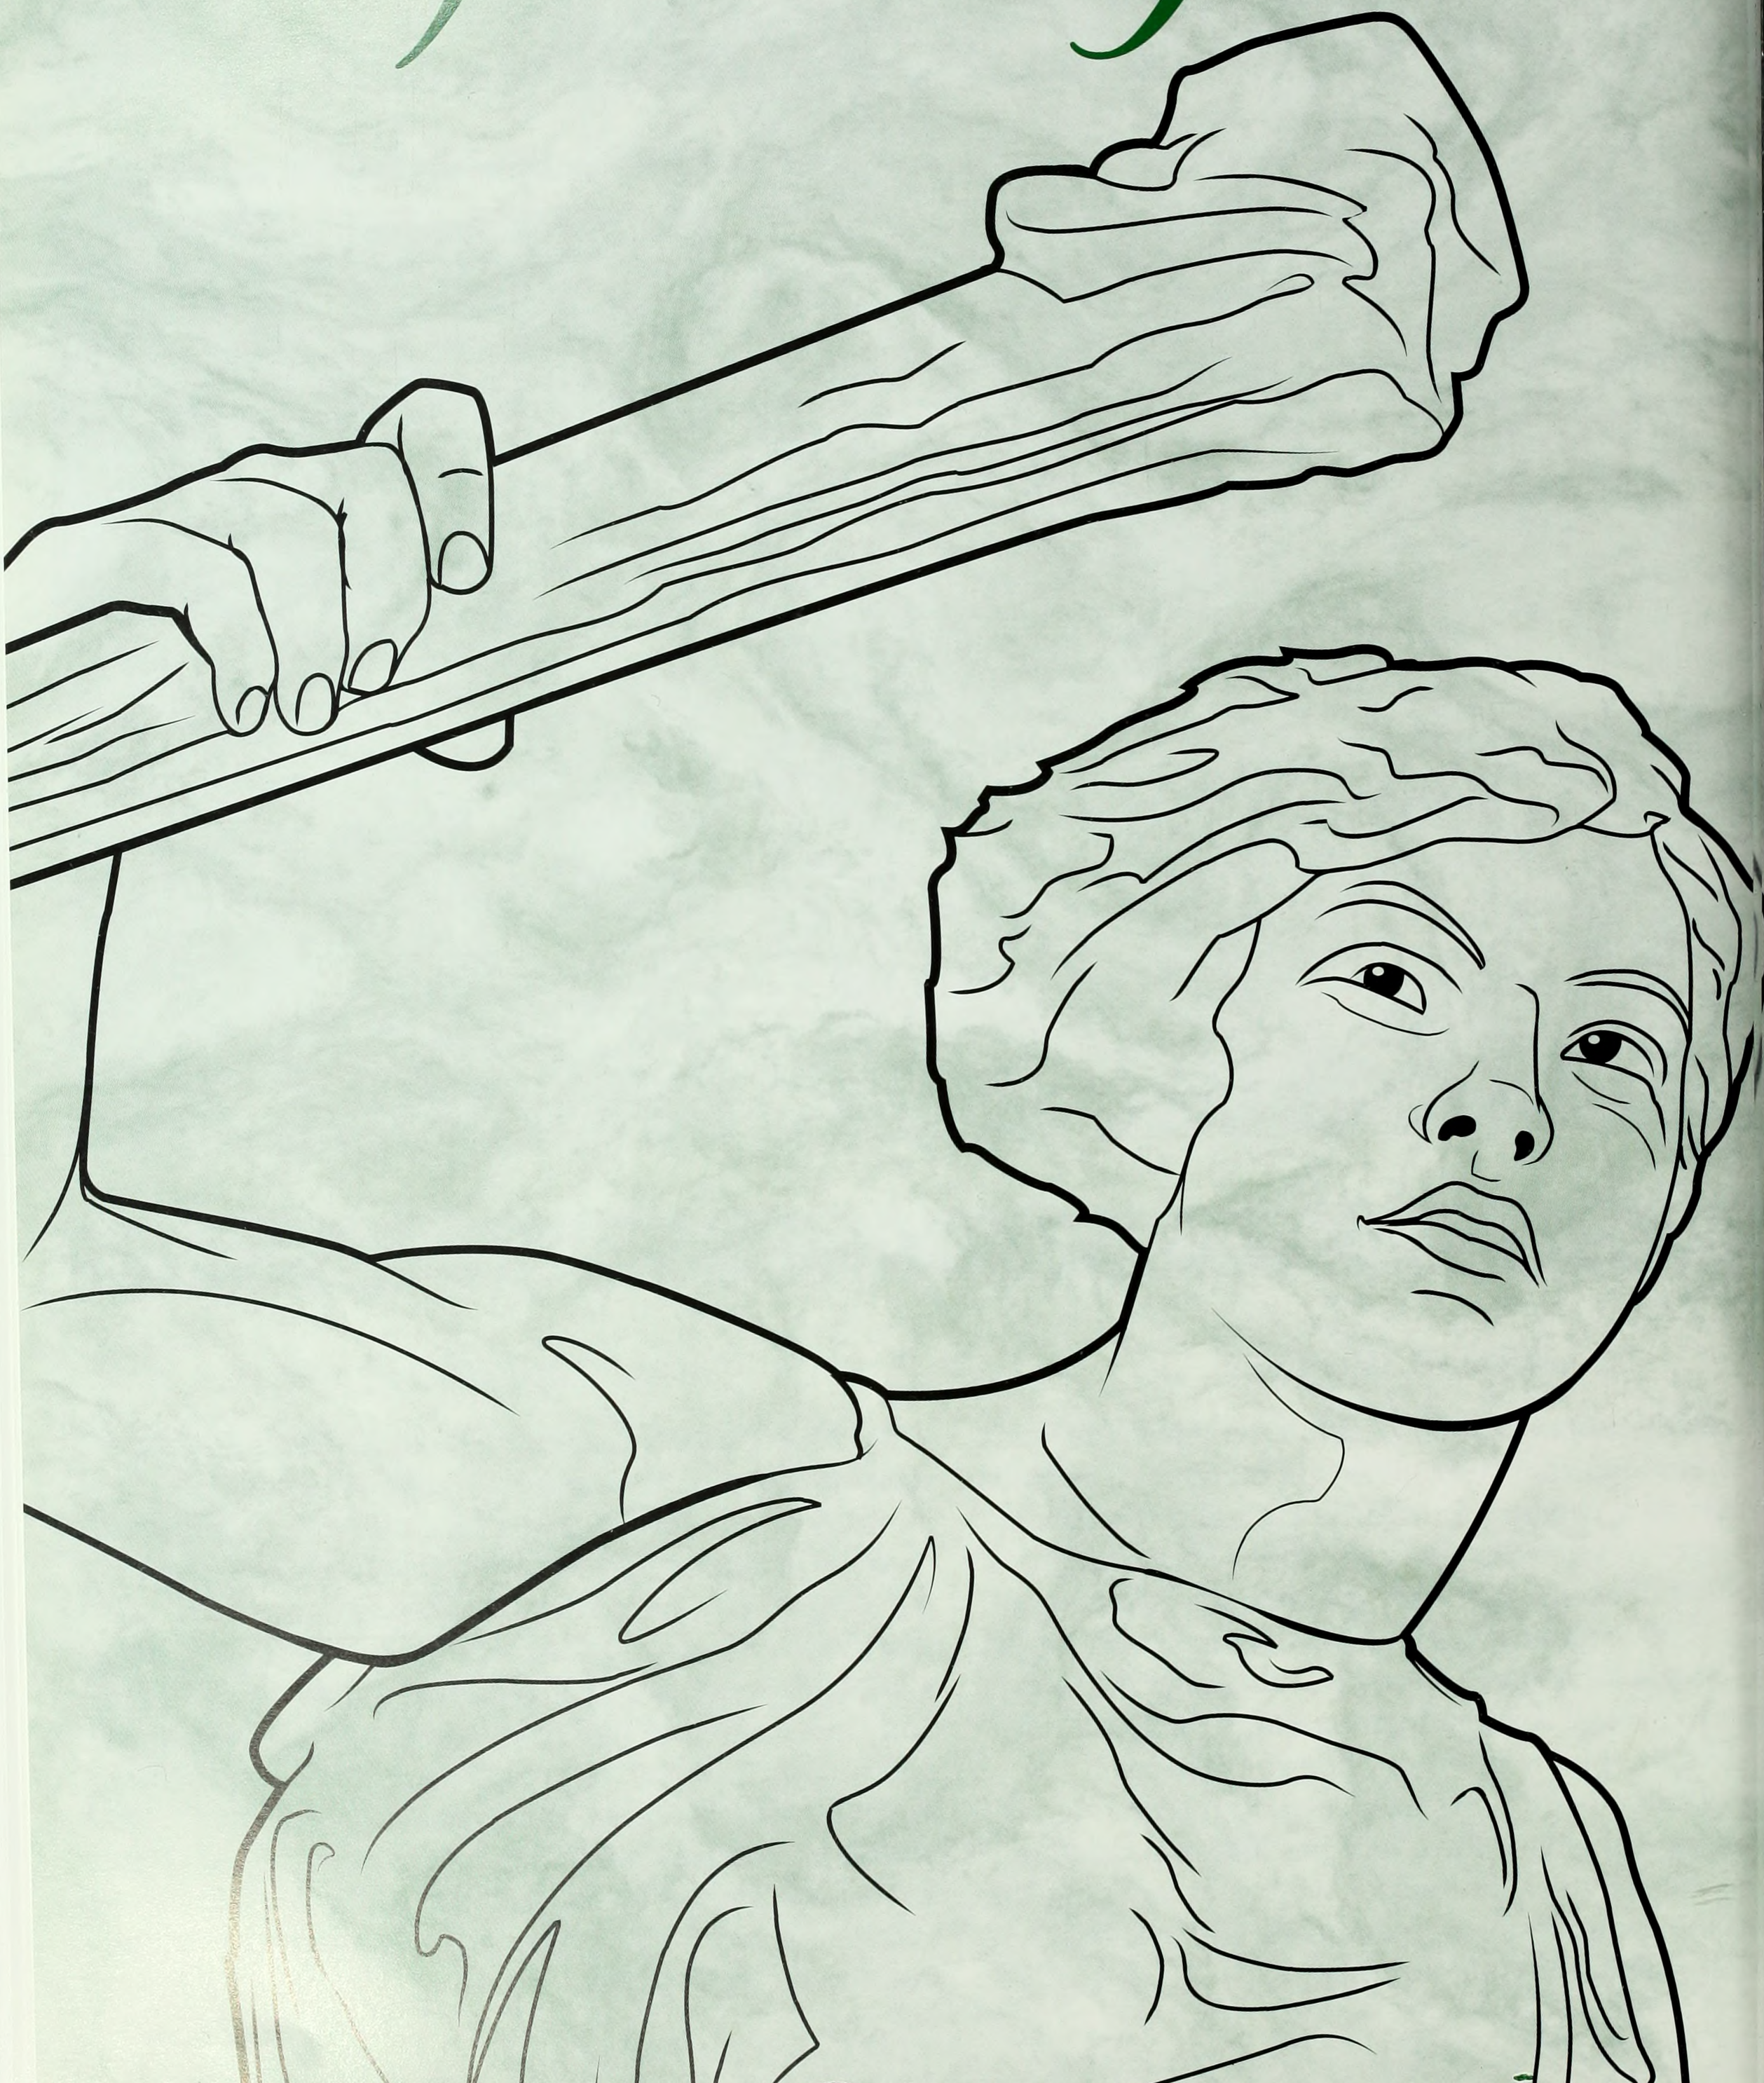
Take Back the Night

ake Back the Night is a national movement that began n the United States in 1976. The first march at Columbia niversity was organized at Barnard College in 1988 as product of a Seven Sisters conference. Since then, rch attendance has grown exponentially, reaching over 2,500 students last April. It is one of the largest nual campus events. Both men and women march ether to protest sexual violence and rape. The eakout on Lehman Lawn provides a place for rvivors and co-survivors to speak about their periences. Take Back the Night has also expanded in ms of the activities it offers, as well as broadening the us of the group to include domestic violence in dition to sexual assault and rape.

V-Day

V-Day is a global movement to stop violence against women and girls. V-Day promotes creative events to increase awareness, raise money, and revitalize the spirit of existing anti-violence organizations. V-Day generates broader attention for the fight to stop worldwide violence against women and girls including rape, battery, incest, female genital mutilation (FGM), and sexual slavery. V-Day provides funding to create and nurture innovative programs to stop the violence. Through V-Day campaigns, local volunteers and college students produce annual benefit performances of The Vagina Monologues on Valentine's Day to raise awareness and funds for anti-violence groups within their own communities.

Performing Arts



There are numerous theatrical productions on the Columbia and Barnard campuses throughout the year. Students perform in Lerner Black Box, Roone Arledge Auditorium, Minor Latham Playhouse, Miller Theatre and even outside on campus!

CMTS AND BCMT

Loosely adapted by Stephen Sondheim and Burt Shevelove from the comedies of the ancient Roman playwright Plautus, Forum tells the story of the slave Pseudolus and his attempts to win his freedom by encouraging a romance between his master's son, Hero, and a young virgin named Philia. She is owned by Marcus Lycus, a dealer in courtesans, and promised to a swaggering soldier named Miles Gloriosus, a braggart soldier. The humor is broad, bawdy and fast-paced. Forum was a four-year dream of many graduating seniors who have always had a special affinity for Sondheim. This production was comprised of nearly 70 company members including a full orchestra - by far the biggest musical comedy Columbia has seen in many years.

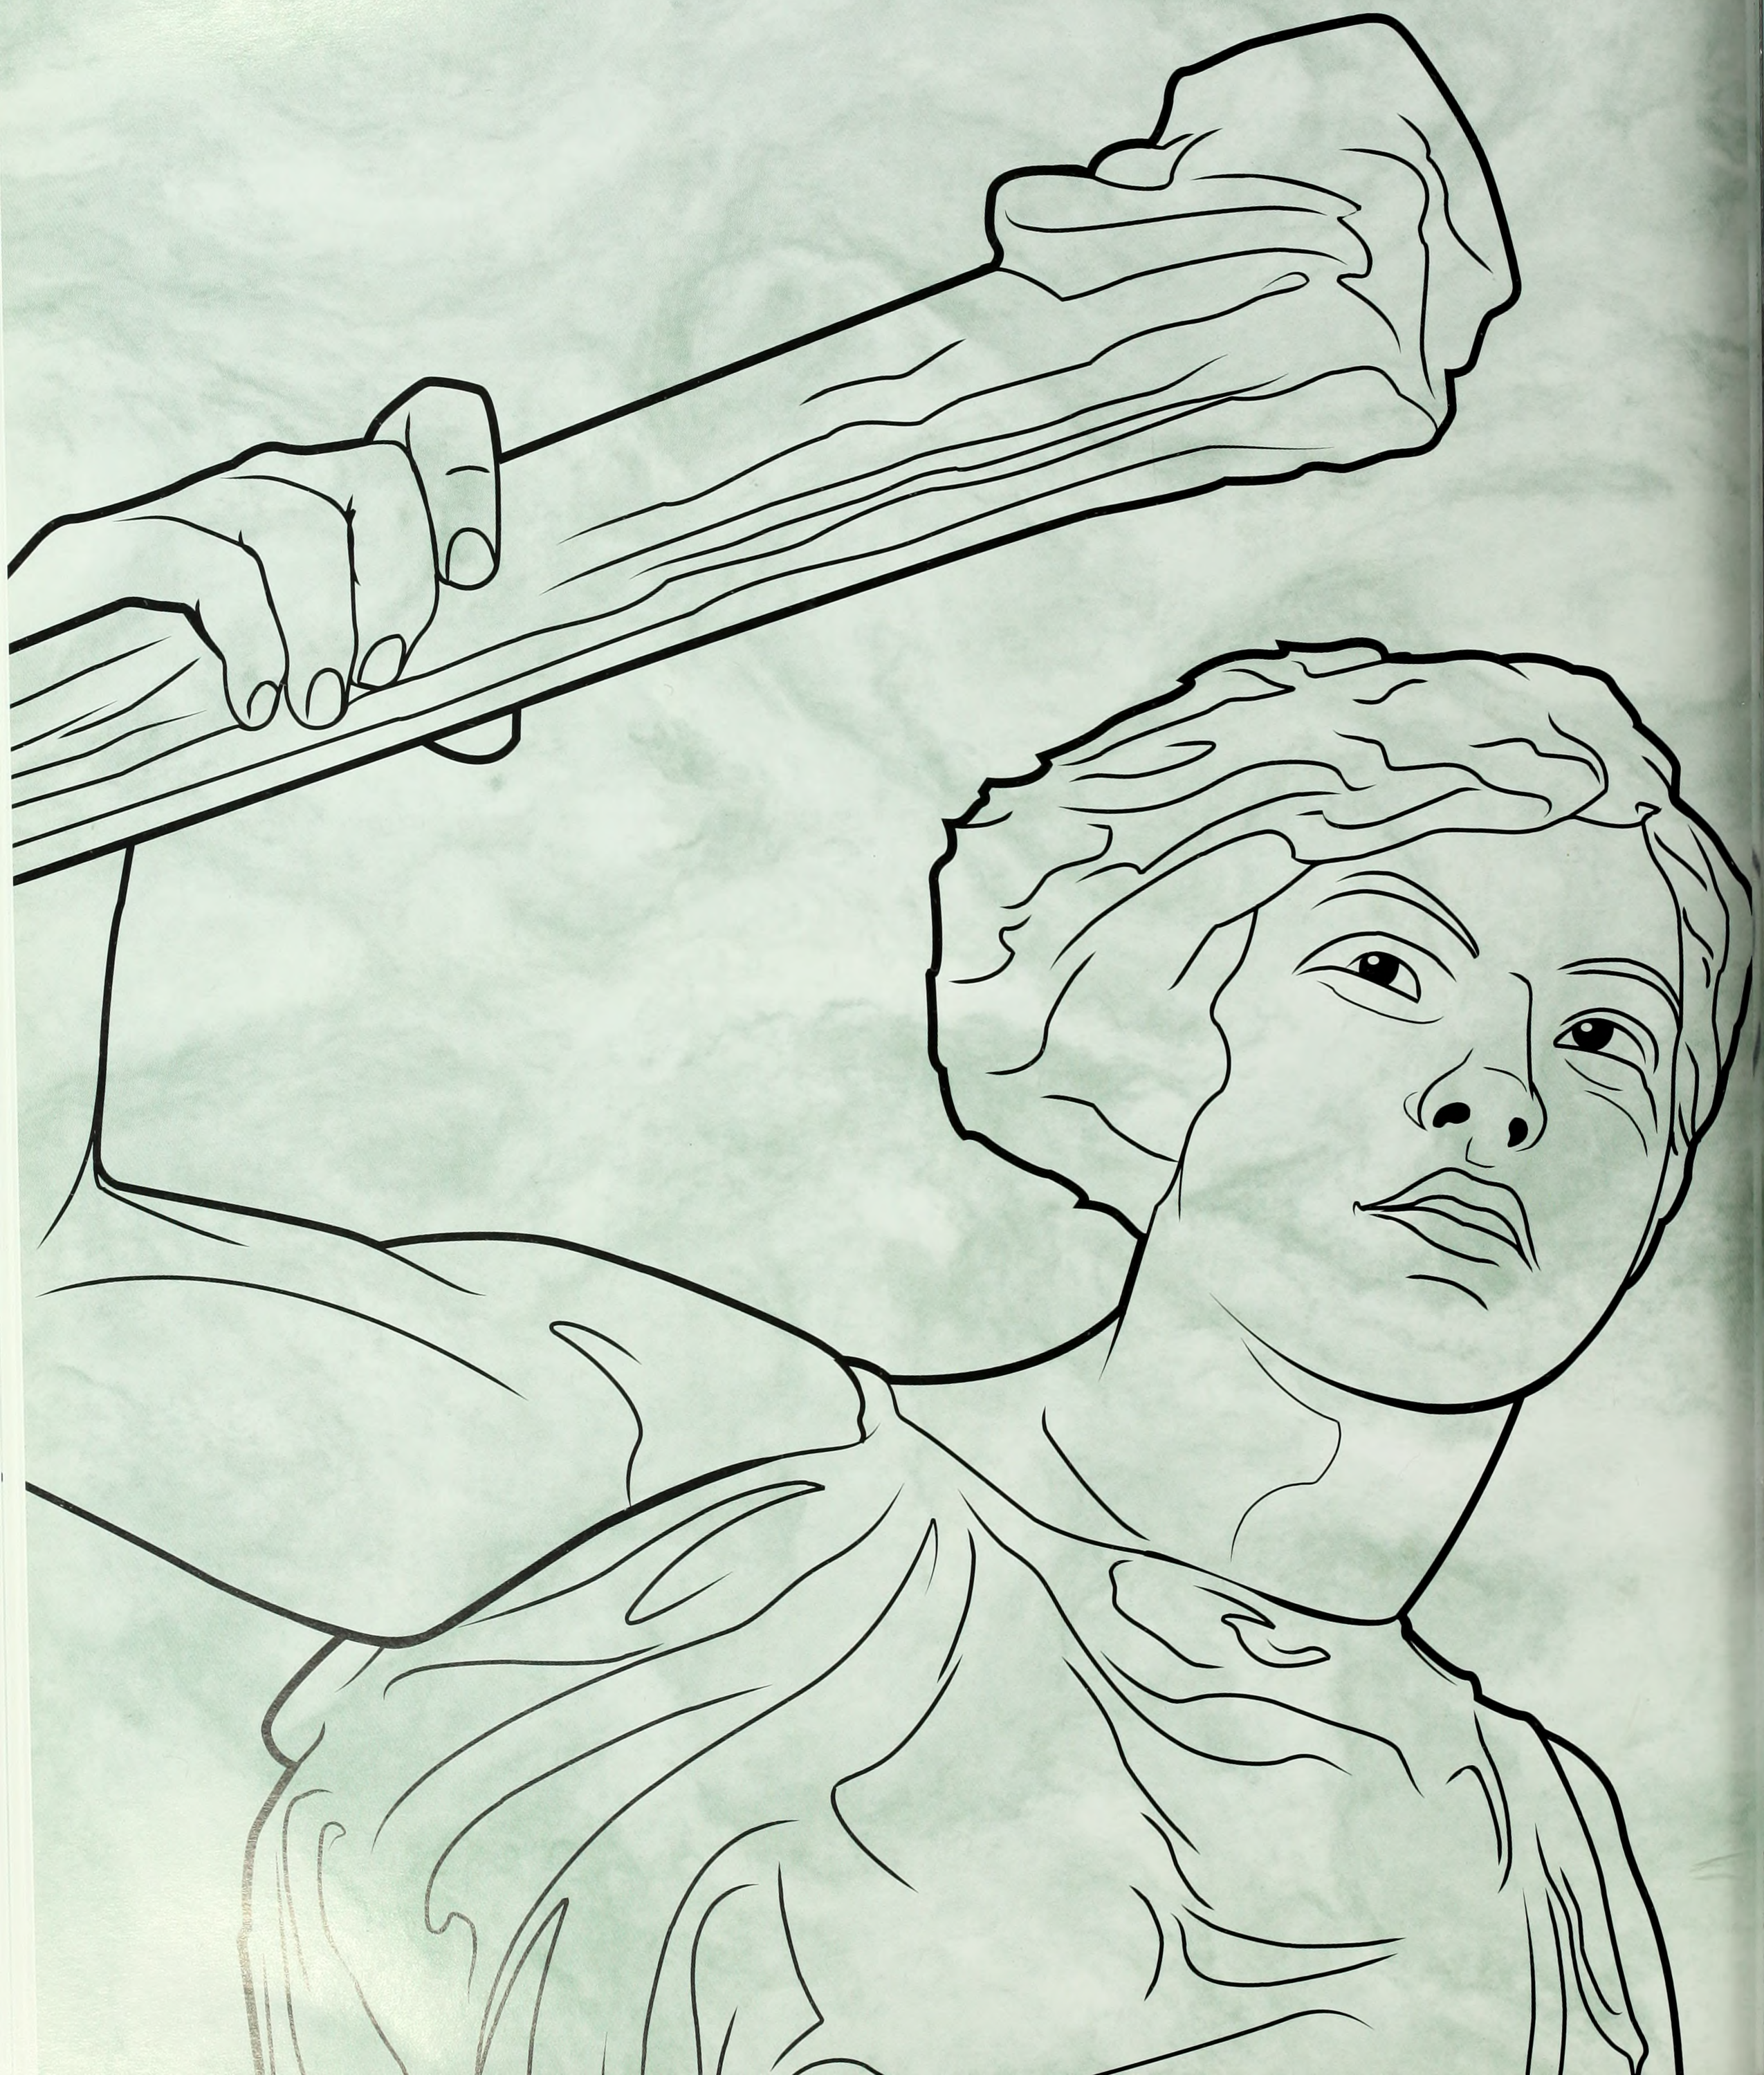
Athletics



Columbia features 29 intercollegiate teams which compete in the Ivy League in NCAA Division I. Under a unique agreement, women at Barnard and the undergraduate division of Columbia University compete together as members of University-wide athletic teams. Both schools believe that the consortium creates an athletic program that is far stronger than what either could offer individually.

Varsity Tennis

After recruiting a strong and talented class of student-athletes the previous year, CU Tennis honored two singles players for their athletic accomplishments. Sophomore Milena Kachar earned her second first team All-Ivy selection while first-year Angela Hendry was named to the second team in women's tennis. Coach Rob Kresberg had only to replace two seniors on his youthful and experienced squad before the start of the 2004-2005 season. Thanks to the stability and experience of the team, the Lions finished the season with a 9-6 record, 3-4 in the Ivy League. Relying on their athletic prowess and potential for growth, the team looks toward continued success in upcoming seasons.

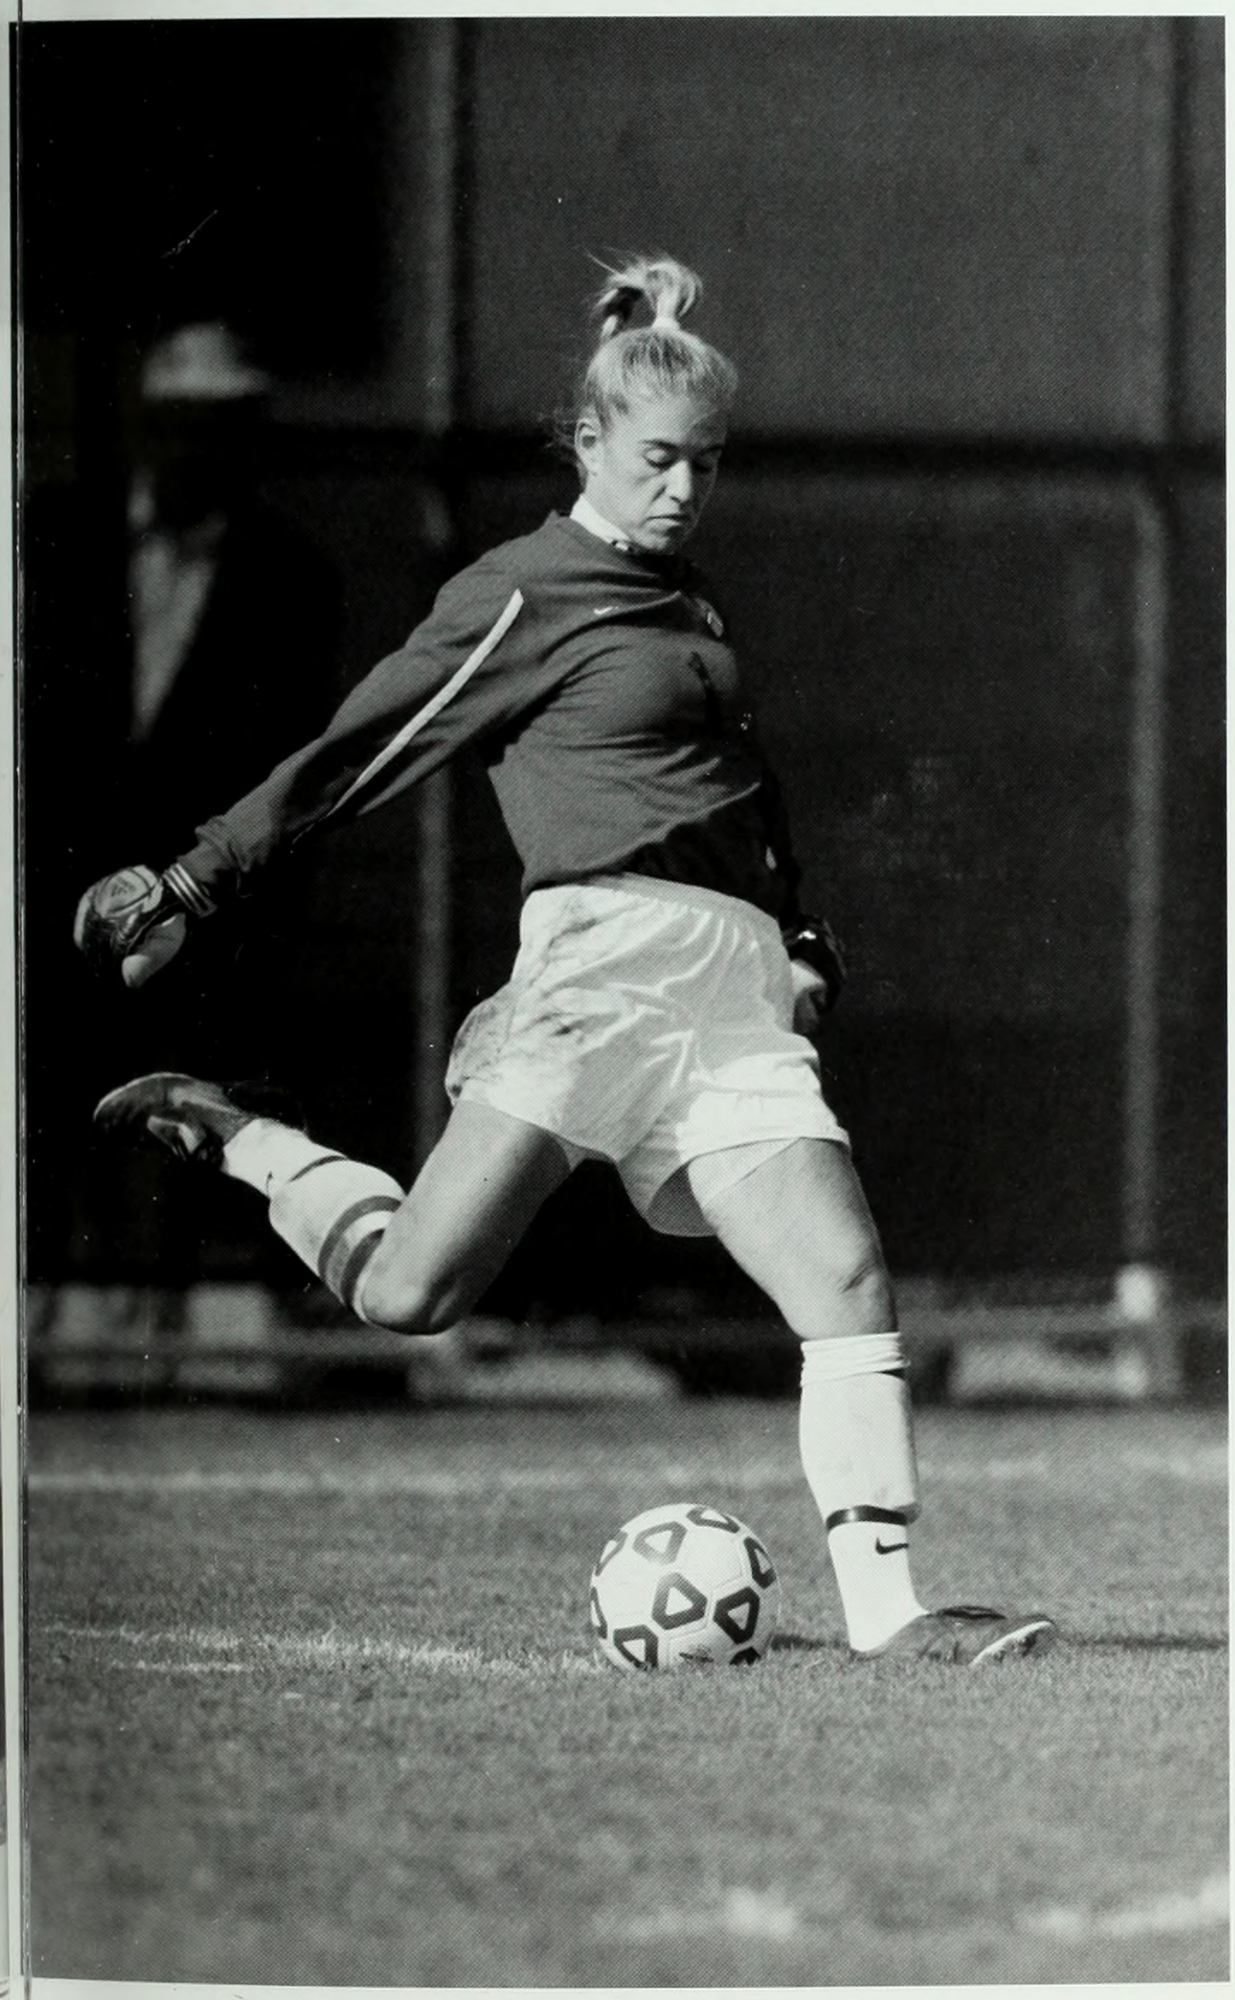
Thanks to the Lions' victory over LIU at the end of the tournament, the Lions won the ECAC championship and completed the season at 11-8-0.



Varsity Fencing

The women's fencing team had an impressive season and ended it with Columbia first-year Emily Jacobson winning the sabre title and teammate Morgan Midgley won bronze in epee as the Lions placed fifth in the overall team standings at the NCAA Championships. The Lions were the top Ivy League finisher and had seven student-athletes earn All-American honors.

Varsity Basketball

After the shocking and unexpected resignation of Head Coach Traci Waites in February 2005, the team was forced to reassess its goals under the leadership of Acting Head Coach Tory Verdi. Although the CU Women's Basketball program never had a winning season, the Lions closed the season defeating Yale with a buzzer-beating jumpshot. Tied with only 4.2 seconds left, Senior Sue Altman drained a three-pointer to tie the game, and then went on to hit a jumper to win the game 59-57. Despite the troubles that plagued the Lions this past season, the dramatic victory over Yale can be taken as an omen for a brighter future for women's basketball at CU.

Varsity Swimming

The depth of the 2004-2005 CU Swimming and Diving team was not confined to one particular class—seniors to freshmen offered different aspects of skill and athleticism to clench sixth place at the Ivy Championships in its ninth year running. The growing program was able to produce student-athletes like Senior Teresa Herrmann who finished second in platform diving at the NCAA Zone Diving Championships, narrowly missing an automatic qualification for the NCAA Championships.

Varsity Archery

Armed with a steadfast determination to win, the CU Archery Team overcame countless limitations to become the 2005 National Champions. Despite having their regular practice facilities taken away, the tenacious archers took the initiative to practice on their own time to stay competitive. Following the lead of first-year coaches Derek Davis and Mansing Wong, the dogged work ethic of the team both athletically and academically was one to be reckoned with. The unwavering commitment of both coaches and archers to build a successful archery program culminated with the Lions serving long-time rival and five-time defending national champions, Texas A&M, with a crushing defeat, 217-189, to clench the gold medal at the United States Intercollegiate Archery Championships.

Varsity Rowing

Working from a small varsity squad, the first eight of Columbia Women's Crew posted the best seasonal record in the history of the program (9-4) this year, although the season ended with a disappointing ninth place finish at the Eastern Sprints. The varsity four boat placed ahead of their ranking, however, and the novice team brought home a bronze and a silver medal in the eight and four, marking the first medal for a Columbia Women's eight.

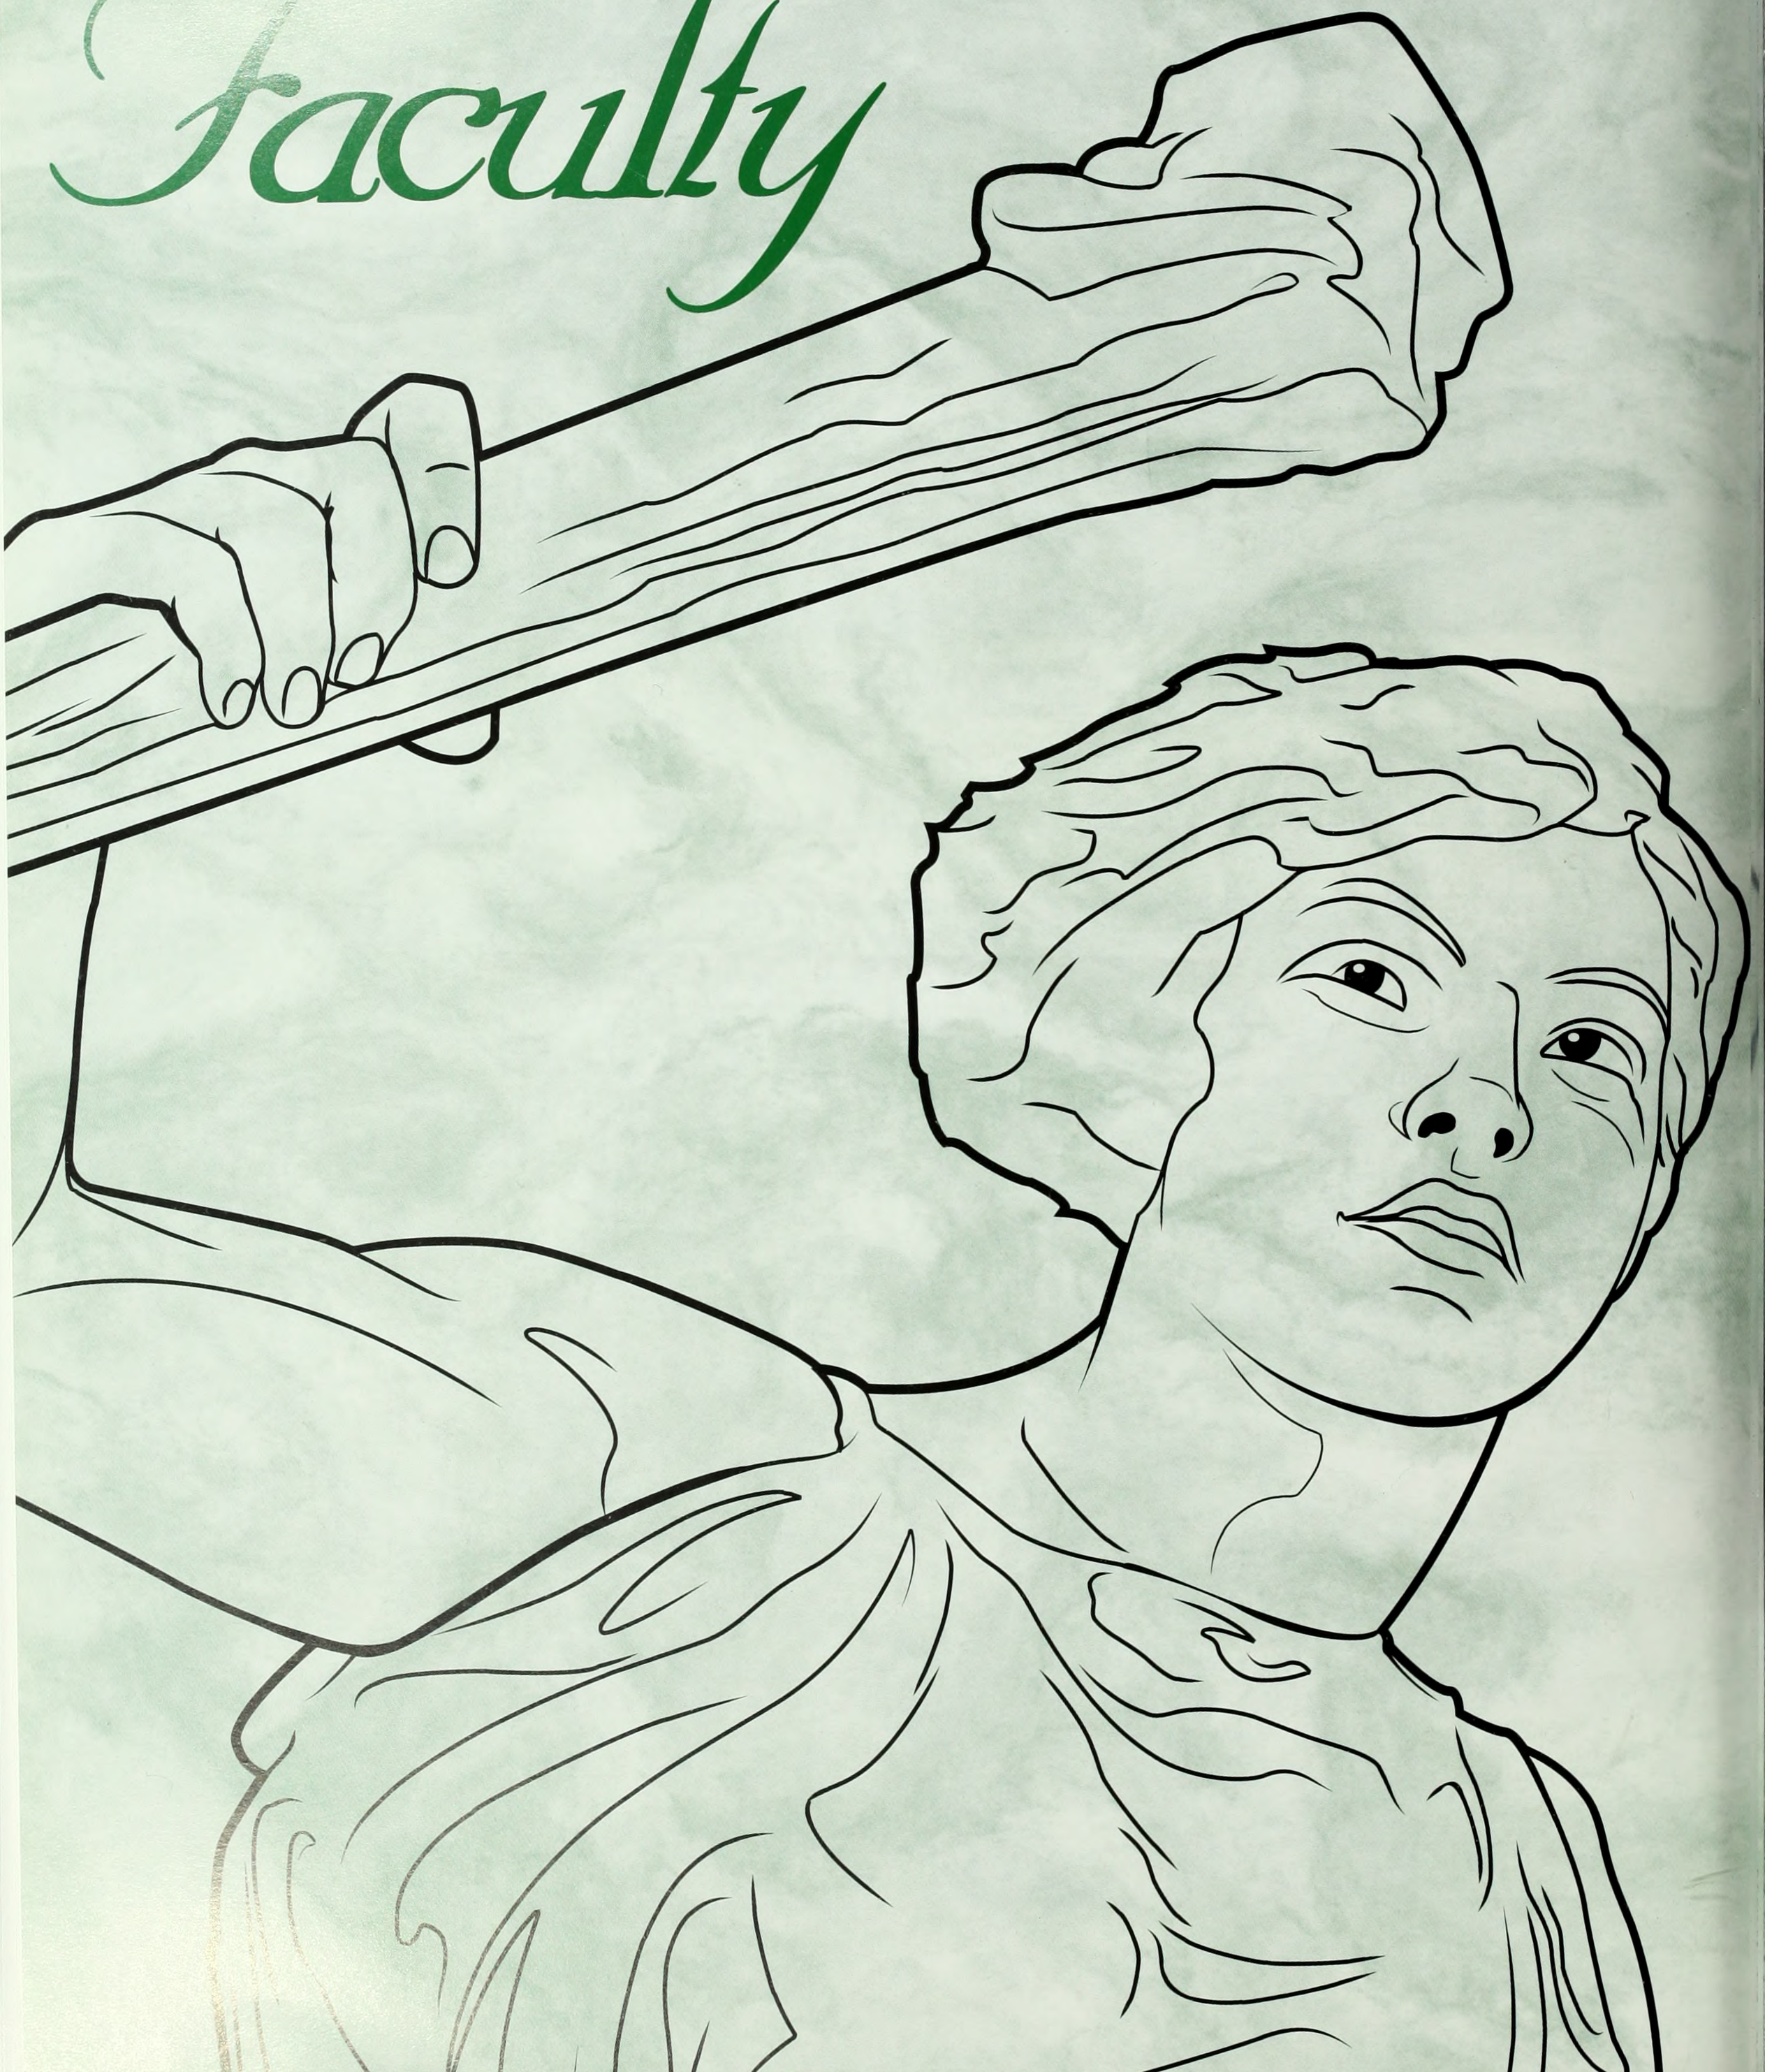
Administration &
Faculty



A Barnard education is shaped by the excellence, dedication, and scholarship of our faculty. Outside the classroom, campus life reflects the wonderful work and commitment of the administration to students. The faculty and the administration contribute to the challenging and fulfilling Barnard experience.

2005

President Judith Shapiro

Dear Members of the Class of 2005 ~

Congratulations on your graduation. There is so much ahead, but no matter where the next years take you, this yearbook will bring you back to Barnard. As you flip through the pages, you'll find yourself sitting on Lehman Lawn in the spring, taking notes at a lecture, meeting a friend for coffee at Java City, scoring a goal, rehearsing a play. Treasure this book – I assure you that it will mean even more to you decades from now, when you will smile at the photos of classmates and find yourself nostalgic with memories for your Barnard home.

You had a great time more often than not, and you learned more from each other than you ever thought possible. The Mortarboard is a wonderful souvenir of that reality – a collection of faces, faculty, athletics, events, candid encounters, and thoughtful writing. Enjoy it. And please return to Barnard often to remind yourself of all that you gave to this campus and all that your time here gave to you.

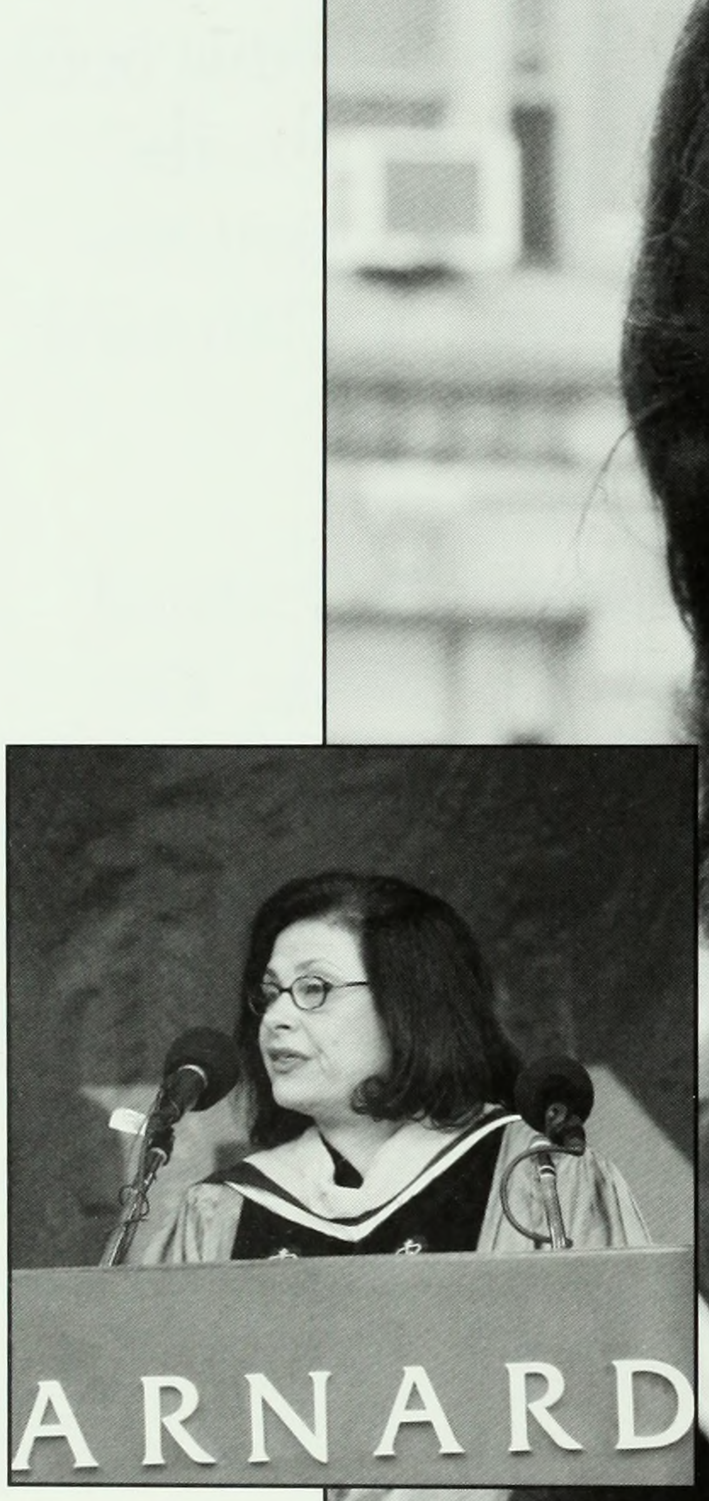
I look forward to hearing about the next chapters in your lives.

With all good wishes and affection,

Judith Shapiro

Judith Shapiro

Dean Dorothy Denburg



Dear Members of the Class of 2005:

As dean, I had the pleasure of sharing many Barnard moments with you. The passage from "welcome" to "good-bye" has been marked by all of the moments and memories that have formed your Barnard experience - communal pain and shock on September 11th and in its aftermath; favorite classes, perhaps even the class you shouldn't have taken; friendships; late night conversations; inspiring faculty; lines for "L course" registration; class dinners; shared laughter; and, of course, Midnight Breakfasts. Together these experiences have transformed you, as we foretold when you arrived.

I have had the pleasure of getting to know many of you well and to marvel at your achievements, at the contributions you have made to campus life, and to watch your growth into confident, competent Barnard women. All of us take pleasure and pride in the women of the Class of 2005.

I wish each of you happiness in the years ahead. I know you will make your mark on the world as you have here at Barnard.

With warm wishes,

Dorothy Denburg

Provost Elizabeth Boylan

Dear Members of the Class of 2005:

On behalf of the Barnard faculty, let me say how very pleased I was to welcome you at convocation on August 28, 2001, and how very proud I was to see you robed and ready to walk out through the Barnard gates on May 17, 2005. On move-in day, I told your parents that former mayor David Dinkins once said: "Little dreams stay home. Big dreams go to New York." And so, Big Dreamers of 2005, you have! You have come, you have conquered, and you have earned the right to be a Barnard alumna. Congratulations!

To remind you of that gorgeous commencement day we shared, I repeat here Rainer Maria Rilke's poem, "Moving Forward:"

The deep parts of my life pour onward, as if the river shores were opening out.
It seems that things are more like me now,
That I can see farther into paintings.
I feel closer to what language can't reach.
With my senses, as with birds, I climb into the windy heaven, out of the oak, in the ponds broken off from the sky
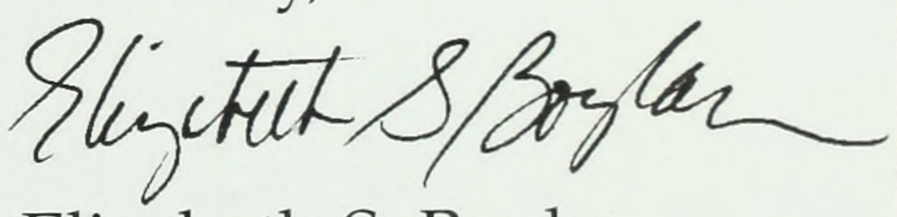
my falling sinks, as if standing on fishes.

Be well.

Sincerely,



Elizabeth S. Boylan

Throughout our four years at Barnard, our friends and families were there to support us, to guide us, and to encourage us. Our time at Barnard is over, but their well-wishes and love send us into the future.

The world is your oyster and you its pearl.
You continue to enjoy both wisely.

We cherish you....Michael, Sarah, Mummy and Ringo

XXXXOOOO

Mariestela Buhay

Mari,

Dream the future with the joy of your dance
And the sweetness of your song.

Let us go with you in your heart,
And we'll keep you in ours.

Papa, Mama & Juan

Mari,

You are a gift from God. Please remember to keep God
As the central focus of your life.
Keep His commandments and abide by our Christian faith.
Remember, "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want."

Love you dearly, Mama

Rachael Arons

We love you Rachael!
A great life and a great family just keeps getting better.

Love, Mom, Dad, Anna,
Kayla, Elliana, Grandma,
and all your aunts, uncles,
and cousins.

Congratulations!
Elizabeth Anne

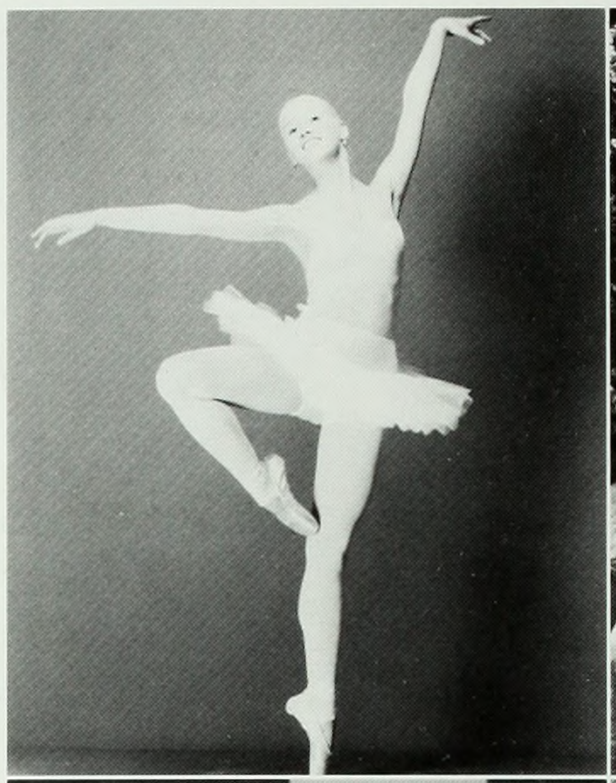
Samantha Ayesha Adamo

Dearest Samantha Ayesha,

Words cannot convey the joy you have brought to our lives. Your passion for life, your commitment, your sensitivity, your sweetness and your many many accomplishments. We are so very proud of you. Congratulations on your graduation. May your future be filled with happiness.

Our love will be with you always.

Mom and Dad



Diana Lawrence

Congratulations!
It has been a long, exciting journey.
From East School to PV to Blair,
To LA to San Diego to NYC.
We are proud to have been along for the entire glorious ride! We love you.
...And just 32 years apart, we have crossed the same goal line.
Mom, Dad, Daniel, Vovo, Grandpa, Jake

Carolyn C. Cavaness

Carolyn,

Congratulations and best wishes in your future endeavors. Thanks for an excellent year, you will be missed.

Love, Doris and Maria good to be smart.

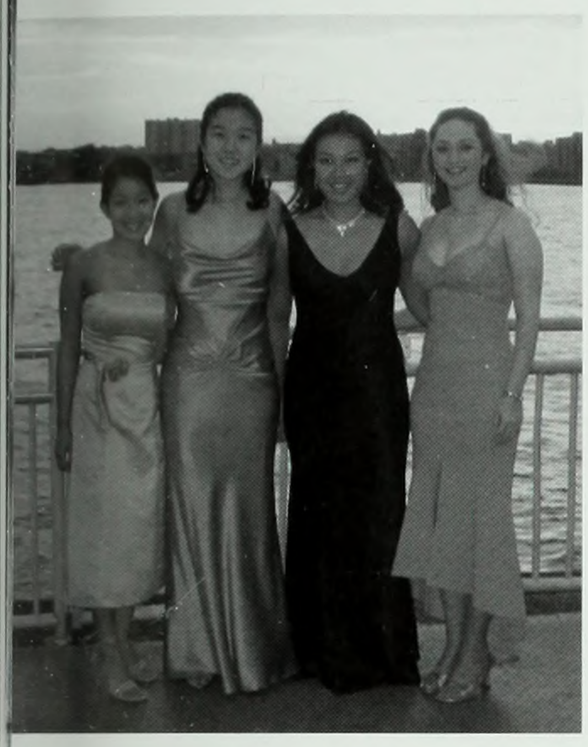
We are proud of you! May you continue your exciting journey to life's joys and riches knowing that your family is alwa there for you as you venture forth. The whole world awaits you!

Love,
Mom, Dad, and Gordon

Jillian Swantner



Jilli,

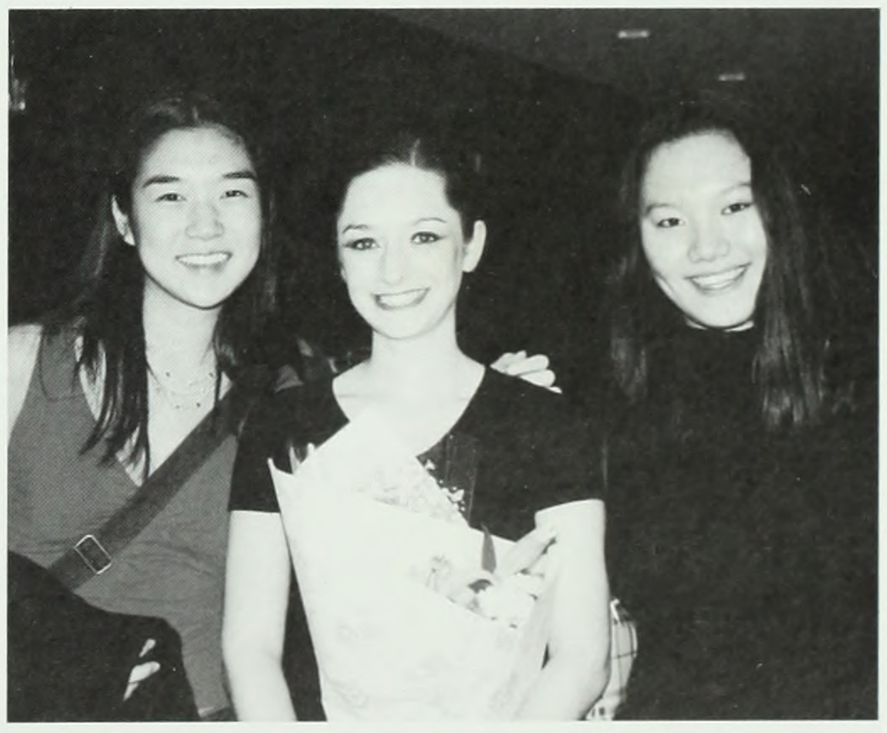
It's April 2001. The noisy, crowded streets around Penn Station are soaked by a drenching rain. No cabs to be found. We trudge to the hotel, complaining the whole way. You skip. We should have known.

It's April 2005. The show ends, the theater doors open and we are forced into a noisy, crowded, rain-soaked street. No cabs to be found. We complain all the way to the subway. You laugh. We should have known.

You came to New York for Barnard. You are staying in New York for MS 224. We still don't know how to get a cab in the rain, but we know you have the talent, confidence and dedication to skip and laugh through life no matter how stormy it gets.

Thank you for making the most of all Barnard offered. Thank you for the contribution you'll make to the world. We are proud to be your parents.

Love,
Mom and Dad



E'tienne Townsend

Congratulations on finishing four years, E'tienne! I'm so proud of you, and I'll miss you next year while you're in grad school. Thanks for the good times, priceless memories, loud laughs, LOVE, and overall better college experience. I love you! Keep on singing joyfully (hopefully not Claiken).

I believe that God will guide you to do great things - go and fulfill your dream.

Love,
Meesh

Bridget, We congratulate you and applaud your achievements which are numerous and truly varied. We wish you well in your future endeavors. Watching you live and grow is a breathtaking experience, something we treasure and enjoy! Thank you for the time, the enthusiasm and the joy of life you give to your family. You are so good and generous! We wish that your life be full and that peace, love and happiness always accompany you.
Know that our love for you is beyond measure.

Love.
Mom, Dad, Mike

Lindsey Martin Alexander

Dear Marty - Do you remember when as goalie on a hockey team your team lost 12-0 and you were ecstatic, very happy, because the day before you lost 24-0? Do you remember when you got your driver's license, Dan and Morgan in the back seat, I'm in the front passenger seat and you asked me if you should put the car in "R" for ride or "D" for drive? Do you remember when you lost your car in Newport, and you were at the police station, reporting your stolen car and you found it a block away, keys in it? Now, you are graduating. I love you, miss you and I wish you only the best. I will always be there for you! I can't wait for the next 20 years!

Love,
Georgia, Carlo & Billy Jack

P.S. Billy Jack said he misses your left leg.

"Congratulations", ALEXANDRIA!!!

So PROUD are we, your family especially, Mom & Dad
CELEBRATE your great achievement!
U go girl! (from your cousins) High fives (from your uncles)
Bouquets of flowers (from your aunties)
Happy tears and smiles (from your grandmas)

You were destined for success. You started out like a baby eagle not wanting to leave the nest trying to find your wings, practicing day after day, enduring more than most of your peers. But through it all, nothing stopped you from achieving your goals. With experience you understood your purpose and started to fly soaring higher each day.

Your persistence, warm and caring spirit has been your strength. Congratulations from your parents, Kenneth and Ellen, brothers – Shawn and Junior, grandmother, Priscilla, grandfathers – Benjamin Franklin and George Moses, aunts, uncles, cousins, sister-in-law Marcia and nephew Anthony.

"Is this the little girl I carried?" seems so cliche, yet as we contemplate the wonderful young woman you have become, it's hard to believe how quickly the years have past.

From your first day at Ramaz you loved school. You grew into a devoted student embracing every challenge with great exuberance. We are proud of the high standards to which you hold yourself, and hov through dedication and perseverance you have always accomplished your goals.

What a joy, honor, and privilege it has been to raise you and to have you as our daughter and friend. You are our greatest source of pride - beautiful, poised, thoughtful, loving and so much fun to be with.

We wish you continued success on the path you choose. Remember, no matter what the future brings we'l always be by your side.

Good Luck! Good Luck! Good Luck!

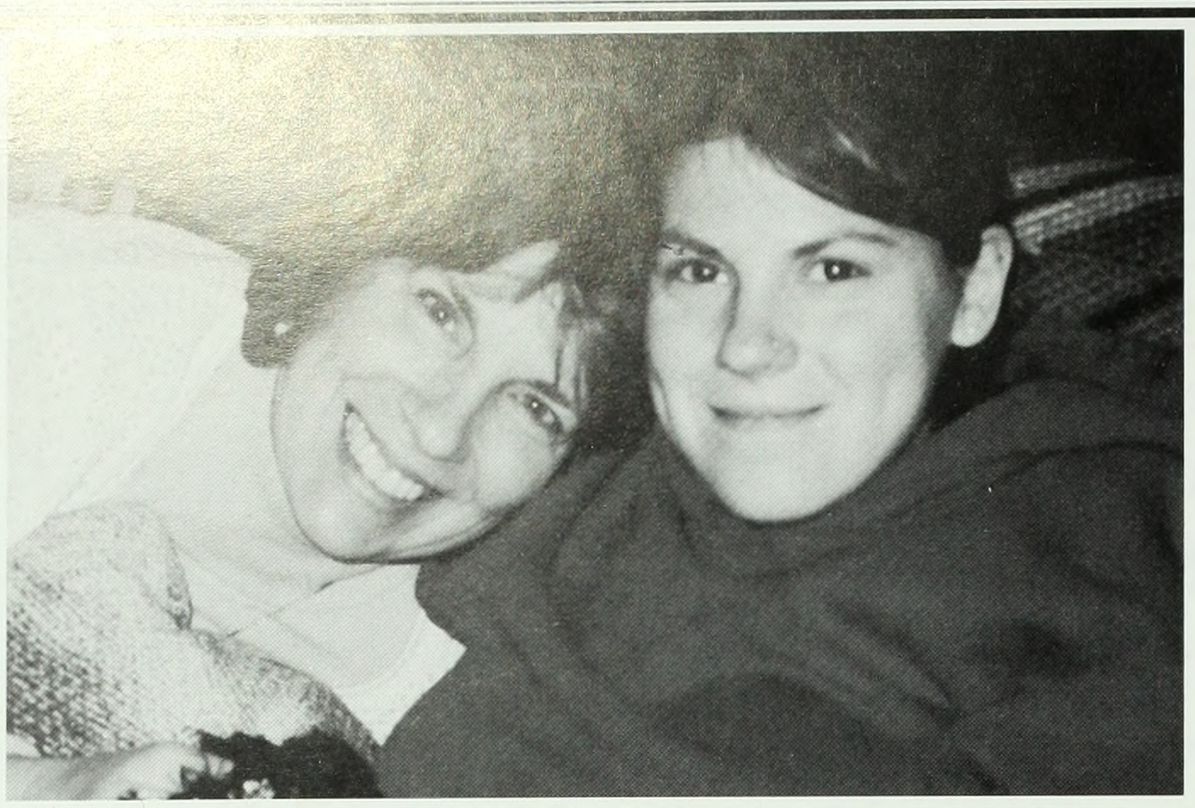
From generation to generation the Barnard women prevail.
With your beautiful smile and warm heart you can never fail.
From child model to model child,
From taming and cuddling cats to taming and embracing the world,
The sweet softness of the cat is the sweet softness of you.
You can get anything you want and you do anything you want to do.

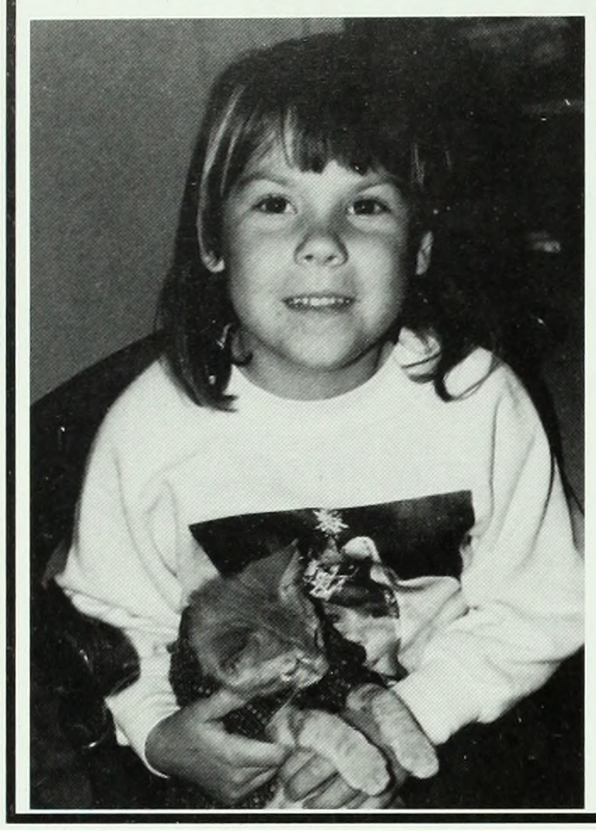
Diana Weinstein

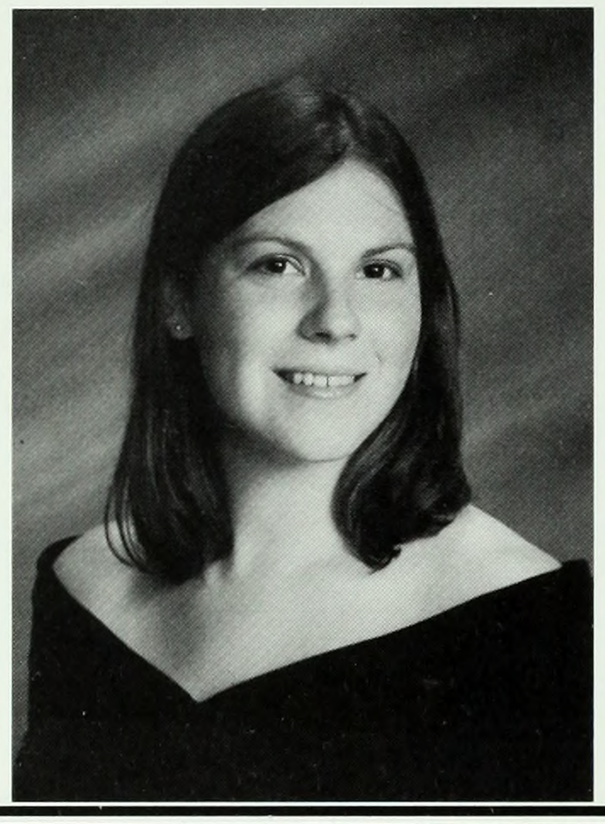
Diana,
With 22 years under your belt you've proven that nothing will get in the way of what you want. Your conviction makes backing down a near impossibility because you know what's best for you. The road ahead of you is building itself and with all your acquired knowledge in life you've equipped yourself with the car of your dreams. My biggest fear is that your urgency to succeed will cause you to speed down this road and never stop for a deep, slow breath of realization. Realization that every paper you wrote ten pages over the limit; every presentation you've prepared half an hour before it was due in class; every day you thought you couldn't get to work but you did anyway. Realize those are the days that got you here. On an ending note, and most importantly, please don't forget to stop Diana, because no matter how far you go, remember I'm in your trunk and I need air.
Love Neal

Education can be viewed as a race. We all start at the same point but everyone makes different time and some not make it to the finish line. It is a long "marathon" most of the time not easy one. It takes endurance and dedication to visualize first, and then make it to victory line.
For 16 years you have worked hard, tried your best, and are now graduating college. It is because of the goals you set and the commitment you have made to see them accomplished!
It is with great pride, we watched you grow, mature, become strong, independent young woman that you are today.
We know that you will succeed in future filled with all the dreams and desires closest to your heart. And on your graduation day, we also will be, with pride, cheering you for the job well done.

Congratulations Diana!
Love you always Dad, Mom.







Kimberly Leith Norman

Your diploma is a symbol of problem solving skills and of the ability to work hard. More importantly, it is an emblem of astonishing growth, which has in turn inspired us to grow as well. Thank you.

Your degree also signifies an opportunity to expand your own sense of personal power while helping others less fortunate.

We continue to love you with an unconditional acceptance and a trust that you may perhaps only appreciate if you are some day lucky enough to have a little girl in your life who grows up to be like you.

Love, Mom and Dad.

Sharing in your life has been our celebration!
The years have gone by much too fast,
Now it's time to focus on the future and remember the past.

Follow your dreams and to yourself be true,
You've made us so proud and we'll always love you!

Congratulations on your achievements!

To Montana,
For all the love and joy you have given me, I wish you all the happiness and wonder the world can give in the years to come. You make me proud and hopeful for the future of the world. The day you stepped on the campus at Barnard and I met all those other inspired young women like yourself, I knew your talents would blossom far beyond a mother's dreams. I will miss but never forget our outings, great restaurants finds, museum wanderings, the gates and park walks, subway rides, and late night ice creams and cross word puzzles in the city. WOW, Chemistry, New York City, MIT, Yale, Boston, Watch Out!
With Love, Mom

Masha Ava Sohrab

Dearest Masha,

Congratulations on a great achievement! It is hard to believe that four years of intense work at Barnard are already behind you...

Soon you will enter a fine medical school, graduate with honors, become a brilliant physician, and we will celebrate another happy day like this one.

Wherever your path in life takes you, our love and admiration will always follow you.

Love,
Mom, Amir, Zubin, and Snip
