Report of the Dean.

Dean Gill's report for the Academic year 1901-1902 at Barnard was published last Monday.

The registration last year showed an increase of forty-seven students over the registration of the previous year. Forty-six of these students were in the regular classes, where growth is most desirable. The Freshman class consisted of ninety-eight students, while twenty-eight students were admitted by transfer from other colleges.

The rest of the report is given verbatim:

The amount of the Fiske Graduate Scholarship has been placed at the disposal of the Dean for the aid of needy students. This change was made by the Trustees, with the approval of the donor, because of the removal of women graduate students from the jurisdiction of Barnard College under the new contract between the University and the College. For several years the Committee of the Trustees on Scholarships have assumed the responsibility of soliciting the $1,800 required annually to provide for twelve Student Scholarships. This has necessitated great effort on their part, and grows more onerous each year. The Committee has therefore started a Scholarship Endowment Fund, by which it hopes soon to place the provision for these scholarships upon a secure financial basis, and to render the annual solicitation of gifts for this purpose unnecessary.

This movement toward the endowment of scholarships is quite in line with the general purpose of the Trustees to make the proper endowment of all departments of the College their next work,—knowing, as they do, that the College cannot rely much longer upon the generous annual gifts which the early friends of the enterprise have had the public spirit and local pride to give. A small beginning toward a general endowment had already been made when Mr. John D. Rockefeller's offer to duplicate all gifts which the friends of the College would make before a given date, up to the limit of $150,000, gave fresh incentive to the effort. By the tireless devotion of the Treasurer, Mr. Geo. A. Plimpton, the desired sum was raised. Although it does not show in many new courses or in widely extended equipment, it gives security to the financial management of the College, and helps largely towards an assured endowment fund.

A wholesome expansion has been shown in the courses of study. In many departments the normal annual growth has been provided for either by modifications of existing courses, or by entirely new ones. The Department of Economics has had its Faculty quite fundamentally reorganized, and a corresponding rearrangement of courses has followed. The new course in Economic Readings will give an opportunity for critical study of the social teachings of Carlyle, J. S. Mill, Kingsley, Ruskin, and T. H. Green, and also of the recent development of economics in England; an opportunity which will be eagerly improved by the many students who look forward to lives of active interest in settlement and philanthropic work. The field study of family groups has been greatly extended and dignified into a separate course, Sociology 16, which offers opportunity for the direct study of our local institutions for social betterment in New York City.

In no department has more needed extension of courses been made than in that of biology. Through the generosity of friends of the College, a physiological laboratory has been equipped, and a thorough course in physiology is for the first time opened to the students. This will provide most satisfactorily for the scientific instruction in the subject; but Barnard College will be far from meeting its full privilege towards its students until it can furnish the allied courses in practical hygiene and in physical training. A certain responsibility for the health of our students is little felt because of their residence in their own homes. But a year of careful observation has convinced me that students in a country college can never need systematic physical development so much as these city girls who spend so much time in the cars with no exercise and little pure air.

When this physical need is met, the next in importance is in the Department of Art. To-day no woman can claim a well-rounded general culture unless she knows the history and principles of art criticism, and it is greatly hoped that this department, especially essential for cultured women, may be established in the near future. It also seems advisable to provide for the history of philosophy and for anthropology in such a manner that they may be open to qualified Juniors, and thus make a much fuller course in philosophy available for such students as show peculiar aptitude for that subject.

Mingled with genuine and deep regret at the loss of our dormitory life for the coming year, there exists a pleasure at the added facilities which the Fiske Hall of Science will furnish. New and larger laboratories in general and organic chemistry, new physical laboratories, adequate lecture, office, and supply-rooms,—all indicate the new departmental enthusiasm with which the increasing numbers of students will be cared for. The rearrangement of rooms gives us also four large lecture-rooms of seating capacity equal to that of the Theatre—that is, sufficient for the largest classes. This means that history courses will now have proper provision for maps, English courses for blackboards, and that the Theatre may be reserved for its legitimate uses. The evils of overcrowding which have embarrassed us during the past year are happily at an end for the present.

The year which has just closed has shown most satisfactory conditions of scholarship and of public sentiment in the student body. The needs which we see before us are those

Welcome to Freshman.

President Butler and Dean Gill delivered addresses of welcome to the Freshman class last Monday, the opening day of the college. This is the first time that the president of the University has addressed an incoming class at Barnard.

Dormitory Life.

As has been said several times in the columns of this paper, when Barnard lost Fiske Hall, as a dormitory, it was looked upon as a serious drawback to college life and spirit, and it is true that never until we have a dormitory again can we have exactly the same college life. Yet the fact that the doors of Teachers' College Dormitory have been thrown open to resident students of Barnard will help materially to tide over this time when we have no dormitory.

Many Barnard students have availed themselves of this opportunity to live in this dormitory, and a large number of the girls who were in Fiske Hall last year are now living there. In all, there are about thirty-five Barnard students in the dormitory. Among them are many Freshmen; and we urge upon all the upper classmen living there to consider it their duty to make the girls of 1906 feel at home, for there are hundreds of girls in the building, and it is not so easy for the Freshmen to become acquainted as it was in the smaller dormitory.

The social life bids fair to be very pleasant, and already the Teachers' college and Barnard girls are planning to have a dormitory glee club.

This merging of the interests of two of the colleges of the University is an interesting experiment, and one which the authorities of both colleges are most anxious should be a success. Dean Russel gave an excellent talk on this subject on Thursday morning, October 9, in Teachers' College Chapel. He said that he desired very much that there should be congenial and profitable intercourse between all the girls living at the dormitory, and that the student life there should be as pleasant as it could be made. We believe that this is possible, and we urge upon every Barnard girl living in the dormitory to let it devolve upon herself to do her part.

Notice.

The Bulletin wishes to call attention to the following notice:

"Students are strongly urged to read the bulletin boards daily. Many changes occur in administration which do not admit of an individual notification, but which every student should know.

"A failure on the part of a student to inform herself of all such changes cannot be accepted as a valid excuse for the non-performance of any college duty.

"LAURA D. GILL,
"Dean."

BARNARD BULLETIN,
BARNARD COLLEGE,
COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1902.

This year's Freshman class shows a decrease in numbers from that of last year. This is due to the raising of the entrance standard, to the increased difficulty of the entrance examinations, and to a reason set forth by Dean Gill in her report, as follows:

"Until we can erect a permanent dormitory to take the place of Fiske Hall, which will hereafter be required for academic purposes, we shall expect a slight decrease of patronage from a distance. The effect of this upon college life will be most detrimental, as a wider horizon is given every student by the diversity of experience possessed by her associates. We must develop a dormitory system, and draw students from a distance in order to make impossible that most unlovely form of provincialism, the provincialism of a great city."

The practical proof of this statement lies in the fact that a large majority of the present class hails from New York City. New York State comes next in popularity, with New Jersey following closely. There are a few students from Brooklyn, while Maryland, Maine, Rhode Island and Connecticut have one representative each. The geographical distribution in the case of the Freshman class, therefore, points decidedly toward a "decrease in patronage from a distance."

Caps and Gowns.

Orders for caps and gowns will be received by Miss Wick '04. Anyone who wishes to order will please put her height and weight, together with her time-card, in Miss Wick's letter box.

Barnard Flags.

Students who wish to purchase college flags may apply to E. J. Cahen '04 and S. T. Curtis '04, or leave orders in Letter Box "C."

Junior Notes.

At a meeting of 1904, held last Tuesday, it was decided to entertain the Freshman class on Friday, October 10. A committee was appointed for the purpose, to consist of Marjorie Bacon, chairman; Helen Elting, Mabel Compton, Edith Granger and Helen Erskine.

The following girls were appointed on the standing class entertainment committee for the first term: Ida Lewis, chairman; Elsie Bushong, Jeanette Wick, Minnie Boulger and Ruth Stern.

Margaret Stone has been appointed for Junior member of the Self-Government Committee.

C. S. M. A.

The Barnard Chapter of the Church Students' Missionary Association was organized in 1901 by students of the college belonging to the Episcopal Church. The object of the Association is, to further the missionary cause: first, by awakening interest in the general subject of missions; second, by promoting the systematic study of missions, and third, by contributing to the support of missions.

The Barnard Chapter holds weekly meetings for the careful study of the mission field, the extent and nature of its work, and the needs of those engaged therein. This year the subject matter will be particularly mission work in Cuba, Porto Rico, and the eastern dependencies of the United States. In addition to the above course of study addresses will be given at regular intervals by men deeply interested and actively engaged in the work either at home or in the foreign field.

All students who attend the Episcopal Church are eligible for active membership and are cordially invited to join. Any others who are interested in missionary work will also be welcomed at the meetings.

FRANCES HOPE PURDON,
Secretary.

Southern Club.

All students who desire to join the Southern Club are requested to send their names to Mary Lee '05. Any girl who is herself a Southerner, or whose parents are Southerners, is eligible to membership.

Freshman Notes.

At a meeting of 1906 held last Wednesday, Bessie Lewis was elected temporary chairman.

Junior Entertainment to Freshmen.

The Juniors entertained the Freshman class in the Theatre last Friday afternoon, at 3.30. Charades were given by the Juniors, who represented, among other words to be guessed, "1906," "Applegate," and "flunk." Dancing and refreshments followed.

Freshman Bible Class.

The first meeting of the Freshman Bible Class on the study of the Gospels will be held on Thursday, October 16, at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Jean Miller '03, President of the Christian Association, will give the course. All Freshmen are cordially invited to join.

Plays for Students of German.

The department of Germanic languages and literatures announces that Manager Heinrich Conried, of the Irving Place Theatre, proposes to give in the German language during the present theatrical season, a cycle of "the plays of all nations," which shall include representative dramatic master-pieces from the various periods of the world's literature. These performances to be given on successive Monday and Friday evenings, began on Monday with the presentation of Bjoernson's "Ueber unsere Kraft," which, in accordance with the stated plan, will again be presented on Friday, October 10. This will be followed in the succeeding week by Schiller's "Don Carlos." During the winter, among others, plays by Shakespeare, Goethe, Moliere, and Ibsen will be produced.

For each performance of this whole cycle of plays, Manager Conried, with characteristic generosity; has placed at the disposition of the Students of Columbia University a limited number of orchestra seats, at the price of fifty cents, the entire proceeds from the sale of which are to go to the Reference Library Fund of the Department of Germanic Languages and Literature of this University. In the sale of these seats, the only restriction that has been made is that but one ticket shall be delivered to a matriculated student of the university upon personal application of the user.

Tickets for the performance on Friday, October 10, and subsequent dates, may be had of Mr. F. W. J. Heuser, Room 317 U., up to noon of the day upon which the play is presented.

Earl Hall Sunday Services.

In order to provide a praise service for the many scores of Columbia students living in the vicinity of the campus, the Christian Association has decided to provide such a meeting, to be held each Sunday afternoon, at 4 P. M. There will be a song service and a short address given generally by a young speaker. All Columbia students are invited to come and make this a strictly University service.

French Lectures.

Notice has been sent to Professor Cohn of the expected arrival in this country of two noted French lecturers, M. Germaind Martin, Lecturer in the School of Laws of the University of Paris, and M. Leopold Mabillean, Director of the Music Social. M. Mabillean, who last year lectured at Columbia, is expected to do so again this year, and M. Martin will probably also make a visit to the University.

Columbia Spectator.

Spectator, the daily newspaper of Columbia University, would like to start a subscription list at Barnard, and accordingly has asked that copies of the paper be distributed free of charge, for a time, to representative Barnard students. Officers of classes and presidents of student organizations are notified to call for their copies daily in the telephone room.

produced by gratifying development. We trust that our many proved friends, and new friends not yet known, may feel it an opportunity to serve their own community by meeting these needs. Their urgency would seem to be in the order in which they are mentioned: (1) land in the immediate vicinity of our present buildings, before it increases further in value; (2) a dormitory to give a nucleus for college social life; (3) a students' building for the physical needs of over four hundred students who spend about five hours a day on the college grounds; (4) general endowment to ensure the already incurred annual budget; (5) special endowments to provide new facilities in physical training, history of art, biblical literature, archaeology, and philosophy.

Tennis Tournament.

An interclass tennis tournament, open to all members of the Athletic Association, will be held this week. After the class championships have been won, the four winners will compete for a silver cup, which will remain in the possession of the winning class until the next tournament is held. All the matches will be singles. The committee in charge consists of Katherine S. Doty 1904, chairman; May A. Parker 1904, and Edith B. Handy 1905.

Glee Club.

The Glee Club will consist of an instrumental section only this year. The vocal section will combine with the Barnard chorus. All who wish to join either the vocal or instrumental division will please send their names immediately to Cecil Dorian 1905.
