Lectures on the Fine Arts.

A course of public lectures will be given during the present academic year on subjects connected with the history, æsthetics and criticism of the fine arts in general, and of architecture, sculpture and painting in particular. These lectures will be delivered by members of the teaching staff of the University. They are open to the general public and are intended to meet the needs of the rapidly growing class of men and women who, without giving themselves to the practice of the fine arts, are interested in them because of their value in liberal culture, or because of the many points of contact between the fine arts and modern practical life. The lectures will be delivered on the theory and criticism of the various arts, on ancient art and archæology, on medieval and Renaissance, and similar topics.

The announcement of the first six lectures to be given in the large auditorium in Havemeyer Hall, on Mondays at four o'clock, is as follows:

October 27.—“The General Principles of Æsthetics as Applied to the Fine Arts,” by Dr. Adam Le Roy Jones, of the department of philosophy.

November 3.—“The Principles of Æsthetics as Applied to Painting,” by Dr. Jones.

November 10.—“Architecture in Its Relation to History; a Study in the Evolution of Styles,” by Prof. Alfred D. F. Hamlin, of the department of architecture.

November 21.—“The Art of India,” by Prof. Abraham Valentine Williams Jackson, head of the department of Indo-Iranian languages and literatures.

November 24.—“A Study of Moslem Religious Architecture,” by Prof. A. D. F. Hamlin.

December 5.—“The Art of Persia,” by Prof. A. V. W. Jackson.

Other courses to be given after the Christmas season will be announced later.

Changes in the Faculty of History.

There have been some changes other than those announced in the catalogue for 1902-3, in the Barnard Faculty of History. Mr. Fleming is giving Mr. Smith's course, History 4; and History 50, which was announced to be given by Dr. Lee, has been taken up by Dr. Botsford, who is the best authority in Greek and Roman history in this country.

Alumnæ Notes.

The annual Business Meeting of the Associate Alumnæ will be held on Saturday, October 25th, at 10 A. M., in the Theatre. The election of directors and officers will take place and will be followed by a social meeting and the serving of refreshments.

Basket Ball.

Students who wish to play basket ball are urged to send their names at once to Cecil Dorrian 1905.

Free Concerts at Teachers College.

Plans are being made by the Choral Club of Teachers College for a series of recitals to be given in the auditorium of the Horace Mann School, during the coming year. This plan involves the raising of $500, by subscription, for an expense fund.

If this amount can be successfully raised by a subscription plan, it will enable the Choral Club to offer a series of very fine concerts which will be free to all students and teachers connected with the Teachers College and its schools.

A subscription paper will be circulated by the members of the club in the hope that students, faculty, friends and all interested will aid the club to the full extent of their ability.

Providing the financial part of this undertaking is a success, the club has arranged to give the following program:—on Wednesday afternoons at 4:30, there will be three vocal recitals and four chamber concerts, with music by a trio, a quartette and a string band of nine pieces. On Friday evenings the Choral Club will give concerts, thus making nine concerts in all, as follows:—October 22, vocal recital; November 5, chamber recital; November 19, recital; December 17, glee club concert; January 7, recital; February 18, recital; March 4, chamber recital; March 18, chamber concert; April 22, glee club concert.

Y. W. C. A. Reception

On Monday, October 13th, the Christian Association gave a reception in Earl Hall, for the Freshman class. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of May Parker, 1904, Agnes Durant, 1904, Laura Van Cise, 1903, and Alice Draper, 1905.

Athletic Association.

A regular meeting of the Athletic Association will take place on Thursday, October 16th, at 12:20, in Room 339.

Students' Aid Committee.

Through the Students' Aid Committee “Ye Linen Cleaners,” a laundering and cleaning establishment, offers certain opportunities to students soliciting either among fellow students or private families. Any student desiring to learn details should call at 2385 Broadway, between 87th and 88th streets.

1904 Mortarboard.

The editors of the Mortarboard wish to remind the undergraduates that the annual, though a junior publication, represents the whole college for the year 1902-03. It is, therefore, the duty of every student to help towards its success either by writing or drawing, if she possesses any ability whatsoever. All contributions placed in the box outside of the Mortarboard room before November 15th will be gratefully received.

HARRIET A. WERTS,
Editor-in-Chief.

Registration of Classes.

Although the Freshman Class numbers five less than last year at this time, there is an increase of twenty-five regular undergraduates. The exact figures are as follows: Ninety-one Freshmen, seventy-nine Sophomores, seventy-four Juniors and forty-nine Seniors, making a total of two hundred and ninety-three regular undergraduates.

The College Debating Club.

The Sophomore-Freshman Debating Club has recently revised its constitution, extending its membership to all four classes, so that it may now take its place as the College Debating Society. Its aim in this change is to rank favorably with other collegiate debating clubs. All members of the classes of 1904 and 1905, who have a general average of “C,” or over, and who desire to belong to the club, are requested to hand their time cards to Elizabeth McLean, '04, or Sarah Fletcher, '05. Freshmen who wish to join will please put their time cards in Mabel Denton's letter box in the telephone room.

Debating Society Meeting.

A regular meeting of the College Debating Club, formerly known as the Sophomore-Freshman Debating Society, was held on Monday, October 13th, at 12:30. Charlotte Morgan, President of the society, appointed the following Committee on Admissions, Elizabeth McLean, '04, and Sarah Fletcher, '05. The question of having a coach was considered.

Meeting of La Societe Francaise.

The annual meeting of La Société Française for the election of officers was held Tuesday, October 14th. The following elections took place: President, May Johnson, '03; vice-president, Helen Rogers, '03; secretary, Marjorie Bacon, '04; treasurer, Evelyn Goldsmith, '05; fifth executive member, Hope Purdon, '05. A few new members were elected from the class of 1905.

Deutscher Kreis.

At a meeting of the Deutscher Kreis on Wednesday, October 15th, the following elections took place:—president, Elsa Herzfeld, '03; vice-president, Adele Wallach, '03; secretary, Maisie Shainwald, '03; treasurer, Judith Bernays, '05, and fifth member of the executive committee, Blanche Reittinger, '05.

Undergraduate Association.

The first meeting of the Undergraduate Association will be held on Thursday, October 23d, at 12:30, in Room 139 (Fiske). A large attendance is requested as the important business of the year will be discussed. Miss Clara de L. Berg will speak of the work of the Students' Aid Committee of the Associate Alumnæ, with reference to the Undergraduates of Barnard.

EDITORIAL.

The question which is being discussed in the Executive Committee of the Undergraduate Association as to which would be the most effective way of entertaining the friends of the students seems to us a very important one. Last year we had three teas, the invitations of which cost twenty-five cents a piece, and two performances of the undergraduate play, the tickets of which were one dollar a piece for strangers and fifty cents a piece for students. So successful was the play, that, although the teas were much improved in character, and everyone professed herself much pleased with the dignified and satisfactory manner in which they were conducted, the question of giving but two teas and an extra performance of the undergraduate play is being discussed. Not only have teas grown to be very burdensome in New York, but they are not the most effective way of introducing our friends to the college. It is much more interesting for them to see some of our own work, and a play well rendered is a better mode of entertaining them than conducting them around crowded corridors and into a theatre packed to overflowing. If the Undergraduate Association decides to make this change, it is hoped that, with the money saved from the third tea, the finances of the Play Committee will be so reimbursed that the price of tickets for the play may be reduced considerably. The perplexing question of the increased crowd will be at least partially settled by the third performance. We hope that each student will carefully consider this proposition, so that when brought up in the Undergraduate meeting she may be able to vote intelligently upon it.

Frequent complaints are heard among Barnard students of their small opportunity for outdoor life. This need, together with the present lack of a dormitory, is the one most frequently deplored. As a matter of fact, however, though our privileges in this direction are certainly limited, very few girls take the utmost advantage of them. We may regret, indeed, that golf, hockey, and baseball cannot be immediately introduced at Barnard, but we are scarcely justified, on that account, in forgetting that we can at least play tennis. Yet it is but a comparatively small number of girls that take sufficient interest in this game to join the Athletic Association, and only a small percentage of these makes frequent use of the tennis court.

In view of these facts, the tennis tournament should be regarded with much satisfaction, promising as it does to kindle throughout the college greater enthusiasm for athletics. That as many girls as possible will enter the tournament is, of course, very desirable.

Correspondence.

While we are glad to publish any correspondence that may be sent us, we are not responsible for the sentiments expressed. Those who wish their correspondence published anonymously, must attach their own signature. Unsigned letters will receive no attention.

To the Editors of the BULLETIN:

I should like, if I may, to enter the annual protest against the lunch room conditions. This year it is not so much the food itself of which we have to complain, as of several annoying features in the services. I refer entirely to the state of things in the common lunch room - that softly carpeted "regular" lunch room, boasting table cloths being, of course, beyond criticism. In the large room, where most of the students eat, it is possible, this winter, to get a fairly good cup of soup, a baked apple or apple sauce as well as unsatisfactory articles like pie and ice cream. We are very grateful for this. However, one small raw apple at five cents, and one thin slice of bread cut in two with ham between at the same price do seem a trifle dear. Water, too, seems precious. If you are stern and insistent you can usually, after a while, get a glass brought from the kitchen, but the cooler and glasses have been taken out of the lunch room, and it is impossible to help oneself. - This, apparently, is for the sake of economy in dish washing, just as is the refusal to give the girl who brings her own lunch and buys nothing at the counter a plate and a knife. We used to have this convenience at least, and we know the college has enough china-ware. The tables are not cleared quickly, and one sits down before unappetizing remains. There seems to be some difficulty about the silver, and one's cocoa - never very warm - grows colder while the maid goes to various parts of the building to find a spoon. Of course, we know that the lunch room has been running only two weeks, and possibly all these defects will be remedied in time. We simply offer these as hints, therefore, in the hope that the time will not be long in coming.

Nothing that has been said here should be misunderstood as finding fault with the maids who serve at the counter. They act under orders. It is easy to see they have their hands full, and, perhaps, unfortunately, they are not possessed of the fine engineering capacity that Gertrude and Jessie had of old.

University News.

Society of Americanists of Columbia.

The Society of Americanists, which is to hold its regular meeting at the Museum of Natural History next week, has been invited to visit Columbia on Thursday, October 23rd. They will be the guests of the University at luncheon at one o'clock.

Reorganization of Kings Crown.

King's Crown, a society founded ten years ago by Professor Woodberry, has widened its scope this year and will become the leading society of the college, to which all students except Freshmen are admitted. A committee has been formed of members of the Faculty and of Kings Crown to draw up a new constitution. The following are the members of the committee: Professor H. T. Peck, chairman; Prof. A. V. W. Jackson, Prof. G. R. Carpenter, Mr. J. T. Shotwell, Mr. F. P. Keppel, R. C. Gaige, 1903; N. W. Muller, 1904; R. C. T. Schroeder, 1903; G. H. Butler, 1903; T. R. St. John, 1905 L.; C. G. Abbott, 1903; Albert Davis, 1903; O. R. Houston, 1904, and H. A. Keeler, 1903.

The work of the committee is not yet entirely completed, but the general policy of the society has been practically determined. There will be a faculty vice-president, and one member of the council will also be from the faculty. Professor Woodberry, who has served the society since its foundation as vice-president, has resigned. All members of the faculty are to be eligible to active membership. The executive officers will be students as heretofore.

The society will continue to be both literary and social in its character. It is proposed to present an old English play some time during the present year.

University Registration.
