SENIOR CLASS PARTY.

The first 1905 Senior party was held on Wednesday, Nov. 30th. A contest in guessing books from illustrated cards, for which a prize was given, was the main feature of the party, but games of a less dignified nature were most thoroughly enjoyed. Senior gravity was for the day forgotten, and many members of the class even joined in the rope jumping.

Refreshments consisting of cider and doughnuts were served. The party ended with dancing, and singing of class and college songs.

1907.

The following committees have been appointed: Entertainment—Chairman, Helen Goodhart; Leslie Gardiner, Elizabeth Tredwell, Katherine Smith, Sophie Woodman, Juliet Points and Evangeline Cole, ex-officio.

The Entertainment Committee are planning a St. Valentine's party on Feb. 14, 1905.

The Pin Committee: Chairman, Katherine Rapp; Beatrice Herzfeld, Grace Turnbull, Elizabeth Rusk, Annie Carroll. Juliet Points, Evangeline Cole, ex-officio.

1908.

At a special meeting of the Class of 1908 held on Monday, December 19th, Mrs. Jeddell was elected Freshman member of the Undergraduate Play Committee, to take the place of Elena Rionda, who has left college.

THE UNIVERSITY CHORUS.

The University Chorus has met regularly now for six weeks, and has already done good work. The aim of the chorus is to make the students familiar with the masterpieces of mediæval and modern music, and some very fine selections have been practiced. Anyone who loves music and who can sing, even if but a little, is asked to come. The chorus started with a membership of over two hundred, and Prof. Rübner is anxious to keep the weekly attendance up to this number.

HORACE MANN CLUB.

At the second meeting of the Horace Mann Club, held on Tuesday, December 6th, the constitution was read and accepted.

The following officers were elected: President, Nina Schultz, '05; Vice President, Grace Farrelly, '05; Secretary and Treasurer, Lottie Oesterlein, '07. Edna Frank, '06, and Agnes Miller, '08, were chosen as two additional members of the Executive Committee.

ALUMNÆ NOTES.

Clare Maclellan Howard, '03, now assistant in English at Wellesley College, addressed the Shakespeare Society of that college on December 14th, on the subject of "Political Tributes to Queen Elizabeth."

BARNARD BULLETIN,
BARNARD COLLEGE,

Broadway & 119th Street. COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, JANUARY 9, 1905.

It is strange that our college world and the outer world do not seem to make use of the same calendar. To the casual observer perhaps we may seem to be measuring time by the Gregorian system, but the undergraduate realizes that there is a difference. Consider for a moment December 31. When gay New York was hooting out the old year, and tooting in the new, college students were simply drawing a long breath in preparation for the final race at the end of January. No one of us was able to cancel her academic debts of the past three months, and make brave resolutions for the future twelve months. If resolutions for great improvement were necessary, it was with unextinguishable dread that we greeted 1905, since three weeks do not allow time for much change in method. If, on the other hand, we had pursued our studies with diligence, the appearance of the new year made hardly any impression on our college consciousness. The hearty cry "Happy New Year" awakens but faint echoes in comparison with the heartfelt "Happy Mid-years."

Yet the ceremonies attendant on the advent of the new year are not entirely wasted on most of us. When we are revelling in vacation, we, too, mingle with the outer world. Small credit would it be to us if our education had not given us breadth enough to enable us to share the pleasures of our non-college friends. Moralists speak of the provincialism of a large city, but that is nothing compared to the provincialism of an institution of learning, where no outside life is allowed to enter. It is very much easier to pursue doggedly the daily drudgeries or to follow unceasingly the pomp and vanities, than to seek the oft-preached golden mean. The city college offers more avenues of escape from educated provincialism than the country college. Here we have at our doors the best concerts, museums and picture galleries which the country affords, and every opportunity for hearing the finest lecturers. There is no reason, therefore, why any of us should become intellectual recluses, nor yet any excuse for a neglect of the college work which will fit us for a life of appreciation, if not for a life of original research.

WOMAN'S GRADUATE CLUB RECEPTION.

On Wednesday afternoon, December 21, the Woman's Graduate Club of Columbia University held its first reception of the year in Earl Hall. All the rooms on the first floor were thrown open to the guests, and were most appropriately decorated with holly and Christmas greens. The guests were received by Miss Louise Loomis, the president, Mrs. Osgood, Miss Gill, and Miss Ida Tarbell in whose honor the reception was given. The rooms were crowded during the entire afternoon by the women graduates and their friends, by many students of the university, both graduates and undergraduates, and by many members of the faculty. Almost all of the members of the Political Science faculty were present, as this reception was given especially by the members of the club who are studying in the Political Science Department.

ALUMNÆ REUNION.

On Thursday, December 29, the annual re-union of the alumnae of Barnard College was held in the college building. The officers of the Alumnae Association and the guests of honor, Miss Laura D. Gill, Mrs. George Haven Putnam, Mrs. A. A. Andersen, Mrs. Davenport of San Francisco, Mrs. Alfred Meyer and Miss Scheffer, of Holland, received the alumnae in the parlor in Fiske Hall. This reception was followed by a luncheon in the Theatre, which was most attractively decorated with Christmas greens. During the luncheon, Miss Gill spoke of some of the present conditions at Barnard, and Mrs. Putnam, the former dean, followed her with amusing anecdotes and reminiscences of Barnard as it used to be. Miss Scheffer told the alumnae something about universities in Holland and what opportunities for study women have there, and she ended with a most amusing account of her impressions of New York.
