SMITH BARNARD BASKET BALL GAME

The game with Smith was played on Saturday, April 8, in the gymnasium of the Thompson Building. About one hundred and fifty Smith girls came to support their team. The visitors had never played men's rules, but this disadvantage was offset by their superior size and their advantage of steady practice. The latter showed in splendid passing and team work. The home team had had little preparation for the game, but the players were used to men's rules. Though Smith had the ball at their end of the field the greater part of the time, Barnard did splendid guarding. The game was won by Smith by a score of 8 to 6. The line-up was as follows:

Smith	Position	Barnard
Miss Cowing	Forward	Cecil Dorrian
Miss Delavergne	Forward	Helen Cooley
Miss Capin	Centre	Annie Fisher
Miss Loomis	Guard	Margie Hoffman
Miss Evans	Guard	Irma Seeligman

In the second half Abigail Talbot played centre in place of Annie Fisher. Three field goals were thrown for Smith by Miss Cowing, one by Miss Loomis; three for Barnard by Helen Cooley.

Before and during the game there was singing and cheering by the onlookers. The score was so close throughout that much interest and excitement were aroused.

After the game the two teams took luncheon at college.

Barnard was very glad that this game could be arranged and appreciated the willingness of Smith to play men's rules. It is hoped, now the precedent is set, that Barnard and Smith may meet at basket ball every spring.

The class of 1907 on April 14 elected the following girls for the "Mortar Board": Margaret H. Bailey, Evangeline Cole, Agnes E. Ernst, Jennie Hilborn, Irene Kohn and Mary Reardon.

Agnes E. Ernst and Juliet Stuart Points were elected to debate with 1906.

THE NEW PIANO.

The full sum needed to pay for the piano in the theatre has now been collected. It is wholly due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Alfred Meyer that this has been accomplished, and Barnard has one more reason for feeling grateful toward her.

U. S. M. A. ELECTIONS

On Monday, April 10, there was a meeting of the U. S. M. A. for the election of officers. The results of the election were as follows:

President—Mary Murtha, '06.
Vice-President—E. R. Peyser, T. C., '06.
Secretary—Margaret Bailey, '07.
Treasurer—Clarette Armstrong, '08.

SILVER BAY RALLY.

Those who came to the Silver Bay rally last Friday heard two very inspiring addresses. Miss Janet A. McCook presented the different sides of the conference very fairly. She emphasized the need of a good delegation this year that Barnard may stand well in the estimate of the other colleges. But what is more essential for the welfare of Barnard is that she should have strong girls, noted throughout their college course for their activity along social, literary and athletic lines, and these girls will be strengthened by going to Silver Bay. Every girl, even though she be less prominent in college life, can exert a great influence on those about her, and this will be stronger and truer if she has the stimulus of Silver Bay behind her.

Miss McCook also laid great stress on the importance of the influence of Silver Bay upon the individual. To those girls who are earnestly seeking the truth Silver Bay comes as a great light, clearing up their doubts; to those who are living an earnest Christian life Silver Bay is an added incentive and stimulus to right doing, and to those who go from purely selfish motives, caring little for the religious side of the conference, the addresses of the Christian workers and the whole spirit of the conference comes as a great revelation.

Agnes I. Durant emphasized the undergraduate point of view. Often girls in college hear in a dull sort of way that there is such a place as Silver Bay. They are not vitally interested and so fail to inquire further. Or, perhaps, they do learn something about it, but do not feel the necessity of going, either from a collegiate or a personal point of view, and so make no effort to go themselves or to interest others. Again, a girl fears that Silver Bay is much like an old fashioned camp meeting, with long prayers, repentant sinners "coming forward" and everybody immediately feeling the necessity of going out as foreign missionaries. That this is not the case can be seen from the posters and heard from the girls who have been there.

After the two addresses lemonade and cake were served. The Vassar "rocket" and the Wellesley and Baltimore singing cheers were given by former delegates, and then those who could remain gathered around the piano for singing college and class songs.

PRIZE STORY.

A prize of $5 is offered by the editors of "The Supplement" for the best short story handed in before May 20. Stories of college life will be given the preference, but good stories on any subject will receive just attention. Competitors are requested to use assumed names. The judges, Professor Brewster, Louise Peters and Belle Russell, reserve the right to withhold the prize if no one of the stories submitted seems worthy of it.

BARNARD UNION ELECTIONS.

The Barnard Union elections were posted on Wednesday, April 13, and were as follows: Graduate President—Emilie J. Hutchinson, '05.

President—Isabelle Russett, '06.
First Vice-President—Evangeline Cole, '07.
Second Vice-President—Agnes Miller, '08.
Secretary—Juliet Stuart Points, '07.
Treasurer—Clarette Armstrong, '08.
Graduate Editor—Frances Hope Purdon, '05.
Editor—A. Dorothy Brewster, '06.
Executive Committee—Hazel H. Plate, '06; Faith Chipperfield, '06; Edith Somborn, '06.

BARNARD UNION.

The regular meeting of the Barnard Union was held on Wednesday, April 12, at 3:30 p. m. in the theatre. The report of the chairman of the program committee was as follows:

Article 1.

Sec. 1. At the meeting of April 26 the program shall be a debate between 1906 and 1907.

Sec. 2. The debaters shall be members of the Union and shall be chosen by their respective classes.

Article 2.

Sec. 1. The meeting on May 10 shall be an open meeting.

Sec. 2. Professor William Lyon Phelps, of Yale University, has been invited to address the meeting.

In the absence of a quorum no action could be taken on the constitutional amendments, but the amendments to the by-laws, as printed in last week's issue of The Bulletin, were adopted.

It was decided that a special meeting of the Union be called as soon as possible at the discretion of the president to act upon the amendments and to elect those additional officers provided for by these amendments.

After the adjournment of the business session Mr. Richard Watson Gilder, editor of "The Century," gave a very interesting talk on "The Brownings: A Romance of the Nineteenth Century" to the members of the Union, their friends and the College at large. At the conclusion of the address an informal reception was held in honor of Mr. Gilder.

MR. GILDER'S LECTURE.

At the open meeting of the Barnard Union on Wednesday Mr. Richard Watson Gilder, editor of "The Century," gave a most interesting address on "The Brownings: A Romance of the Nineteenth Century." Mr. Gilder began his talk by a few remarks on the recently proposed edition of the "Sonnets from the Portuguese," together with perhaps six of Mrs. Browning's lyric poems and the three principal poems of Browning, which were inspired by his wife, namely, "One Word More," "Prospice" and "The Ring and the Book."

MONDAY, APRIL 10.

The spring of the year is always attended at college by great excitement—the excitement of elections. We all talk of probabilities for weeks, and hang breathlessly upon the announcement of the results, when that event takes place. Considering this universal interest, it seems strange indeed that there is so little thoughtful, intelligent voting. Our observation has led us to believe that the three strongest motives in voting are these:—The personal, the commiserative, and the uninterested. The first of these is surely the one by which we are most easily led, and which is the hardest to combat. How easy it is to vote for a girl who is our friend, without considering her relative fitness for the office, simply because we should like her to have the honor. It is almost instinctive to vote thus. The second motive is perhaps not so operative, but still we have known cases where it decided a vote. It seems rather childish, does it not, to vote for a girl because one is sorry she was disappointed in regard to another office. It not infrequently happens that the girl is fitted for the office, but this oftentimes frankly acknowledged motive is surely not one which it would be well to act upon repeatedly. We have said there were three motives, but the third is most properly called no motive at all. With no personal or commiserative interest in the candidates, many girls are totally indifferent as to the result, and they cast their ballots for that candidate who is receiving the votes of their neighbors. We cannot too strongly condemn this practice, for such a lack of general interest means a lack of college spirit. It is fortunate, indeed, that the number of girls who vote after this fashion is not large.

In a meeting where the first motive is dominant, there is honor in election, though to us it seems not of the highest kind. But when either of the others is influential—and we have known this to happen—election can mean nothing of which a girl may be rightly proud.

Yet college offices should mean a great deal, and they can only do so when the girls realize that they have been chosen from among their fellows because of their ability and trustworthiness. This, we feel, can come to pass only when the whole college think.

PRIZES FOR ECONOMIC ESSAYS.

Second Year.

In order to arouse an interest in the study of topics relating to commerce and industry and to stimulate an examination of the value of college training for business men, a committee, composed of Professor J. Laurence Laughlin, University of Chicago, chairman; Professor J. B. Clark, Columbia University; Professor Henry C. Adams, University of Michigan; Horace White, Esq., New York City, and Hon. Carroll D. Wright, Clark College, have been enabled, through the generosity of Messrs. Hart, Schaffner and Marx, of Chicago, to offer again in 1906 four prizes for the best studies on any one of the following subjects:

1. To what extent, and by what administrative body, should the public attempt to control railway rates in interstate commerce?
2. A just and practicable method of taxing railway property.
3. Will the present policy of the labor unions in dealing with non-union men and the "closed shop" further the interests of the workingmen?
4. Should ship subsidies be offered by the government of the United States?
5. An examination into the economic causes of large fortunes in this country.
6. The influence of credit on the level of prices.
7. The cattle industry in relation to the ranchman, feeder, packer, railway and consumer.
8. Should the government seek to control or regulate the use of mines of coal, iron or other raw materials whose supply may become the subject of monopoly?
9. What provision can be made for workingmen to avoid the economic insecurity said to accompany the modern wage system?

A first prize of $1,000 and a second prize of $500, in cash, are offered for the best studies presented by Class A, composed exclusively of all persons who have received the bachelor's degree from an American college in 1894, or thereafter, and a first prize of $300 and a second prize of $150, in cash, are offered for the best studies presented by Class B, composed of persons who, at the time the papers are

NEW YORK
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED

Mr. Gilder spoke from personal acquaintance with Browning, whom he had met many times, both in England and in America. He spoke of Browning's wonderful conversational powers, his ease of expression and his rugged force of words. Mr. Gilder contrasted the vigorous, impetuous manner of speech of Browning with the ethereal, exquisite quality of Stevenson's fluent conversation, Stevenson being also a personal friend of Mr. Gilder.

The marriage of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett has been rightly called the most perfect union of poetry and romance in the history of English literature. Before the two had met Miss Barrett had already become a poet of prominence, and her work had received enthusiastic appreciation by Robert Browning. Miss Barrett was greatly attracted by Browning's criticism of her poems, and letters passed between her and Mr. Kenyon, who was also a friend of Browning, regarding the latter's genius. Mr. Kenyon tried many times to effect a meeting between the two, but without success, as Miss Barrett had shrank from the personal interview. Mr. Kenyon sent to Browning the then newly published poem, entitled "~~Lady Geraldine's Courtship~~," which impressed Browning so deeply that he wrote to Miss Barrett in keen appreciation of it. This was the beginning of the correspondence between the two poets which laid the foundations of a friendship that culminated in their marriage in 1846.

Mr. Gilder spoke briefly of the poems of Browning which were addressed to Mrs. Browning, stating that "One Word More" was the only poem written directly to Mrs. Browning during her lifetime. In "The Ring and the Book" Mrs. Browning's influence is very noticeable, as also in "Prospice." Regarding "My Star," it is not definitely known whether the poem was a personal tribute to Mrs. Browning, although it is usually supposed that such is the case.

Mr. Gilder closed his address by speaking of "The Sonnets from the Portuguese," which are regarded as the most beautiful love sonnets since Shakespeare.

sent in, are undergraduates of any American college. No one in Class A may compete in Class B, but any one in Class B may compete in Class A. The committee reserves to itself the right to award the two prizes of $1,000 and $500 to undergraduates, if the merits of the papers demand it.

The ownership of the copyright of successful studies will vest in the donors, and it is expected that, without precluding the use of these papers as theses for higher degrees, they will cause them to be issued in some permanent form.

Competitors are advised that the studies should be thorough, expressed in good English and not needlessly expanded. They should be inscribed with an assumed name, the year when the bachelor's degree was received and the institution which conferred the degree, or in which he is studying, and accompanied by a sealed envelope giving the real name and address of the competitor. The papers should be sent on or before June 1, 1906, to J. Lawrence Laughlin, Esq., University of Chicago, box 145, Faculty Exchange, Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Cornelius Rubner, the newly appointed professor of music at Columbia, has just completed a cantata on which he has been busy for several months. The new production has been given to the Columbia chorus for rehearsal and will be presented to the public at a concert in the Columbia gymnasium next month. The words for the cantata were written by W. F. J. Piel, '05, College.
