REPORT OF MISS SAUNDERS' VISIT.

Miss Una M. Saunders, traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, addressed the college on Wednesday. She described in a general way the World's Federation and what it has accomplished, and gave a very interesting account of the work among the students in India. A temporary office in the Alumnae Room was made for her on Wednesday and Thursday and many girls had an opportunity to talk to her and gain a little of her burning enthusiasm. Thursday noon she spoke to the Mission Study Classes. After a description of the Parsees, that most individual and remarkable nation of India, and what is being done among them, she dwelt for a few minutes on mission study and the place that it should hold in true culture.

Y. W. C. A. SECRETARY.

One of the best results for Barnard of the interest in the Nashville Convention is our part-time secretary. Miss Van Wagnen graduated from Bryn Mawr in 1904, where she was active in Christian Association work. She is to be here at Barnard on Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 11 to 3 in the Exchange, where she will have her office for the present. It is hoped that the girls will go in there often to see her. They will surely appreciate what it is to have some one to help us in our work.

Y. W. C. A. ELECTIONS.

The results of the Christian Association elections for 1906-07 are as follows: President, Sophie P. Woodman, '07; vice-president, Agnes Miller, '08, recording secretary, Annie G. Turnbull, '08, corresponding secretary, May Ingalls, '09, treasurer, Jennie Wylie, '09.

C. S. M. A.

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Gielow gave a most interesting talk to the C. S. M. A. on the work of her Association among the poor, illiterate, destitute mountaineers of North Carolina and Tennessee. These people have shown themselves so quick and ready to respond to every little thing that is done for them that surely the work she made a plea for is a very worthy one. Archdeacon Handy gave a further account of one of the church schools, that of Vale Crucis, for the mountain girls and boys, with which he is connected. Mr. Atkins, of the General Seminary, who has also worked in that school, urged very strongly his desire that three scholarships of $10 each should be established by the Columbia Teachers' College and Barnard Chapters. Mrs. Gielow added a few words to this proposition and closed the meeting by singing one of the old plantation songs that her mammy used to sing to her.

BARNARD UNION.

DEBATING SECTION.

The subject of the debate on March 21 was, Resolved, That both French and German shall be prescribed for the B.A. degree. The speakers in affirmative were Edith Seguire, '09, Turnbull, '09; those on the negative were Laura Connor, '09, and Helen Hoyt, '09. Turnbull and Helen Hoyt had the reputation of the negative side won. Senta Hermann said a few words about the debate, that it was one of the most interesting and well planned held this year by the Barnard Union, and that the freshmen showed great interest in the forensic line.

TEACHERS COLLEGE NOTES.

A new bi-monthly supplement to the Teachers College Record is to be devoted to the interests of the alumni, who now represent 13 classes, with a total of 1,000 members settled in 41 States and territories. One-third of these are school superintendents, principals, or supervisors, or instructors in normal or training schools. At least three are presidents, and three deans of colleges. More than twenty are professors in universities, and as many in colleges. At the new College for Teachers, at the University of Cincinnati, the dean and two other professors and four other members of the staff are graduates of Teachers College. Twenty graduates of the department of Kindergarten Training are Kindergarten supervisors or instructors in colleges or normal school departments of education.

CONCERT.

Through the kindness of Mr. Edward J. de Coppet, Auxiliary No. 16 and Junior Auxiliary No. 10, Stony Wold Sanitarium, are enabled to announce a concert of chamber music by the Flonzaley String Quartette, at Mendelssohn Hall, 113 West Fortieth street, on Wednesday evening, March 28, at half-past eight o'clock.

The quartette consists of the following artists: Messrs. Alfred Pochon, Adolfo Betti, Ugo Ara and Iwan d'Archambeau. This will be their last public appearance this season. THE GREEK GAMES.

The annual celebration of the Greek games between the freshmen and sophomores took place on Friday, March 23, and was accompanied by the usual enthusiasm and rivalry. The games were held in the theatre, the freshmen marching in first, followed by the sophomores, who bore at the head of their procession a beautiful white flag with their mascot, the scarab, emblazoned thereon. Both classes sang marching songs appropriate to the occasion.

After the drawing of the lots, the first event was the epic poetry contest. The judges, Miss Hirst, Miss Ball and Miss Hubbard made the first award to Florence Wolff '08, the second to Lilian Classon '09, and the third to Marguerite Strauss '08. Places counted 5, 3 and 1 point, respectively.

The throwing of the quoits came next. Here 1908 again took first place, as it did in all the following events also, Pauline Steinberg '08 scoring 13 points, Julia Tiffany '09 was second, and Comfort Tiffany, '09, third.

The high jumping was one of the most exciting features of the afternoon, as both classes produced some excellent athletes in this line. The sophomores, however, carried off all the honors, and as each one was too modest to claim first place, their laurels were awarded them together. The winners were Edith Ferns, Eleanor Hunsdon and Marion Wilson.

In the broad jump Eleanor Hunsdon, '08, took first place, and was followed by Fanny Rosenfelder, '09, second, and Helinda Smithers, '09, third.

When the wrestling was under way, the freshmen appeared for some time to have much the better of the sophomores, as each contestant from the latter class lost her place in succession. However, 1909 finally was compelled to take second and third place once more, while first place was given to Helmina Jeidell '08.

After such close and exciting competition, a potato race was something of a come-down, and seemed interminably long. The winners of the event were Annie Turnbull '08 and Edith Seguire '09. When the regular events were over, the tug of war took place, and, although neither side actually succeeded in dragging the other over its boundary line, the freshmen seemed much stronger, and consequently received 6 out of the 9 points that the event counted.

The umpires, Elsa Alsberg '02, Helen Cooley '05, and Edith Handy '05, then announced the final results as follows: 1908 won by a score of 38 to 25, and was accordingly awarded the silver cup presented by Miss Alsberg. 1909, however, generally received second and third place, and so had more winners in the events than 1908.

The afternoon ended with the serving of nectar and ambrosia, otherwise known as cake and lemonade. After the refreshments, many of the girls remained for some time singing college songs and cheering.

EXCHANGE.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28, 1906.

There has been some questioning as to the reasons for changing the time of publication of the BULLETIN. In the first place, Monday is a particularly inconvenient day. For one thing, most college events of any interest or importance happen late in the week, so that there is very little time to "write them up" and get them to the printers' in time for the next issue. Thus the editors must choose between ignoring many such things altogether and printing "stale" reviews. Again, there is inconvenience from the purely business standpoint. Since the recent "strike" troubles among printers, they work only three hours on Saturdays, so that the work of pasting up the dummy must sometimes be delayed.

By publishing on Wednesday, these difficulties are nicely obviated. There is plenty of time to collect material; the printers do not have to do our work on their shortest day, and besides all this, the proof-reading can be done in the Bulletin Room, because there is ample time to send the copy here, get it in proper shape, return it to the printers, and get out the paper. Under the old rule, some one each week had to give up a Saturday morning to proof-reading at the printers' office.

Some time ago we had occasion to write of the annoyance caused by the talking in the Reading Room. Very recently it was somewhat unpleasantly brought to our notice that instructors are being greatly annoyed by girls talking in class. Far would it be from us to decry the value of conversation. At times, indeed, it is very useful, but in class it is scarcely in its proper place. The monologue of the instructor, or, at the least, a recitative form of discourse, is certainly more fitting than. Yet there are those, and they are unfortunately not few, who imagine that a lecture room is a place especially provided by the college, where one may converse pleasantly with one's dearest friends. If this idea is so fixed in their minds that they can not get rid of it, they should at least talk in tones somewhat lower than the instructor's. We do not expect absolute silence in class on the part of the students, of course—that would be absurd, and a matter of primary school days. But we do expect, and feel that we have a right to ask for a decent regard for the commonplaces of good breeding and everyday politeness.

If a student talks in a class in such a way as to disturb the lectures, she is not showing this politeness. In class meetings and similar affairs, one person holds the floor while the others remain silent. Would it not be just as well to show to instructors the same courtesy which is extended to fellow-students?

College spirit and college loyalty are clearly cant phrases in Barnard. A little while ago it seemed there was actually some real interest in the temporary dormitory scheme, and that the undergraduates were actually going to do something for the good of the college. But subsequent facts have proved that the present students of Barnard are capable of lip service only to their Alma Mater. In full Undergraduate meeting it was voted that each student be responsible for at least $2, the sum thus made up to be given to the Dormitory Fund; and a committee was promptly appointed to collect the same. What has been the result? We might almost say nothing. Does the college know what this means? It means not only a lack of college spirit, not only the complete absence of college loyalty, not only a shocking exhibition of selfishness, but it means that the majority of Barnard students are dishonorable. Every member of the Undergraduate Association is bound by the actions of that body. It is no longer a question of personal opinion, nor is it a question of personal gain. Every girl in Barnard is bound in honor, and the association itself is pledged for a certain amount of money, and the Alumnae are depending on it.

The Alumnae work, spend their time and money to give something to Barnard from which they derive no profit. But the Undergraduate, indeed, must have a return for her paltry $2, or else she does not give it. "I do not believe in the temporary dormitory scheme," says one; or, "I am not interested in it," protests another. Those things should have been said in undergraduate meeting. The time for them is past now, and the only valid excuse for not paying the $2 is that you haven't got it, and can't get it.

To the Editor of THE BULLETIN:

It was with great surprise that I read in the published report of the Executive Committee of the Undergraduate Association that the control of the Field Day arrangements is to be vested this year in a committee appointed at large from the Undergraduate Association instead of in the officers of the Athletic Association, as was the case last year. This procedure seems to me to be a most unwise move for several reasons. I think that it stands to reason that if a girl does not take enough interest in athletics to belong to the Athletic Association tion she would not make a very efficient member of a committee whose chief function is to plan for and manage a series of athletic events; and hence it seems most wise to leave the charge of such arrangements with that body which, in the nature of things, is best fitted to take charge of them. Since all the active members of the Athletic Association are members of the Undergraduate Association, I see no unfairness to the undergraduates as a whole, in giving the charge of Field Day to that group in their number most fitted to act in such a capacity.

TIFFANY & Co.

FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK

I believe that a number of the undergraduates who voted for the acceptance of the report of the Executive Committee did so under the impression that the committee mentioned was simply to take charge of the anniversary celebration in memory of Frederick Barnard, and that the charge of the athletic part of the celebration was to remain with the Athletic Association, as formerly. In view of this fact I should like to suggest that the report be reconsidered, if possible.

Yours very sincerely,

EDITH B. HANDY, 1905.
