Assembly Approves '53 Appropriations

Part of the Undergraduate Association budget for the year was submitted for approval to the Representative Assembly, at its first meeting Wednesday, by Undergraduate Treasurer Hannah Solomon '55.

Many allocations were unchanged from last year's budget including $100 to charity, $200 for the conference fund, and $75 for the Political Council.

In some cases, modifications were felt necessary. The proctors suffered a five dollars cut since much of their last year's funds remain.

Although Miss Solomon suggested that the grant to the Wednesday teas be reduced $25 because of their sizeable surplus last year, it was decided that, with exam teas again being given, such an action was unadvisable. One hundred and seventy-five dollars were appropriated for the teas.

The $900 allocation to Focus gave rise to suggestions that the sum be increased. However, since the magazine did not itself seek further financial help, the original sum was approved.

The large surplus accumulated by the Social Committee from the success of last year's Annex dances stimulated a motion to lower the usual grant. This motion was dismissed in favor of the proposed grant of $40. Consideration of allowances to Mortarboard and Wigs and Cues was held over to the next meeting.

The sections of Undergraduate Budget for 1953-54 as passed Wednesday by Representative Assembly is as follows:

Organization	Amount
Charity	$100.00
Clerical Assistant	100.00
Community Service	10.00
Conference Fund	200.00
Curriculum Committee	10.00
Election Fund	20.00
Eligibility Committee	15.00
Honor Board	20.00
Insurance	37.40
Interfaith	10.00
Miscellaneous	45.00
Political Committee	75.00
Proctors	110.00
Undergraduate Office	45.00
Vocational Committee	45.00
Weekly Teas	175.00
Athletic Association	230.00
Athletic Association Camp	250.00
Class of 1957	60.00
Debate Council	225.00
Focus	900.00
Social Committee	40.00

The budget is subject to final approval and further change.

Dorms Hold First Meeting

Ruth Pierson, President of the Resident Halls, opened the first house meeting of the semester by asking dormitory students to "Try in every possible way to rely on the honor system." In keeping with this policy the administration is discontinuing room inspections and fine lists for meetings.

Marguerite Velte, first vice-president, and Kit Campbell, second vice president, spoke on the work system and signing out system under the new honor code.

Joanne Slater, residence halls social chairman, outlined the dormitories' social program for the year. There will be teas every Friday from 4 to 5 P.M. Movies are also scheduled for Friday nights in the game room. Also included in the program are varied musicals which will be held on Sunday evenings. The first Residence Halls Open House is programmed for October 16.

BC Alters Freshman Requisition

"Man and His World," a new course required for freshmen, will replace the five-year-old Freshman Modern Living course, beginning this year. The Modern Living course, a combination of hygiene and sociology, will continue to be offered to transfer students.

The new course serves as a college orientation program, including a discussion of the value of the liberal art education and emphasizing the student, and her college and world environment, as well as an introduction to the various social sciences.

"Man and His World" will feature ten sections each taught by one instructor for the entire semester and consisting of both lecture and discussion hours. Eight sections are taught by members of the Anthropology, Religion, English, Sociology and Philosophy departments, and two sections are taught by a special lecturer on Personal Relations. Each section has the same framework but with different subject emphasis.

This course is "founded on the belief that there should be a place early in a liberal education for quiet consideration of the many problems of personal and social adjustment that press . . . upon us . . ." An effort will be made to "help students understand themselves, their associates and the social groups . . . in the world in which they live."

Last spring, President Millicent C. McIntosh met with Edith Tannenbaum, freshman president, and a group of freshman students to discuss improvements of the Modern Living course. The incoming freshmen now must pass a Hygiene examination as this topic will be omitted from the new course. If freshmen do not pass the test the first time they are given a hygiene text and are allowed to take the test again. If they do not succeed in passing it a second time they must take the Modern Living course offered to transfers.

Javits Addresses Interfaith Meeting

The Honorable Jacob K. Javits will be guest speaker at the opening meeting and reception of the Earl Hall Interfaith Society, on Wednesday, October 7 at 4 p.m. The subject of his talk will be "Interfaith in the Modern World."

Congressman Javits, Congressional Representative from New York's 21st district, is a native of New York. His political career began in 1946 when he was elected to the 80th Congress with the support of both the Republican and Liberal parties.

Reorganization Sweeps BC Faculty, Personnel

Barnard Welcomes Returning Faculty

By Gloria Poetto

Eight members of the faculty have returned to Barnard from leaves of absence during which time they did extensive research and traveling.

John Held, Associate Professor of the Fine Arts department did research on 17th Century Flemish drawings and also studied in Brussels, the Netherlands and Germany under a Fulbright Grant and Guggenheim Fellowship. He gathered material in preparation for two books, one on Jordaens, and the other on Van Dyck. Professor John Moore of the Zoology department acted in the capacity of visiting professor at the University of Sydney in Australia under a Fulbright Scholarship. He devoted his time to the study of variations in the populations of frogs in different parts of the world and of the factors making for the evolution of new species of frogs. Professor Rene Albrecht Carre of the History department, who was awarded the first Faculty Research Fund Grant, made a study in France of the operation and collapse of the state system of Europe between the two World Wars. Sidney A. Burrell, Assistant Professor of History, did research at Princeton University last year on the Federal Union as a background for the United Nations. Miss Helen M. Carlson, Associate in French, was awarded a fellowship by the American Association of University Women and a Fulbright scholarship for a study of "15th Century roots of totalitarian theory" at libraries in Paris and Brussels. Florrie Holz-wasser, Professor of Geology, attended the geological conference in Algiers last year and did extensive traveling. John Kouwenhoven, Professor of English, took a leave of absence last year to prepare a pictorial history of New York for the dual purpose of the celebration of New York's Tri-centennial and Columbia University's Bicentennial Anniversary. Edward J. King, Associate Professor of Chemistry, is also returning to Barnard this year after a year of research.

Barnard's Administrative Staff Undergoes Reorganization; Takes On New Duties

By Miriam Dressler

A reorganization of Barnard's administrative staff, aimed at freeing President Millicent McIntosh for policy planning, travel, and fund-raising by relieving her of many of her lesser responsibilities, has resulted in many changes of title, function and personnel for the new academic year.

Thomas P. Peardon, Professor of Government and Dean of Faculty, will have responsibility for all matters of instruction and for the Registrar's Office and the Library. He will guide the activities of the Committee on Instruction, formerly supervised by Dean McGuire, the Committee on Honors, the Committee to Assign Space and Hours, and the Committee on the Library.

LUISA BANTI

BC Appoints New Faculty

Sixteen new members have been appointed to the faculty and teaching staff at Barnard College, including the first foreign scholar to teach here under the terms of the Virginia C. Gildersleeve Lecture Fund. Two Barnard seniors have also received appointments.

Miss Luisa Banti, Professor of Etruscology at the University of Florence, Italy, has been appointed visiting professor of arts and archaeology and will teach classical civilization courses. She is the first recipient of the Gildersleeve Lecture Fund established as a tribute to former Dean Gildersleeve by the Barnard Associate Alumnae in order to bring outstanding scholars from foreign countries to lecture at Barnard.

Barnard Welcomes Students From Many Foreign Nations

Continuing its traditional policy of fostering an international representation amongst its student body, Barnard College has once again enrolled foreign students who this year represent fourteen nations.

Advisor to the foreign students, Miss Dorothy Fox, has established a carefully planned program whereby the students are made to feel as much at home as possible by integrating them into the dorm life of Barnard and acquainting them with all the various aspects and advantages of city life. The students receive a prior welcome from their Barnard "sponsors" while still in their home country. Once here, they receive personal interviews by Miss Fox who takes care of any problems that may arise, whether they concern visas, job interviews, or personal matters. A special bulletin board keeps the students in touch with current goings on about town.

Due to Alumnae and friends of Barnard College who contribute funds, the students are able to visit Washington, Boston, and Williamsburg, and can observe our government in action, and can obtain more accurate impressions of life in the United States. The program thereby, not only fosters a close relationship and understanding between American and foreign students, but also helps to dispell misunderstandings and prejudices that may exist.

Columbia U's Anniversary Starts in '54

Three convocations, five major conferences, exhibits and broadcasts will highlight the year round celebration beginning in January, 1954, which will mark the 200th anniversary of the founding of Columbia University. The scholarly programs are all designed to advance the bicentennial theme which is "Man's Right to Knowledge and the Free Use Thereof." The principal idea behind this theme is the need in this modern age to reassert our belief in free expression and free inquiry.

Columbia has invited institutions of higher learning including colleges, universities, libraries, museums and learned societies to join with it in promoting the central theme during the bicentennial year. As of August 26, 128 foreign and 316 domestic institutions announced their willingness to participate.

Each of the three convocations will develop the theme through two principal speakers. The first convocation on January 11 will hear Professor Mark Van Doren and President Grayson L. Kirk deliver addresses in Riverside Church.

Students of Barnard, Columbia and other University members will take an active part in the proceedings.

Barnard Bulletin

Welcome '57

Barnard College in opening its sixty-fifth year and in welcoming its large freshman class seems to be in the position of the housewife who must receive unexpected guests into her untidy house. We apologize for the dirt, debris, and inconvenience and we hope that the new class will not think we are always "sloppy housewives."

But the freshman class will be more than compensated for the half-finished school by the exciting events and interesting experiences which lie ahead in the next four years. They enter our Columbia University community at a time when hectic activity may be found on both sides of Broadway to celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the founding of Columbia. The theme of the celebration, "Man's Right to Knowledge and the Free Use Thereof," is a vital one, particularly important today in the light of recent controversies over academic freedom, and we know that their first year at college will be all the more valuable because of it.

Barnard will present many new challenges. New students will flex their intellectual muscles and discover the strength of their mind and the weaknesses of their knowledge. But each challenge successfully met will build a stronger, more confident individual, until the unsure, untried freshman of today becomes the aware, future senior of 1957. Perhaps the conditions under which they will have to learn for the first few weeks of the semester will be their first "trial by fire" but we hope that they may look back on this nomadic existence as their most serious problem.

It is always the custom of the college newspaper to welcome the new class with bright forecasts of all that the freshman will gain from the school. We hope that the class is already aware of the potentialities which Barnard offers them and that these are the reasons that brought them here. By taking advantage of these opportunities, each freshman can build a fine foundation for a satisfying, useful life after college.

Appoint News Editor

The Editorial Board of the Barnard BULLETIN takes pleasure in announcing the appointment of Joyce Shimkin as News Editor. Miss Shimkin, a junior, was a member of the News Board and has been on the staff of the newspaper since her freshman year.

Barnard Hails Return Of Prof. Kouwenhoven

English Department Chairman Travels, Writes Book During Leave of Absence

By Barbara Lyons

Returning to Barnard after a leave of absence, Professor John A. Kouwenhoven, Chairman of the English Department, will see the publication of his third book, "The Columbia Historical Portrait of New York" on November 9. Published by Doubleday, the history celebrates the tricentennial of New York City and the bicentennial of Columbia University.

Picture History

Beginning with the earliest Dutch settlers, the volume traces the development of New York City from its discovery to the present day in photographs, lithographs, old maps and old advertisements. Professor Kouwenhoven handles the text in two ways: A short commentary runs across the top of each page, describing the attitude of the period portrayed in pictures below as well as a thorough treatment of the period in captions under the pictures.

As the subtitle, "An Essay in Graphic History," indicates, the book is outstanding in the selection and number of the pictures as well as the integration of the text with the illustrations. Printed on sheet-fed gravure, the book features 900 black and white illustrations and 17 plates in full color, some of which have never been reproduced before. The book will sell for $21.00 after publication and for $18.00 for orders made before publication. Doubleday, however, will turn over all the profits to Columbia as its gesture toward the Bicentennial.

Other Books
Professor Kouwenhoven is also the author of "Adventures of America 1857-1900," and "Made in America: The Arts in Modern Civilization."

When the book was completed, Professor and Mrs. Kouwenhoven with their two children, Ann, age 16 and Gerrit age 14, left on the North Cape Cruise of the Corona. Their itinerary included Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Scotland and England. Professor Kouwenhoven was most impressed by Norway where he observed the progress made by the Norwegians in forestry and the electrification of industry. For the most part, however, the Professor added, the Cruise was a joy ride.

Interest in Forestry

As a trustee of the Vermont Forest and Farmland Foundation, Dr. Kouwenhoven is very much interested in the problems of forestry. In Vermont where the family retired before the beginning of college, he has in the past several years, been active in publicizing forestry and proper pasture techniques.

Professor Kouwenhoven will continue to write for Harpers Magazine his column, "Personal and Otherwise" which he discontinued for six months while he was working on the book. Since coming to Barnard, he has been a contributing editor of Harpers Magazine, and from 1941 to 1946 he was assistant, associate and managing editor of the magazine.

Reconstruction Chaos Greet B. C. Students

By Marcia Rubenstein

The renovation of Milbank is providing Barnard girls with unusual opportunities for proving their staunchness and courage. Passing pedestrians, children at play, and Columbia men are daily presented with the spectacle of girls precariously threading their way through heaps of bricks, clambering over loose boards, and dodging swinging scaffolds, but all in anticipation of a modern and better Milbank Hall.

Alumna Architect

Barnard alumna Elaine Pepper '24 is in charge of the interior decorating, which includes choosing furnishings and material and deciding on the color schemes. She also correlates the architects' designs with the needs of the faculty and the administration. Miss Pepper was the interior decorator of the United Nations General Assembly building at Lake Success.

The blueprints for the construction were drawn up by the firm of Wyeth and King. Mr. Frederic Rhinelander King, aside from being the College's architectural consultant, is a member of the board of trustees. The architects have planned the renovation in line with present-day teaching methods, by dividing several of the large lecture rooms to provide for smaller classrooms and more seminar rooms.

Despite the collection of chairs and desks strewn over its front porch, Milbank has a bright new appearance due to the installation of modern bronze doors, made possible by a bequest from the late Lilyan Stokes Darlington, Barnard '24. The front lobby has been completely reconstructed and redecorated by a gift from the Barnard College Club of New York.

The building is being invaded by crews of cheerful painters, who are hard at work rejuvenating the 56-year-old building with coats of pink, light green, and tan. One painter, working off in a corner by himself, was heard to muse as he mixed his colors, "I'm going to start me a college some day, but I wish I was 16 again."

Interior Changes

Only the brick exterior of the 150-room building will be unchanged when work is completed in a few weeks. New floors, lighting, wiring, plumbing, heating, and ventilation are being installed as well as a self-service elevator and enclosures around stairways to conform to present-day building codes and fire regulations. Additional space will be cleared in the building by the moving of the English department to new quarters on the fourth floor of Barnard Hall.

The renovation of the Hall, which in 1897 housed the entire college including classrooms, a dormitory, dining facilities, and living quarters for the Dean, will cost over one million dollars. This excludes the campaign presently under way to raise $150,000 for the Minor Latham Drama Workshop, which is planned for the Brinckerhoff wing of Milbank.

With the coming of the fall season the attention of Barnard girls has wandered from the country, the beach, and work to the more-intellectual New York scene. Fall brings with it the downtown world of culture and entertainment.

Certainly not the least of the events which enlivens the entertainment scene this fall was the arrival of the Sadler's Wells Ballet. The English company greeted America not only with dancers, but as the customs list stated, with "one big Bacchus, god of wines, and one small Bacchus," for the ballet Sylvia. On the list also, were "five crooks" for "Daphnis and Chloe" and such items as hunting horns, "four sets of knitting needles and genuine wool" (for "Sleeping Beauty") and "one Cupid in full face, one Cupid in profile" for their production of "Sylvia." And these are only some of the 67,000 articles mentioned!

For those who have not yet seen the company in action, there is still an opportunity. The ballet will run through October 11. Although it is almost impossible to get seats, standing room is available. Foot weary Barnardites may be frightened of the prospect of standing for three hours, but Sadler's Wells is worth the effort. For $2.40 you can be in the orchestra, close enough to see the expressions on the faces of the performers. If your feet hurt too much, you can always take off your shoes.

City Center

Both ballet and drama enthusiasts who frequent the City Center should be glad to note that another of the arts will take a prominent place there. On September 29, the Center opened a newly constructed gallery for the exhibition of contemporary painting. The gallery will be free to the public from 1-6 p.m. every day except matinee days, and will be open during performances to serve as an intermission room.

In the field of music there are unlimited opportunities. Among the less well known, but greatly exciting features is the Musicians Guild series of chamber music concerts. The Guild has been operating for the past seven seasons, and presents both classic and contemporary music. Although the series consists of four concerts, tickets can be bought for just one performance. Prices run from $1.20 to $3.00. The first concert will be given December 7 and will be followed by performances at the beginning of January, February, and March.

Music Scholarships

As an aside to musicians at Barnard College, there are various scholarship opportunities open. The New York College of Music, located on East 85th Street, announces violin and violoncello scholarships open to students of high school and college age. Contestants chosen will study with Arvet Kurtz, director of the College of Music, or with Maurice Eisenberg. Applicants will be auditioned at the College of Music on Saturday, October 10. Anyone interested may call REgent 7-5751 for an audition appointment.

The Edgar M. Leventritt Foundation is also announcing a competition, open to pianists and violinists between the ages of 17 and 25. The award includes an appearance with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra and other major orchestras. Applications must be filed by December 31, 1953. Blanks may be obtained at leading music schools or by writing to the Edgar M. Leventritt Foundation, Inc., 30 Broad Street, New York 4., New York.

Milbank Face Lift

The entrance to the basement of Milbank Hall, on 120th Street. Construction, except for the theater, will probably be finished by December, by which time all classes will have returned to Milbank.

Staff Changes Political Group

The College Activities Office, formerly the Student Affairs Office, has assumed new duties along with its new title, by absorbing the Special Events division of the Public Relations Office. Supervision of all non-academic extracurricular events sponsored either by students, faculty, alumnae or staff, will proceed through this office. Miss Helen Wright who served last year as House Supervisor in the Barnard Residence Halls, will head the new office.

The New House Supervisor is the Residence Halls is Mrs. York, a graduate of Boston University, who, for the last four years has had charge of buildings and services for the academic buildings at Barnard.

Other major personnel additions are Mrs. Helen Law who succeeds the late Mrs. Elinore Mullen as executive secretary, and Miss Helen M. McCann who assumes the post of director of Admissions held until last July by Miss Marian W. Smith.

Mrs. Law, a graduate of the College of New Rochelle, joined the Barnard staff in September, 1952, as secretary to President McIntosh. A graduate of Barnard, Miss McCann has been the assistant to the director of Admissions since December 1951.

Mrs. Diane Stewart, assistant to the director of College Activities, succeeds Mrs. Joan Wettingfeld who is assistant to the executive secretary of the Alumnae Association. Miss Joyce Hunt is now secretary to Miss Wright. Miss Frances J. Maisch is the new Manager of Services and Purchases, and Mr. John Kiessling is now Maintenance Superintendent.

Barnard Camp Welcomes BC Opens Season Into Assembly

The Political Assembly of Columbia University will begin its second year on October 6 with an organizational meeting to be held at 4 p.m. in 212 Hamilton Hall. Leonard Moche '54, president of the Assembly, announced that for the first time since it was begun last February the Assembly will welcome into membership Barnard students.

The Political Assembly is composed of two parties, a Conservative Party led by Gabriel Pelathy '55 and a Whig Party headed by Peter Dubow '55. Two other parties are anticipated, a group left of the Whigs and one right of the Conservatives.

After the organizational part of the meeting the group will break up into party caucuses. New members need not determine the party of their political preference until the next meeting, October 21, when a speaker is planned.

A Model Senate, patterned after the Model United Nations General Assemblies will be inaugurated December 20 by the Assembly. Forty-eight schools have been invited to send two delegates who will assume the political persuasions of the senators from a particular state for the four-day conference. Committee meetings and floor discussions are scheduled.

McIntosh Addresses Opening Thursday Noontime Gathering

President Millicent C. McIntosh will speak to the first Thursday Noon Meeting in the College Parlor, October 8, on the question, "Are Moral Values Absolute?" Students attending this opening meeting, at which box lunches will be served, are invited as guests of the college.

Those wishing to attend the meeting, should fill out application blank which may be obtained from Mrs. Bridges or Miss Stewart of the Residence Halls. Blanks should be returned by noon, Wednesday, October 8.

The purpose of the Noon Meetings is to offer a meeting place for general discussion of religious, moral and ethical problems.

Students Form Halley Group

A group of students interested in working for the election of Rudolph Halley as Mayor of New York have formed an organization called Independents for Halley. Barnard students are wanted to work as fund raisers, block captains, research writers for speeches or on the sound tracks. Those interested should contact Larry Levinson '55L in Room 517 Furnald Hall.

BC Students Study in France

Two Barnard students sailed for Europe, in September to spend their Junior Year in France. The students, Judith Callaway, and Joan M. Goldstein, are part of a group of 81 men and women from 30 American colleges and universities who are enrolled in the plan under the administration of Sweet Briar College. On arrival in France the students travelled to Tours, where they spent six weeks in intensive language study.

When you smoke Chesterfield it's so satisfying to know that you are getting the one cigarette that's low in nicotine, highest in quality.

A fact proved by chemical analyses of the country's six leading cigarette brands.

And it's so satisfying to know that a doctor reports no adverse effects to the nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.

The doctor's report is part of a program supervised by a responsible independent research laboratory and is based on thorough bi-monthly examinations of a group of Chesterfield smokers over a period of a year and a half.

Chesterfield is best for me—my steady smoke for 7 years.
