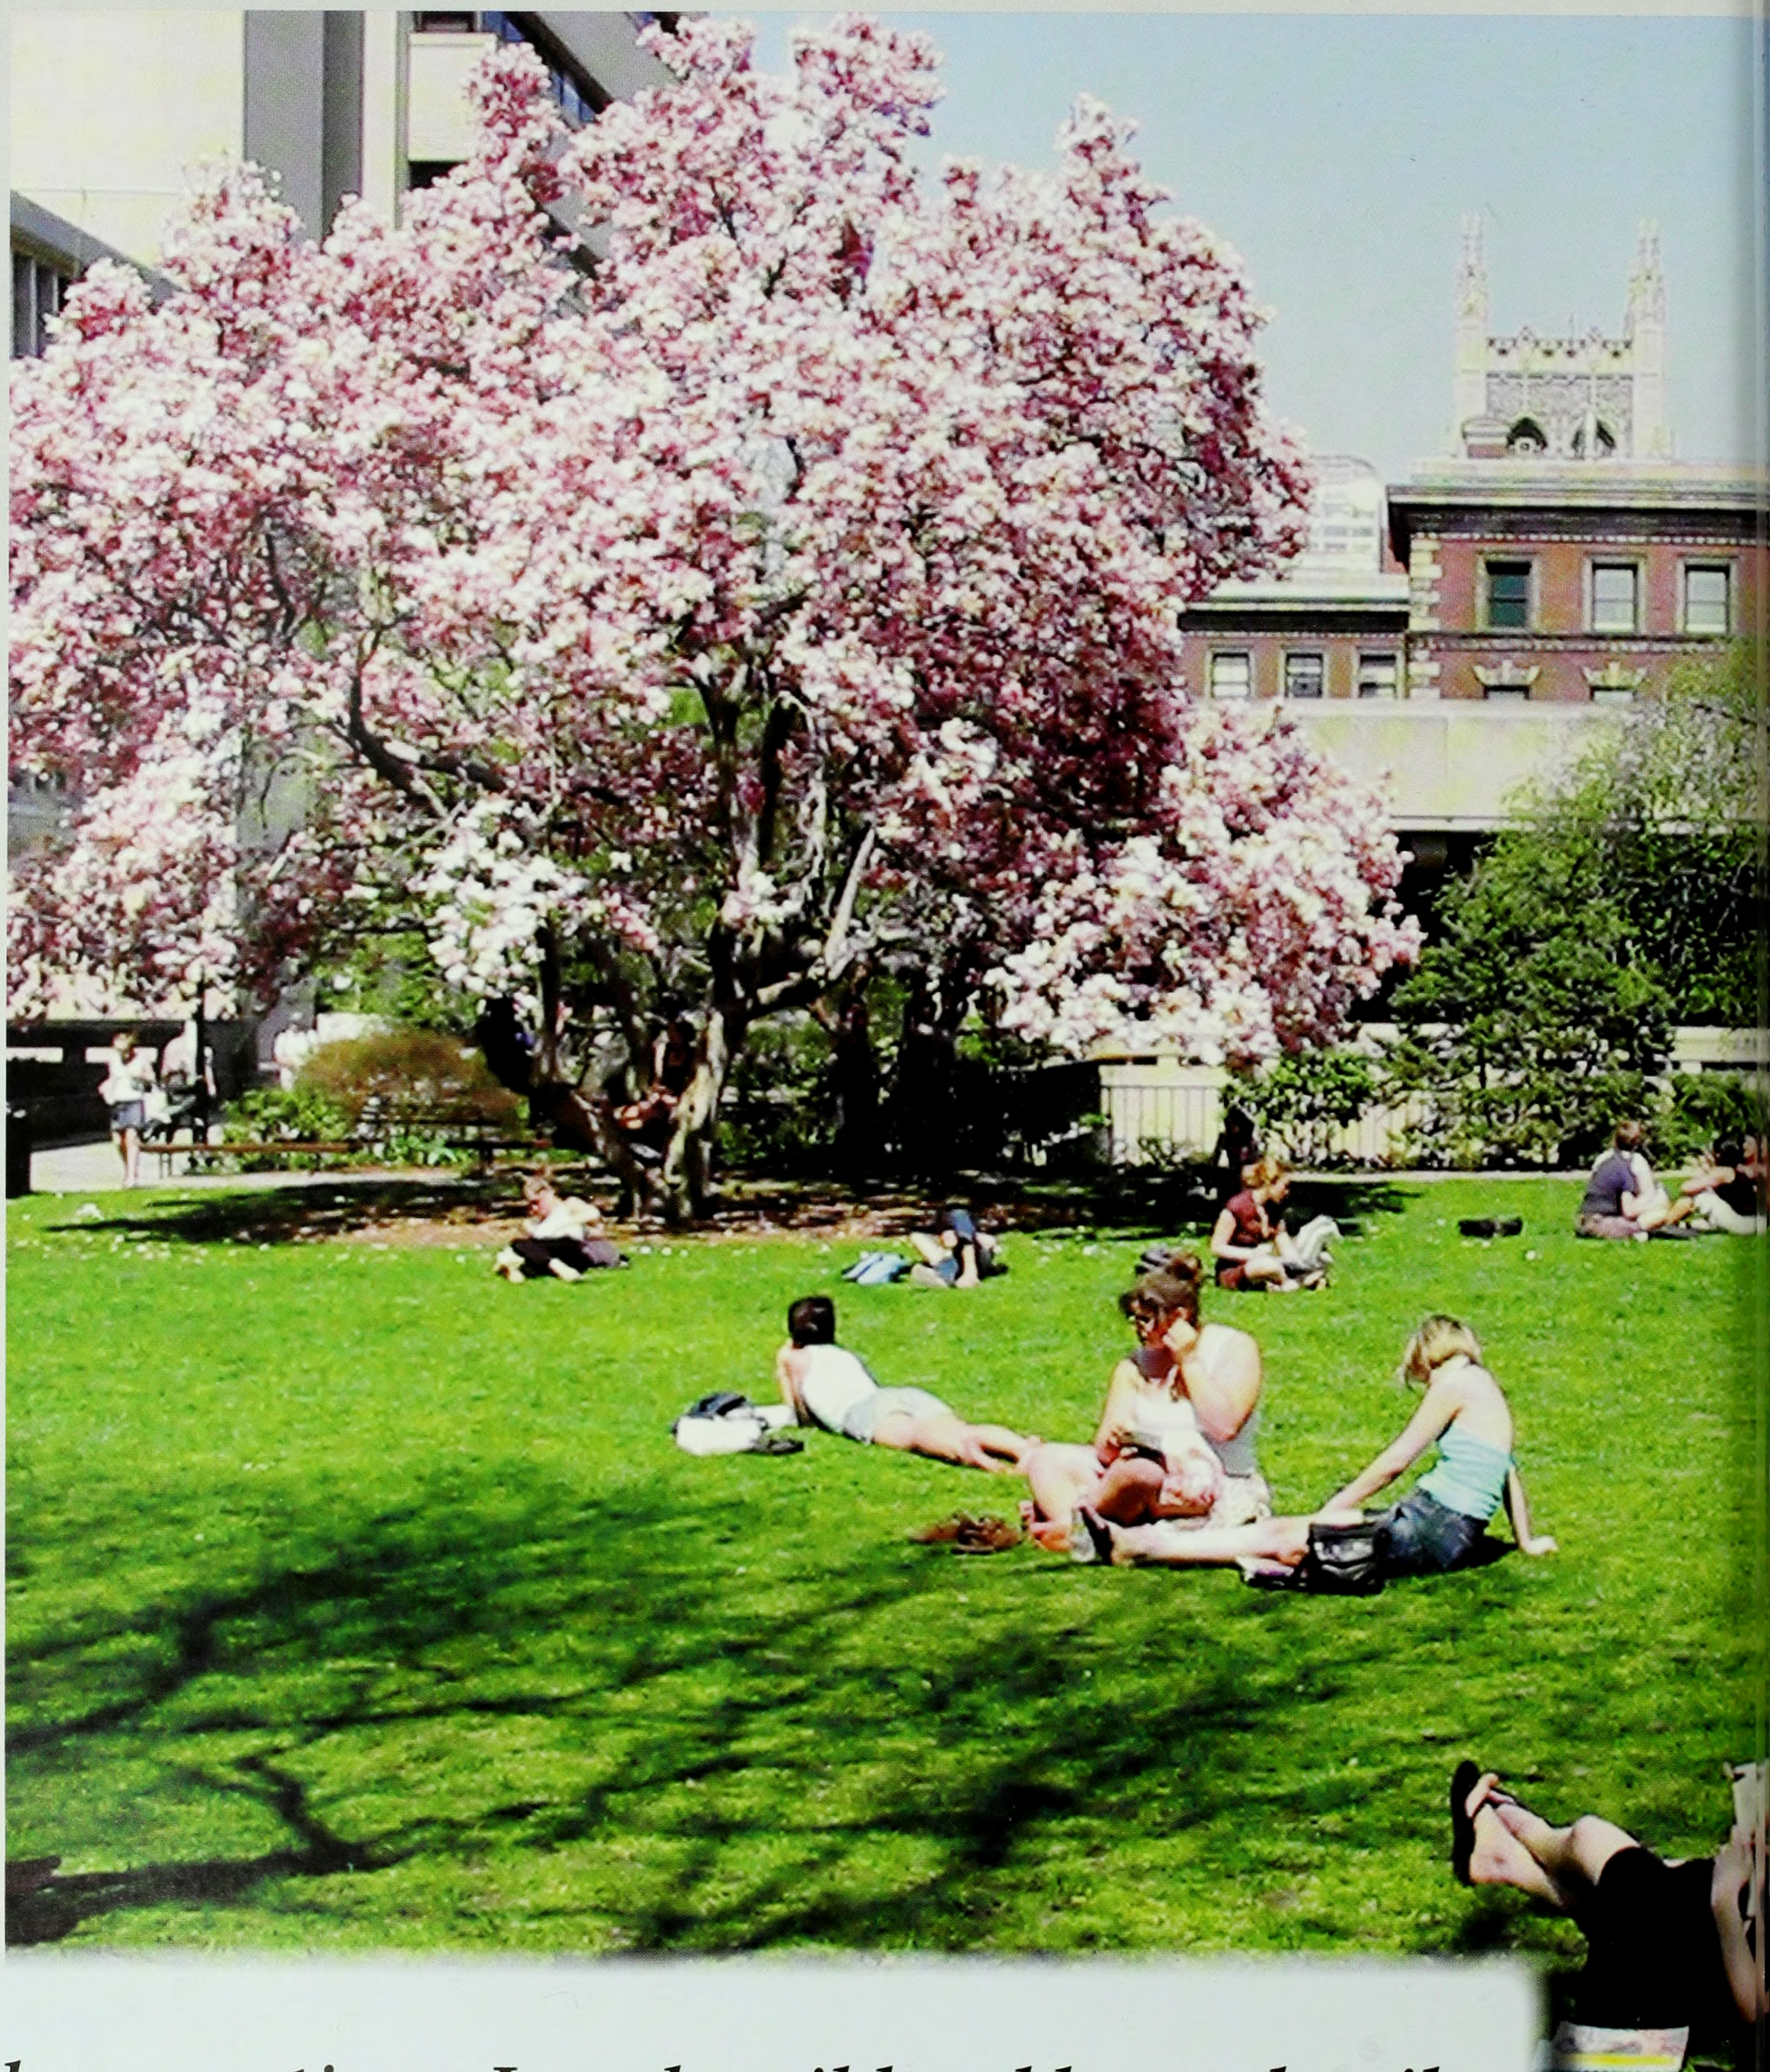
BARNARD

"Barnard was the ideal place to learn to accomplish what is possible, while remaining aware of and perhaps even aspiring toward the seemingly impossible...



...there are times I am bewildered by each mile I have traveled, each meal I have eaten, each person I have known, each room in which I have slept.

As ordinary as it all appears, there are times when it is beyond my imagination."

-Jhumpa Lahiri '89

"The thing that is really hard, and really amazing, is giving up on being perfect and beginning the work of becoming yourself."
-Anna Quindlen '74

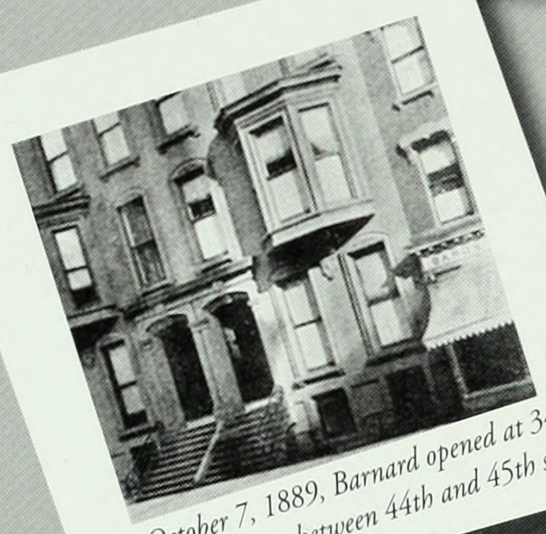
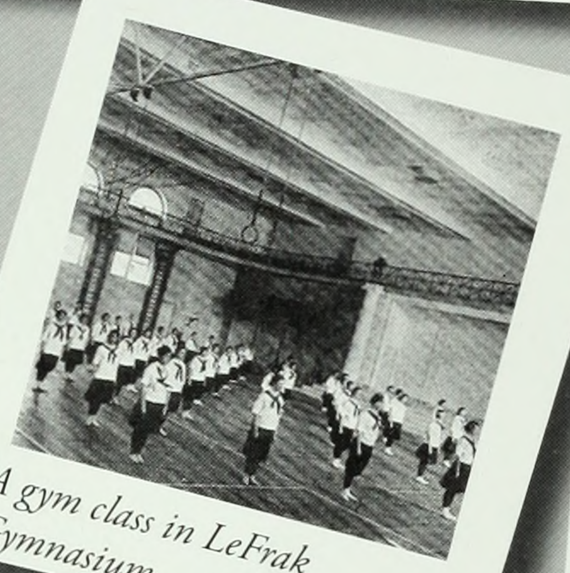
Milbank Hall was Barnard's first building in Morningside Heights. Construction was officially completed in October 1896.



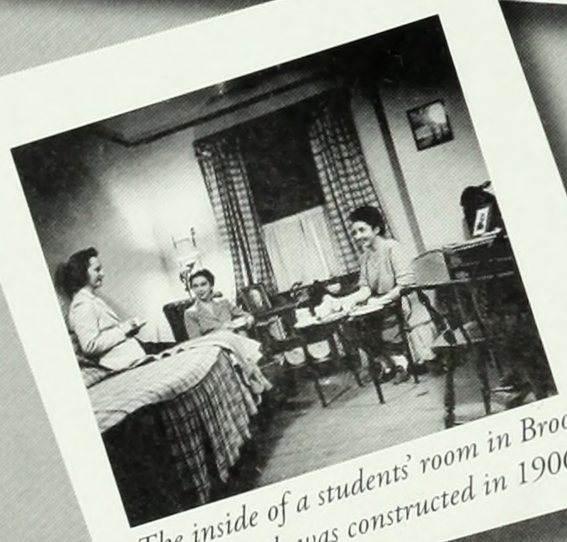
On October 7, 1889, Barnard opened at 343 Madison Avenue between 44th and 45th streets.



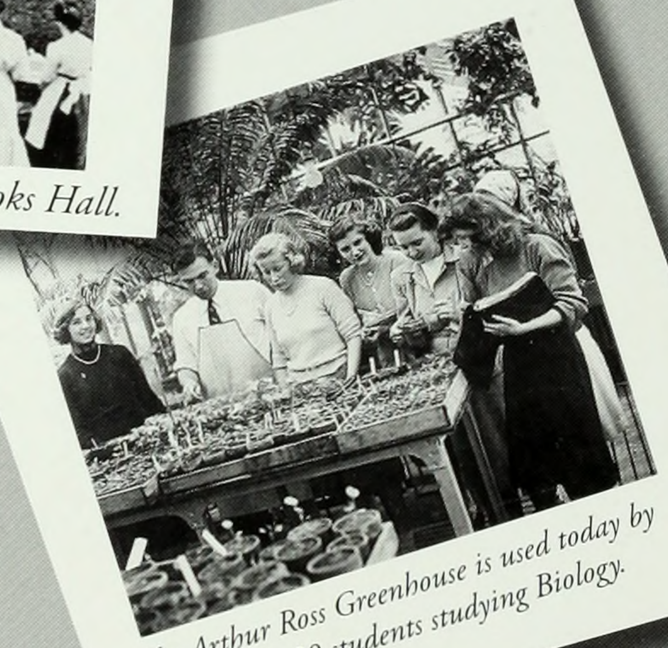
A gym class in LeFrak Gymnasium.

The Ella Weed Reading Room was the original library on Barnard's campus prior to the construction of Wollman library in 1960.

The Greek Games began in 1905 and took place in front of Brooks Hall.



The inside of a students' room in Brooks Hall, which was constructed in 1906.



The Arthur Ross Greenhouse is used today by more than 300 students studying Biology.

Barnard College...Through The Years

Barnard has experienced a series of transitions through the years, but has managed to stay true to its mission of educating women and giving them the resources they need to pursue countless opportunities in society. Perhaps the most drastic change occurred in 1983 when Columbia began to accept women into this college. Many questioned the need for Barnard to exist within the university and challenged its status as a true women's college. Despite this controversy, Barnard continued to govern itself as a small, independent liberal arts college affiliated with Columbia University. Today, it has a 111-year tradition of maintaining this unique partnership while keeping its own faculty, curriculum, administration, operating budget and campus.

Dear Members of the Class of 2007 ~

Congratulations on your graduation. There is so much ahead, but no matter where the next years take you, this yearbook will bring you back to Barnard. As you flip through the pages, you'll find yourself relaxing on Lehman Lawn, taking notes at a lecture, meeting a friend for coffee at Java City, acing a serve, rehearsing a play. Treasure this book – I assure you that it will mean even more to you decades from now, when you will smile at the photos of classmates and find yourself nostalgic with memories for your Barnard home.

You had a great time more often than not, and you learned more from each other than you ever thought possible. The Mortarboard is a wonderful souvenir of that reality – a collection of faces, faculty, athletics, special events, candid encounters, and thoughtful writing. Enjoy it. And please return to Barnard often to remind yourself of all that you gave to this campus and all that your time here gave to you.

I look forward to hearing about the next chapters in your lives.

With all good wishes and affection,

Judith Shapiro

Dean Dorothy Denburg

Dear Members of the Class of 2007:

As dean, I had the pleasure of sharing many Barnard moments with you. The passage from "welcome" to "goodbye" has been marked by all of the moments and memories that have formed your Barnard experience – starting with your Orientation, favorite classes, perhaps even the class you shouldn't have taken, friendships, late night conversations, inspiring faculty, lines for "L course" registration, class dinners, shared laughter, Nine Ways of Knowing, senior theses, basking in the sun on Lehman Lawn, and, of course, Midnight Breakfasts. Together these experiences have transformed you, as we foretold when you arrived.

I have had the pleasure of getting to know many of you well. I have marveled at your achievements and at the contributions you have made to campus life; and I have watched your growth into confident, competent Barnard women. Recognizing that there are risks in committing my doggerel to print, I will take some lines from my toast to the Class of '07 at your Senior Dinner.

So let us drink a toast to the Class of '07
Surely yours is a class that was made in heaven.
Yes, I know that "seven and heaven" is trite,
But I tried and I tried with all of my might.
Neither Andre Previn nor "leaven" fit into a toast,
And believe me, I have struggled with this longer than most.
Most other toasts, that is, for the feeling is there.
Class of '07, as a group, you are rare.

Together you have left your mark on our school.
Whether in SGA, BOSS, or NSOP, you rule,
Bulletin, Mortarboard, McAc, the Spec,
W-B-A-R, or Help Desk tech.
Barnard bartenders and Barnard babysitters,
Barnard College Flute Choir and Barnard knitters,
CAVA, Mujeres, Turath, Smart Women Lead,
Together you've met more than one unmet need.
Recycling, NightLine, and Take Back the Night,
You're quick to do things that you think are right.
Skip Stop Commuters, Dance Marathon, V-Day,
MISA, Q, cultural months, and Bacchantae,
Diversity issues and hurricane relief,
Each of you has acted upon your belief.

All of us take pleasure and pride in the women of the Class of 2007. I wish each of you happiness in the years ahead. I know you will make your mark on the world as you have here at Barnard.

With warm wishes,

Dorothy Denburg
Dean of the College

Provost Elizabeth Boylan

Dear Class of 2007,

In this issue of Mortarboard, I offer you a reprise of my remarks at your Commencement, and my personal best wishes.

Commencement - May 2007

To the Class of 2007, one last distillation of what the faculty of Barnard College wish for you, a quote from the Intellectual Autobiography of Victor Hugo:

> "Change your opinions; keep to your principles; change your leaves; keep intact your roots."

We hope that our classrooms and advising sessions have allowed you the space to have your opinions, and to change them in light of new information, new argumentation. We hope that these interchanges have led to a sharpening of your own principles so that you leave our gates knowing more about how you want to live your life, and why.

"…change your leaves; keep intact your roots."

The biologist in me loves these two exhortations. Remember that both deciduous trees and evergreens change their leaves, albeit at different rates. You can choose your own pace of leaf change, assured that it will be right to become something you are not right now.

Your roots, however, are your roots. And today marks the official intertwining of yours and Barnard's. You have changed the intellectual landscape of Barnard by being here.

Your thoughts and insights and spirit will be sustained in the minds of the people you have touched – your classmates, the students who preceded and will follow you, and, certainly, the faculty and staff. Now we launch you into the realm of alumnae, and will watch with great pride all the various things you do.

We ask that you continue to change your opinions and keep to your principles. We ask that you change your leaves and keep intact your roots. We ask that you keep in touch.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth S. Boylan

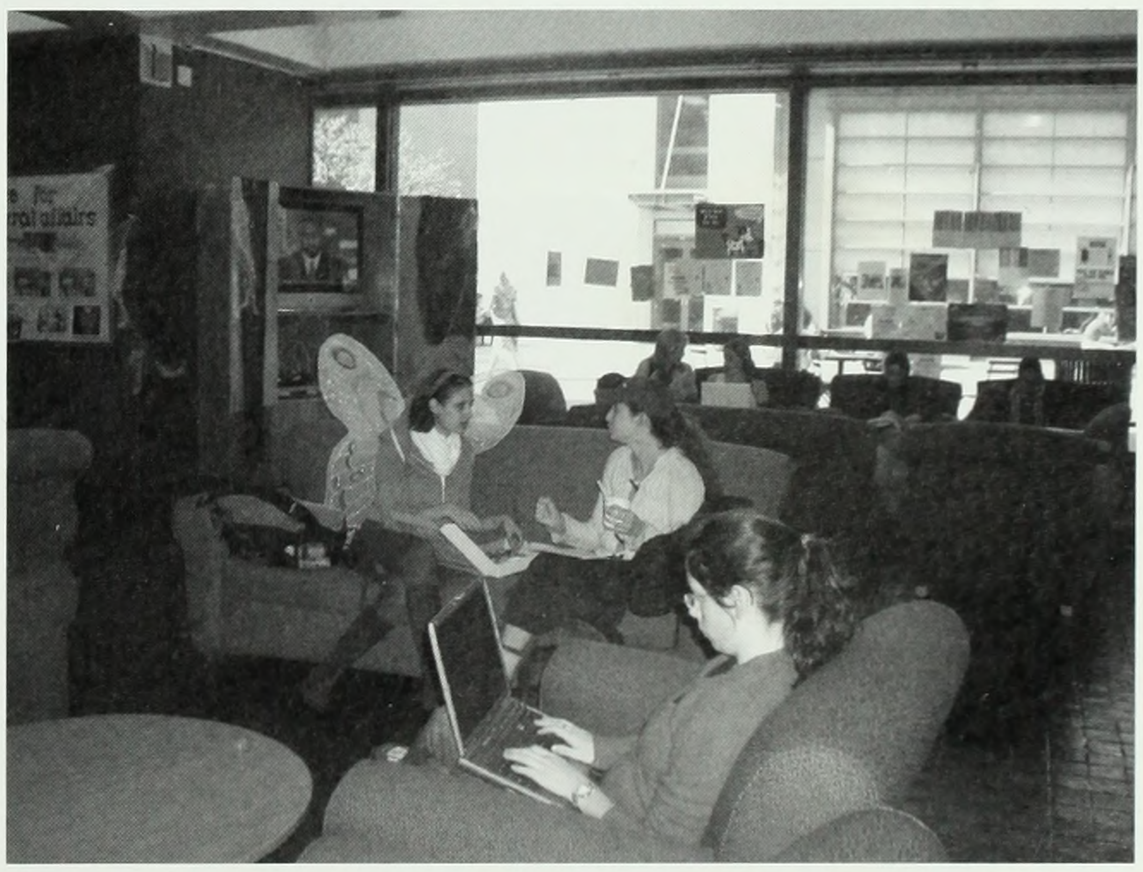
African Dance

Every year, the Barnard African Dance class performs on Lehman Lawn for all students to watch.

Halloween in McIntosh

The staff in the College Activities Office always decorate McIntosh for the holidays. Halloween festivities in McIntosh included pumpkin decorating, students in costumes, and a ton of candy!



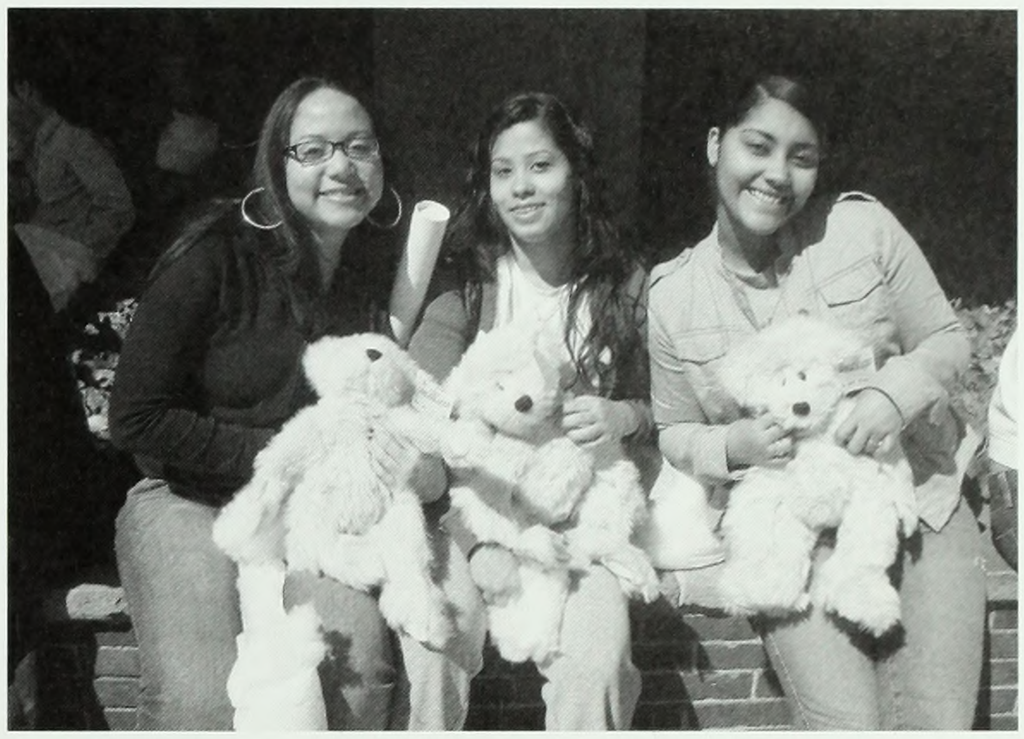
Mcintosh Activities Council

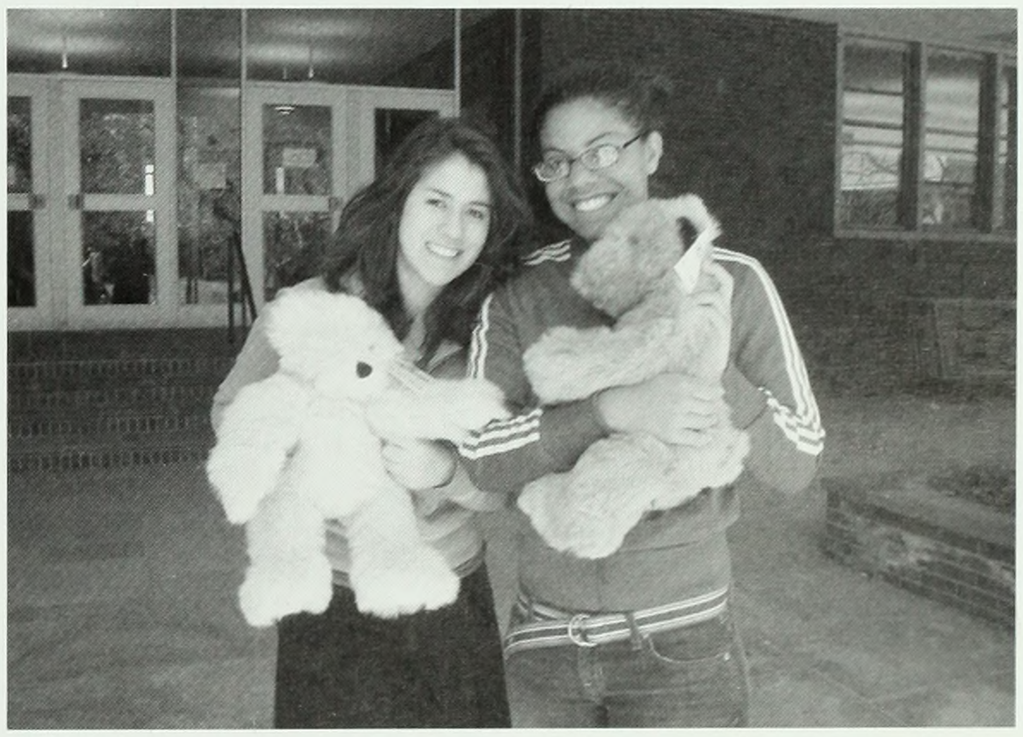
Big Sub

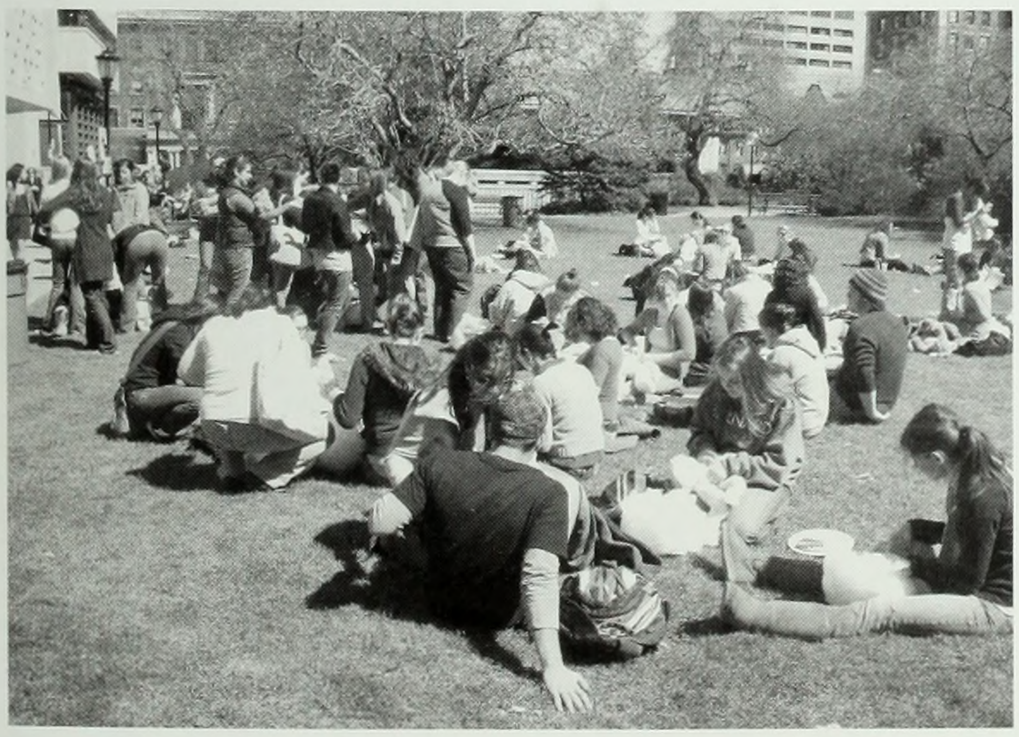
The fall semester boasts the "Big Sub," which stretches across Barnard's campus and is divided into several sections, including Kosher and vegetarian sections.

Build-A-Bear

The spring semester brings Build-A-Bear, one of Barnard's newest traditions. Students stuff their own bears and decorate outfits for their bears to wear.

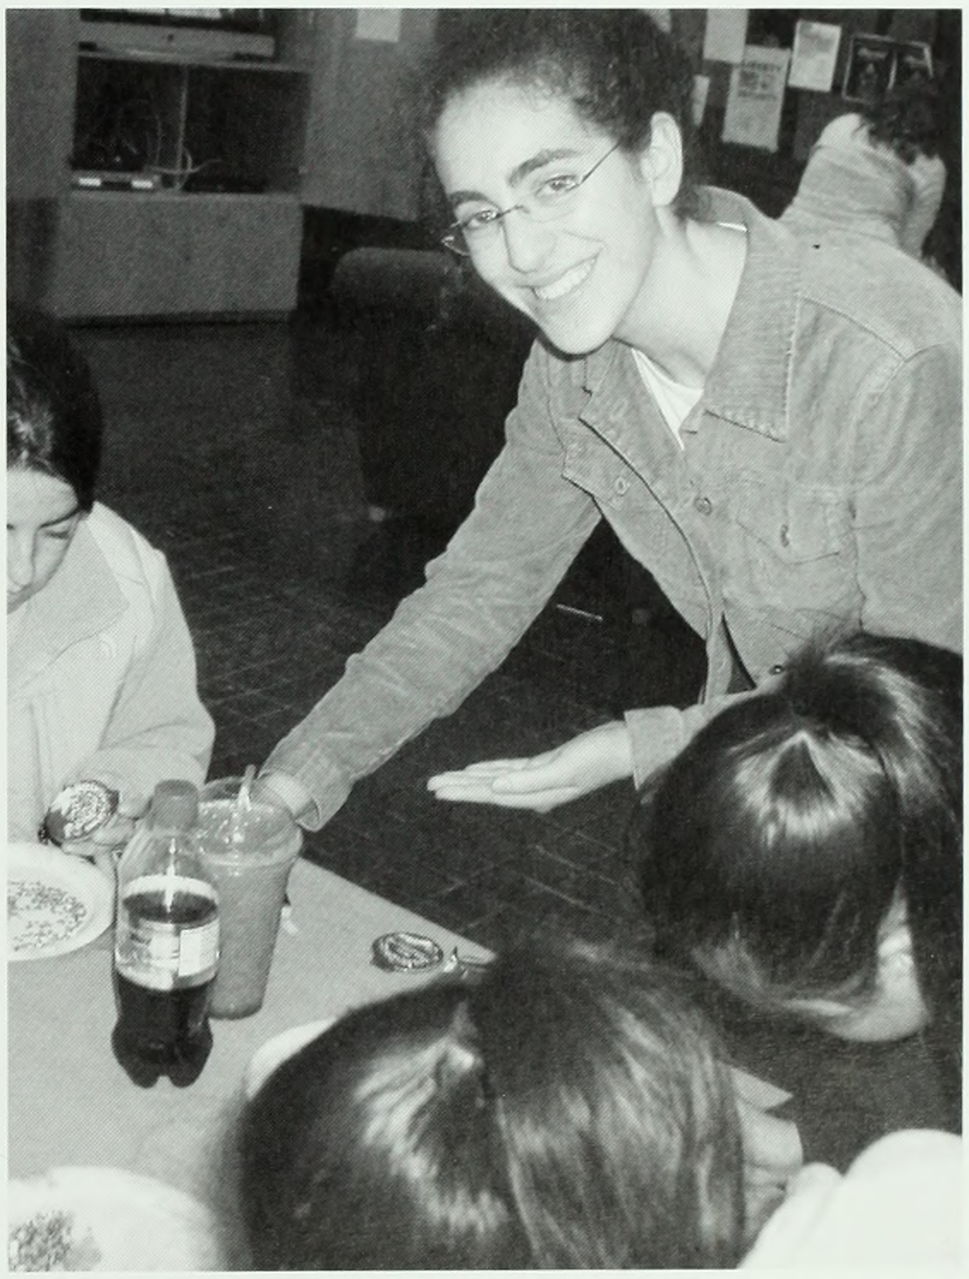






Mcintosh Activities Council

McAC seeks to enhance the sense of community on Barnard's campus by providing events that bring the entire college together. They host major events, Big Sub and Midnight Breakfast, as well as smaller events, including Bling Night, throughout the year.



Barnard College Spirit Day

Every year on Spirit Day, Barnard students, teachers, and administrators celebrate Barnard College.

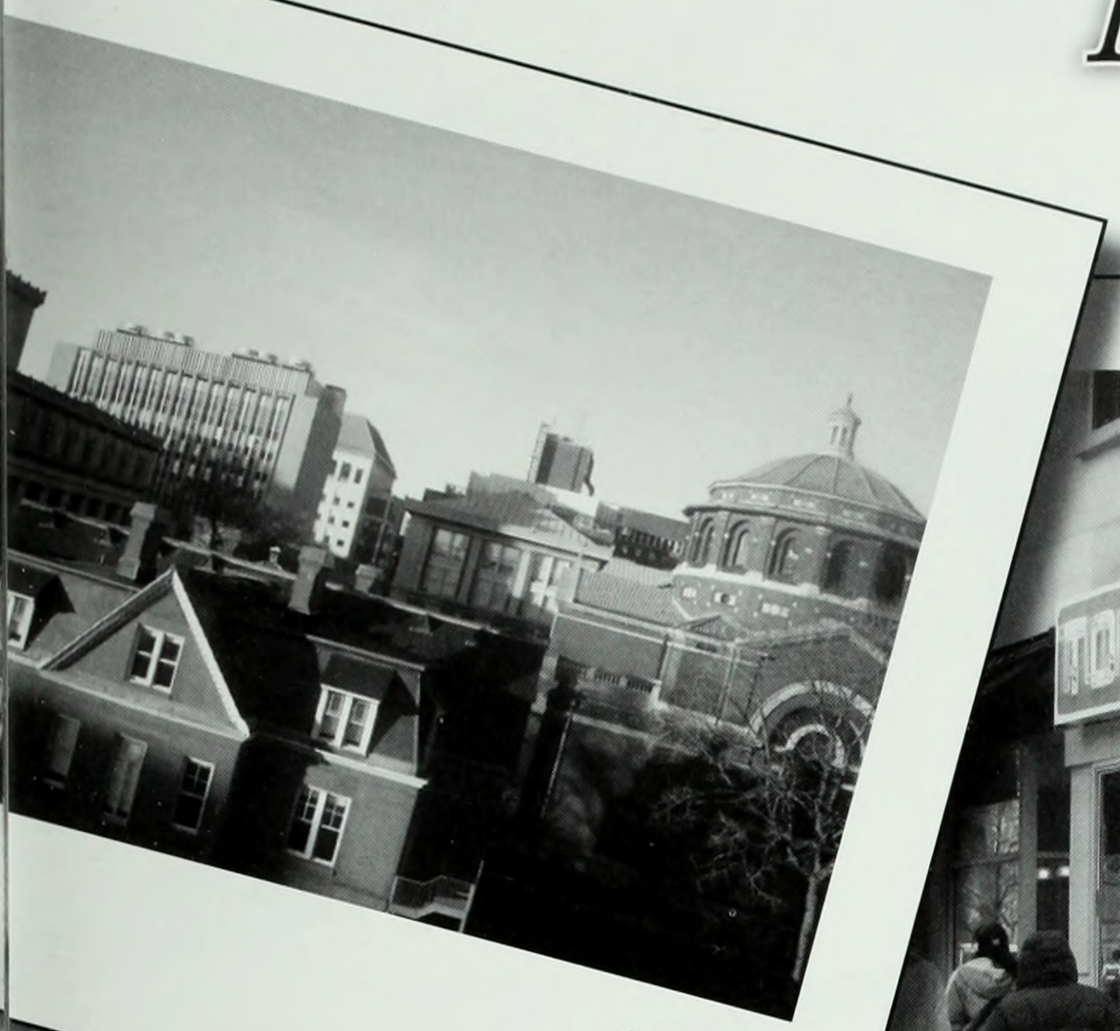
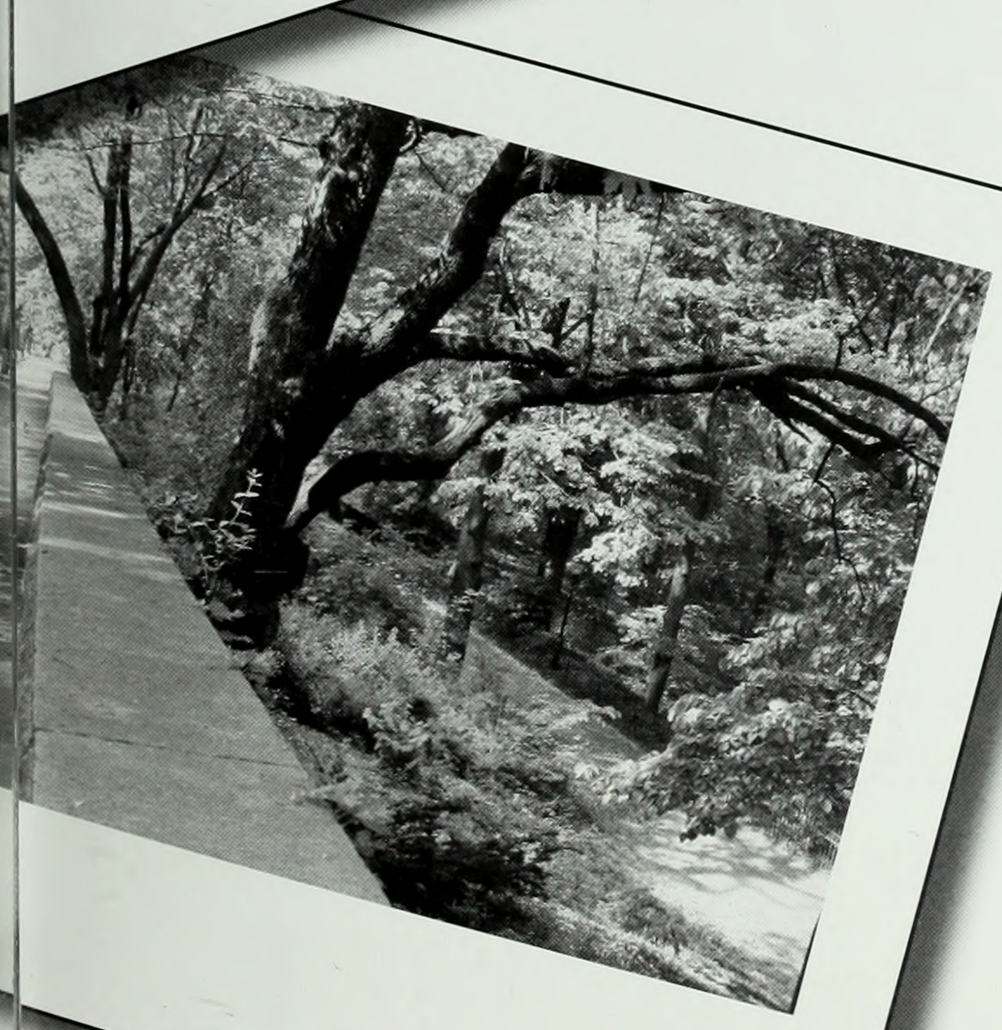
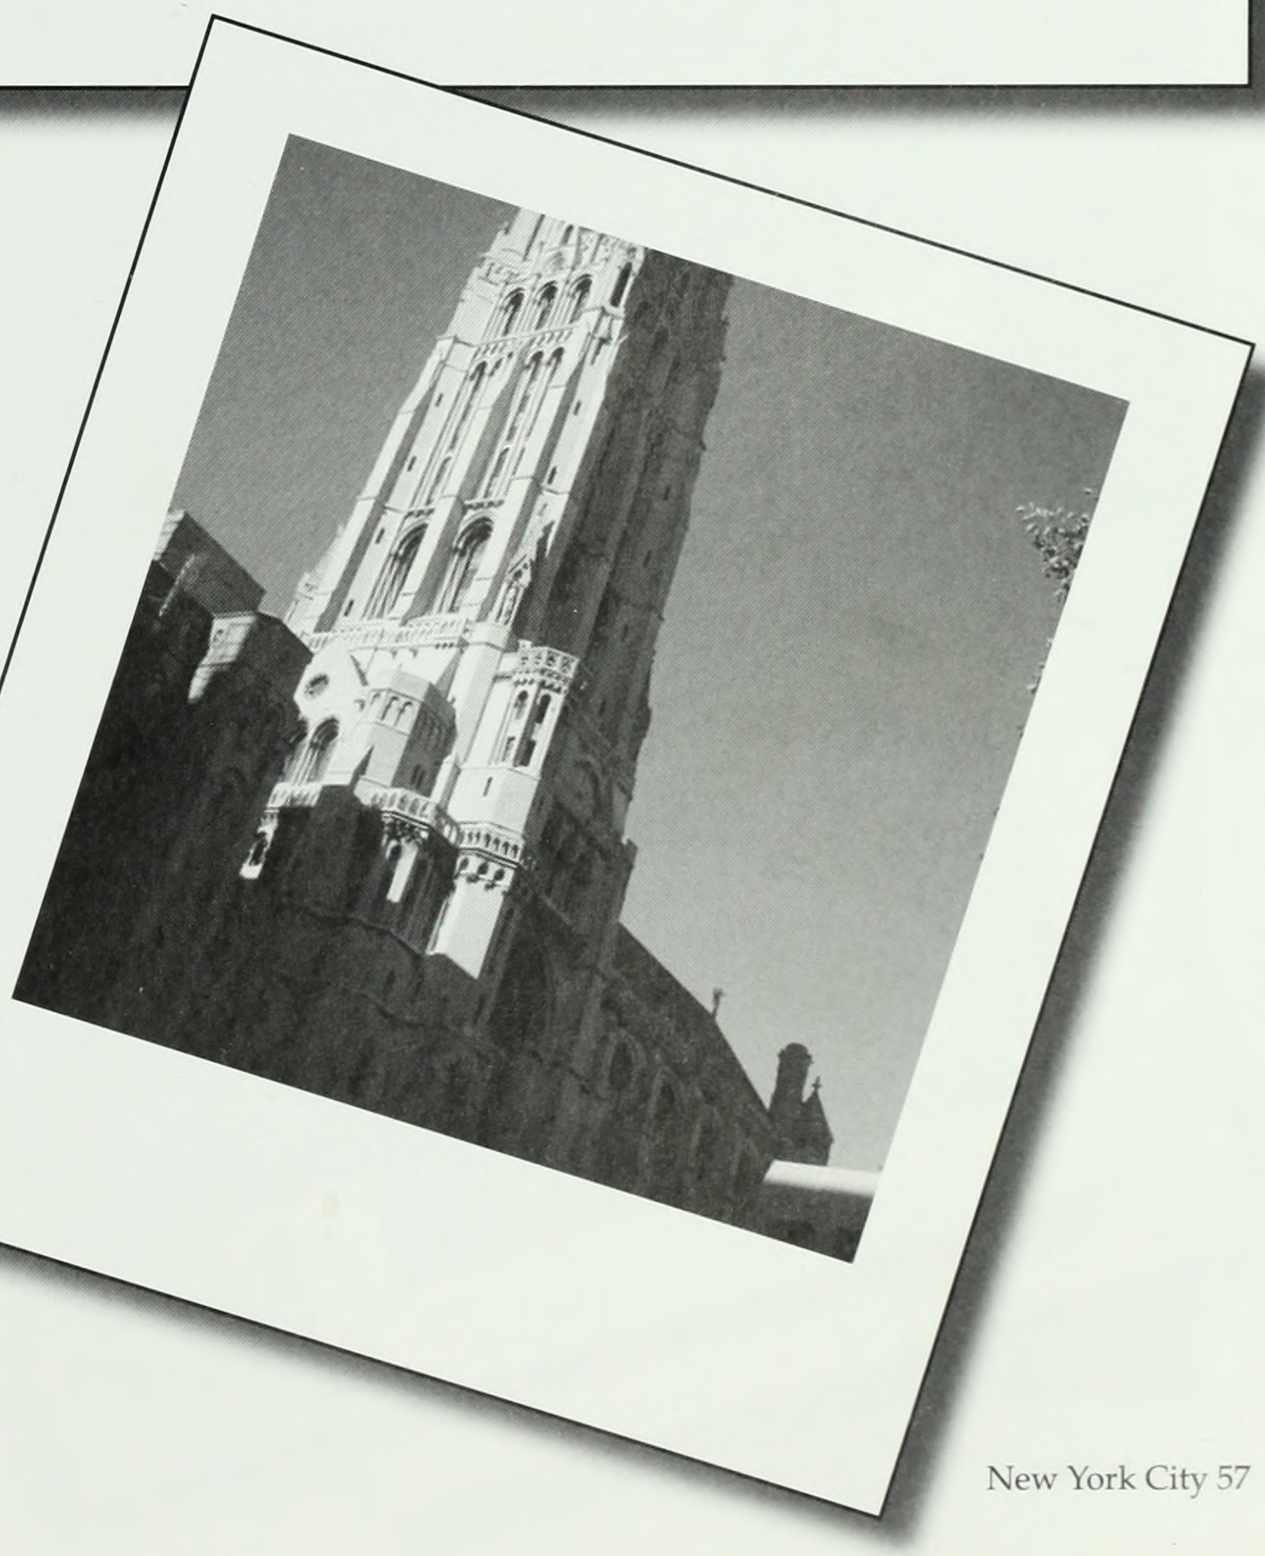
Morningside Heights

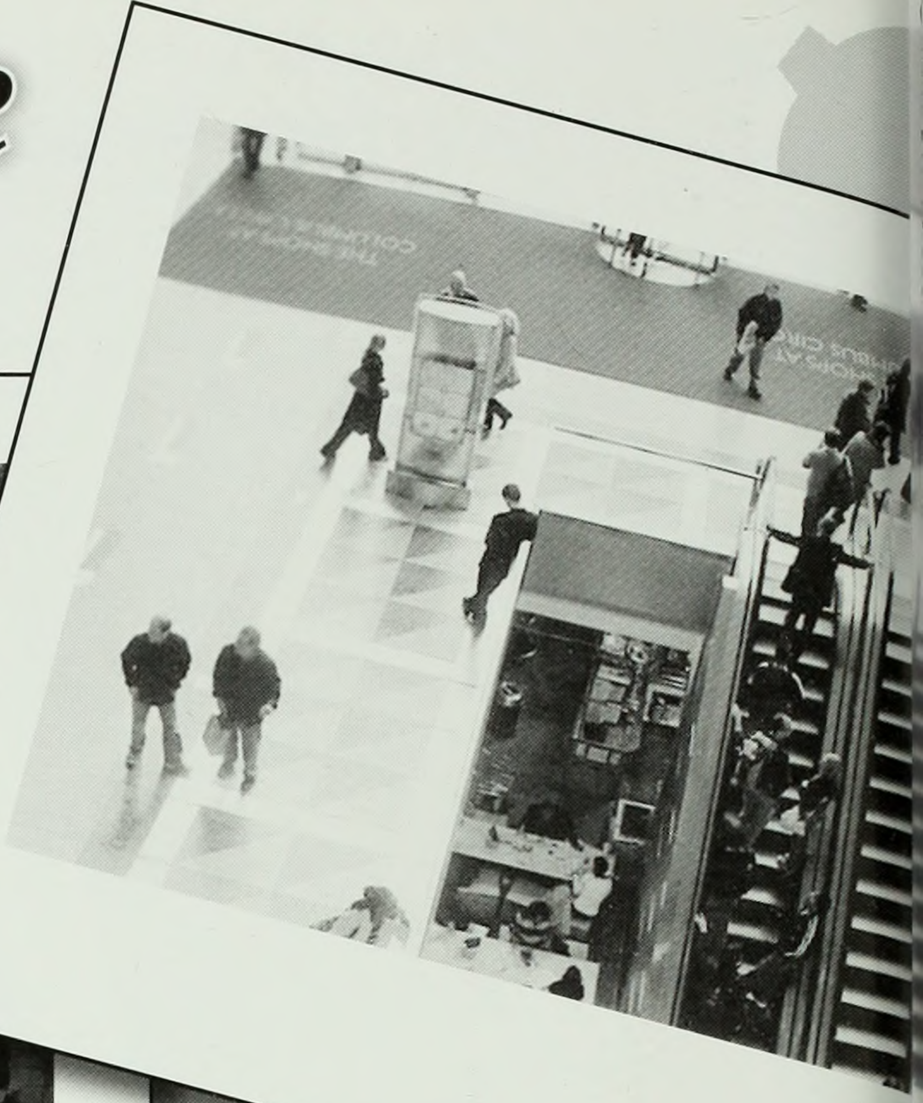


Morningside Heights stretches from 106th Street to 123rd Street between Morningside Park and Riverside Park. Home to Barnard College and Columbia University, this "Academic Acropolis" is also host to the Jewish Theological Seminary, Union Theological Seminary, and the Manhattan School of Music. Other landmarks include Grant's Tomb, Riverside Church, and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Tom's Restaurant, and Labyrinth Books.





Upper West Side



The Upper West Side is primarily a residential neighborhood, but it is home to several attractions. Lincoln Center is a cultural hub and home to some of the city's best performing arts, including the Metropolitan Opera, New York City Ballet, New York Philharmonic, and the Juilliard School. The Museum of Natural History is a popular destination, along with some of Central Park's favorite locations, including Strawberry Fields and the Great Lawn.

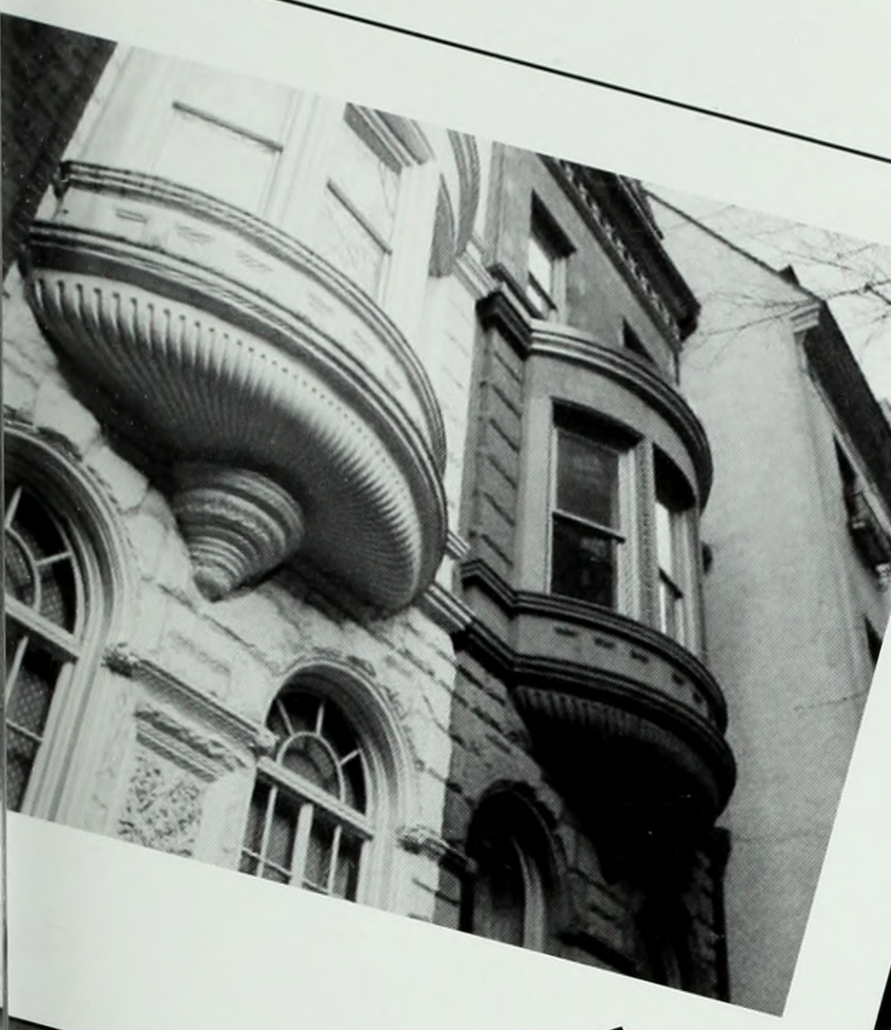
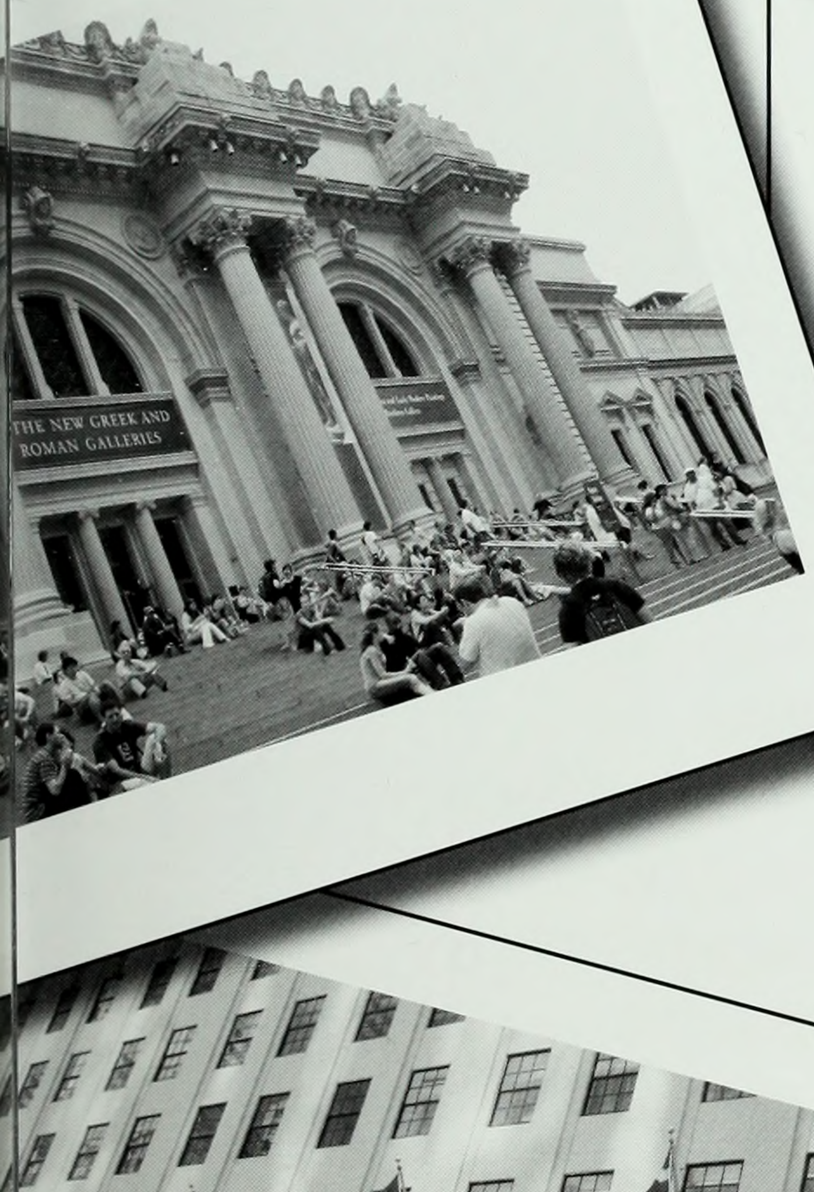
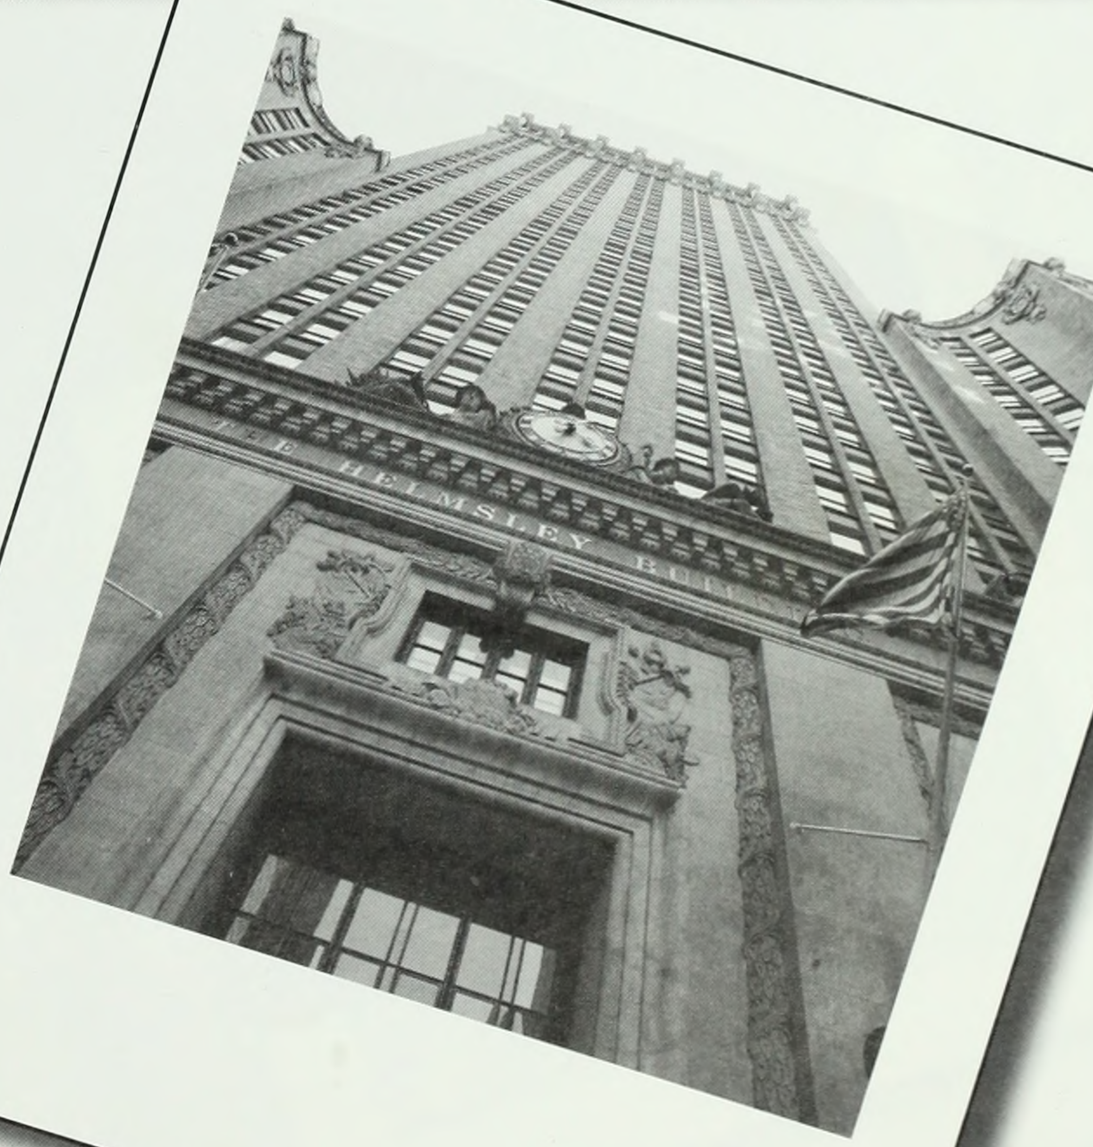
Upper East Side



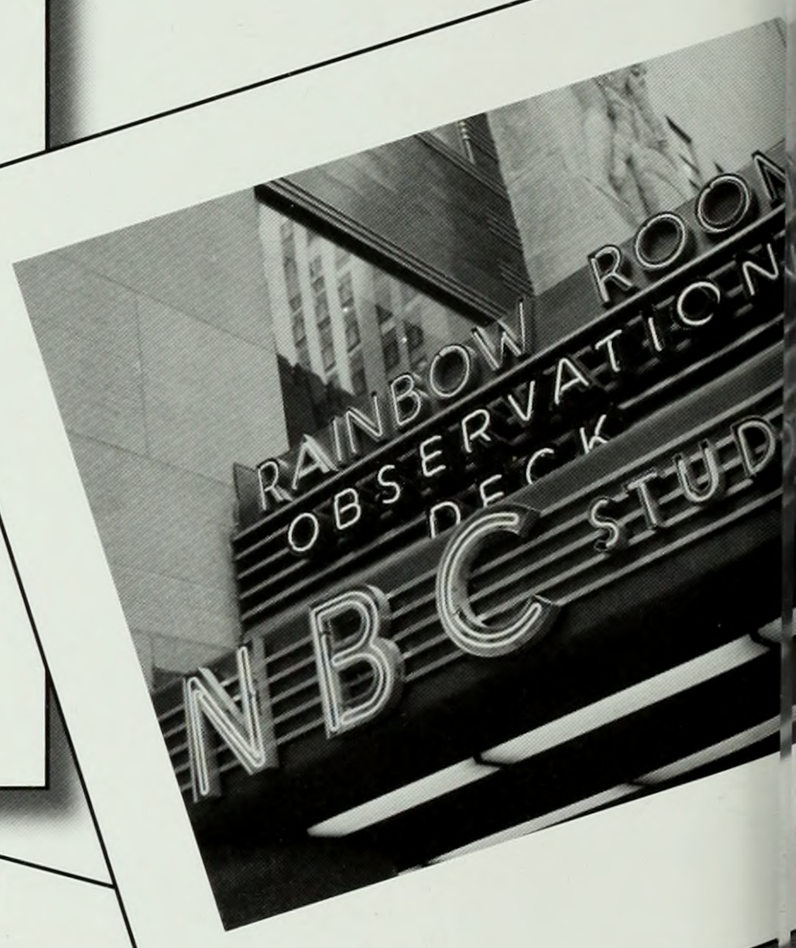
The Upper East Side boasts some of the most luxurious real estate properties in Manhattan, as well as some of the world's most prestigious museums. Visitors flock to "Museum Mile," the stretch of Fifth Avenue that contains the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Guggenheim, the Frick Collection, the Jewish Museum, and the Museo del Barrio. Madison Avenue is known for its luxury clothing stores and fashionable residents.





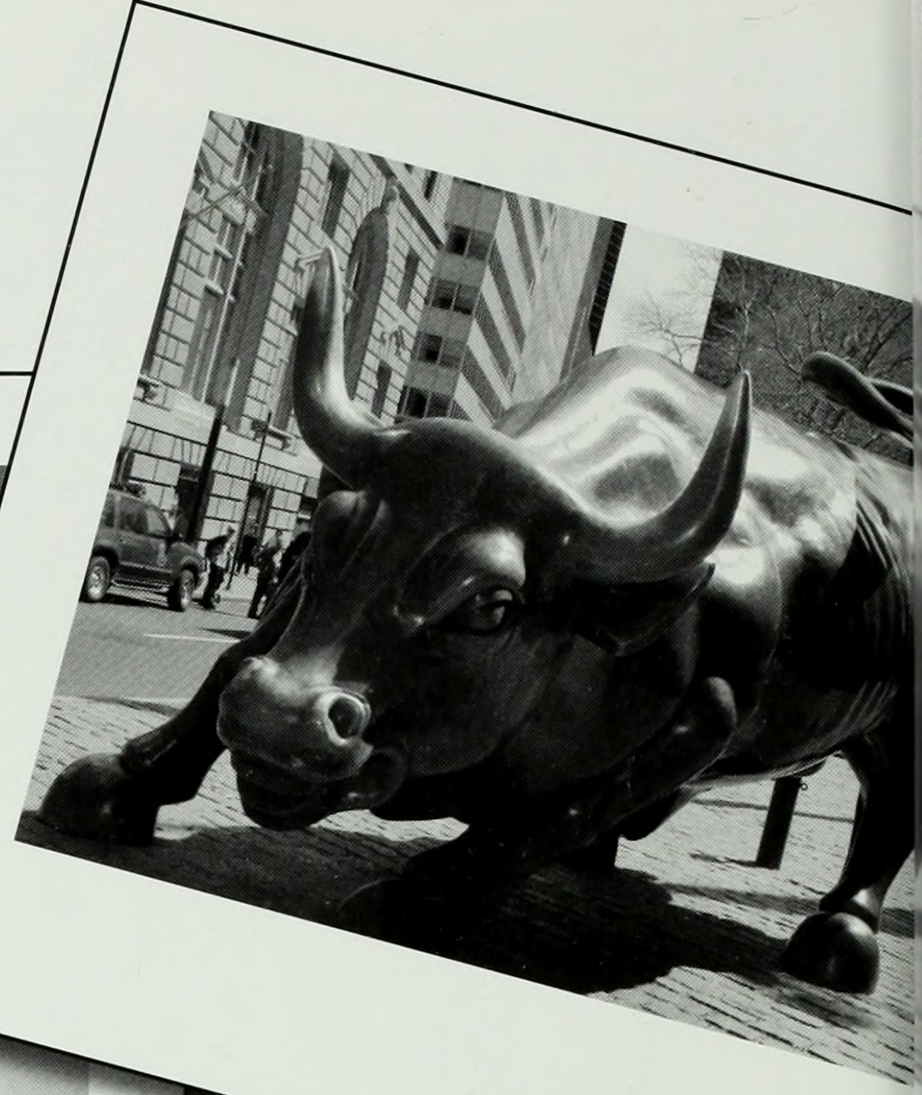
Midtown

The neon lights, billboards, themed restaurants and shops of Times Square attract thousands of tourists on a daily basis, but Midtown's location and traffic hubs, Grand Central and Penn Station, make it a popular destination for local New Yorkers, too. The Garment District, Herald Square, Theater District, and Rockefeller Center are also located in Midtown.



MACYS

Downtown



The myriad neighborhoods of Downtown Manhattan offer several different "New York" experiences. From the shopping in Soho to the food in Chinatown and Little Italy, from the Statue of Liberty to Wall Street and the New York Stock Exchange, from Greenwich Village to the Lower East Side, it's easy to traverse different cultures in just a few hours.

What does it mean to graduate from Barnard? Does it mean the end of your learning and growing? NO! Does it mean the end of questions and debate? NO! What your Dad and Mother, your family, your ancestors, and Barnard have given to you is this:

'May you have life my children of the sun.
May you rise as smoke rises and spread yourselves on the wind.
n our house, you are always welcome.
n our prayers, you will always hear your name spoken with reverence.
n you is the continuation of the world, both made and unmade.
Son your wings must unfold, so you can stand at the edge of the cliff, learning how o fly by yourself.
You are free my children of the sun, released rom your familiar place.
Our thoughts go with you. Our songs are sung for you.
Our dances are intended to purify your heart.
Please go now."
Congratulations upon your graduation rom Barnard.

All the world's a stage
And all the men and women merely players.
At first the infant
Mewling and puking in Tina's arms.
Then the whining school-girl, with her satchel
And sleepy morning face, creeping like snail
Unwillingly to school, arguing she need not learn to read
And now the lover, searching with determination for the right one,
And the college student, entering Barnard timid and shy
But emerging a college grad, confident and resplendent in her gown (to be continued).

We're looking forward to the next act.
