NATIONAL SERVICE AT BARNARD

Barnard Hall

IN order to organize the special National Service work at Barnard College this year, a central committee has been appointed, consisting of Dean Gildersleeve, chairman; Professor Elizabeth Reynard, executive officer; Dr. Christina Grant; Miss Emily Gunning '42, president of the Undergraduate Association; and Miss Doris Bayer '42, chairman of the Honor Board and of the Political Council.

This committee will discuss general policies and plans. It has the power to add to its membership. It will set up special committees to take charge of various phases of the National Service and Defense work.

The Emergency Training courses to be offered this term will, it is expected, begin November 3, and last until December 19—a period of about six weeks. In the second term they will begin about February 15 and last for a period of approximately eight weeks.

All these courses will be voluntary, will not count for academic credit, and will each occupy the student about two hours a week. They are designed to give skills useful in National Service.

One of the courses—that is, Training for Recreational Leadership,—is on a somewhat different basis, as it is given in the Department of Physical Education, and counts for Physical Education credit. It has already begun.

In the first semester courses will be offered in Red Cross First Aid, Advanced First Aid, Motor Transport, Air Raid Precautions, Red Cross Canteen, the Technique of Conducting Public Discussion, and other subjects to be announced in the near future.

The usual work of Volunteer Social Service will be carried on and expanded to meet the requirements of the present emergency.

The College will cooperate actively in the work of the Office of Civilian Defense in this zone and in all other respects also will endeavor to do whatever the government requests.

VIRGINIA GILDERSLEEVE, Dean.

BARNARD COLLEGE

ALUMNAE MONTHLY

On And Off

The Campus

THE function of this column is to tell you what is happening at your college and to the life you knew there. Today, however, in some involuntary way, one can stick to no subject without the world situation coming in. Often, in the past year, we started writing of books and ended with bombs.

This unhappy mental set was partly due to the fact that college activities seemed to center on the war, partly because the subject most interested us, and therefore, would, we felt, most interest you. The thing to do, and the thing we tried to do, was to keep a level head about it. "Hey!" we said to ourself when we started cheering and throwing our cap in the air. "Keep your hat on and protect your brains."

It is difficult to decide just how much time, energy, and thought it is wise to give to the terrible and engrossing events around us. Sometimes, we should stick to our knitting—even if it is not for British War Relief. It is even more difficult to decide how much of a student's time and effort in college ought to be sacrificed to defense work.

Dean Gildersleeve clarified Barnard's policy in a radio speech for the American Women's Voluntary Services. Said the Dean: "Women's colleges are profoundly concerned with National Defense. They are concerned not only because they are made up of patriotic Americans, eager to do their utmost for their country, but also because the very life of real colleges depends on the continued existence of a free democracy here. Real colleges could not survive in a world dominated by Nazi philosophy. In such a world that passion for intellectual freedom which has been their life blood would become their death warrant."

The problem, the Dean then pointed out, is in determining exactly how a women's college can best serve National Defense. "Our government tells us," she said, "rightly and wisely, that the best way for us to strengthen National Defense is to keep on with our regular teaching and our research, and to keep our students at their studies—unless, of course, they are called for special service in some emergency."

The Dean asserted that the country will continue to need "citizens trained to think" and also citizens trained in special intellectual fields. For the present, she said, there is no necessity for in any way cutting down the period or quality of their training.

On the other hand, Miss Gildersleeve made it plain that a certain amount of work for defense is useful and necessary. She spoke of Barnard's successful emergency courses last year and said that they would be continued and expanded.

The most important task, the Dean concluded, is to educate students who will know the meaning of America, to help young people who "lack convictions, convictions based on facts," to create citizens who will help form sound public opinion.

Unholy Alliance

Four Columbia men crashed the Barnard cafeteria, and Spectator has petitioned the administration for better telephone service between Columbia and Brooks Hall, complaining that the present two lines are always busy. Sounds as if there is going to be a strange and Unholy Alliance.

Cape Cod Scholarship

A loan exhibition of old Cape Cod portraits held in the Falmouth Village School in August raised the money for an All-Cape Scholarship in American Citizenship at Barnard. The exhibition was planned by Mrs. Alfred Meyer, senior trustee of Barnard College, and was successfully carried out through her untiring efforts.

Mrs. Meyer personally persuaded the Cape Cod families to loan their treasured portraits and also took charge of the many details involved in such an exhibition. She had as sponsors one hundred distinguished persons, with Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt heading the list. Others were: Mrs. Ogden Reid, Mrs. Dave Hennen Morris, Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. John Henry Hammond, and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The exhibition, which opened with a tea, attracted visitors from all parts of the Cape. Thirty-two towns were represented, and there were also visitors from California, Florida, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts. Newspapers in Boston and New York, as well as those all over the Cape, gave large amounts of space to the Loan Exhibit.

One hundred dollars of the total sum raised—$883.25—came from an author's reading at Hyannis State Teachers College on August 7. Robert Nathan, nephew of Mrs. Meyer, read Dunkirk, a sonnet sequence, and several of his shorter poems. Dora Askowith '08 was chairman of the committee in charge of the reading.

Spanish Department Reorganized

The Spanish Department in Barnard College has been reorganized following the lamented death of its brilliant head, Professor Carolina Marcial-Dorado on July 25, 1941.

During the academic year which is just opening, Mrs. Amelia A. de del Rio will be executive officer. A new appointment has been made in the person of Mr. Andrés Iduarte, who will conduct some of the elementary courses in Spanish and also those on the Culture of the Spanish Countries and the Introduction to Spanish Literature.

A course in Latin American civilization will be given during the second term by a distinguished visiting professor, Mariano Latorre, from the University of Santiago de Chile. Another unusual addition to the curriculum will be a course in Comparative Literature by Professor Federico de Onis, Head of the Department of Spanish of Columbia, on the Contribution of Spain to World Literature.

New Appointments

Several additional new appointments have been announced by Dean Gildersleeve.

In the Department of Philosophy, because of the absence of Dr. Gertrude Rich, Dr. Laurence Lafleur is being appointed lecturer to carry some of Dr. Rich's work. He is a graduate of Princeton and has a doctorate from Cornell University. He is the author of numerous articles in his field and is conducting some courses at Brooklyn College.

An assistant registrar has been appointed in the person of Miss Margaret Giddings, a graduate of Barnard College who was connected with the registrar's office some years ago, and served as acting registrar during the absence of Miss Meyer. Since then, Miss Giddings has had a position with the Rockefeller Foundation.

In the Department of French, Professor Frédéric G. Hoffherr has had an extension of his leave of absence until February 1st to carry on some important work outside the University. There will consequently be some rearrangement of French courses.

Other new appointments include: Miss Jean Murray, assistant in Botany; Mrs. Carolyn Frost Baker, lecturer in Chemistry; Dr. Vera Micheles Dean, lecturer in Government (Winter Session only); Miss Louise Comer, assistant in Mathematics; Miss Gertrude Norman, lecturer in Music; Miss Miriam Covalla, Assistant in Zoology; Miss Elizabeth Gibbs, assistant in Zoology. Mr. Basil Rauch will be instructor in History, taking the place of Dr. George Young, who has been called under the Selective Service Act.

Intramural Air Waves

Radio Station CURC, Columbia's broadcasting studio, has opened its particular airwaves to Barnard students. The night of October 14 was the occasion of a Salute to Barnard program, in which ten girls participated, under the eye of experienced CURC technicians. There were talks and music and reviews. Many more programs are being planned for the future.

Unfortunately, you will have to move to the dorms to hear them.

C. W. G.

Carolina Marcial Dorado

I N the death of Professor Carolina Marcial-Dorado, creator and head of our Department of Spanish, Barnard College has lost one of its great teachers and great personalities. So full of enthusiasm and vitality was she, that it is almost impossible to realize that her vivid and brilliant presence is not still with us.

She came to us from Bryn Mawr in 1920. Shortly after that, I remember, the distinguished President of Bryn Mawr told me that in all her long life in the academic world Miss Marcial-Dorado was the most brilliant teacher she had ever known.

The highest form of teaching is just the communication of a spark which sets alight in the student the flame of enthusiasm and purpose and energy. This Miss Dorado preeminently did. She actually got her students talking Spanish with astonishing rapidity. Whenever a distinguished Spanish visitor came to Barnard,—and under her guidance nearly every distinguished Spaniard who visited New York did come to Barnard,—she could always assemble a group of her North American students to converse with him charmingly in creditable Spanish.

She conveyed to her classes also an appreciation of the beauties of Spanish culture on its many sides, the charm of the Spanish people, and that real spirit of Spain which has persisted through all these last tragic years.

She was well known in Spanish America, partly through the wide circulation of her text-books. It is chiefly to her that we owe the creation of a Latin American center at Barnard, to which students have come from most of the Latin American countries and to which we have welcomed visiting professors from those lands. A few years ago, the Pan American Society of New York gave us a luncheon in recognition of Barnard's great service in the cause of Latin-American relations.

Most of all we shall remember her gallant spirit, which during her later years drove on through all the painful handicaps of ill health. At the perilous time of the Spanish Civil War, she flew into Spain—contrary to all laws and regulations—to rescue her aged mother. So she would have flown, in the face of all the powers of darkness, in the service of those she loved and the crusade for her ideals.

Such a spirit does not die. It is built into the personality of the college she served so long and there it lives on always.

Virginia C. Gildersleeve.

ALUMNAE

Priscilla Lockwood Loomis

THE election of Priscilla Lockwood Loomis as Alumnae Trustee calls for more than a simple statement of its ratification and the usual formal expressions of aptitude and wishes for success.

If there were such a thing as hierarchy in the Alumnae Association, serving as Alumnae Trustee could certainly be the top-ranking title. The job requires a keen awareness of the College's needs and the Alumnae Association's ability to fulfill them, a personal experience inside the alumnae organization to serve as a feeler for the tempo and responsive mood of that rare species—the Barnard Alumna; it requires the individual insignia of devotion to Barnard in addition to an ability to stand aside and look objectively at current problems. All these qualities have been clearly recognizable in our candidates and our electees through the years. When you can add to these the personal charm, consistent efficiency, delightful humor, and record of quiet achievement that is Priscilla Loomis, you can present a new Alumnae Trustee as an utterly complete human being.

Since she graduated in 1913, Mrs. Loomis has served the alumnae as a member of the Board of Directors and the Brooks Hall Committee; the Fiftieth Anniversary, the Nominating, Survey, Advisory Vocational, and Thrift Shop Committees. Her two years as president have made alumnae history by now. Her public duties and her private life seem to be run by a button-pushing device with no obtrusive evidence of the careful management and foresight that goes into them. In addition to her work for Barnard, she is treasurer and vice-chairman of the Union Settlement. She has sailed the coasts of two continents, and across the seas of Europe with her yachtsman-navigator-author husband (now recalled to service in the United States Navy as lieutenant commander). Her four children (the oldest now a freshman at Yale) share equally their parents' charm which makes us look forward to the time when Sally might come to Barnard, and last year their home was opened to the English children of Helen Dana Howard '13, adding obvious responsibilities to her busy life.

So we give you Priscilla Lockwood Loomis, Alumnae Trustee for 1944-45, as junior trustee to the preeminently capable and beloved Lily Murray Jones, who is in office for two more years. It's a magnificent team, those two, and we are proud to place the trusteeship of the Alumnae Association in their hands.

Curtain Going Up

January 9th—Friday Matinee. Remember that date and make plans now to spend a delightful afternoon at the Metropolitan. The Barnard Opera Benefit Committee this year offers for your pleasure a performance of Tosca, starring Grace Moore and Lawrence Tibbett. We can announce with considerable pride the new price policy which allows no increase whatsoever over box-office prices. Here is an opportunity for you and your friends to reserve excellent seats at no possible inconvenience.

The Committee this year is headed by Martha Boynton Wheeler as chairman. Her assistants in the various departments will be Jean Macalister as treasurer; Eva Hutchison Dirkes, chairman, and Lucy Morgenthau Heineman, co-chairman of tickets; Peggy Pardee Bates, chairman of boxes; Ellinor Reiley Endicott, chairman of invitations; Ann Ayers Hart, chairman of promotion.

Invitations will be in the mail by the first week of November. If you live in the Metropolitan area, watch for yours and send in for tickets at once. It is a rare experience to get the best seat in the house for the price you want to pay just by mailing an envelope. If you live away from the commuters' range and plan to be in New York on January 9, let the Alumnae Office know and you will receive an invitation by return mail.

We have heard it said that some alumnae make the Barnard Benefit their only opera of the season. You couldn't choose a more enjoyable opera than this year's performance.

Thrift Shop News

FOR the first time the Thrift Shop was kept open during the summer months. Elfie Cahen Rosebery worked almost continuously during July and August, while Isabel Stevens and the chairman were there one month each, and Marietta Barkhorn sent her car for rummage even while away. As a result we did not have to pay special workers, and the two months netted $144. So although shop expenses were high owing to vacations, it was a wise thing to do.

How I wish there were room to mention more of our donations! We were so worried lest the summer months find us without rummage, but only once were our shelves bare for a few days. One alumna gave small tables and rugs, and a typewriter. Another alumna gave us a drop leaf table. Another heeded our plea for children's clothes, and sent us a boxful; one sent bric-a-brac, another some good suits. We just cannot thank you all enough!

There are few things we cannot use, but it is better to send old magazines of the 5-cent variety to the hospitals or camps. They bring too little to pay for the transportation. Christmas cards with names are useless, but perhaps St. Luke's Home would be glad to have them. We haven't time to remove the names though we do work like mad. Shoes sell, especially those from our larger alumnae. As one woman moaned: "Why do rich ladies have such little feet?" They seem to think them a mark of gentility although we're not in China.

Now don't forget Christmas things! One trustee sent us a dainty bed jacket, just right for a gift. Ribbons, toys, anything you can't use. December was a big month last year.

The Prosperity Group set-up is a little different this year. Priscilla Loomis felt unable to keep the chairmanship, although she will work on the committees. So Mrs. George Wever of New York Visiting Committee is now chairman; Mrs. Van Buren of Soldiers and Sailors Club, secretary; and your chairman, treasurer, because no one else wants to do arithmetic! It is very pleasant to report that the three groups have worked most happily together.

Now a year is over. We entered Everybody's October 1, 1940. We have relieved the alumnae of much they didn't need, we have helped many a poorer person, and we will have swelled the Scholarship Fund by about $1,450. Isn't this cause for thanksgiving?

MAY P. EGGLESTON, Chairman

And in the Alumnae Office

REPORTING the recent marriages of alumnae staff members is becoming an annual habit! On September 3, Evelyn Hagmoe became Mrs. Curtis M. Green. They were married at the summer home of Mr. Green's family in Franconia, New Hampshire, and are now living at 524 West 114 Street. Phyllis Hagmoe '43 was her sister's maid of honor. Mr. Green attended Columbia Law School and is now associated with the British Purchasing Commission.

The June issue introduced you to Doris Williams, the new assistant in the office. Now that she has been working for over a month we can add eulogistic adjectives to qualify the word assistant. At present she is introducing herself to 6,400 strange names and addresses and hopes to meet the faces behind the files throughout the year.

Alumnae Week-Ends at Camp

THE following week-ends are available for alumnae groups during the fall semester. Spring week-ends will be listed in a later issue.

November 21-23

December 26-January 4

January 16-18

January 23-25

If you desire a week-end, communicate with Antoinette Vaughn, Alumnae Representative on the Camp Committee, at 753 East 223 Street, New York City.

THE ELLA WEED LIBRARY

The library needs the following issues of the Barnard Quarterly to complete the Archives file. Can anyone supply them? If so, I shall be very grateful if they can be sent to me as soon as possible.

Vol. 6, No. 1 October 1931

Vol. 6, No. 2 December 1931

Vol. 6, No. 3 March 1932

Vol. 6, No. 4 May 1932

Report of the Fund Chairman

Catherine Baldwin Woodbridge

Catherine Baldwin Woodbridge

DURING the year 1940-41 the Alumnae Fund totalled $31,299.64. Of this, $19,910.04 was earmarked for special purposes. The other $11,389.60 represents unrestricted money.

This was not a year of special fund raising. After the great effort of the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund we might have expected a slump in enthusiasm. We look over the tally of the year with gratitude and pride instead.

We have more individual donors than ever, 1,296 of them. We have more unrestricted money, and we have certain achievements that we hope may simplify future money-raising.

The reorganization of the Alumnae Association and the Fund has been formulated and completed. This year we start out with a new and more efficient set-up and a simplification of appeals.

Last year already, in view of the coming merger, the Association and Fund worked together to interest the undergraduates. A most stimulating luncheon to the members of Student Council rewarded us with many interesting suggestions and a most encouraging senior representation. Miss Gildersleeve's annual dinner to the Class Agents was held in March. This dinner is our best opportunity to keep the Alumnae in touch with College problems. This year, as last, we were entertained by discussions of present College projects. Miss Gildersleeve herself spoke on new features of the curriculum, Miss Ethel Sturtevant described the new Medieval Studies course, and Miss Lorna McGuire, the Freshman Adviser, spoke on the varied problems of freshmen and parents that she is called upon to solve.

Miss Gildersleeve's gracious hospitality at this dinner as well as her untiring interest and patience throughout the year are a source of inspiration to all who work on the Fund.

And to all those who work, go our heartfelt thanks. To the members of the Central Committee and to the Class Agents especially, but also to the Club members who have helped raise money, to the Class Presidents, the Opera Committee and the Thrift Shop, and then to all those 1,296 individual donors who contributed last year.

The growing character of the Fund is most encouraging both to those who work for it and to the College to which it is a source of steady income. With more and more individual yearly support, the College can face the future with strong reinforcements behind her.

From the Occupation Bureau

THERE was such a marked increase in the demand for the services of women at the college level, during the late winter and spring that the number of placements for the year as a whole (ending June 30) was larger than ever before in the history of the Bureau. The number of permanent placements was greater by 43% than the low figures of 1939-40. Earnings from the year's appointments, as nearly as can be estimated, amounted to $204,174, as compared with $154,345 last year.

As usual, the first conspicuous increase was in the demand for secretaries—a field in which the orders have far outstripped the supply available at the preferred age and salary levels. A number of the orders were for Spanish stenographers, but practically none for those with other languages. Because of the revived demand for statistical and other mathematical assistants, early placement was secured by this year's graduates in mathematics and economics who wished that type of work.

There was also an increased demand for laboratory workers prepared in chemistry or bacteriology or zoology. Several industrial companies which had not been using women offered opportunities to "top-ranking chemistry majors of this year's class," and were disappointed to find that our really top-ranking people were all going on to medical or graduate study. Even so, most of the science majors who were not planning to study obtained positions fairly quickly.

In other words, most of this year's graduates who had a concrete, immediately-usable skill to offer in business or in other offices and laboratories, and who wished immediate positions, have been able to secure them without much difficulty. It is, naturally, those whose interests lie in one of the more or less creative literary or artistic fields, or in foreign language work without stenography, who face a much more difficult problem and more delay in trying to get themselves started.

In the Federal Government there has developed so great a need for stenographers, typists, tabulating machine operators, nurses, medical technicians and research chemists that Civil Service examinations for all of these are open "continuously." Many examinations for the higher grades of positions which would interest women have demanded very specialized experience. Besides the now annual junior professional assistant examination, open to seniors, the Civil Service Commission introduced this year a student aide test, with options in a variety of subjects, open to college juniors. The plan was to use some of these students in governmental departments during the summer vacation and then recall them, if successful, for service after graduation. But, so far as we knew by the early summer, from among our juniors and seniors who took and passed these examinations, the only ones to whom appointments had been offered were seniors already placed in permanent positions in private industry, and one junior who was asked to stay at least a year!

We continue to make use, to the considerable advantage of many college officers and the very great advantage of students in financial need, of the National Youth Administration allotment from the Federal Government. Eighty-four undergraduates were through these grants enabled to earn a total of $10,022. It seems probable that the allotments will be reduced in the fall, so that our funds will no longer stretch to cover all the students eligible. We always have requests for more such NYA assistants from the faculty and officers than we can supply. And the work experience as well as the pay, is in nearly all cases useful to the undergraduates. Each year there are some seniors who secure positions through their NYA experience.

As usual, between one-half and three-quarters of the students registered in college made use of the Occupation Bureau for information and placement assistance—61.1% during this last year.

We have been fortunate in having as chairman of the Alumnae Vocational Advisory Committee Mrs. Margerite Coleman, 1928, herself student chairman in her senior year and now with the State Employment Service as local director of junior placement. In December, Mrs. Coleman and Frances Smith, 1932, also of the State Employment Service, gave a whole day to personal consultations with students. In the spring semester, Katherine Kerrigan, 1923, formerly of the personnel department of R. H. Macy and Company and now office manager of the local professional division of the State Employment Service, came up twice for interviews with girls who were interested in merchandising opportunities. The Committee hopes to expand next year this plan of individual consultations with representative alumnae, possibly at homes or offices instead of on the campus.

At all the organization meetings attended this year by the staff of the Occupation Bureau, we have been trying to get as much light as possible on the problem of what our college women can best do to aid in the National Defense Program. During the winter the various speakers who represented government agencies emphasized the fact that women were not then needed in the defense industries, and the desirability of their concentrating their efforts on the third line of defense; on social problems, standards of living, and community morale. Recently, however, as the unemployment slack has been taken up, we have heard some different reports from industry, and the Civilian Defense program which appears to be getting under way is calling for many volunteers. The Barnard Occupation Bureau again, as twenty-five years ago, wishes to cooperate with the program in all ways possible. (As of August, 1941.)

The Barnard Clubs

Los Angeles

The Barnard Club enjoyed a barbecue on Saturday, September 6, at the home of May Goldman '21—a lovely new hillside home with a marvelous view of the city. Members present—some of whom were accompanied by husbands—included Helen Moran Huff '26, Constance Brown '34, Virginia Kreuzer '29, Marie Luckenbacher '21, Stella Schulz '16 and two new members, recently settled in Pasadena—Beatrice Stern '25 and Ruth Weill '24.

Mount Vernon

Under the chairmanship of Florence Dickenson O'Connell '33, the Barnard College Club of Mount Vernon met for a swimming party and picnic at the home of Frances Marlatt '21 at Candlewood Knolls on September 28.

New York

The War Relief Committee ended its first year of work on September 17 with a record of which the Club is very proud. A total of 1,007 garments was turned in during that time, of which 194 were sewn, 811 knitted, and 197 made on the knitting machine. These results were produced by 74 members and 26 non-members under the excellent leadership of Annette C. Decker '27, who has agreed to continue as chairman this year. The War Relief unit will meet every Tuesday, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 10 P. M. All of you are urged to join in this work.

The Club was fortunate during the month of October in having on exhibit photographs of New England villages, churches, countryside and sea which were taken by Sophie P. Woodman '07.

We are again raising a Barnard scholarship by the sale of subscriptions, and the prizes this year are: $100 in Defense Bonds; $50 in Defense Bonds; a portable radio. There will be additional prizes of $10 in cash, a silver brooch from Georg Jensen and a credit of $10 at Max Schling, florist. Cecile Seligman Lehman '14 is chairman of the scholarship committee. We welcome the support of non-members, who may obtain subscription books at the Club rooms in the Barbizon. Drawing for the prizes will take place at a party at the Club on Saturday, December 6.

On October 20 the Club teas were resumed, and will continue each Monday from 4:30 to 6:30 under the chairmanship of Dorothy Steele McCrea.

The duplicate bridge series, with Dorothy van den Bosch Inglis '26 as chairman, will be held on the second Wednesday of each month beginning at 8:15 promptly. There will be top score awards for each evening, and a series prize for the best six scores out of eight.

Pittsburgh

Barnard-in-Pittsburgh met on the tenth of September at the country home of Gertrude Cahill Hollinshead '23 for a picnic supper.

The serious business of the year began at the first regular meeting at the College Club on October 11. Gertrude Robin Kamin '25, recently elected president, was chairman of the meeting, and Rosemary Casey '26 spoke on the organization and aims of the Fight for Freedom Committee.

Seattle

While home on vacation this summer, Evelyn Hagmoe Green '40 entertained at a luncheon for Barnard alumnae living in and near Seattle, Washington. Among those present were Fannibelle Leland Brown '05, Joan Raisbeck Escabosa '39, Marie Chancellor Miller '16, Polly Tarbox Schairer '35, Josephine Zimmerman '32, Erna Gunther '19, Jessie Levy Feist '09 and Enid Mack Pooley '21. All were pleasantly surprised to find other alumnae living so far from 119th Street and Broadway, and more meetings were planned for the future.

Union

The first meeting of Barnard-in-Union for this season was held on Thursday evening, October 2, at the home of Susan Lockwood Adams '34, in North Plainfield. It was a social meeting held over dessert, coffee and sherry, and concerned plans for future meetings. Members present were Gladys Bateman Mitchell '14, Katharine Newcomer Schlichting '25, Ruth Bates Ahrens '28, Alice Canoune Coates '34, Cornelia Merchant Hagenau '20, Gertrude Leuchtenberg Lewis '32, Iva Ellis Maclennan '33, Mildred Mangelsdorff '34, Meta Pennock Newman '17, Dorothy Myers Sayward '16, Adele Brauneck Vitalian '36 and Lilian Egleston '10.

Officers of the Club for 1941-1942 are Susan Lockwood Adams, president; Mildred Mangelsdorff, vice-president; Ruth Bates Ahrens, corresponding secretary; Iva Ellis Maclennan, recording secretary; and Cornelia Merchant Hagenau, treasurer.

Westchester

Barnard-in-Westchester held its opening tea at the Larchmont Shore Club on Saturday, October 4. Irma Meyer Serphos was in charge. Guests of honor included Professor Florrie Holzwasser of the Barnard geology department; Dr. Mirra Komarovsky of the sociology department; and Miss Elspeth Davies, American Studies.

The club's annual sub-freshman day was held on the Barnard campus on Friday, October 31. Evelyn Haring Blanchard, chairman, sent out over seventy invitations to Westchester high school seniors interested in attending Barnard. The girls were taken on a tour of the campus and entertained by a group of undergraduates at tea.

Barnard Publishes

HOW AMERICA LIVES by J. C. Furnas and the staff of The Ladies' Home Journal, among them Mary Carson Cookman, Barnard 1926. New York: Henry Holt and Co. $3.00.

PART of this book appeared, as monthly sketches, in the Ladies' Home Journal last year, but between these covers the editors have included a great deal of new material.

"You are Democracy," they tell the reader, "and here are some close-up views of you." Sixteen families are here, chosen to represent every section of the country and every economic level.

The families who were picked as representative of their group were photographed everywhere except in the bathtub and answered questions about their income and expenses, their religious beliefs, their favorite amusements, their plans for the children, their daily menus, what they read, how they vote, and were their children planned or accidental. The idea was that the whole country should get to know them as well as if they lived next door and exchanged seeds and quilt pieces across the back fence.

It is true that these varied Americans emerge from the ordeal pretty well. There is no doubt but that this country is full of down-right good people, hard working, honorable, and ambitious. We are proud to recognize our countrymen.

The only trouble is that your reviewer can't imagine for a moment asking her neighbors any of these questions. How good-natured Americans are to answer them, but how cheeky to ask! Perhaps the violence done to the private affairs of sixteen families was more than compensated for by some warmth of kinship that swept the readers of the Journal as each new issue was avidly devoured.

Democracy is a great thing and I will die for it. However, no one need ask me, in its name, what my husband pays for his suits or how much we have in the savings bank or whether the babies surprised us.

M. C. W.

THE HOLLOW CHEST by Alice Tilton, Barnard 1930. New York: W. W. Norton and Co. $2.00.

ALTHOUGH your reviewer will lay odds of 1930 to one that you won't be able to locate Alice Tilton in your Alumnae Register, why then does her opus rate space in this most esoteric of book columns. Here, from month to month, dialect detectives lie down beside Navajo weavers, medieval cathedrals appear beside vers libres, and Gullah negroes and prairie priests eye each other dubiously. Ph.D. theses and murder mysteries vie for top billing here, and the one thing that all have in common is that each was written by an alumna or a member of the faculty of Barnard College.

Yet The Hollow Chest was written by a Barnard alumna although its publishers would rather not come right out and say so.

Obviously a smooth job by one who has published before, this also bears the earmarks of having been written by one who has gone thoroughly into detective fiction. Perhaps she is so deep in it that all the paraphernalia of intricate plot, brisk dialogue, incomprehensible clues, and sardonic humor, begin to bore her a little. Suppose that she had one detective well-established (a dry Cape Codder, for instance) and had built up a reputation for serving him forth in a series of the fastest moving and funniest mysteries now being published. Suppose she went on a mental binge, and emerged at the end of it with a devastating take-off of all detective tales—a mystery story to end all mystery stories, so to speak. If such were the case, and your reviewer is just guessing that it is, think of the fun she could have complicating her plot to the point where it becomes ludicrous. Think of the joyous abandon with which she could hurl together a boy's class egging a general, a blonde gagged on the bed of a headmaster, a horse named George who makes dates on street corners, three or four men who look like William Shakespeare, an antiquated horsecar, and—final, beautiful, tongue-in-cheek touch—that hoary veteran of mystery tales, a chest with a false bottom. Believe it or not, all these things are present in The Hollow Chest, plus a good many more. It must have been fun to write. It is fun, in a dizzy way, to read.

Most parodies are written by people who are not professionals in the field they are mimicking, and whose touch is further weakened by some scorn or dislike of their subject. This one, tossed off in derisive good nature by someone who has won her spurs doing saner versions of the same thing, hits a lot nearer the truth.

M. C. W.

EVERYONE'S CHILDREN, NOBODY'S CHILD, by Justine Wise Polier, Barnard '24. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. $2.75.

SURELY one of the wisest acts of Mayor LaGuardia of New York City was to appoint Justine Wise Polier as a judge in the Court of Domestic Relations. Most laymen are inclined to regard courts and the processes of law with baffled awe or, at the other extreme, with cynicism. Judge Polier interprets the complexities of court proceedings and decisions in simple, human terms. Her frankness and understanding must disarm the cynical.

This well-documented book discusses past and present approaches to and actual methods of dealing with neglected or delinquent children, both boys and girls. In analyzing the cases of children who have appeared before her in the Children's Court, Judge Polier sees the mischief done or the crime committed not as an isolated, malicious act, but always in its relation to the complete background of social, economic, health and emotional conditions. Ordinarily she finds ample evidence that crowded, unsanitary housing, disturbed and distorted family relationships, broken homes, emotional inadequacies and similar factors are responsible for producing delinquent or criminal tendencies.

Her own disposition of the sad cases that come before her is signally sensible and humane. She utilizes to the fullest possible extent the services and facilities, both private and public, which work for the rehabilitation and normal development of these children. Such facilities, however, have never kept pace with the acute need, and agencies for child-care and child-placement have often worked at cross purposes with one another. Political and religious issues often bedevil the situation. Even the most well-meaning judge, even the intelligently guided agency is frequently thwarted in arriving at a solution of the problem which is best for the child concerned. Judge Polier is openly critical of reformatory treatment for most of these young people. She lays bare the serious lack of channels for proper placement of Negro children. Her book, though quiet and reasoned, presents a sharp challenge to our social system which has failed, for the most part, to provide healthy, sound and economically secure living conditions for the families from which so-called neglected and delinquent children come.

IN MEMORIAM

Helen Dawes Brown

HELEN DAWES BROWN, one of the original trustees of Barnard to whom the charter of the College was first granted, died in Chicago on September 6, 1941, at the age of 84.

Miss Brown was born in 1857 at Concord, Massachusetts, and was graduated from Vassar College with the Class of 1878, and received her A.M. there in 1890. She had studied also at Oxford University.

After teaching English at Vassar for four years, Miss Brown was a member of the faculty of Brearley School, New York, for thirteen years. She wrote several books for children; and she was one of the founders of the Women's University Club.

* * * * *

1900 ELIZABETH MAPELSDEN who had retired in 1940 after thirty-six years of association with the Hartridge School in Plainfield, N. J., died recently at her New York home.

Miss MAPELSDEN joined the Hartridge School in 1904 as secretary and treasurer. Later she became the head of the residence department, and in 1933 secretary of the Board of Trustees. For twenty years she served as associate principal of the school.

* * * * *

1904 ELLA REBEKAH PEIFFER, long a teacher in Texas, Minnesota and Maryland, died in September, 1941.

* * * * *

1915 GRACE PERLMAN GUINZBURG (Mrs. Roland H. Guinzburg), an associate member of the class of 1915, died recently in New York. She had been active in charitable work and politics in Queens, and later in her home in Montrose, New York.

1921 After the gradual wasting of a six months' illness, ADA BENEY MIRLIN passed away on June 20, 1941, ending a sincere and useful life in its richest years.

During college days, Ada was the quiet, dependable sort. Her greatest academic interest was economics, and she obtained both her M. A. and Ph.D. in this subject at Columbia. She was married in 1925 to Albert Mirlin, a chemical engineer. They had no children.

For the greater part of her college life after graduation, Ada was affiliated with the National Industrial Conference Board. While thus employed she wrote a great number of articles on labor, wages and hours, living costs in various communities and countries, and affiliated subjects, and these were published by the National Industrial Conference Board. She also contributed to the Real Estate Record, the Architectural Record, the Foreman and the Journal of Commerce various articles on rent trends, high wages and living standards. She later became economic analyst for the National Electrical Manufacturers' Association. Her work kept her in contact with many of the outstanding men and women in the industrial and economic field, and she found it interesting and stimulating. She was a member of the American Statistical Association, and the Personnel Club of New York, serving on its membership committee.

Travel, both here and abroad, was her greatest thrill, and for her leisure moments, her interests were piano playing and oil painting. Reading, interior decoration, and gardening at her beloved country home in Hopewell, New Jersey, claimed much of her attention. Recently she was active in Red Cross and British War Relief Work.

As class representative of the Barnard Alumnae Fund, Ada's industry was unflagging, and her interest most ardent and sincere. At its meeting in June, 1940, Ada was elected president of the class of 1921, and the following year she was unanimously voted permanent president of the class.

With deep regret, her classmates mourn in her passing a skilled leader and a devoted friend.

1925 ELINOR CURTIS HENDERSON died, after a sudden illness, on June 11, 1941, in Chicago. She was born on January 11, 1901. Besides her husband, mother and brother, she left three sons: Curtis, 15; Lynn, 6; and Donald, 3. She was buried at Woodlawn Cemetery in New York.

1931 SALLY KNIGHT VREDENBURGH was a faithful and devoted daughter of Barnard College. She gave to the interests of her college, both as an undergraduate and as an alumna, untiring effort and much interest. As an undergraduate she was active in all sorts of extra-curricular activities. She served the class of 1931 as sophomore president, and the Undergraduate Association ably, first as treasurer and then as a successful president. She also found time to act as an associate editor of Mortarboard and as a member of the then newly-constituted undergraduate committee of the Seven Women's Colleges. She was unanimously elected the permanent president of the class of 1931, and served on many alumnae committees.

She had a natural interest in practical politics, which manifested itself after graduation in working to attain a reform municipal administration in New York City. She was also an interested member of the Colonial Dames of America and the Society of Holland Dames.

I think the qualities which most impressed me about her as an undergraduate leader were first her unusual gifts in dealing with classmates of different types, and secondly, her organizing ability. In matters of organization she had a special gift. She saw both the wood and the trees. In moments of difficulty she was seldom daunted, and her charm and humor relieved many situations. Much of her influence came from the respect her classmates had for the ideals which activated her unassuming leadership. Moreover, she was intelligent, punctual and reliable in performing what she undertook to do. Another outstanding quality was her courtesy which came from her heart as a part of her nature.

The Class of 1931 does homage to the memory of SALLY VREDENBURGH whom we loved and whose loss cannot be measured in words.

1936 KATHLEEN G. MURPHY, daughter of Herbert C. and Katherine Simon Murphy of 1 Leighton Avenue, died suddenly Saturday, October 4, in the Yonkers Professional Hospital. She was twenty-five years old.

Miss MURPHY was a graduate of Barnard College, class of 1936. In 1938 she was awarded a Master of Arts degree at Columbia University. She was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity and the Barnard College Club of Westchester. Prior to January 1, she was an assistant section chief in the Census Bureau at Washington, D. C.

Let's Celebrate
IT'S CHESTERFIELD

Pass around the Chesterfields and it's pleasure time for everybody . . . smoking pleasure that only the right combination of the world's best cigarette tobaccos can give you.

Chesterfields make good friends . . . they're milder, definitely better-tasting and cooler-smoking. Everybody who smokes them likes them.

They Satisfy
