Undergraduate Officers.

At a meeting of the Undergraduate Association, on Thursday, May 2d, elections for the president and for the treasurer were held. Miss Allen, '02, was elected president for next year, and Miss Stobo, '04, was chosen treasurer.

Miss Allen was sophomore president of the class of 1902. She is business manager of the Mortarboard, president of the chorus, and president of the C. S. M. A., a delegate to the Philadelphia convention for the C. S. M. A., and president of the French Society.

Northfield Conference.

On Thursday, May 16th, at 4.30, in the theatre, the Y. W. C. A. and C. S. M. A. will hold an informal meeting to consider the question of sending a delegation to the Northfield summer conference for young women, July 12th-22th. Miss Effie Kelly Price, the leader of the conference, and also student secretary of the American committee of Y. W. C. A. Associations, will speak. Some of our trustees, who are interested, will also be present. Every Barnard girl is invited. The following is part of the announcement for the conference:

Leader, Miss Effie Kelly Price.

Presiding Officer, Mr. John R. Mott, General Secretary World's Student Christian Federation.

Business Manager, Miss Thirsa F. Hall. Bible Classes, Dr. W. W. White, Miss Mary L. Babcock.

Student Conference, Miss Bertha Condé, Miss Ruth Paxson.

City Conference, Miss Helen F. Barnes, Miss Mary S. Dunn.

Missionary Conference, Dr. Pauline Root, Member Executive Committee Student Volunteer Movement; Miss Margaret Shearman, Secretary for Student Volunteer Movement.

Among the speakers and guests are: Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster, Member of the American Committee; Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, London; Mrs. Lucy Waterbury, Baptist Board Foreign Missions; Rev. Charles R. Erdman, Germantown, Pa.; Miss Annie M. Reynolds, Mr. Robert E. Speer, Rev. J. Douglas Adam, Brooklyn; Dr. and Mrs. Howard Taylor, China; Miss Agnes Gale Hill, India; Dr. C. I. Scofield, East Northfield; Miss Grace Stephens and Sooboonagam Ammal, Madras, India; Dr. Emily Charles, Harlem; Mrs. A. W. Montgomery, Rochester, N. Y.

Columbia Notes.

Prof. Wilson, of the Department of Biology, will deliver the commencement address before the Yale Medical School, in June.

Dr. W. S. Rainsford has accepted the invitation of the trustees of Columbia University to preach the baccalaureate sermon to the seniors, on June 9th.

The Address of Mrs. Kelly.

Last week the Barnard Chapter and sub-chapters of the College Settlement Association enjoyed an address, at Barnard, by Mrs. Kelly, secretary of the Consumers' League.

Mrs. Kelly emphasized the fact that, while many women are spending time and money in trying to ameliorate the evil conditions of the poorest working class, they are, at the same time, helping very directly to bring about the very conditions they attempt to better.

The workers who make consumption goods for women are chiefly women and girls. Of these, all get smaller pay than men who do similar work. In the factory of one of the largest caramel businesses a girl can earn, by working ten hours a day, about ninety cents. Many pieces of the finest clothes are manufactured at the homes of the laborers, and the purchasers receive all the filth and contagion of the slums into their own homes with the articles they buy.

Mrs. Kelly gave many specific instances of the factory conditions all the way from Maine to Illinois. The Consumers' League aims to have all factories and large shops put on the "white list." This means that the factories must be run on certain humane and sanitary conditions that the league has found practical and decent.

In Boston goods marked with the Consumers' League label can be procured at almost every establishment where supplies are sold. But, in New York, Wanamaker's is the only large retail shop of which the same can be said.

The speaker then urged the members of the audience to demand Consumers' League goods whenever they went shopping. A demand would thus be created which must be supplied and which would ultimately force the shops to sell goods made under proper conditions. Having visited all factories of any size, from Maine to the Middle West, Mrs. Kelly strongly advocated that every woman visit factories when the opportunity offered. Only in this way, and by being careful to buy goods made under proper and humane conditions, can the present deplorable state of "the slums" be satisfactorily changed. All the settlement work in the world can be of no avail if the sort of work that the Consumers' League is trying with heart and soul to accomplish, is not aided by the great mass of the women of the upper classes.

Honors in English.

The essays of candidates for honors in English should be handed in at the Dean's office, on or before Saturday, May 18th.

A silver-gilt dragon pin. Please return to A. Carl, '02.

A fountain pen, No. 12, stub. Please return to coat-room.

Appointments at Columbia.

At the regular monthly meeting of the trustees of Columbia University, on Monday, May 6th, various appointments were made for next year. Prof. Henry S. Redfield, of the Cornell University Law School, was appointed Professor of Law. Other appointments were Dr. Emmett Holt, Clinical Professor of the Diseases of Children; Alexis P. Anderson, Ph.D., curator of the herbarium; H. W. Shimer, A.B., assistant in palæontology; George P. Finlay, A.B., assistant in geology; George Canning Hubbard, B.S., assistant in analytical chemistry and assaying; Myron S. Falk, tutor in civil engineering; Joseph C. Pfister, A.M., instructor in mechanics; Samuel O. Miller and Thomas H. Harrington, A.M., tutors in drawing; A. M. Creigier, assistant in drawing; A. L. Q. Queneau, tutor in metallurgy; Clayton M. Hamilton, A.B., tutor in English; Ralph C. Ringwalt, A.B., lecturer in public speaking.

For Barnard College the following appointments were made: Gertrude M. Hirsh, assistant in classical philology; Ellen S. Davison, lecturer in history; William Findlay, tutor in mathematics; Julia S. Collis, assistant in physics; William E. Kellicott, assistant in zoology.

New appointments for instructors already at Barnard were as follows: Dr. Benjamin Duryea Woodward, '88, assistant commission at the Paris Exposition, adjunct Professor of Romance Languages; Henry B. Crampton, Ph.D., adjunct Professor of Zoology.

Prof. John W. Houston resigned the position of Professor of Law, to take effect June 30th.

President Low appointed Prof. Edward Delavan Perry to represent the university at the millenary of King Alfred the Great, to be held at Winchester, England, in July.

A gift of appliances to the department of mechanical engineers was received from Messrs. Fayerweather and Ledroux.

Commencement Schedule.

The schedule for commencement week has been drawn up, as follows: Thursday, June 7th, Barnard Senior Dance; Friday, June 8th, Barnard Class Day; Sunday, June 10th, Baccalaureate sermon by the Rev. Dr. Rainsford; Monday afternoon, June 11th, Columbia Class Day; Monday night, June 11th, Columbia Senior Dance; Tuesday, June 12th, Reception to the Seniors, by President and Mrs. Low; Wednesday morning, June 13th, Commencement.

On Monday, May 7th, the class of 1902 elected its senior officers, as follows: President, Elizabeth Coddington; vice-president, Elsie Totten; recording secretary, Eleanor Van Cott; corresponding secretary, Jeannette Seibert; treasurer, Grace De Hart.

BARNARD COLLEGE,
COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, MAY 13, 1901.

The election of Miss Elizabeth Allen to the presidency of the Undergraduate Association involves the inevitable loss of our present officer in that capacity, Miss Sanville.

Before Miss Sanville was elected, last spring, the office of president was an honorary one, and carried with it little administrative power, little executive reform, and still less influence on the students generally. Now the office has shown that it involves power, executive and administrative, and that the president's influence is of vital importance to the Undergraduate Association.

Her rare qualities of firmness, energy and good sense, combined with a willingness to see all sides of a question, have enabled Miss Sanville to conduct undergraduate matters in a spirit of fairness and yet with such vigor as to bring general satisfaction.

Her firmness was shown by the dignity with which she conducted meetings and the force with which she supported all plans which she was convinced were expedient. All the committees of the association, standing and temporary, can testify to her energy and good sense. For she was never too tired or too busy to attend even the smallest meeting. At them all she was ever open to conviction and ready to co-operate in every way possible. A great part of the successful work of the various committees is due to her personal influence.

The results of the firm and energetic rule of this year have been, in fact, definite. It was at the suggestion of Miss Sanville, and through the hearty co-operation of the executive committee, that Barnard gave its first, and eminently successful, college play. The teas, too, have been better managed than ever before. Many minor complaints of the students have been done away with by Miss Sanville's tactful personal intervention with the authorities. As a member of the executive committee, she assisted in amending the constitution in various beneficial ways, and helped to solve many questions that that body had to consider.

We cannot but look back with pride on the manner in which the Undergraduate Association has been directed this year, and it is impossible not to attribute a large share of the success we boast of to Miss Sanville.

Now that the May buds have come out, but not the promised Mortarboard, there is a general feeling among the students that that long and eagerly-awaited publication may defer its appearance in college until the hot months and the summer vacation have begun.

Any such postponement would involve most serious discomfort to the students. In the first place, the long-sustained strain of expectation to which the members of the college have been subjected for the past months has practically reached its highest point, and any longer uncertainty might cause untold woe. In the second place, the difficult and knotty problem would arise, as to who should pay the postage which will be necessitated by the appearance of the Mortarboard in summer, and its consequent forwarding to subscribers? Such a discussion over such a point would surely be fruitless, and the added expense might cause some of those who have promised to purchase the book to withdraw their names. Therefore, we suggest that, in order to obviate all difficulties, and to give the editors additional time to collect advertisements, the length of the college term be extended until the Mortarboard is ready for the market.

Columbia Elections.

Spectator has elected to its managing board, Edward J. Harrison, '03, college; George C. Atkins, '02, college, assistant business manager. Charles J. Gunther, '03, college, was elected to the associate board of editors.

Morningside added to its staff the following students: Henry Beekman, '03, college, and Clarence C. Merritt, '04, science, to the art board; Clarkson P. Rythenberg, '02, college, to the managing board; Charles W. Kennedy, '03, college, and George A. Sutton, '03, college, to the literary board.

Jester elected Jackson Knox, '04, science, to the art board; John G. Bates, '03, college, assistant business manager, and Mary H. Fisher, Barnard, literary editor.

The 1903 Columbian board has elected Clinton S. Abbott, college, editor-in-chief, with Malcolm Curry.

At a recent meeting of the Columbia Philharmonic Society, officers were chosen as follows: President, William P. Hatch, '02, science; manager, Albert Wortmann, '03, college; secretary, Walter Goldfrank, '04, college; treasurer, James Harper, '02, college.

No Quorum.

There was no quorum at the meeting of the Tennis Club, called for Tuesday last, so that the elections could not be held. Another attempt will be made to secure a quorum on Monday, May 13th, in the theatre, at 3.30, and it is hoped the members will come, so that new officers may be elected before the end of the term.

The Last Tea.

On Friday, May 3d, the last of the four undergraduate teas was held. It was an "athletic" tea, and the theatre was very prettily decorated with tennis nets and racquets, baseballs, lacrosse racquets, etc. There was an unusually large number of people at the tea, and the floor was rather uncomfortably crowded for dancing. The affair was, on the whole, a great success.

Address by the Rev. Mr. Paddock.

The Rev. Mr. Paddock, of the Pro-Cathedral, will address Barnard Chapter of the C. S. M. A. Wednesday, May 15th, at 9 o'clock. This will be the final meeting of the C. S. M. A. this term.

1904 Elections.

At the last meeting of the Freshman class the following officers for next year were elected: Agnes Durant, president; Elizabeth Metcalf, vice-president; Caroline Lexow, recording secretary; Helen Erskine, corresponding secretary; Jeanne Loomis, treasurer.

1902 Elections.

On Tuesday, May 7th, the class of 1901 elected its life officers, as follows:

President, Miss Dederer; vice-president, Miss Heroy; secretary, Miss Wehncke; treasurer, Miss Josephthal.

Students' Social Science Club.

Henry White, secretary of National Garment Cutters' Union, will deliver the last lecture of the year before the Students' Social Science Club, on Tuesday, May 14th. He will discuss "Combinations and Trusts."

The New University Hall.

The present addition to the gymnasium of Columbia has been the gift of the Columbia Alumnae. It will be used for two large dining halls, one for students and one for the faculty; there will also be a kitchen in the rear, and a large assembly hall. All these rooms are toward the center of the floor, and are surrounded by a broad corridor. To the outer side of this passage are small rooms, to be used by the book-store and by the administrative officers of the university.

Found.

The following articles can be claimed by losers, in the coat-room:

- One leather bag, with gymnasium shoes.
- Two fountain pens.
- Two tennis racquets.
- Steadman's "Poets of America."
- Chardenal's "French Course."
- Wentworth's Algebra.

Columbia University in the City of New York.

Columbia University includes both a college and a university in the strict sense of the word. The college is Columbia College, founded in 1754 as King's College. The university consists of the Faculties of Law, Medicine, Philosophy, Political Science, Pure Science and Applied Science.

The point of contact between the college and university is the senior year of the college, during which year students in the college pursue their studies, with the consent of the college faculty, under one or more of the faculties of the university.

Barnard College, a college for women, is financially, a separate corporation; but educationally, is a part of the system of Columbia University.

Teachers College, a professional school for teachers, is also, financially, a separate corporation; and also educationally, a part of the system of Columbia University.

Each college and school is under the charge of its own faculty, except that the Schools of Mines, Chemistry, Engineering and Architecture are all under the charge of the Faculty of Applied Science.

For the care and advancement of the general interests of the university educational system, as a whole, a Council has been established, which is representative of all the corporations concerned.

I. THE COLLEGES.

Columbia College offers for men a course of four years, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Candidates for admission to the college must be at least fifteen years of age, and pass an examination on prescribed subjects, the particulars concerning which may be found in the annual Circular of Information.

Barnard College, founded in 1889, offers for women a course of four years, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Candidates for admission to the college must be at least fifteen years of age, and pass an examination on prescribed subjects, the particulars concerning which may be found in the annual Circular of Information.

II. THE UNIVERSITY.

In a technical sense, the Faculties of Law, Medicine, Philosophy, Political Science, Pure Science, and Applied Science, taken together constitute the university. These faculties offer advanced courses of study and investigation, respectively, in (a) private or municipal law, (b) medicine, (c) philosophy, philology, and letters, (d) history, economics, and public law (e) mathematics and natural science, and (f) applied science. Courses of study under all of these faculties are open to members of the senior class in Columbia College. Certain courses under the non-professional faculties are open to women who have taken the first degree. These courses lead, through the Bachelor's degree, to the university degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy. The degree of Master of Laws is also conferred for advanced work in law done under the Faculties of Law and Political Science together.

III. THE PROFESSIONAL SCHOOLS.

The Faculties of Law, Medicine, and Applied Science, conduct respectively the professional schools of Law, Medicine, Mines, Chemistry, Engineering, and Architecture, to which students are admitted as candidates for professional degrees on terms prescribed by the faculties concerned. The faculty of Teachers' College conducts professional courses for teachers, that lead to a diploma of the university.

1. The SCHOOL OF LAW, established in 1858, offers a course of three years, in the principles and practice of private and public law, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Laws.
