Changes in the History Department.

Miss Ellen Scott Davison, B.S., Wellesley, '87, whose thesis on "The History of Ecclesiastical Elections" will entitle her to the doctor's degree from Columbia this June, will be the first woman to become a member of the History Department.

Professor Robinson's course on the "Development of Culture During the Middle Ages and Renaissance" will be supplemented next year by a course conducted by Mr. Shotwell; this latter course will deal with the concrete and political side of the Middle Ages, while the course given by Professor Robinson deals with the thought of the period.

Dr. Alonzo Cushing will be on the history staff of officers in the place of Professor Osgood.

There will be a general change in the conducting of all history courses. Two-hour courses will no longer be given. All will take three hours a week—two hours of lectures, one of consultation between students and the instructor.

Three hundred or more new slides, which will be carefully prepared, are to be used in the electric lantern, in order to make more vivid the subject-matter of the lectures.

Wood's Holl Scholarship.

A friend of the College has founded a scholarship in the Marine Biological Laboratory at Wood's Holl, Mass. The first student to go to Wood's Holl from Barnard, and the holder of this scholarship for the summer session of 1901, is Margaret E. Clark, '02.

A Valuable Print.

A book, probably made about 1429, hand illuminated with red letter capitals, has recently been added to the Columbia Library. It is entitled "Biblia Latina, Corpus Evangelicium et Quattitor Epistolæ Canonice." The scribe Chunrad has made an interlinear gloss to it; in a note he states that he was called Toblac, and that he was rector of schools in Pö, on the River Inn.

An idea of the length of time required to write such a book is given by a curious feature: The day and hour at which each chapter was finished is written in at the end.

Teachers' College Scholarship.

Dean Russell has had an offer of three special scholarships of about $500 each, for the assistance of Southern teachers who may wish to study at Teachers' College for one year.

Teachers of experience, who are well qualified to engage in work like school supervision, are to be eligible for the scholarships.

Shakespeare at Vassar.

On the afternoon of May 13th, Vassar students gave a production of "As You Like It" on the campus. This was the first attempt of the college to produce a Shakespearian play. The comedy was produced out of doors, and placards were hung up on the sides of the stage, telling the different places represented. Old-style play bills, printed in old English, took the place of the conventional programme.

At this performance, the Vassar College Orchestra, composed of twenty students and members of the faculty, under the leadership of Professor Gow, made its first appearance.

Appointments in the Philippines.

The Dean of Teachers' College has been requested by the Superintendent of Public Instruction in the Philippines to appoint two teachers for industrial work in the Philippines, at a salary of $1,500 each, and with the usual provision for transportation.

The University Appointment Committee has been asked to appoint for general teaching in the Philippines three men, at a salary of $1,200, and three women, at a salary of $1,050.

New Laboratory Equipments.

The Zoölogy Department has decided to use its recent gift of $1,300 for an elaborate equipment of its present rooms in Milbank Hall. The money will be used, not for the extension of the laboratory, but for equipment, in order that women graduate students at Columbia may have the proper means to enable them to take laboratory work as well as lectures at Barnard.

To cover this increased field of work, Dr. Crampton has been appointed adjunct professor of zoölogy, and William E. Kellcott has been appointed his assistant.

Undergraduate Elections.

At the second meeting of the Undergraduate Association for election of officers for the year 1901-1902, the offices were filled as follows: Vice-president, Edith Durant; secretary, Ethel Pool; chairman of the Executive Committee, Mary Hall; Junior member of the Executive Committee, May Johnson; Sophomore member, Katharine Doty. At the previous meeting of the association Elizabeth Allen was elected president and Jeannette Stobo was elected treasurer, as reported last week.

Again No Quorum.

A fourth and last attempt this spring has been made to get a quorum of the Tennis Club, in order to elect officers, and has failed. The present officers will, therefore, have to continue their duties until next fall.

Miss Gill Addresses the Students.

Miss Gill, in leading chapel on Tuesday last, made a short address to the students. The main topic of her talk was the creation of an atmosphere in college. Every thought, every feeling, said Miss Gill, works itself into the fiber of our nature. The lines of our face and the movements of our body show in their self-restraint, and their accuracy, and their poise, the thoughts which make up our lives. The old Chinese proverb, "A man's riches are to be seen in his eyes," has a very profound and real truth in it, for it is in our eyes that the riches of our characters are to be discerned. This personality which we build up is not for ourselves alone, for we can come into contact with no one without leaving our impress on him.

If our influence is so potent, each one of us has a duty—a duty toward our friends and acquaintances, a duty toward our College. We all help to make its atmosphere, and it is dependent upon us for its excellence. The personality of a college is much like that of a person—both have past habits as well as present conditions. For the past habits and spirit of Barnard the alumnae are responsible; its present conditions and purposes are represented by the undergraduates. As an example of the influence which is thus exerted by one person upon another, Miss Gill cited the intensely pessimistic, intensely gloomy, and yet in parts intensely truthful poem of Thomson, "The City of Dreadful Night." For the creation of such an atmosphere or one very different from it, each student is directly responsible, and the greatest gift which she can bestow on her fellow students is that of noble thoughts, the highest ideals, and the present purpose. To make possible such a spirit in the College is the duty of every student.

Three Hour History Courses.

It is a very wise plan on the part of the Faculty, so it seems to students who have had any experience in history courses as they are conducted at Barnard, to make all of these courses count for three hours. Every two-hour course in history given in College this year covers an amount of ground and carries with it enough work to justify making it a three-hour course. The third hour with its consultation and discussion of the work, makes possible a comprehension and grasp of the subjects, the lack of which has hitherto been a great discouragement to the students. Another difficulty, the excessive number of courses, resulting from the necessity of filling out the required amount of hours, will be alleviated by the substitution of three-hour for two-hour courses.

MONDAY, MAY 20, 1901.

The president of the Tennis Club has called four meetings for the purpose of electing officers for next year. Not once, however, could twenty-six members be collected in order that the necessary business might be transacted. Such a state of affairs is not only unfortunate—it is more, it is deplorable. Whether the students consider the Tennis Club a very important organization or not is not of much consequence; they have entered the club, promised to pay their dues, and assumed the other obligations of membership, and are consequently held responsible by the officers. The meetings which are held are few in number and last but a few moments, but even those few moments seem too many to be given by the undergraduates. Their failure to appear at meetings prevents the completion, and often the undertaking, of necessary business, and takes the valuable time of those few who have conscientiously attempted to gather a quorum.

The officers, as long as everything runs smoothly, get no credit for their work, but as soon as difficulties arise they are held responsible. Very often the trouble for which they are blamed is due solely to the fact that no meeting could be held, because of the failure of students to attend.

Every student can in all probability find ten minutes' time to attend a meeting of any club to which she may belong, and it is unfortunate that she should consider her entire duty discharged when she has paid her dues and done nothing else.

This attitude, so often held toward organizations of which the students are members, is one which has been growing through repetition, and which ought to be corrected with all rapidity.

Editors of "Columbia Law Review."

The editorial board of the "Columbia Law-Review" has chosen for its officers for 1901-1902: Russell C. Leffingwell, editor-in-chief; Bridgham Curtis, secretary; Philip W. Russell, business manager, and Emory H. Sykes, treasurer.

Columbia News.

Professor John Bassett Moore, Professor of International Law, and Professor W. M. Sloane, Professor of History, and also Captain Mahan, a Columbia graduate, will give a series of lectures during the summer at the Naval College in Washington.

The evening course in debating next year has been definitely arranged, so as not to conflict with the meetings of the debating societies. Mr. Ringwalt, who has spent the past three years at the Harvard Law School, will return to Columbia to conduct this course.

Professor MacDowell has written the music for six Columbia songs. Five of these are for male chorus, without accompaniment; one, for voices in unison, is suited to accompaniment of one or more instruments. It is hoped that Professor George E. Woodberry will write the words to these songs. The music was written in the conviction that foreign melodies, such as heretofore used at Columbia and at other universities, cannot have any real connection with a university in this country.

C. S. M. A.

Mr. Paddock, of the Pro-Cathedral Mission, addressed the C. S. M. A. at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. His subject was "Summer Mission Work," which he treated from the point of view of what might be carried on during vacation by the students. It is possible for them to interest people outside of New York in missions.

It is also possible for students to get reports of the City, Diocesan, Western, and Foreign Missions, and bring them for inspection to the Woman's Auxiliary of their parish. Another mode of assistance open to students is to give aid of various sorts to clergy in very small towns.

College Settlement Election.

At a meeting of the Barnard Chapter of College Settlement Association last Friday May Johnson, '03. was chosen Barnard for for next year.

Notice.

There were two books used in the undergraduate play, "Sigwart's Logic," Vols. I. and II., and James' "Psychology." These books have not been returned. Any one who has these books, or knows where they are, is requested to return them to the Reading Room.

Chorus Elections.

At a business meeting of the Barnard Chorus last Tuesday, the following elections took place: Bessie Thompson, president; Laura Van Cise, secretary; Marion Smith, treasurer.

Notice.

All members of the Basket-ball Club who have played basket-ball this winter are requested to remove their gymnasium suits from the dressing-room, before the end of May.

Columbia University in the City of New York.

Columbia University includes both a college and a university in the strict sense of the word. The college is Columbia College, founded in 1754 as King's College. The university consists of the Faculties of Law, Medicine, Philosophy, Political Science, Pure Science and Applied Science.

The point of contact between the college and university is the senior year of the college, during which year students in the college pursue their studies, with the consent of the college faculty, under one or more of the faculties of the university.

Barnard College, a college for women, is financially, a separate corporation; but educationally, is a part of the system of Columbia University.

Teachers College, a professional school for teachers, is also, financially, a separate corporation; and also educationally, a part of the system of Columbia University.

Each college and school is under the charge of its own faculty, except that the Schools of Mines, Chemistry, Engineering and Architecture are all under the charge of the Faculty of Applied Science.

For the care and advancement of the general interests of the university educational system, as a whole, a Council has been established, which is representative of all the corporations concerned.

I. THE COLLEGES.

Columbia College offers for men a course of four years, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Candidates for admission to the college must be at least fifteen years of age, and pass an examination on prescribed subjects, the particulars concerning which may be found in the annual Circular of Information.

Barnard College, founded in 1889, offers for women a course of four years, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Candidates for admission to the college must be at least fifteen years of age, and pass an examination on prescribed subjects, the particulars concerning which may be found in the annual Circular of Information.

II. THE UNIVERSITY.

In a technical sense, the Faculties of Law, Medicine, Philosophy, Political Science, Pure Science, and Applied Science, taken together constitute the university. These faculties offer advanced courses of study and investigation, respectively, in (a) private or municipal law, (b) medicine, (c) philosophy, philology, and letters, (d) history, economics, and public law (e) mathematics and natural science, and (f) applied science. Courses of study under all of these faculties are open to members of the senior class in Columbia College. Certain courses under the non-professional faculties are open to women who have taken the first degree. These courses lead, through the Bachelor's degree, to the university degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy. The degree of Master of Laws is also conferred for advanced work in-law done under the Faculties of Law and Political Science together.

III. THE PROFESSIONAL SCHOOLS.

The Faculties of Law, Medicine, and Applied Science, conduct respectively the professional schools of Law, Medicine, Mines, Chemistry, Engineering, and Architecture, to which students are admitted as candidates for professional degrees on terms prescribed by the faculties concerned. The faculty of Teachers' College conducts professional courses for teachers, that lead to a diploma of the university.

1. The SCHOOL OF LAW, established in 1858, offers a course of three years, in the principles and practice of private and public law, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

2. The COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, founded in 1807, offers a course of four years, in the principles and practice of medicine and surgery, leading to the degree of Doctor of Medicine.

3. The SCHOOL OF MINES, established in 1864, offers courses of study, each of four years, leading to a professional degree, in mining engineering and in metallurgy.

4. The SCHOOLS OF CHEMISTRY, ENGINEERING, AND ARCHITECTURE, set off from the School of Mines in 1896, offer respectively, courses of study, each of four years, leading to an appropriate professional degree, in analytical and applied chemistry; in civil, sanitary, electrical, and mechanical engineering; and in architecture.

5. TEACHERS' COLLEGE, founded in 1888 and chartered in 1889, was included in the university system in 1898. It offers the following courses of study: (a) graduate courses leading to the higher diploma or to the secondary diploma; (b) professional courses, each of two years, leading to diplomas for teachers and supervisors in kindergartens or elementary schools, or for specialists in Domestic Art, Domestic Science, Fine Arts, and Manual Training; (c) a collegiate course of two years, which, if followed by a two years' professional course, leads to the degree of Bachelor of Science. Certain of its courses may be taken without extra charge by students of the university in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, and Doctor of Philosophy.

SETH LOW, LL.D., President.
