Supervision of College Plays

At the undergraduate meeting on Monday, October 28th, the report of the committee for the general supervision of plays was read and accepted as follows:

1. Any play to be given by any organization of Barnard College shall be submitted for approval to this committee.

2. Any student who has entrance conditions amounting to more than three point shall not be permitted to act in any play.

3. Any student having more than one F or more than two Ds shall not be permitted to act in any play.

4. Only students having no F and not more than one D shall be permitted to take part in two, but no more than two, plays having rehearsals during the same weeks.

5. This committee shall have the privilege of attending rehearsals if it so decides and suggesting alterations if necessary.

The Sophomore-Freshman Debating Club

In the early part of 1901 several members of the class of 1904 decided on the establishment of a debating society at Barnard College. After announcing to the class their intention to found such a club and asking for its support, they proceeded to hold the first meeting on February 26th. At this meeting and the following one, held on March 14th, a constitution was adopted. According to this there were to be two permanent officers, general manager and clerk respectively, and the meetings were to be held once every three weeks. Three debates were held during the term. The first subject discussed was "Resolved, That the results of college examinations be posted according to the present system." The second: "Resolved, That the works of Kipling be considered literature." The third: "Resolved, That Aguinaldo should be tried as a traitor to the United States." In the first debate the affirmative side won; in the remaining two, the negative. At the regular meeting of April 25th it was decided to make the club a Sophomore-Freshman society, and at the first meeting of the present term, October 25th, the name of "Sophomore-Freshman Debating Club" was chosen. The club is now awaiting new members from the Freshman Class, all members of which are cordially invited to join. All Freshmen and Sophomores who wish to join the Debating Club are requested to put their applications and their time-cards in letter-box D, Milbank Hall, during the coming week.

New Apparatus in Biology Laboratory

The courses given in the biological department at Barnard have become far more valuable this year than they have been hitherto, because of the greater advantages secured through a fund raised for the purpose of adding to the equipment of the biological laboratory. The greater part of this fund ($1,300) was raised last spring by Mrs. Henry F. Osborn, wife of the professor of vertebrate zoölogy at Columbia; $600 was donated by Barnard, several hundred more was given by ex-President Low. The total sum amounted to $2,100. Among the recent purchases, made under the personal supervision of Dr. Crampton, head of the biological department at Barnard, are eighteen Seitz microscopes, with other general optical apparatus; several cases of glassware; chemicals, a large number of skeletons, vertebrate and invertebrate; preparations of various kinds for use in advanced courses, and a large number of reference books, making a substantial increase in the biological library.

Though the equipment is designed primarily for the use of those taking graduate courses, it may also be used by undergraduate students, adding greatly to the facilities for more elementary researches.

This improvement has long been needed, for, though the graduate women students in Columbia University attend the lecture courses given by Professors Osborn and Wilson at Columbia, all laboratory work for such courses is done at Barnard. The courses in biology given at Barnard and Columbia are parallel, and there are as many students registered in that department at Barnard as at Columbia. In proportion to the increase in equipment, there has been a corresponding increase in the amount of space given over to the uses of the biological department. It now includes two large laboratories and three smaller rooms on the fourth floor, besides a lecture room used also for other purposes.

Y. W. C. A. Meeting

At a business meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday, October 24th, the following propositions were discussed and adopted:

"1. Resolved, That the constitution of the Young Women's Christian Association of Barnard College be amended so as to conform to the requirements for membership in the Young Women's Christian Association of New York State and thus in the World's Student Federation."

"2. Resolved, That all present members of the association, not belonging to an evangelical church be retained as active members.

Address by Mr. Devine

The College Settlement Association held a meeting Wednesday afternoon in the College Theater. After a short business meeting Mr. Devine, of the Charity Organization Society, gave an interesting address, taking for his subject "Social Work and Woman's Part in It." He spoke of the extension of philanthropic work in late years and of the attention it is attracting among men and women who choose this work instead of teaching. The primary essentials for workers are faith and love—optimistic, buoyant, unquenchable faith in human beings, and the love that means a genuine sentiment expressed in personal responsibility for the needy. Both these essentials come spontaneously in the midst of the struggle. Mr. Devine concluded by telling of the need for capable women in the work, and spoke of the College Settlement as a means of training and inspiration for further activity.

Miss Williams, who has charge of the New York Settlement house, then told of the work that is going on there, and particularly of the success of the boys' clubs. She concluded with an appeal for workers.

Columbia Gymnasium

The Columbia University gymnasium and swimming pool will probably be opened to Barnard College students two evenings each week from 8 until 10 o'clock. It has not yet been decided whether the two evenings designated will be Mondays and Wednesdays, or Wednesdays and Fridays. Students are requested to notify Miss Knox at once of their preference.

The conditions on which the gymnasium will be opened to women of the University were communicated to one of the Barnard alumnae in the following letter:

"Dear Madam:

"I am requested by Dr. Butler, the acting president, to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 23d inst. and to say that it is his purpose to post a circular at once to the effect that it costs to open the gymnasium for women two evenings in the week about $600. If 200 students from the University, including Barnard and Teachers' College, will register for these sessions at a fee of $3 each, the other details will be arranged at once. Last year the major part of the cost was met by gifts from outside sources. Respectfully,

Wm. H. H. Beebe, Sec'y

BARNARD BULLETIN,
BARNARD COLLEGE,
COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1901.

It is a very obvious as well as a very urgent fact that some method must be hit upon to insure the success of this year's undergraduate teas. We are not referring to the financial success of the teas—they have always managed more or less easily to support themselves—but to the problems of overcrowding which grew to such painful proportions last year. The jostling and pushing of throngs of people in the theater and halls was a disgrace to social affairs of the sort the teas are supposed to be.

While it is true that the increased size of the present Freshman class intensifies the problem at the very start, nevertheless it remains absolutely certain that a repetition of last year's crowding must not occur. For this reason the task of the Tea Committee is certainly a very difficult one. Various ways of relief have been suggested by the students in informal discussion of the matter: one is the method of limiting the sale of tea cards, a method, however, attended by the serious consideration of how they shall be limited, in such a way as to avoid dissatisfaction on the part of the purchasers. Another plan proposed—in reality a self-evident necessity—is the very general opening up of the College on the days of the teas. The four studies on the second floor will certainly have to be called into use, and refreshments will have to be served in other places than the Theater and the Alumnae Room, for the situation of the rooms is such that the space of hallway between them is a veritable trap, into which, when one has squeezed one's way, it is next to impossible to get out. The congestion in the Theater has brought forth the suggestion that at quarter to six, the hour at which dancing begins, the floor be kept cleared for the dancers and not be half occupied by couches and groups of people.

The BULLETIN has ventured to discuss these few suggestions for relief. It sincerely hopes that some one with fertile brain will come forward with many more. For, truly, the problem how to make comfortable within a limited space more people than the space will allow is no mean one. Nevertheless, impossible as the task may seem, the College is looking forward to great improvement in the management and arrangement of this year's teas.

All the members of the Barnard chorus whom we have spoken to on the subject agree that the songs selected for the chorus are not of the proper kind for college purposes. Why then do its members not appoint a music committee which shall confer with Mr. Hinrichs on the matter of choosing songs?

Most students who would like to sing in the College chorus have not such good voices or such keen delight in music that is neither "classic" nor "catchy" as to wish to sing it in the chorus. College cannot hope to develop an "oratorio society." The function of the chorus is to teach its members to sing the kind of music that takes comparatively little drilling to learn, the kind of music that can be enthusiastically sung at undergraduate functions. The chorus should be a sort of nucleus in which the joyous spirit of the College manifests itself.

It is not satisfactory to say that one can learn a "modern tune" without training; for though this may be true, it is also true that good "ensemble" singing of any kind needs good leadership and sufficient training.

The majority of the songs that the chorus has thus far learned have been just difficult enough to require too much training in the process of learning. Constant repetition of a piece of music that has really no great and stirring depth to it, becomes irksome and tiresome. As a consequence of a lack of easy, "catchy" songs, on the very few occasions that the chorus has been induced to sing, it lacked all vigor and enthusiasm, the life had fled from the music.

The singing of difficult songs has another drawback, namely, the limitation of "repertoire" which it causes. Besides, these songs are not of the sort that the students either would or could sing spontaneously at college functions.

We do not for a moment wish harshly to criticize the chorus as an organization. On the contrary, it is one of the most prosperous and healthy associations of Barnard. We are merely desirous of pointing out the fact that the energies expended by the chorus could be used to far better advantage, and that its work would prove more satisfactory to the individual and more beneficial to the College if it should select the type of song that it is customary for college choruses to sing.

Joint Meeting of Tennis and Basketball Clubs

At the joint meeting of the Tennis and Basketball Clubs of Barnard College, held on Wednesday, October 30th, it was decided to form an athletic association. With this purpose in view, a temporary constitution was adopted. The constitution drawn up by the officers of the two clubs was not permanently adopted, as it was decided to act on Miss Gill's suggestion to communicate with other women's colleges as to the constitutions of their athletic associations before adopting a permanent one at Barnard.

Officers for the Barnard College Athletic Association were elected as follows: President, Miss Budd, '02; Vice-President, Miss Chapin, '02; Secretary, Miss Ware, '03; Treasurer, Miss Draper, '05.

The next business undertaken was the election of the executive committee that is to have charge of tennis matters. The committee elected was as follows: Chairman, Miss Eggleston, '04; Miss Miller, '03; Miss Seward, '05; Miss Lyle, '05.

It was decided to hold elections for the members of the basketball committee on the following Friday.

Notice

Next week the regular basketball practice will be held on Tuesday and Thursday at 3.30. This change is made in order to make it possible for some of the players of last year to join in the practice.

Special Meeting of 1902

At a special meeting of the class of 1902, held on Wednesday, October 30th, Miss Carll was elected historian. On the resignation of Miss Alsberg as chairman of the Play Supervising Committee, Miss Carll was elected to take her place. Miss Van Cott was elected second member of the committee from the senior class.

Barnard Chorus

The Barnard Chorus meets at half past two o'clock every Tuesday. Mr. Hinrichs is willing to start a second division to meet either at half-past two or at half-past three on Wednesdays or on Fridays, provided that a sufficiently large number of students will promise regular attendance.

Tea Committees

Reception Committee, Miss McKenzie, '02; Miss Bamberger, '03; Miss Fischer, '04; Miss Hill, '05. Executive Committee, Miss Phelps, '02; Miss Van Cise, '03; Miss Elting, '03; Miss Hoffman, '05.

To Members of Class of 1905

As soon as they can be printed, application blanks for membership in the Y. W. C. A. will be sent to each member of 1905. The association regrets the unavoidable delay, and promises a welcome no less cordial because late.

The Seniors Entertain the Freshmen

On Friday, October 25th, the last of the social functions given expressly for the benefit of the Freshmen occurred, when 1902 entertained 1905. The affair took the form of a german, and the Seniors sufficiently relaxed their dignity to give the Freshmen the semblance, at least, of a very good time.

Notice

A number of bathing suits belonging to Barnard students were left in the Columbia gymnasium last year. It is requested that the owners of such suits will call for them at once.

All students who wish to join the Deutscher Kreis, or former members who wish to continue as active members are requested to put their names in my letter-box.

Adele N. Wallach,
Secretary.

Deutscher Kreis Elections

At the meeting of the Deutscher Kreis on October 29th, new officers of the society were elected as follows: President, Miss Van Cott, 1902; Vice-President, Miss Kroeber, 1903; Secretary, Miss Wallach, 1903; Treasurer, Miss Wick, 1904.

A resolution was adopted that a committee of three be chosen to revise the constitution of the society to meet present needs. This committee consists of Miss Goldsmith, 1905; Miss Wallach, 1903; and Miss Olsberg, 1902, Chairman.

Another resolution was passed to appoint a committee of three to arrange for the next social meeting. Miss Naumberg, 1902, was made chairman of this committee. The president will appoint a different committee for each social meeting.

Greek 7.

The work of the course known as Greek 7 will be so far different in the academic year 1901-1902 as to admit of students who have once satisfactorily pursued that course, electing and counting it a second time.

WHO'S WHO IN MYTHOLOGY?
Embarrassing, isn't it, when we run across the name of some god or goddess, in the daily paper, or in a poem, and do not know it? Or perhaps one just fails to enjoy perfectly a beautiful painting or engraving or piece of statuary, because ignorant of the myth implied.
We publish a convenient little book that gives the name of every god or goddess, or hero whose name is ever likely to be broached, with quite enough description to enable one to connect with the story—just enough to rescue one from seeming so distressingly ignorant, as if one had never even heard of Pallas, or Aphrodite, or Thalia, or Ariadne.
