Dedication of the Horace Mann School

At the dedication exercises of the Horace Mann School on December 5th, Mr. Spencer Trask, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Teachers' College, presided. After some music, Mr. John Graham Brooks made a few remarks and the Rt. Rev. Henry C. Potter led the exercises of consecration. Mr. Trask then introduced Mr. Daniel C. Gilman, LL.D., who spoke on the important part the educational ideas of Horace Mann have played in the United States. Mr. Gilman spoke of Teachers' College and the Horace Mann School as institutions full of youth, vigor and enthusiasm, and happy in the possession of a vigorous faculty proficient in all ancient and modern learning. Moreover, the College has great renown and is taken as a model by many ambitious southern and western cities. Horace Mann's ideas have spread all over the land. To be sure he knows but little of psychology or the philosophy of education, but he believed that all children should be educated at the expense of the State, and that all should be instructed in the laws of Nature and in the principles of good government.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler next welcomed the new equipment of the Horace Mann School on behalf of the University. It was significant, he said, that the University of Columbia is the first institution in which a child may remain from the time he enters the kindergarten till he graduates with high honors from the University proper.

At this point the lights went out and the chapel was left in darkness for a few minutes, but Dr. Butler, remarking that he was not afraid to talk in the dark, went right on speaking. He concluded with a eulogy of President Barnard, saying that he was the first to realize that Columbia University would never be complete until it had in connection with it an ideal school.

Examination Marks Not to be Posted

To the request of the Undergraduate Association, that examination marks be sent to students and not posted, Miss Gill has sent the secretary the following answer:

My Dear Miss Pool: In accordance with the suggestion of the Undergraduate Association, I have given orders that the results of the coming mid-year examinations shall be mailed to each student instead of being posted, as formerly, upon bulletin boards.

Very cordially yours,

Laura D. Gill, Dean.

Paper by Professor Butler

At the meeting of the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools, held at Syracuse University, Professor Butler read a paper in which he pointed out the following principles that are involved in the great advance step which the association has taken:

(1) The principle of cooperation between colleges is established and illustrated by the work of the Board. This principle is of the greatest value, and is substituted for the state of suspicion, distrust, and illegitimate rivalry which it has so largely displaced. The colleges are agreeing to regard themselves as allies in the struggle for an ideal, and not competitors in a contest for "business." This is a great gain. The old point of view was as futile as it was low. No college could permanently increase its influence and broaden its constituency by regarding itself as the enemy of its fellows and neglecting its duty to education as a whole. Cooperation will help all and injure none.

(2) Stability in the definition of subjects in which college admission examinations are held, is assured. The definitions adopted were not arbitrarily chosen, but were based upon the detailed recommendations, made after long consideration, by committees of such representative bodies of scholars as compose the American Philological Association, the American Historical Association, the Modern Language Association, and others. These definitions will not be altered every year or two, and the work of the schools thus thrown into confusion, at the whim of an individual or even of an entire faculty; they will only be altered, as they were adopted, by cooperative action. This promotes confidence on the part of the schools.

(3) The schools as well as the colleges are brought into cooperation at a point in which each is vitally interested. One of the most striking results of the year's experience is the great value of the services of the secondary school representatives upon the Board itself, among the examiners who wrote the several question papers, and among the readers who rated the answer-books.

(4) The uniform standards of rating the answer-books and the methods adopted to administer those standards enable one to speak with some confidence of the relative success of the schools in teaching the various subjects. The examinations of 1901 seem to show that mathematics is the subject best taught in the schools. The teaching of English is improving, but leaves much to be desired. French appears to be not so efficiently taught as German, and chemistry is five years behind physics as a school study. Latin and Greek are, on the whole, well taught, though far too large a proportion of the candidates did poorly in grammar and composition. In American history many candidates did wretchedly, probably because this subject is neglected in secondary schools and too much reliance placed upon the smattering given in the elementary school course.

Columbia Lecture Schedules

The University has changed its plans in giving public lectures this season. There will be no lectures either at the Metropolitan Museum of Art or at the American Museum of Natural History. Only one course of six lectures will be given at Cooper Union, instead of the three delivered there last year; this one course, however, will be of greater importance than any former lectures.

The German lectures will be held in Room 309 Havemeyer Hall, on Wednesdays, at 4.30 p. m., from January 15th to March 26th. No schedule has as yet been arranged.

In the large lecture room in University Hall, at 3.30 p. m., the French lectures will be delivered on Thursdays, until April 24th.

The schedule of the French lectures, as far as it has been completed, is as follows: December 5th. Victor Hugo: II. Les fils des Soldats de l'Empire. Prof. Cohn.

December 12th. Victor Hugo: III. Victor Hugo, Royaliste. Prof. Cohn.

December 19th. L'année 1901 en France.

December 23d to January 24th. Christmas Holidays. No lectures will be given between these dates.

The third of the series of lectures given by Mr. G. Lowes Dickinson, M.A., Fellow and Lecturer in Kings College, Cambridge, and Lecturer at the London School of Economics and Political Science, will be held on Tuesday, December 10th, at 3.30, in Room 305 Schermerhorn Hall. The general subject is "The White Man's Burden"; the particular part treated in this last lecture will be as follows:

"The South African Crisis, and Its Historical Antecedents." The Arrival of the English. The Emancipation of Slaves. The "Treks" of the Dutch, and the Foundation of the Republics and Their Relations with the English. The Annexation and Retrocession of the Transvaal. The "Outlanders" and Their Grievances. The Outbreak of War.

All these lectures will be open free to the public. As other lectures are arranged from time to time, notices of them will appear in the advertising columns of the daily newspapers in the last three issues of each month, and in the BULLETIN on the week before the lectures.

BARNARD BULLETIN,
BARNARD COLLEGE,
COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1901.

Two Seniors have recognized the fact that there is no way in which an undergraduate can study the Bible at College. Realizing that the knowledge of the average student on this subject is very meagre, and also that, as the knowledge is small the desire for it ought to be proportionately large, these two students have voluntarily taken on themselves the task of conducting four courses in Bible study, one for each class.

In doing this, they fully understood the amount of work it meant for them, and consequently, they are now ably carrying out their design.

Their classes are small, but those who attend them find it worth their while. We feel sure, moreover, that the students as a whole appreciate the spirit in which the Bible classes have been organized. The organizers deserve the thanks of the undergraduate body.

It is perhaps as good a time now as ever to say a word in regard to the undergraduate play. The decided success of the play last year—the amount of talent displayed, the spirit and finish of the production—at once placed the College play, without dispute, at the head of all social functions given by the students. It is of the utmost importance that the traditions so favorably begun last year shall be maintained and furthered. We know that it is an old and oft repeated saying that student enthusiasm is the only means that will accomplish such an end. In regard to the play, we repeat this time-honored phrase with emphasis. Student enthusiasm, especially in competing for parts, is necessary to make the play a success.

It is the duty of every girl who has the slightest dramatic ability to come forward and try for a rôle. Particularly is this true of the underclass girls who have fewer social responsibilities in College than members of the upper classes. The Freshmen should be especially active in giving their best energies to present a play that will be a credit to Barnard.

It is solely on the conscientious, enthusiastic efforts of every member of the College that a successful presentation of the College play depends.

Notice

Exchanges received by the BULLETIN will hereafter not be kept in the BULLETIN office, where it is inconvenient for students to make use of them, but will be put in the Ella Weed Room. It is requested, however, that they be not removed from the reading room in order that the editors may use them when necessary.

Attendance of Special Students

Out of the sixty-one special students at Barnard, twenty-four come for work in the English Department. After English, the most popular courses for specials are German and botany; but geology, chemistry, physics, and zoology are also chosen. There are forty Barnard special students who have not had to pass full entrance examinations, and are taking courses in the various branches of music.

Basketball Game

On Tuesday, December 10th, at 4.30, the Senior basketball team will play a game with the Junior basketball team.

All Barnard students are cordially invited to come and cheer.

Notice

Every Barnard student is entitled to two tickets for the Columbia-Pennsylvania debate, to be held at Lenox Lyceum on December 13th. Tickets can be obtained by application to the Columbia Debating Union.

Basketball Notes

All members of the Athletic Association are privileged to attend all basketball games. Other students will have to pay ten cents admission to the games Saturday. No person not a Barnard student or alumna will be allowed to attend games unless special permission has been obtained in advance from one of the members of the Basketball Executive Committee.

1902 Notice.

Senior singing will take place for the first time on Friday afternoon, December 13th, at 3.30 o'clock, in the Theatre. All girls who have Columbia song books are asked to bring them.

Immediately following the singing there will be a class entertainment.

College Song

At the request of the Senior Song Committee, the BULLETIN re-publishes below the song sung by the students at formal functions last year, and accepted by the College Song Committee.

(Sung to the air of hymn, "Eternal Father, Strong to Save.")

Fair Barnard, we thy daughters raise
Our all-abiding hymn of praise,
Our grateful song of love and pride
To thee, protector, mother, guide.
With honor, love, and loyalty,
We sing, oh Barnard, unto thee.

We love thy columned, cloistered way
Turned toward the fading light of day;
We love the river, flowing wide
Beneath the shadow of thy side.
With honor, love, and loyalty,
We sing, oh Barnard, unto thee.

Thy youthful power, late begun,
Throughout unnumbered years shall run.
Thy lamp of knowledge, burning bright,
Rests in our care to trim aright.
With honor, love, and loyalty,
We sing, oh Barnard, unto thee.

Oh teach us while 'neath thy control
To seek that higher, better goal,
Where wisdom true, not learning deep,
Shall be the harvest that we reap.
And honor, love, and loyalty,
We'll give, oh Barnard, unto thee.

Columbia University Press

The trustees of the Columbia University Press, at a recent meeting re-elected Professors Peck, Crocker, and Osborne trustees for three-year terms, and chose Professor Franklin H. Giddings to fill the unexpired trusteeship made vacant by the death of Professor Richmond Mayo-Smith.

It was also decided to cooperate with the University Trustees in the new plan of giving fewer but more distinguished public lectures, and to publish annually in book form the more important addresses in the university extension work.

The "Columbia University Quarterly," which is under the supervision of the University Press, elected the following editorial board for the coming year: Professors W. A. Dunning, G. R. Carpenter, Calvin Thomas, Alfred D. F. Hamlin, G. W. Kirchwey, Bashford Dean, F. S. Lee, M. L. Earle, C. H. Young, J. E. Russell, and Mr. J. B. Pine. Professor Hamlin succeeds Professor Thomas as editor-in-chief, and Professors Young, Earle, and Dean, take the places of Professors R. S. Woodward and Trent and Dr. Canfield.

Professor Trent, of the English Department, intends to take a western trip during the Christmas holidays, during which he will deliver a lecture in Cincinnati on "Greatness in Literature," and one in Kansas City on "Aims and Methods of Literary Study."

Notice

Miss Coman, President of the College Settlement Association, will address the College in the Theatre at 12.30 on Monday, December 16th.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

will be all the merrier if you are sure that you have pleased your friends.

THE COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY CALENDAR FOR 1902

will make a very pretty and useful present, at a very moderate cost. The price is one dollar a copy. Address any inquiries to KNOWLTON DURHAM, Columbia University, New York.

The Receiving Committee at the Trustees' reception on Saturday, December 7th, consisted of Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mrs. Seth Low, Mrs. George Havey Putnam and Miss Laura D. Gill.

The Senior Class and the alumnae acted as "guides" to the guests, the Class of 1902 wearing caps and gowns to distinguish them as undergraduates, and to add local color to the occasion.

Many friends of the College living in New York City were invited, and formed the greater part of the visitors.

At Other Colleges

The Golf Club of Wellesley College is about to give a presentation of "The Rivals."

At Smith, students who do not work in the gymnasium are now required to take outdoor exercise. The game of hockey, in which Miss Appleton, the Englishwoman who has been introducing the game in American women's colleges, has been giving instruction, is gaining a wide popularity among the students.

President Taylor, of Vassar, in his annual report says, in connection with the faculty discussion on a new curriculum, that he is "coming to believe that an elective system is the only logical outcome of our present conditions, and that it promises results more satisfactory than any other."

What in the world to give a friend?

Yale men know and the New Haven Union says: "The question of what in the world to give a friend is solved by SONGS OF ALL THE COLLEGES which is alike suitable for the collegian of the past, for the student of the present, and for the boy (or girl) with hopes; also for the music-loving sister and a fellow's best girl."

"All the new songs, all the old songs, and the songs popular at all the colleges; a welcome gift in any home any where."
