President Butler's Address

In his address to the entire university in University Hall last Tuesday afternoon, President Butler spoke as follows:

Our University is composed of scholars who teach and scholars who learn, and each has full rights of membership in the historic corporation which bears the name of Columbia. I wish to be permitted to enter in the privileges of companionship with you all so that all Columbia interests may be promoted and advanced. I would like to have the students feel that the officers are not far removed in space or time from those who learn. There must be sympathy between them. We are members of an institution with the noblest of traditions and the loftiest of ideals. There are now more than 5,000 students to whom the city and country must look for the maintenance of Columbia tradition and Columbia spirit. I look with confidence to the progress of this life and spirit.

College life should be the brightest spot in the lives of each of you. It should be abundant in happiness and inspiration. You are here not for formal study alone, but to come in contact with the spirit of the sciences and the arts of the ages. You should carry away as a precious possession a knowledge of the use of leisure. As Aristotle said, "Work in order to enjoy leisure." Learn to enjoy the free play of human spirit, which is the sign of culture to-day, but do not be too self-centered. Columbia does not stand and has never stood for the training of narrow men and women. It stands for that broad and liberal culture which alone can make human beings of the right sort.

The University is essentially a democratic community. We all stand on the same level and are judged solely by our work and accomplishment. Give something that you may receive more abundantly. Columbia exists that it may serve the city, the State and the nation, and the student who carries away with him the fullest measure of the University's gift is he who has learned to answer this question, How can I learn that I may best serve?

The Inauguration of Dr. Butler

The formal inauguration of Professor Butler as President of Columbia University will take place on the 19th of April, in University Hall. It is stated that President Roosevelt will deliver the address for the University.

Athletic Association

There will be an important meeting of the Athletic Association on Tuesday, January 21st, after chapel, in the Theater. Business to be transacted will be the adopting of a permanent constitution.

Dr. Perry Elected Dean.

At a meeting of the Faculty of Philosophy and Education held on Monday, January 13th, Dr. Edward Delavan Perry was elected to succeed President Low as Dean of the School of Philosophy.

Professor Perry was graduated from Columbia University in 1875. The next four years he spent in study at the Universities of Leipsic and Tübingen. From the latter he received his degree of doctor of philosophy. From 1880 until 1883 he was tutor in Greek and Sanskrit at Columbia. In 1891 he became a full professor in Sanskrit. In 1895 he was elected Jay Professor of Greek. Last year he was professor of Greek in the American School for Classical Studies in Athens. Prof. Perry is a member of the managing committee of the school and is interested also in the American Philological Association, the American Oriental Society, and the Society for the Promotion of Hellenic Studies. Since October Prof. Perry has been acting dean of the School of Philosophy.

Fiske Hall Reception

On Thursday, January 16th, Mrs. Gibson and the students of Fiske Hall were at home to their friends. Many thanks are due to Mrs. Gibson for a charming musical program which she arranged. Mrs. John Lee Logan, Miss Sally Akers and Mr. Tom Carl sang, and Miss Helen Corbin, a pupil of Professor MacDowell, played for the guests.

Junior Ball

The Junior ball will take place on Monday evening, the 10th of February. It will be given this year as last in the Columbia Gymnasium. The Junior Ball Committee, which has consummated its plans for all details of arrangement, consists of Miss Latham, chairman, Miss Addoms, Miss Cheeseman, Miss Stern, Miss Johnson, Miss Harrison, Miss Merrill, Miss Clark.

This year's list of patronesses reads as follows: Mrs. Seth Low, Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mrs. C. H. Gibson, Mrs. James Harvey Robinson, Mrs. Lou Stern, Mrs. Mortimer Lamson Earle, Mrs. James E. Ware, Mrs. L. K. Addoms, Mrs. Hobart Cheeseman, Mrs. George Latham, Mrs. Charles A. Johnson, Mrs. E. H. Harrison, Miss Laura D. Gill.

Song Recital

There will be a song recital by David Bispham on Friday afternoon, January 24th, at 3 o'clock, in the Horace Mann School Auditorium. This concert is given under the auspices of the Horace Mann School Alumni Association. Tickets at one dollar each may be procured from the Teachers' College Post-office, High School office, or from Miss Helen D. Love, 80 East Fifty-fourth street.

Alpha Omicron Pi Entertains

On Wednesday, January 15th, the Alpha Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi entertained the College in the theater of Brinckerhoff Hall.

Owing to the success of the entertainment of last year, the New York University Glee Club was again asked to sing this year. The Mandolin and Banjo Clubs of the same university also performed. The program consisted of twelve numbers, seven of which included song solos, some with the chorus. The Mandolin Club played twice and the Banjo Club once. Each piece was well selected and admirably rendered.

Notable among the soloists were Mr. Schicklet, '02, tenor; Mr. Smith, '02, bass, and Mr. Young, '02. In fact, almost all the numbers received hearty applause, and many were "encored." The last song, about the N. Y. U. violet, was very pretty in itself and well rendered.

The stage and hall near the entrance of the theater were effectively decorated with palms. After the Glee, Mandolin, and Banjo Clubs had finished, Mr. Müller and an assistant played for dancing, which lasted for some time.

The patronesses were Mrs. A. A. Anderson, Mrs. Mariette Hollyday Gibson, Miss Laura D. Gill, Mrs. Thomas M. Moore, Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn, and Mrs. James Harvey Robinson.

Junior Show

The Junior Show given last Monday afternoon by 1903 was a novelty in the way of an entertainment at the College, and proved to be a great success. The "thirteen stunts given on the thirteenth day of January" were well chosen and well done. One of the best numbers was the quartet modeled after the Florodora Sextet, with words adapted to Barnard traditions, by Miss King. The parts of maidens and students were taken by the Misses Bamberger, Cohen, Robinson, Hertzfeld, Ball, Ware, Howe and Stein.

Several of Peter Newell's quaint rhymes and illustrations were presented by Miss Miller and Miss Pool, with truthful regard to the originals.

The various tableaux given were "At the Photographer's," by the Misses Howe, King, Howard, Sequine, Cheeseman and Greuning; "Knowledge at College," by Miss Johnson and Miss Nones, and "Etiquette," by Miss Wallack and Miss Cohen. All these were humorous.

Other "stunts" were amusing recitations by Miss Bamberger and Miss Cohen, and a most picturesque "Darky Dance" by Miss Cheeseman.

The well-appreciated program ended with the lively farce, "A Pair of Luratics," in which the parts were admirably taken by Miss Ware and Miss Bamberger.

BARNARD BULLETIN,
BARNARD COLLEGE,
COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, JANUARY 20, 1902.

A great drawback to our intellectual development here at College, outside of the rather limited opportunities offered by the curriculum of the English Department, lies in the fact that we possess no representative literary society. Almost every other college we know of has one or more of these clubs among the students. To take the nearest example, Columbia, beside the Barnard Literary Society and the Philolexian, known publicly through their debates, has King's Crown. These clubs, beside encouraging general interest in literary questions and movements, and in that healthy mental stimulus, the debate, gives its members many opportunities of meeting distinguished "litterateurs" and well-known men and women. Many of us enjoyed the privilege of chatting with workers in the literary world at the "Journalistic Tea," and found it delightful and inspiring. That occasion, too, proved that the graduates take a lively interest in our welfare, and could be counted upon for coöperation in any such movement. Statistical reports show English to be the most popular elective in College. For many reasons, literature naturally appeals strongly to a large majority of us. We have a flourishing French Club, German Club, Greek Club, Botanical Club, and whatnot. We cannot but realize that there is the greatest necessity for the organization of a literary and debating society for the whole College. We trust soon to see this accomplished, for we are assured that a literary club would be a source of pleasure and profit to all.

In the 1900 "Mortarboard" a page was devoted to defunct college societies. Among these were the "Southern Club," the "Tennis Club," and the "Arthur Brooks Literary Society." The two former of these have reappeared, in spirit at least, in the present Southern Club and Athletic Association. Surely the third society deserves similar treatment. The "Arthur Brooks Literary Society" certainly ought to be revived or another literary society organized in Barnard College.

French Society

The first social meeting of La Société Française with that of Columbia was held Monday evening, January 13th. There was a short business meeting in which the societies decided to unite in giving a French play during the first week in April. The committee for this play consists of Miss Curtis, Mr. Perry, and Mr. Hamilton. After the business had been transacted, a social meeting followed.

Notice.

The following is quoted from Teachers' College "Bulletin":

"Those students registered with Miss Pratt for positions are hereby notified that, if a photograph is not left with her before the fifteenth of the month, the application can be given no attention."

1902 Notes

The Senior Class held a regular business meeting on Tuesday, January 14th. It was decided to appoint a committee to make suggestions at the next meeting for the presentation of something for the Senior study by the class. It was also decided to postpone the next date for the Senior singing until February.

Classical Club Organized

The officers of the Classical Department of Columbia University, including Barnard and Teachers' College, met in Prof. Peck's study on Saturday, January 11th, for the purpose of organizing the Classical Club. The following regulations were adopted:

"The Classical Club of Columbia University is organized for the maintenance and promotion of a sound and living interest in classical philology, including archaeology, among the members of Columbia University.

I.

"All officers of the Department of Greek and of the Department of Latin in Columbia University, and all graduate students enrolled in either of these two departments, shall be entitled to membership in the club during the period of their connection with the University.

II.

"The officers of the club shall consist of a President, a Vice-President, and a Secretary, all of whom shall be elected by ballot for a term of one year, at a special meeting of the club to be held during the second week in October of each year.

III.

"The President shall preside at all meetings of the club and shall perform such other duties as usually devolve upon a presiding officer.

IV.

"The Vice-President shall act in place of the President whenever the latter is absent from the University or from a meeting of the club.

V.

"The Secretary shall notify the members of the club of the time and place of each meeting, and shall keep the minutes of all meetings.

VI.

"(a) There shall be held two regular meetings of the club in each calendar month during the academic year, except in the months of October, May, and June, and one regular meeting in each of the months of October and May.

"(b) Immediately after the annual October meeting, the President shall appoint a Committee of Arrangements consisting of four members in addition to himself as Chairman. It shall be the duty of the committee to arrange in October the time and place of the meeting of the club for the ensuing academic year, to pass upon papers intended to be read before the club, and in general to prepare a program for each meeting.

VII.

"Members of the Senior Class, whether of Columbia College or of Barnard College, who shall be pursuing a course of study under either of the classical departments, and who shall previously have pursued courses both in Greek and in Latin for at least two college years as undergraduates, shall be invited to attend all the regular meetings of the club.

VIII.

"For the adoption of rules and for the election of officers, a quorum shall consist of twelve members of the club."

The following officers for the current year were elected: President, Prof. Peck; vice-president, Prof. Earle; secretary, Prof. McCrea.

The first meeting, which will be held the latter part of this month, will be of a social nature.

Notice

Professor Price has changed his office hours from 1.30 to 2.30 on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Rare Specimens for Zoölogy Laboratory

Barnard has recently been fortunate enough to secure for its Zoölogical Laboratory some valuable specimens of glass sponges and giant crabs, purchased from the collection made by Prof. Bashford, Dean of Columbia, during his sabbatical year in China. One specimen of crab measures eleven feet across, and is the second largest in the United States—the largest, which measures eleven feet six inches, being at Columbia. The College has also the distinction of owning the only example extant of fossil crinoid metacrisis.

Basketball Notice

There will be no basketball practice until after the mid-year examinations. The next meeting of the players will be on Tuesday, February 4th.

New Mathematical Books

Dean Gill has just presented to the Reading Room a number of copies of German mathematical books which she used in 1890 and 1891, while specializing in Mathematics and Astronomy at the Universities of Leipsig and Göttingen.

1905 Notes

The tune chosen by '1905 for its class song is the same as that of the Yale "Stein Song." The song will be selected from those presented by members of the class.

Notice

In order to get full and official accounts of all business meetings of the classes and various societies in College, the editors of the BULLETIN will be glad to accept from the various secretaries accounts of business transacted at such meetings.

Undergraduate Association Notes

At the meeting of the Undergraduate Association on Thursday, January 17th, the following business was transacted:

The report of the Self-Government Committee was accepted. The report suggested that the students do not take action in regard to the new system of examinations until after it has been tried; it also urged the necessity of preserving greater quiet and order in the halls of the building.

The report of the Tea Committee, showing a balance in the hands of the committee, was accepted.

The separate articles in the report of the Play Committee were accepted with one amendment. The report as a whole still stands to be accepted.
