Annandale Convention

The 15th annual convention of the Church Students' Missionary Association was held under the auspices of the St. Stephen's College Chapter at Annandale-on-Hudson, February 22-25. This organization is composed of students in the various divinity schools, universities and other institutions of learning in the United States and Canada. Its aim is through these students to promote the systematic study of missions, to encourage daily prayer in their behalf, and, finally, to secure volunteers for mission work.

About forty delegates were present representing fourteen or fifteen chapters.

Convention began with the evening session at which, after the roll-call of chapters, Mr. Silas McBee, editor of "The Churchman," spoke on "The Spiritual Life."

He said in part: "The spiritual life is the life that fulfills in its measure God's life. There can be in such life no division into missionary and non-missionary, for its essence is giving. Progress may be measured by the extent to which we are missionaries." He then spoke of the influence of the college man or woman, and quoted: "Where Oxford leads England goes," and emphasized the responsibility of individuals. "Although every college man may not be a leader he has the opportunity to lead," and the man or woman who fails in developing such opportunities fails in the completeness of his or her spiritual life."

Sunday, February 23d, the C.S.M.A. united in corporate communion in the college chapel in the early morning, and at 10.30 met again for morning service and a sermon by the Rev. Chas. H. Evans of Tokyo, Japan. In the afternoon there was a conference at which Mr. Robt. White, Jr., a delegate from the Virginia Theological Seminary, spoke on "Prayer and Missions," and Mr. A. B. Van Meter of the Philadelphia Divinity School spoke on "Men and Money." The first speaker dwelt on the need of systematic and definite prayer for missions and on the value of prayer both objectively and subjectively.

Mr. Van Meter treated money as secondary in the consideration of the call of a missionary, for God's call always presupposes man's care, and money always flows in the direction of interest. The main problem is to get men to act as God's instruments in reaching souls. We have in Africa one missionary to every six thousand, in Asia one to five thousand. He spoke of the excuses men gave for not acting as missionaries and stated that in the majority of cases selfishness was at the bottom of them all.

At the evening service the Rt. Rev. Peter Noble Rowe, D.D., Bishop of Alaska, spoke on "Missionary Life and Work Along the Arctic Circle." He described

Lecture on Greek Costume

Professor Young of the Columbia Greek Department gave a most interesting and valuable lecture on ancient Greek costume in the Avery Library, Monday evening, March 3d. By means of stereopticon pictures Professor Young showed his audience the various costumes of the men and women of ancient Greek, and at the same time spoke of the great artistic possibilities in draping. Professor Young then brought out a number of costumes, including both the simplest and the most elaborate, which he draped on a wooden model, and this gave a practical demonstration of the exact way in which the costumes were arranged and worn.

Basket Ball Games

The basket ball game to be played between the Bryn Mawr College Alumnae and the Barnard College team, has had to be postponed. But an interesting game was played on Monday. Only three Bryn Mawr Alumnae appeared and a fourth member of their team had been at Bryn Mawr only for a very short time. The regular forward of the Barnard team, a Junior, played with the visitors so that the home team was composed of four freshmen and only one member of last year's five. Although the game was not the match that had been arranged for, it was very lively. At the end of the first half the score was 6-0 in favor of Barnard. At the end of the second half the score was 6-6.

The deciding goal was finally made by the Bryn Mawr centre. The final score was 6-10.

The freshman team went to Staten Island to play a game with the Academy on Saturday, March 1st. The gymnasium was so very small that it was impossible for a forward to get away from her guard in order to throw a goal. Consequently neither side made any goals from the field. Unfortunately, the home team had not provided both an umpire and a referee, but had a teacher of the school act in the capacity of both officials. She evidently did not know how the rules are invariably interpreted, therefore she did not make any allowance either for dodging or moving with the ball when such movement was caused by the unavoidable pushing of an opponent. As a consequence something like thirteen fouls were called on the freshman team compared with the two called on the Staten Island players. However, the latter only caged three balls. The first score was therefore Staten Island Academy, 3; Barnard College Freshmen, 1.

The Academy team has agreed to play a return game at Barnard on March 5th.

Toronto Convention

The fourth international convention of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions was held in Toronto from February 26th to March 2d. Mr. John R. Mott, chairman of the executive committee of the Movement, was the presiding officer.

The first Student Volunteer Convention, held at Cleveland in 1891, was attended by 680 delegates, representing 151 institutions of learning, all the leading mission boards of the United States and Canada, and almost all mission fields. Every succeeding convention has increased enormously. The statistics of the one just closed, which have not yet been published, are as follows:

Countries represented, 22; colleges, 359; student delegates from the colleges, 1,668; faculty delegates, 121; medical colleges, 51; student delegates, 250; faculty delegates, 56; theological seminaries, 57; student delegates, 478; faculty delegates, 65; making a total of 465 institutions, 2,296 students, and 212 professors; members of the Movement and executive committee, 13; representatives of mission boards, 82; speakers not otherwise classified, 5; editors of religious papers and missionary magazines, 28; returned missionaries, 107; secretaries of the Y. M. C. A., 70; secretaries of the Y. W. C. A., 28; representatives of Young People's Societies, 15; graduated volunteers, 42; not classified, 57; total number of delegates, 2,955.

The morning and evening meetings of the convention were held in the Massey Music Hall; the sectional afternoon conferences were held in various churches and halls throughout the city. It was also found necessary to conduct in the evening two parallel meetings for the people of Toronto, who could not be accommodated in Massey Hall.

The first meeting, held on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30, was purely devotional. The principal speakers were Mr. Robert E. Speer, of New York, and Mrs. F. Howard Taylor, of the China Inland Mission. Mrs. Taylor, it will be remembered, made an address last year at Barnard. On Wednesday evening the convention was formally opened by Mr. Mott.

Among the most notable speakers of the convention were Bishop J. M. Thoburn, D.D., the oldest missionary present, for forty-two years a worker in India; the Rt. Rev. M. S. Baldwin, D.D., Bishop of Huron, who preached the convention sermon on Sunday; the Rev. W. S. Ament, D.D., of China; Prof. F. D. Gamewell, Ph.D., so well known for his work at the siege of Peking; Mr. Harlan P. Beach, M.A., the educational secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, and the Rev. John Fox, D.D., secretary of the American Bible Society.

The sectional conferences of Thursday afternoon were devoted to the consideration

MONDAY, MARCH 10, 1902

Those few students, about fifteen, who attended the last Students' Aid Committee tea, can hardly be said to have enjoyed the event thoroughly. And this is not because it lacked social attraction, for it was delightfully arranged by the hosts; but those who were present, including the Dean and a few Alumnae, could not help feeling keenly that the college was disgracing itself by this lack of interest.

When we consider that the Students' Aid Committee arranges these affairs for the benefit of the students, that it undertakes to invite prominent women who have been successful in various active fields of work to come and address us and advise us personally, it seems difficult to understand why we are not all more ready to come and enjoy such a helpful and delightful afternoon.

The excuse students offer, that they have too much work to do, hardly seems tenable when one considers that at every purely social function in the form of an entertainment given by any small group of students the theatre has been very well filled.

We hope that the students will quickly awake to the fact that the college cannot afford to be represented by about a dozen students before such an important body of women as met here at the Students' Aid tea.

We take pleasure in announcing the election of Miss Mary E. S. Colt, 1903, to the staff of the BULLETIN. Miss Louise Edgar Peters has been elected to the Board of Associate Editors.

the country and some of the customs of the people and their eagerness for the Gospel.

Monday, after the usual morning services, was occupied mainly with business. The chapter reports and the two conferences conducted by Mr. H. M. McIlhenny, one of the traveling secretaries of the Y.M.C.A., offered many valuable and practical suggestions. The subjects of the conferences were: "How to Get Most Out of a Missions Study Class," and "What is the Best Kind of a Missionary Meeting." The delegates from the various chapters stated their experiences with the conditions under which the most successful methods had been used.

In the absence of the Rev. B. T. Sakai, who was to have made an address on "The Importance of Christianizing the College Students of Japan," the Rev. Mr. Evans told of the educational system in Japan, and of Mr. Sakai's plans for the college students.

Since it is at present impossible to establish a Christian college in Japan Mr. Sakai intends to reach the students of the Imperial University of Tokyo by establishing a dormitory. He will make this as homelike as possible and have in connection with it a good library and courses of lectures which will present the best thought of the Western world for which the Japanese are eager.

The gist of the address by the Rt. Rev. Charles Henry Brent, D.D., on "The Church and Nation in the Philippines," was the responsibility of the nation, the responsibility of the individual who fulfils the duties of citizenship, and the duty of nation and individual to carry to the Philippines the best we have—our Christianity.

There was an address by Bishop Brent, and one by Mr. Robert E. Spear, Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Missions. The latter's subject was: "The Peculiar Obligation and Opportunity for this Generation to Obey the Command to Preach the Gospel to Every Creature." He said there were three elements in the evangelization of the world—the will of God, the will of the world, and our will. We know it is the will of God that the Gospel should be preached to every creature, and the will of the world to learn. Is it our will? Evangelization of the world to us must mean evangelization in this generation, for the world to us means those people who are now living. The people of the next generation means another world. We have no right to try to shift responsibility.

Tuesday morning was spent in business, the election of officers, etc. The C.S.M.A. accepted the invitation of the General Theological Seminary of New York to hold the convention there next year.

Under the title of "Missionary Machinery" the Rev. A. S. Lloyd, Secretary of the Board of Missions, described the organization of the missionary body of the Episcopal Church, which consists of every baptised member. The thing that keeps the church from success is ignorance of its purpose, that it is not for itself but to teach to others.

Dr. Lloyd in an informal conference that followed answered many questions in regard to the raising of money, the cost of supporting missionaries, etc.

The farewell meeting of the convention in the afternoon was conducted by the Rev. R. L. Paddock, rector of the Church of the Holy Apostles in this city. He spoke of his impressions of this convention as compared with those of previous years. He felt that the organization had not only grown in numbers, but that this conference had been characterized by added depth of thought and earnestness. Deaconess Pratt of the New York Training School for Deaconesses and Mr. Van Meter of the Philadelphia Divinity School each spoke a few moments, giving their impressions. The convention ended with an address by Dr. Lloyd on "Missions, and the March of Civilization."

The true civilization was well expressed in the President's message last fall. "The purpose of the Republic of America is to uplift and make free other nations."

The tone of the whole convention can be understood from the above report and may be summarized in a few sentences. "Christ intrusted the salvation of the world to individual souls," and the success of the world's evangelization depends upon the awakening of individuals to their responsibility.

Every one may not be able to go into the so-called foreign mission field, every one can carry out his mission at home and help the cause of those who leave home by definite prayer, by study of needs and by systematic giving.

The church and the parish are organizations for the spreading of Christ's mission. The church, the parish, the individual that stops short at itself fails in true development, in true completeness, for the highest spiritual life can only be gained when one gives of one's best.

Literary Society

At a meeting of the Literary Society, held Monday, March 3, Miss Howard, 1903, was elected President and Miss Ethel Pool Secretary. The Nominating Committee consists of Miss Elsa Alsberg, 1902, Miss Eleanor Phelps, 1902, and Miss Margaret G. Elliman, 1902.

The Southern Club Entertainment

The Southern Club gave an entertainment last Tuesday at 4.30 in the Theater. Mr. Polk Miller, of Richmond, Va., related a number of dialect stories, and sang plantation songs. He was assisted by a chorus of four "Virginia darkies." The entertainment was a novelty at Barnard and possessed a distinctly "ante bellum" flavor.

Christian Association

The following nominating committee has been chosen to elect officers of the Y.W.C.A. for 1902-1903: Miss Margaret Clark, 1902; Miss Olive E. Dutcher, 1902; Miss Anna Ware, 1903; Miss Van Slyke, 1904, and Miss Emilie Hutchinson, 1905.

Any member of the Association may send in names of candidates to the nominating committee.

Societe Francaise

The Société Française will hold a "Réunion à la Cuisine" Monday, March 10th, at 3.30, in the Student's Parlor.

of India, China, Japan, Korea, Burmah, Ceylon, Siam, Laos, the Turkish Empire, Persia, Egypt, Africa, South America, Mexico, the West Indies, the Philippines, and Bible and Missionary Training Schools. Missionaries returned from these various fields made brief addresses, and then answered any questions put to them.

Friday afternoon was given up to denominational section conferences.

On Saturday afternoon, eight section conferences were held. There were meetings for professors and instructors, for the editors of religious newspapers, for Young People's leaders, and conferences concerning medical missions, evangelistic missions, educational and literary works, the Y. M. C. A. in mission lands, and the Y. W. C. A. in mission lands.

As will easily be understood, the expenses of carrying on the work of the Movement are heavy. On Friday night, therefore, pledge slips were passed throughout the hall to every one present, and promises for about $5,000 were given. Most of the pledges were for small sums, the largest amount being $2,000.

The most impressive scene of the convention took place at the last meeting, on Sunday night. All those volunteers who expect to go out to the foreign field within the next twelve months were asked to rise and stand together, in the front of the hall. Then, one after another, stated the country to which he or she was going, and the reason for this choice. The total number of these volunteers was over 150.

One of the most interesting features of the convention was the exhibit, which was intended principally for the volunteers. It included a large number of photographs, various scientific instruments, medical supplies, field supplies, a special library for the missionary, and literature for mission study classes.

A full report of the convention is to be published as soon as possible. The price of the books, bound in cloth, will be $1.50, but orders sent immediately will be received at $1. Any one desiring a copy should address Student Volunteer Movement, 3 West Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

Earl Hall Opening

It is imperative that as many girls as possible attend the women's opening of Earl Hall, on Monday night, from 8 to 10. This will be the best opportunity for Barnard to show her appreciation of Mr. Dodge's generous gift, and the only time the entire building will be open to women. The west entrance should be used.
