Article V. The work of the Supervisory Play Committee shall hereafter be given into the hands of the Self-Government Committee, which shall examine the standing of all girls who wish to act, but shall not read the plays, as was done by the Supervisory Play Committee last year.

The report was accepted.

After listening to an address by Miss Berg, secretary of the Students' Aid Committee of the Alumnae, the meeting adjourned.

Barnard College Mandolin Club.

The instrumental section of the former Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Club held its first meeting on Wednesday, October 22nd, at 3.30. At a business meeting preceding the informal rehearsal, the officers for this year were elected as follows: President, Cecil Dorrian, 1905; Vice-President, Edith Van Ingen, 1904; Secretary, Jean Eggleston, 1904; Treasurer, Elizabeth Evans, 1906; Business Manager, Charlotte Fountain, 1904.

The next meeting of the club will be held Wednesday, October 29th, at 3.20, in Room 213. All members are urged to be present so that the first regular rehearsal may be successful.

The members of the former vocal section are requested to attend the rehearsals of the Barnard Chorus, which are held on Tuesdays at 2.30.

Mission Study Classes.

In most of the larger colleges of the United States and Canada the undergraduates have organized classes for the study of foreign missions. The purpose of these classes is to bring the students in touch with the work in foreign fields through a systematic study not only of the conditions—geographical, political, economic, and religious—of the non-Christian world, but also of the work of European and American missionaries. It is therefore hoped that the two classes mentioned in the first number of this year's BULLETIN will be started as soon as possible. Each class will meet for an hour once a week. The classes will be as follows:—

COURSE I.

First Term—Biographies of Livingston, Mackay of Formosa; Miss Sholrum, Cyrus Hamlin, and Joseph Neesima. (Effective Workers in Needy Fields.)

Second Term—To be announced later.

COURSE II.

First Term—India; Its History, Darkness and Dawn.

Second Term—Japan and its Regeneration.

Any girl who wishes to join one of these classes is requested to fill out the following blank, and put it in letter-box H as soon as possible. As soon as the names of the students have been ascertained, an hour for the classes will be arranged.

MISSION STUDY CLASSES.

I desire to join the Mission Study Class on:

Name of Course.....

Name and Class of Student.....

Basket Ball.

On Tuesday, October 21st, the second basket-ball practice was held under the instruction of Mr. Cook, the coach of the Barnard teams. Several of last year's players and a number of Freshmen joined in the game. The work was remarkably good, and there was no lack of enthusiasm.

The time arranged for basket-ball practice is Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3.30, until further notice. Mr. Cook will meet the teams once a week.

It has been decided by the Basket-ball Executive Committee that a fine of ten cents be imposed for absence from basket-ball practice.

Tennis.

Most of the preliminary matches of the tournament now in progress have been played, and competitors will soon be ready for the inter-class finals. The cup presented by Jean Eggleston, 1904, is on exhibition in the Reading Room. Any player winning the cup in three tournaments will become the owner of it.

Corrected Announcement of Art Lectures.

A change has been made in the announcement of the University lectures on Fine Arts, published in the BULLETIN of last week. The lecture on "The Art of India," by A. V. W. Jackson, will be given on Tuesday, November 18th, instead of on Friday, November 21st. That on "The Art of Persia," by A. V. W. Jackson, will be given on Tuesday, December 2nd, instead of on Friday, December 5th.

French Lectures.

The department of Romance Languages and Literatures announces that weekly French Lectures will be given in 305 Schermerhorn Hall on Thursdays, at 3.30 P. M. The schedule for the lectures is as follows:—

Nov. 6th. L'Industrie française au dix huitième siècle. Dr. Germain Martin of the School of Law of the University of Paris, lecturer of L'Alliance Française.

Nov. 13th. Deux grandes manufactures nationales. Les Gobelins et la manufacture de Sevres. (Illustrated by stereopticon.) Dr. Germain Martin.

Nov. 20th. Emile Zola. Professor Cohn.

Dormitory Notes.

The residents of Whittier Hall held a house meeting on Wednesday, October 22nd, for the purpose of organizing a simple form of self-government. The temporary committee which had been previously appointed to talk over a plan, gave their report. It was decided that a Student House President should be chosen, and that nine students chosen from the different floors should be elected by ballot, and that they with the House President should form a council to govern the house, and also to assist in managing any social affairs which may be given during the year.

The Dormitory Mandolin Club held its first regular rehearsal on Thursday, October 23rd.

Entertainment of the College Settlement Association.

The Barnard Chapter of the College Settlement Association will give a tea to the college on Wednesday, October 29th, in the Theatre. The children from the Settlement will furnish the music. All members of the college are cordially invited.

Entertainment for Freshmen.

On Friday afternoon the Freshmen were entertained by the Senior Class in the Theatre. The program consisted of two shadow pantomimes, "The Ballad of the Oysterman," and "Lord Ullin's Daughter," a solo, a recitation, several Peter Newell tableaux, and singing by the class. Jean Miller, Helen King, Clare Howard and Ethel Pool formed the committee in charge.

BARNARD BULLETIN,
BARNARD COLLEGE,
COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1902.

EDITORIAL.

It is with the greatest regret that we announce the resignation of Sadie Nonces, 1903, as Editor-in-Chief of the BULLETIN. Her intense interest in the paper and untiring energy directed toward making it useful to Barnard are too well known to need comment here. The regret of the editors will be shared by the entire college.

We cannot help recognizing the fact that here at Barnard we lack many of the opportunities for self-help that are presented at out-of-town colleges, where the every-day needs of the college community are not all supplied by regular employees. Each summer the college authorities receive letters from all over the country, asking what a girl may do to support herself at Barnard.

At first glance a large city like New York may seem to offer more varied possibilities, and to open many more avenues of work, than a smaller place. This is a case, however, in which demand seems to be met more than half way by supply, and all queries of this kind have, until now, of necessity received very unsatisfactory replies.

Many girls have done the usual thing, and tutored their way through college. Some others have made pin-money by sending college news to the daily papers, making college flags, or acting as agent of some firm supplying college commodities. The field for this work, however, has always been limited.

At Columbia and at many other colleges, there is an organized faculty supervision for aid to students, where a secretary appointed for the purpose acts as a medium between students desiring occupation and the outside world. At Smith, Wellesley and elsewhere, there are students' bureaus, for the exchange of books and articles of all kinds made by the girls.

At Barnard this has always been considered the sphere of the Students' Aid Committee of the Associate Alumnae. This committee has loaned money to students and has endeavored to find positions for all those who applied. It has also given teas, at which women well-known in various professions have spoken of the possibilities in the fields of architecture, journalism, and civic service.

This year, as Miss Berg, the secretary of the committee, told us at Undergraduate Meeting last Thursday, the committee plans to extend its work in the direction of finding employment for undergraduates. The committee will now work in co-operation with the Columbia Committee on Employment for Students. Mr. Meyers, secretary of the committee, receives many calls for positions, which hitherto he has not been able to fill, and which are especially well adapted for Barnard girls. He may be seen at 213 Library, daily, from nine to five, and on Saturday from nine to twelve.

Miss Berg, also, has many helpful suggestions to make, and has kindly offered to advise any students who so desire, at her home, 52 West 83d street.

We consider, however, that the most effective means of such help is through our own resources, and we strongly advise the establishment of a Students' Bureau. If student sentiment favors an institution of this kind, the BULLETIN will be very willing to undertake its establishment. We would also welcome specified suggestions from the students themselves, from alumnae, or from outsiders, as to work which may be done. We hope to receive letters from as many sources as possible.

It is, indeed, a fitting climax to the present cumbersome and elaborate management of the buildings that the letter-boxes have been removed from the telephone room, and placed behind the counter in the coat room. The former place was particularly convenient and easy of access to every girl as she entered Milbank Hall and was never, so far as we know, the subject of complaint on the part of any student. The new arrangement not only prevents the girls from taking their own mail from the boxes, but also places them at a hopeless disadvantage in the matter of obtaining it promptly, for when it is necessary to wait five minutes every morning merely to have one's hat and coat checked, to ask for one's letters as well will, of course, cause an inestimable amount of delay and confusion. The only conceivable reason for the change, namely to insure greater safety to the mail, may be excellent in theory, but as a matter of fact is totally uncalled for. We trust, however, that the wise and benevolent purpose of those in authority over us will be ascertained to the full understanding and satisfaction of the Self-Government Committee.

Change in the Classical Department.

Mr. Henry Jagoe Burchill, Jr., will be absent on leave for the remainder of the year. His classes will be taken by Dr. George N. Olcott and Dr. James Denison Rogers.

Junior Bible Class.

The Junior Bible Class, conducted by Miss Una Winterburn, will begin its regular weekly meetings on Monday, October 27th, at half past ten, in Room 213. The subject will be "Old Testament Characters." All Juniors are cordially invited to join; and all other students who, on account of conflicts, are unable to attend the courses of their respective classes will be welcome.

Chapel Notice.

Professor Lord will speak at chapel on Tuesday, October 28th. It is expected that Rev. Alfred E. Meyers, from the Collegiate Church, will speak on Friday, October 31st.

Chapel.

At Chapel on Tuesday, October 21st, Miss Holmes, a former missionary to Syria, made a short address. She impressed upon her hearers the necessity of thoroughness in mission study, in order to understand the needs of the missionaries and the conditions of life in non-Christian lands.

Magazine Contest.

Collier's Weekly opened a vacation story contest to undergraduates of women's colleges last spring. As this contest was advertised in the BULLETIN and throughout the college it is thought that some Barnard students may have entered. These may be interested to know that the prize was awarded to Anna M. Gomph, of Vassar. The story will be published in a few weeks.

Souvenir Cards.

Attention is called to the new souvenir mailing cards, with very fair views of Barnard College, that are on sale at the University Bookstore, and also at the bookstore under the Teachers College Dormitory.
