The Dean's Reception to 1906.

On Friday, November 7th, Miss Gill gave a musical reception for the Class of 1906, their instructors and their friends. The concert was held in the Theatre from 3.30 to 4.15, and afterwards the Freshmen and their guests were presented to the Dean by May Newland, the Freshman president. The whole college was thrown open to the guests, and in the various rooms girls of the upper classes were posted to do the honors. The Class of 1906 attended in a body, and with their friends seemed thoroughly to enjoy the occasion.

The upper-classmen acted as ushers, Anna Ware '03, and Clare Howard '03 being supervisors. In the Theatre downstairs were Alice Bamberger '03, Chief; Ethel Pool '03, Madeleine Skinner '03, Clara Applegate '04, and Jean Loomis '04. In the gallery of the Theatre were Hope Purdon '05, Chief; Alice Draper '05, Minnie Beifeld '04, and Helen King '03. At the head of the entrance stairs, to direct the guests to the Theatre, were Jean Miller '03, and Emilie Hutchinson '05. In the Reading Room were Jean Egleston '04, and Florence Meyer '05. In charge of the third floor were Charlotte Fountain '04, and Jane Hawes '04, and on the fourth floor were Amelia Hill '05, and Isabelle Mott '05.

To receive the guests in the Zoology laboratory were Bessie Thompson '03, Ruth Earl '02, and May Johnson '03. In the Chemistry laboratory were Marion Latham '03, Gulielma Alsop '03, and Mary Lee '05. To guide visitors through the Physics Rooms were Cecil Dorrian '05, Elizabeth Boorman '05, and Edith VanIngen '04. In charge of the Botany laboratory were Elsbeth Kroeber '03, Margaret Stone '04, and May Parker '04.

The Barnard Bear.

At a meeting of the "Barnard Bear" held on Monday, November 3d, the officers, with the exception of the Treasurer and the Active Vice-President, were re-elected. The Treasurer is Helen Erskine, '04; the Active Vice-President, Helen King, '03.

At the bi-weekly meetings of the society "Contemporary Novelists from a Comparative Point of View" will be discussed. The subject for the next meeting is George Meredith's "Beauchamp's Career," a copy of which is in the BULLETIN Room for the use of members.

Mr. Hamilton W. Mabie will address the society very soon. The date is not yet definitely arranged.

Tennis.

The inter-class matches in the tennis tournament are now being played. Edith Handy, 1905, is the champion of Freshmen and Sophomores, and is ready to meet the winner of the Juniors and Seniors in the finals. Elsbeth Kroeber, 1903, and Lillian Howard, 1906, are the Senior and Freshman champions.

Dormitory Notes.

The students of Whittier Hall celebrated Hallowe'en by having a ghost party. The dining rooms on the ninth floor were most artistically decorated with autumn leaves, corn husks and pumpkin lanterns, and the electric lights covered with yellow and green paper threw a soft glow over the room. Promptly at 6.30 the ghosts assembled here and ate what was supposed to be a silent dinner.

After dinner the ghosts, carrying their pumpkin lanterns, marched down to the rotunda on the first floor, where all was darkness except for the light from a huge Jack-o'-Lantern. Here they told ghost stories, played Hallowe'en games and danced the Virginia reel until nine o'clock, when they unmasked and finished their frolic with dancing.

Notice.

The officers of the college are very anxious to establish a satisfactory system of management for the lunch room. To this end they hope for the hearty co-operation of the students, from whom they will be glad to receive any reasonable suggestions. All communications on this subject should be made in writing, signed, addressed to Mr. Goetze, the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, and deposited in a box which is to be placed near the door of the lunch room. Every suggestion will receive careful consideration.

Undergraduate Notice.

Regular meeting of the Undergraduate Association will be held on Monday, November 10th, at 4.30 P. M., in Room 139. A fine of twenty-five cents is imposed for absence. The business will be the election of the Freshman member of the Executive Committee.

Basket Ball.

The Barnard College basket ball team has accepted a challenge to play the basket ball team of Normal College on Saturday morning, December 13th, in the Normal College Gymnasium, and the return game on January 31st, in the Barnard Gymnasium.

Debating Society Notice.

Mr. Ringwalt of Columbia University will address the College Debating Society on Tuesday, November 11th, at 4.30, in Room 139. All members are requested to be present, and a cordial invitation is extended to all Freshmen interested in debating, for Mr. Ringwalt will discuss a plan for the year's work.

Reading Room Notice.

Several new students have been inconvenienced because the rules of the Ella Weed Reading Room have not been known to them. Most of the students know the rules, but for the benefit of those who do not, the BULLETIN publishes the following regulations:—

I. All books must be charged at the desk before being taken from the room.

II. All books may be freely used in the Reading Room.

III. Books may be taken for use in the studies for short periods during the day, but must be reported at the desk when taken and returned.

IV. Books may be taken out at 4.30 to be returned at 9.15 the next morning. These books may be reserved by speaking to the librarian on the morning of the day they are to be taken out.

V. Special reference books must be signed for before use.

Meeting of 1904.

A regular meeting of the Class of 1904 was held on Thursday, November 6th. After the minutes of the last meeting had been approved the President announced that the class picture would be taken in the Court on Saturday, November 8th, at 10.30.

The election of the Junior Ball Committee was the next business under consideration. The committee is as follows: Jean Loomis, Chairman; Edith Appell, Lucy Embury, Helena Fischer and Lena Miller. The President and Vice-President are members ex-officio.

BARNARD BULLETIN,
BARNARD COLLEGE,
Broadway & 119th Street, COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY, N. Y.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1902.

The recently renewed activity of the BARNARD BEAR has naturally led many to reflect on that society's opportunities for usefulness and to wonder how far these will be improved. The present plans of the society include meetings for the discussion of modern novels and a reception to the college at which some prominent writer will be invited to speak. Yet, however improving to the members may be their criticisms of books and however pleasant to the undergraduates the proposed entertainment, neither of these things is likely to prove of great benefit to Barnard in general.

The two time-honored functions of a college literary organization, namely theatricals and debates, are out of question so far as the BEAR is concerned. The various class plays together with the undergraduate play consume as much time as, under existing conditions at Barnard, deserves to be given to theatricals. Debates should be left in the hands of the Debating Society. There is, however, a third activity, which might be undertaken by the BEAR, the publication of a college magazine. It is not our intention to decide whether or not this is advisable. We wish merely to make the suggestion, consider some reason for and against the enterprises, and leave the matter to be determined by those chiefly interested.

There is, of course, abundant precedent for such action being taken. Almost every woman's college of any consequence, or otherwise, issues a magazine containing the literary efforts of the students. These productions vary greatly in value but are uniform at least in this, that they afford a field for the talent of the writers and give some expression to the life of the college. The better class of these publications are extremely characteristic of the institutions from which they come and give in every case, a clear idea of the types of students who issue them.

Here at Barnard we have little or no opportunity for such expression. There is, indeed, our year-book; but the MORTARBOARD, being considered a class affair, seldom receives a large number of contributions and is generally written entirely by the Board of Editors. As for the University publications, although some few Barnard students contribute to them, they are scarcely representative of the whole college. If there is any literary ability in Barnard, and we believe there is sufficient to publish a creditable college magazine.—it should have a field of its own.

There are, however, many pitfalls to be avoided by undergraduate writers. The pedantry and solemnity of many college publications furnish an argument against increasing the number of them. The idea that they are reaching or exciting the admiration of more than a few should be abandoned by both editors and authors. Taking themselves and their achievements seriously, however, is probably a less conspicuous vice in Barnard students than in many college women, and these dangers, therefore, are the less to be feared.

Our methods by which a literary magazine might be easily started and carried on, would be by co-operating with the BULLETIN. A magazine committee appointed by the Barnard Bear, might take full responsibility for all material, which might be issued fortnightly or monthly, as the case might be, in the form of a supplement to the BULLETIN.

It is not necessary to state again in the columns, our opinion of the value of the literary society. In case, however, the society should ever undertake the responsibility of a publication, we trust it may be under an appellation different from the present one. It is difficult not to be superstitious concerning the future of any enterprise arranged by an association which calls itself the "Barnard Bear."

We wish to call the attention of all students to the notice concerning the lunch room given in this issue of the BULLETIN. General dissatisfaction has been expressed on all sides, but few definite reforms have been suggested. In order that the state of affairs may be improved, the officers of the college must know in detail exactly what is unsatisfactory. Everyone who has suggestions to make should certainly avail herself of the present opportunity.

Considerable comment has been made on the fact that the dancing class, which was such a pleasant feature of the College life last year, has been discontinued. There must surely be some girl among the undergraduates capable of carrying on the work started last year and public spirited enough to undertake the leadership. We urge all students interested in dancing to take this matter under consideration.

Everyone agrees that the singing in Chapel is extremely poor. This state of affairs can be remedied only by persistent and systematic effort on the part of all the students. The object of the Chapel Choir is to aid in this effort. The choir is divided into two sections: one singing on Tuesdays, the other on Fridays. Each section holds a ten minute practice once a week. Surely this ought not to be very irksome. May we not have a large Choir this year, and make it impossible in the future for anyone to reproach us with our singing at Chapel?

All who will join are requested to put their time-cards in letter-box M as soon as possible.

LILY S. MURRAY,
Chairman Music Committee.

The Southern Club.

At the meeting of the Southern Club held on Monday, November 3rd, it was decided to enlarge the membership, so as to include all southern women of the University. The following officers were elected: President, Katharine Armstrong, 1902; Vice-President, Alice M. Rheinstein, 1905; Secretary, Mary Lee, 1905; Treasurer, Ellice H. Fitch, 1903. In addition to its former purpose, which is mainly social, the Club intends to aid, as far as it can, the educational movement in the South towards establishing a woman's college which shall be equal in standing to the woman's colleges of the North.
