CHRISTMAS WORK.

The following acknowledgement of the dolls and money contributed to the settlement in Forty-sixth street, by the Christian Association, has been received. "I wish to thank the Barnard students who contributed the money to us most heartily for their remembrance of our very small neighbors, for whom it has been a great pleasure to play Santa Claus. The dolls have been given to many children who are now or have been patients of our nurse, and the money our nurse has used to buy fruit and other delicacies for the sick."

MISSIONARY MEETING.

On Wednesday, January 7, 1903, Mr. T. Jays, a medical missionary from Western Africa, sent out by the English Missionary Society, made a short address to a large gathering of students. He spoke earnestly of the intensity of need in Africa, both physical and spiritual, of the extent of the field and of the dearth of workers. Mohammedanism, he said, was spreading rapidly, and becoming a more formidable opponent of Christianity than heathenism, and the question of every Christian in civilized lands should be, not ought I go, but ought I stay at home?

ADDRESS OF CORRESPONDENTS TO

BARNARD BULLETIN,

BARNARD COLLEGE,

Room 213 & 119th Street, COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, JANUARY 12, 1903.

The subjects for the senior theses this year seems to us particularly well chosen. Biology and criticism, both of classic and of more modern writers, are as much in evidence as last year. Mathematics has declined in favor, while the number of essays on history and on present questions has become much larger. Since this increase shows the growth of a broader intellectuality in the girl about to leave college, it is a gain in the development of the graduate. For what a college graduate needs, if she is to be any use in the world, it is not so much a knowledge of the minute details of some especial line of research, as a broad comprehension of the vital questions of the day.

The attendance of the members of the Mandolin Club at weekly practice has been very poor lately, and those in charge of the club are somewhat discouraged. They feel that it is useless to have a leader and to try to have a well organized club and do the best work unless each member will be present at every meeting. Constant attendance on the part of the members is absolutely necessary for the success of the organization, and we wish to impress this fact upon all those belonging to it.

Last week, in a letter to the Bulletin, a "Sophomore" suggested that the Undergraduate Association purchase some scenery for the stage. This seems a very reasonable request, on the surface, but we must consider the other side of the question. The Undergraduate Association has to bear every year the expense of three teas, each of which costs about $150.00. In addition, it must give a large sum of money to the Undergraduate play, and must meet many incidental expenses, which, though small in themselves, amount as a whole to quite a considerable sum. All this money, except the small amount received from the sale of tickets, must come from the girls. As it is very difficult to collect from every girl even the small dues of fifty cents, it would be almost impossible to obtain any larger ones. That the scenery is much needed there is no doubt, but that the one hundred dollars necessary to buy it be taken from the Undergraduate Treasury is absolutely out of the question.

UNIVERSITY NEWS.

Saturday morning, January 10, 1903.
Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler.

NEW APPOINTMENT.

At the meeting of the trustees held yesterday afternoon, J. J. Thompson, D.Sc., F. R. S., Cavendish Professor of Experimental Physics in Cambridge University since 1884, was elected to take the place of the late Professor Rood as head of the Physics Department. Professor Thompson was graduated from Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1880, and became Lecturer in Physics in 1883, and Professor in the following year. He has published several treatises on the subject of Physics, among which are: "A Treatise on the Motion of Vortex Rings," "Application of Dynamics to Physics and Chemistry," "Elements of the Mathematical Theory of Electricity and Magnetism," and others.

APPOINTMENT COMMITTEE.

Dr. Tracy Hazen, assistant in the Department of Botany in Columbia, has been appointed to fill the vacancy in Barnard, caused by the death of Miss Dunn.

APPOINTMENT IN THE BOTANY DEPARTMENT.

Students of the University who desire positions as teachers next year please apply for Appointment Committee blanks to Mr. Meyers, in room 213 Library, as soon as possible.

ADDITIONS TO LIBRARY.

The library report for the month of December shows that 1,110 books have been added. Among the many valuable contributions are two facsimile reproductions, one of the Codex Vaticanus and the other of the Jenaer Liederhandschrift. A complete set of the Allgemeine Deutsche Bibliothek is among the other additions. This is the most important literary magazine published during the classical period of German literature. Some of the other additions are first editions of Goethe and Schiller, some of the works of Moliere and Emile and three volumes on Architectural Gardens of Italy, by A. Holland Forbes.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY QUARTERLY.

The fifth volume of the Columbia University Quarterly is now out and has some interesting features. The frontispiece is a portrait of the late Professor Rood. The contents in order are as follows:—The President's Report, A. D. F. Hamlin; The Problem of Athletic Control, G. W. Kirchwey; The Oriental Languages at Columbia, R. J. H. Gottheil; The Philolexian Society at Columbia, E. A. Cardoza; Some Passing Problems, Nicholas Murray Butler; Willard Humphreys, C. H. Young; Ogden N. Rood, J. H. Van Amringe. The long articles are followed, as usual, by editorial comments, university news, etc.

The articles on the "Problem of Athletic Control" and on "The Oriental Languages at Columbia" are especially worthy of notice. The former sets forth some excellent ideas in the solution of this much talked of problem and the latter is particularly interesting, because of increased work which is being done along these lines at Columbia.

From the general university news it may be seen that there has been an increase in numbers in nearly every department of the university, and an unusually large number of changes has been made in the staff of the various departments.

The Quarterly also states that interest in religious life at Columbia has been steadily on the increase.

In connection with Barnard there are several interesting facts given. Under the department of Classical Philology it is noted that Professor Earle and Professor Knapp presented papers at the meeting of the American Philological Association, at Union College, in July. Under the Department of Chemistry, it is stated that there are facilities for graduate work in organic and physical chemistry. In the former the course is given for the first time this year.

The Department of Zoology has extended its work by the addition of a course in physiology and a laboratory has been fitted up in Milbank Hall.

On the whole, this volume of the Quarterly is an excellent one, and contains a great deal of valuable information about the university and its progress in all departments.

NEW JOURNAL OF COMPARATIVE LITERATURE.

The Journal of Comparative Literature, of which Professor Woodbury is editor-in-chief, is on the eve of its initial publication. The January number contains, aside from editorial, literary notes, and book reviews of great interest, articles on "Huguenot Thought in England," by Professor Bastide, of France; "Moliere in Italy," by Professor Toldo, of Turin; "Unpublished Letters of an English Humanist," with a prefatory note by Dr. Spingarn. These leading articles are published in the language most familiar to their author.

NEW COURSE IN CHINESE.

Professor Hirth, Dean Lung Professor of Chinese, will offer during the second half-year a course on the History of China for students who do not study the Chinese language. There will be one lecture a week on Fridays, at 3:30. Further information regarding the details and requirements of the course may be obtained from Professor Hirth.
