BARNARD BULLETIN

NEW YORK, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1904.

Price, 5 Cents.

UNDERGRADUATE MEETING.

A meeting of the Undergraduate Association was held on Thursday, February 18, the minutes of the executive committee read and the following report, which was accepted:

ARTICLE I.

The President shall be empowered to appoint a committee of three to take charge of the publication of a Barnard College song-book.

This song-book shall be a pamphlet containing the words and music of such college songs as shall be chosen by the committee and of not more than two classes from each class, beginning with 1903.

ARTICLE II.

The President shall be empowered to appoint a committee of five to arrange for a celebration on Field Day, April 7.

The following report of the Play Committee was read and accepted:

ARTICLE I.

There shall be two performances of the play to be given on Friday and Saturday afternoons, April 29 and 30.

ARTICLE II.

There shall be 50 cents for undergraduate students and $1.00 for all other persons.

ARTICLE III.

The cost of the play will be about $350.

ARTICLE IV.

The committee request that $100 be given them by the Undergraduate Association to use for printing expenses.

ARTICLE V.

The name of the play shall be "The School for Scandal" by Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

The chairman of the committee on scenery reported that several scenes have been located and are at the disposal of all Barnard students, alumni and undergraduates.

The following letter was then read:

November 17, 1903.

Secretary of the Undergraduate Association, Barnard College:

Miss Mori—The resolutions of the Undergraduate Association with regard to the Milbank quadrangle have been received. They only voice my deepest regret at the scanty facilities of the college. That I also sympathize with you in the great effort with which you have provided the new athletic extended facilities in physical education for all of the women of the university can come only as a result of the liberal endowment. The present was made in accordance with the general interests of the college. It is probably, be necessary for the academic year.

"I shall continue to work for larger athletic facilities, and in the meantime, I shall hope for such action on the part of the students as will show gratitude for the advantages which have been granted, as will present a dignified and loyal college spirit to the public, and will win new friends for the college."

Very faithfully yours,

LAURA DRAKE GILL,

Dean.

THE UNDERGRADUATE PLAY.

The first trials for parts in the "School for Scandal" will take place on Tuesday afternoon, February 23, at 4:30, in the Alumni Room. The parts are open to all undergraduates, and the committee hopes that a large number of students will respond so that Mr. Sanger, the coach, may have considerable choice in assigning the parts.

Copies of the play have been placed in the reading room; the students are requested to read the play over, and then put their names and the parts for which they wish to try in Locker 51, Senior Study.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION MEETING.

There will be a meeting of the Athletic Association on Wednesday, February 24, at 12:30 promptly in Room 130. The business is the discussion of basket-ball arrangements for this spring.

THE BARNARD BEAR.

On Thursday, February 25, at 1:00, an important business meeting of the Barnard Bear will be held in the Bulletin Room.

On Monday, February 29, a meeting will be held at 3:30 in the Bulletin Room. The subject for discussion will be "The Ambassadors," by Henry James.

EARLY BIRD CLUB.

During the first week in March, Professor Osborn of Columbia will lecture before the Early Bird Club on "The Evolution of the Horse."

On Friday, April 15, the club will give a tea to the college in the Biological laboratories from 4 to 6.

GLOVERSVILLE CONVENTION.

A convention of the Young Women's Christian Associations of New York and New Jersey is to be held at Gloversville, N. Y., from February 24 to 28. It promises to be one of the most successful conventions of the kind yet held.

Eleanor Holden, 1906, has been chosen as delegate from the Barnard Y. W. C. A.

1907 NEWS.

The class of 1907 held a meeting on Wednesday, February 17. It was decided to give the Freshman play on April 21 and 23. Mr. Sanger has been secured as coach. The class chose for mascot a red rooster.

BARNARD AT THE ST. LOUIS FAIR.

For the first time in the history of exposition education at the St. Louis Fair will have its own building which, as usual, will contain exhibits from all the leading colleges, preparatory and public schools of the country.

The exhibit from Columbia University will be composed of the individual exhibitions from Barnard, Teachers College, Horace Mann, Physicians and Surgeons, and the various schools of Columbia itself.

Barnard's exhibit, now being prepared under the direction of Professor Woodward, will consist principally of photographs mounted in a leaf cabinet attached to the wall. There are to be about seventeen swinging leaves, two by three feet in dimensions, each leaf containing two 11 x 14 inch photographs which will represent the working and social sides of our college life.

The working side will include photographs of the reception rooms, silent study and laboratories which latter have been taken so as to show, to the best possible advantage, their dimensions, facilities, and equipment of running water, stone floors, apparatus and museum of specimens.

The social side of college life will be represented by pictures of the four studies, the various small and large reception rooms, and the main reception hall where a few students in cap and gown are receiving a couple of visitors. There is also an excellent view of the main stairway where the seniors are descending two by two. These latter pictures show in a clear, detailed relief the handsome carving and decoration of the ceiling, columns and stairway.

In addition, views will be exhibited of the reading room, Trustees' rooms, Theatre, Bulletin room and the Dean's and her/secretary's offices.

Ground floor plans of the entire building are also under preparation which, combined with statistics representing the growth in the number of students and instructors, will give the stranger an adequate idea of Barnard College.

As for the exterior of the college this will be shown in two large 3 x 5 foot photographs, hung on the wall near the leaf cabinet, one to be taken from a window of Havemeyer, the other from the river side of the building.

Furthermore bound volumes consisting of the various student publications, college catalogues, and bulletins of information from the time of the founding of the institution in about 1893 will be on file where they may be consulted by those interested in Barnard.

Further information concerning the University exhibition, as a whole, will be published later in April, when the authorities will be willing to have the perfected plans given to the public.

BARNARD BULLETIN,

BARNARD COLLEGE,

Broadway & 119th Street,

COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1904.

The holiday on Washington's Birthday was much appreciated by the college. Time-honored holidays always have the affection of the students who enjoyed this Twenty-second all the more keenly because of its unexpected character.

Quite divergent opinions are heard regarding The School for Scandal. Those who do not approve the selection of this play usually oppose it on the ground that it is both too ambitious and too hackneyed. Some maintain that The Manoeuvres of Jane was so successful that we should try to procure a modern play this year, that such a play would be easy to find, would have the advantage of novelty, and would be within the range of our abilities.

The selection of the Undergraduate Play Committee seems to us, however, to be a good one. The School for Scandal is particularly well suited for production under the conditions which must necessarily regulate and restrict all our dramatic performances. The quaintness of costume and the somewhat obsolete forms of speech lend an atmosphere of picturesqueness which removes the play from comparison with standards that are modern and conventional. Yet on the human side it is eminently modern. The exposure of social foibles is brought out with such vividness that one is quizzically convinced of the identity of the elements which go to make up the heart of the social trifter in all periods. The humor strikes home, therefore notwithstanding an obsolete and artificial setting.

But one of the best features of the play, from the amateur's standpoint, is the evenness of the rôles. There are at least five parts which offer first-rate opportunities to the girl who has distinct dramatic talent, and several more which require good acting. We are, therefore, not likely to run into the danger, at present so noticeable on the professional stage, of being forced to be satisfied with the occasional appearance of a "star," while witnessing for the rest of the time, acting of a second-rate order.

Another advantage of well distributed action is that the burden of mastering rôles is not laid entirely on a few girls. This, a consideration irrelevant to professionals, is of the greatest moment in our busy life.

The Purchasing Committee of the Avery Library have bought the "Atlas des Anciens plans de Paris" (1880, 3 volumes folio), being the reproduction in fac-simile of all the rare original maps which are indispensable for the proper comprehension of the topographical development of the city of Paris. This is part of the great "Histoire générale de Paris," begun in the middle of the nineteenth century. It has also bought the fine "Plan du Département de la Seine" (12 plates, grand folio), which was published by Barrière in 1895. These maps with many others of less importance supplement perfectly the strong collection of Paris books already in the Avery Library, and make it, with the single exception of the Hôtel Carnavalet, one of the most convenient places in the world for the study of the topography of Paris.

The topographical development of cities is one of the most serious questions before the American public, involving as it does vast financial and architectural problems. Some public library should certainly specialize this subject. There is no library which can do this work so conveniently as the Avery. It is hoped that Mr. and Mrs. Avery and their committee will give the subject a fair share of attention in future selections.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Although we are glad to publish letters signed by their writers we are not responsible for the sentiments expressed. Unsigned letters will receive no attention.

To the Editor of the BULLETIN:

It seems a great pity that in a college like Barnard the girls do not take enough interest to make the chorus an important factor. Many of the girls who have the best voices have never cared enough to join, and those who came at the first part of the year never come now, or very irregularly. There are only about seven who can be counted on. This is rather a poor showing from a college of nearly four hundred. Why can we not have a Glee Club which will mean something to ourselves and to outsiders?

A MEMBER.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

The attention of students who wish to apply for scholarships for the coming academic year 1904-5, is called to the following regulations:

All applications for scholarships must be filed on or before April 1, 1904.

Students now holding scholarships and wishing to retain them for another year must file new applications.

Secretary.

COLLEGE OF PHARMACY.

(This notice appeared in the New York papers.)

The College of Pharmacy at 115 West 68th Street has been made a part of Columbia University, subject to the approval of the members of the college, at the annual meeting on March 15. President Butler has been nominated president of the college by the trustees of that institution. Dean Charles F. Chandler, now president of the college, will become the first vice-president. The college will hold the same relation to Columbia that Barnard and Teachers College now do.

Next month's annual meeting is the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the college in 1829. The rest of the ticket nominated includes: Second vice-president, William Jay Schieffelin; third vice-president, Herbert D. Robbins; trustees to 1907, John R. Caswell, Otto P. Amend, Osear Goldman, Adolph Heming, and Charles H. White.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY LECTURES.

Columbia University announces a series of eight lectures on the "Problem of Monopoly." These lectures will be given by John Bates Clark, Ph.D., J.L.D., Professor of Political Economy in Columbia University, in the Great Hall of Cooper Union on Mondays from February 1 to March 21, inclusive, at 8 P.M. The lectures are given in cooperation with the Cooper Union and are open to the public. No tickets of admission are required. The doors will be open from 7:15 P.M. to 8 P.M. after which no person will be admitted. The remaining seven lectures are as follows: February 8, "Natural Checks on the Power of Corporations;" February 15, "Anti Trust Laws;" February 22, "Agraria. Movements;" February 29, "Organized Labor and Monopolies;" March 7, "Municipal Activities;" March 14, "Railroad Problems;" March 21, "Governmental Monopolies."

PROFESSOR FARRAND TO LECTURE.

On Wednesday, February 24, Professor Farrand will lecture at Teachers' College 4:30. The subject will be "The Relation of Anthropology to Education, with Special Reference to the Significance of Primitive Life in Elementary Education."
