BASKETBALL REGULATIONS.

A meeting of the Athletic Association was held on Wednesday, February 24, for the purpose of the consideration of basketball regulations for the second term of the college year 1903-1904. The report of the basketball executive committee was as follows:

WHEREAS, In October, 1903, the Athletic Association of Barnard College acted according to the suggestion of Dean Gill, and adopted the women's rules for basketball, and

It was then agreed to use these rules until February, 1904, and then decide whether to maintain them or go back to the rules which had previously been used, the basketball executive committee presents the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Barnard College Athletic Association readopt the regular men's rules for basketball, and that the game be conducted hereafter in the same manner that it was in years previous to this.

The report of the committee was unanimously passed by the association.

Among the reasons given for the decision are the following:

1. Since the women's rules were adopted there has been practically no basketball at Barnard. Almost all playing has been done by members of the Freshman class, and the number of players has been so small that it has been impossible to have the game played at Barnard, but has been necessary for the Freshmen to go to Horace Mann to practice with the Horace Mann girls.

2. None of the students who now play would be playing if the men's rules were adopted.

3. The committee has ascertained that at least five members of the Sophomore and Junior class would play if the men's rules were adopted.

4. The adoption of the men's rules will be the formation of class teams and interclass games.

THE BARNARD BEAR.

On February 29, a meeting of the Bear will be held at 3:30 in the room. The subject for discussion is "The Ambassadors," by Henry James.

CHAPEL NEWS.

R. Hotchkiss, former missionary, will conduct chapel services on March 1. All students wishing to attend should call on Hotchkiss after the services by the Y. W. C. A. to have a seat at the large table in the chapel.

SONG-BOOK COMMITTEE.

See in charge of the College Song-Book at follows: Mildred Miller, Purdon, 1905; Hazel Plate, Applegate, ex-officio.

PRIZES FOR COLLEGE SONGS.

The BULLETIN offers a prize of five dollars for the best college song written by an undergraduate. This song will be offered to the committee which is getting up the Barnard song book, and should be strictly a college song. Competitors are urged, moreover, to be careful in selecting their tune, as in judging the songs the music will count, if not equally with the words, yet very considerably. A well defined and stirring air, not hackneyed and not too difficult is advised. The date before which songs must be handed in will be announced as soon as the Undergraduate Song Committee has matured its plans.

The judges in the contest will be Professor Trent, the Chairman of the Song Committee, and the Editor-in-Chief of the BULLETIN.

A friend of the college who wishes to remain unknown, offers through the BULLETIN, a prize of five dollars for the best college song written by an alumnus. This prize is to be awarded under the same conditions as the BULLETIN prize.

The BULLETIN reserves the right to withhold either one of these awards if the judges decide that no one of the songs submitted is good enough to deserve it. Moreover, the right is reserved to publish in the collection all songs that are offered for competition if the Song Committee sees fit to do so.

AUTHORS' READING.

An Authors' Reading will be given at Sherry's on April 16 under the auspices of the class of 1903. The selections will consist of advance sheets from certain of the May magazines, and will be read by their respective authors. The proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to the purchase of books for the Ella Weed Reading Room. The details of this announcement will be given later.

FIELD DAY COMMITTEE.

The following students have been appointed on the Field Day Committee: Helen Etting, 1904; Edith Handy, 1905; Faith Chipperfield, 1906; Emma H. Burchenal, 1907; Josephine Pratt, special, and Clara M. Applegate, ex-officio.

GLOVERSVILLE CONVENTION.

Ruth A. Reeder, 1905, was chosen as delegate from the Barnard Y. W. C. A. to represent the college at the convention of the Young Women's Christian Associations of New York and New Jersey, which was held at Gloversville, N. Y., from February 24 to 28. Miss Reeder took the place of Eleanor S. Holden, 1906, who was unable to go as previously arranged.

UNDERGRADUATE SCENERY.

The committee for the purchase of undergraduate scenery reports the purchase of such scenery as will be of greatest general use to the college. For $180, the amount allowed by the Undergraduate Association, the committee secured and had placed in the theatre the following scenery: a fancy interior scene to be used for a parlor, drawing-room, or similar setting; a plain interior for a kitchen, inn, or cottage scene; two top borders and an exterior drop to be used with either interior. The scenery has been made in such a way that it can easily be put up and taken down by the students without the aid of the scene shifters.

BARNARD BULLETIN,

BARNARD COLLEGE,
Broadway & 119th Street. COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 29, 1904.

At last a long-felt want of Barnard students is about to be fulfilled and they are to have a song book of their own. Besides the mere pleasure to be derived from seeing the songs neatly collected, it is to be hoped that the book will accomplish the other object, so much more important, of strengthening the college spirit. Heretofore there seems to have been only class feeling to the exclusion of any pride in the broader phases of college life; but on the publication of a college song-book this state of things may be changed. Class songs, to be sure, will be included with the others but they will be of secondary importance.

We hope that the results of the BULLETIN Prize Competition will show some real college songs which will be appreciated not only on Field Day and at other college functions, but will also enable Barnard students to hold up their heads with the best when in summer-time the Wellesley, Smith, and Vassar songs are being triumphantly sung. There are very few of the students indeed who have never felt that embarrassment which naturally follows a request for a Barnard song, and they have been compelled to acknowledge rather shamefacedly that they did not have any. There is, of course, "Fair Barnard," but how many knowing it would care to sing it at a rowing-party? It is rather too solemn. On the publication of the Barnard College Song-book it is to be hoped that many really good college songs will appear.

Judging by the bad results of the policy of the Athletic Association in adopting the women's rules for playing basketball, we are pleased to hear of their decision to go back, if possible, to the rules under which they have played in previous years. During the last two years there was a marked increase in the number of students who were interested in the games with visiting teams and who were present to show their enthusiasm.

The hope that class teams would be organized has not been realized. It is difficult in the comparatively small classes at Barnard to find girls who can devote enough time to practice to do effective work as a class team. There is no difficulty whatever in organizing one or even two teams from the college at large.

Even if it may seem best, at present, to give up the practice of sending or accepting challenges from outside teams; it is a pity that basketball should entirely disappear from college life. We hope that with the return to the old rules there will be a revival of interest and enthusiasm in the game.

The Editors of the BULLETIN wish to announce that Virginia Taylor, 1906, has been elected an associate editor of the paper.

BULLETIN MEETING.

There will be a meeting of the editors of the BULLETIN on Wednesday, March 2, at 12:20, in the BULLETIN room. Both the Managing and Associate Editors are requested to be present to arrange for the definite work of each member of the Board.

GREEK IN MODERN EDUCATION.

At one of the sessions of the Association of American Universities during the past week the topic of discussion was "The Requirement of Greek in College." Professor Richard Hudson, Dean of the Literary Department of the University of Michigan, and Professor Paul Shorey, head of the Department of Greek in the University of Chicago, contributed papers to this discussion. Professor Hudson took the view that Greek should be an elective, while Professor Shorey said the elective system broke down in practice because the student did not habitually make wise selections. Professor Shorey added that the significance of Greek in our civilization makes it wise for the university to set up a guide post to point out to students who desire an education, mainly humanistic and literary, that Greek is still an indispensable element in such a training.

AN EXHIBIT ON JAPAN.

The Educational Museum of Teachers College announces the opening on Monday, February 29, of a two-weeks' exhibit illustrative of Japan and the Japanese, subjects of timely interest. The exhibition is intended to represent, by means of a large collection of photographs, maps, charts, and objects, the homes, customs, education, industries and art of the Japanese. In addition to the Museum's permanent collection, private collectors of Japanese material in New York, and certain Japanese gentlemen resident in this city have made generous loans. Some of the most interesting exhibits are: a series of photographs illustrating military operations in the recent Chinese-Japanese war, and a set of Japanese color prints issued in celebration of Japan's triumph in that struggle; complete photographic representation of Japanese home-life, town and country scenes, religion, and many other topics; Japanese lacquer armor of fifty years ago; Japanese education illustrated by exhibits from the educational exhibit of Japan at Chicago in 1893; carved wood figurines representing various phases of Japanese social life; kimonos and other articles of dress, and models of Japanese houses and their furnishings.
 The exhibit will continue from February 29 to March 12, being open daily, except Sunday, from ten to six. The public is cordially invited to visit the exhibition, and a welcome is especially extended to teachers desiring to bring their pupils with them.
