1905 COTILLION.

On Monday afternoon, April 11th, the Class of 1905 gave a cotillion in honor of the Class of 1904. Each Junior invited a Senior as her individual guest. After a cotillion of five figures, refreshments were served and general dancing followed. Almost all the girls were in costumes with masks, but after the first few minutes these were removed and the slight uncertainty done away with. The fancy dresses gave excellent opportunity for the display of cleverness and originality, and added much to the brightness of the dance and the gayety of the dancers. The cotillion gave great pleasure to both classes and is a graceful act of friendliness from Junior to Senior that may well become an annual event.

1904.

At a special meeting of the Senior Class on Thursday, April 14, Caroline Lexow was elected Tree Orator for Class Day. The girls were urged to learn all the class and college songs which have been posted in the study.

1906 NEWS.

At a special meeting on Tuesday, April 12, the class of 1906 decided to send a vote of thanks to Miss Gildersleeve for the wreath she sent to the class at the Sophomore play. They also decided to send a vote of thanks to Mrs. Israel for her assistance in coaching the play.

THE EARLY BIRD CLUB.

On Friday, April 15, the Early Bird Club gave a tea in the Biological Laboratories to the faculty and their wives and the members of the college. The laboratories looked very attractive; one was used for exhibition of specimens, models and microscopic demonstrations, another was decorated with flags and screens and used for refreshments. The Early Bird is to be congratulated on the success of its first tea; a great many people came and all had a good time.

THE BARNARD BEAR.

At the meeting of the Barnard Bear on Wednesday, April 13, "Cashel Byron's Profession" by Bernard Shaw was discussed. "The Eastward Road" by Jeannette Bliss Gillespie, 1900, will be read next, and a copy may be found on the Bear shelf in the Bulletin Room. Attention is called to the fact that these books which are the property of the Barnard Bear are for the use of only those students who are members.

The following students were elected members of the Bear: Minnie Beifeld, '04, Elizabeth McLean, '04, Sarah Hoyt, '05, Marjorie Brown, '06, Elizabeth Brautigam, '06, Caroline Hall, '06, Lucie Mayo-Smith, '06, and Virginia Rae, '06.

"THE SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL."

Tickets for both the performances of the "School for Scandal" which will be presented on Friday and Saturday afternoons, April 29 and 30, may be obtained from any member of the committee: Clara M. Applegate, '04, Helen Erskine, '04, Lisette Metcalf, '04, Annie F. Fisher, '05, Pamela Lyall, '05, Ella Reaney, '06, and Marie Marrin, '07.

Y. W. C. A. ELECTIONS.

There will be an important meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on Monday, April 18 in room 139. Business, change of quorum from two-thirds to one-half. Also election of officers. All members are earnestly requested to come.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION MEETING.

There will be a meeting of the Athletic Association on Wednesday, April 20, at 12:30, in room 139. All members are urged to come as arrangements for the spring tennis tournament are to be discussed.

SOCIÉTÉ FRANÇAISE.

The Société Française will give a play in the evening of Saturday, May 7. The name of the play has not yet been announced, but it is known to be a new departure at Barnard, in that the cast consists entirely of women's parts.

PROFESSOR CRAMPTON AT COLD SPRING HARBOR.

It has been announced that Professor H. E. Crampton will take charge of the work in Embryology at the Biological laboratory at Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, this summer. Professor Crampton will continue his investigations upon inheritance at the new experimental laboratory of the Carnegie institution which is also located at Cold Spring Harbor.

CHAPEL NEWS.

On Tuesday April 19, Professor James Everett Frame of Union Theological Seminary, will address the students at Chapel.

On Friday, April 22, Professor Frederick J. E. Woodbridge of Columbia University will speak at the Chapel service.

LECTURE BY PROF. HENRY F. OSBORN.

It may interest those who listened to Professor Osborn's lecture before the Early Bird Club a few weeks ago on the "Evolution of the Horse" to learn that he has accepted an invitation to lecture upon the same subject before the British Association at Cambridge, on August 20. He will also repeat the lecture before the International Zoological Congress at Rome later in the summer.

COLUMBIA FRENCH PLAY.

The French Society of Columbia gave three performances of "Les Suites d'un Premier Lit" and "Les Vivacités du Capitaine Tèc." The first was a one act comedy which dealt with the attempts of a father of twenty-nine years to find a husband for a forty-eight year old stepdaughter because his affianced second wife did not like her. The highest praise is due to Mr. Hoguet and Mr. Houston, father and daughter; to the former for his Latin energy; to the latter for his sweet winning manner. The rôle of Claire the fiancée was very difficult as it required only still acting. Miss Spencer's talent came out better in the next play. "Les Vivacités du Capitaine Tèc" gave the actors a fine opportunity to display their vigor. A hot-tempered young captain returns from China in consequence of a quarrel with his commanding officer and takes up his residence with his aunt. There he finds his young cousin Lucille about to marry a fossil scientist whose worth is endorsed by her tutor. With great determination he interferes and after many complications marries the girl himself.

In his second rôle as hero, Mr. Hoguet showed even greater skill than in the first. His long monologues never grew dull or lifeless. Especially well rendered was his description of his campaign in China when his aunt and cousin sat on either side listening to his tales.

Miss Canfield filled her rôle of heroine with much grace and vivacity, though not possessing the polished accent and manner of Miss Spencer.

Congratulations are due to Mr. Tice who must have spent a great deal of time preparing such a finished production.

THE METROPOLITAN STUDENT CONFERENCE.

At the Saturday afternoon meeting of the Metropolitan Student Conference the subject for discussion was "The Permanent Element in Student Life: from the Alumnae Standpoint." Miss Janet A. McCook who represented Barnard said in part: "While friendship, academic experience, knowledge, character, and capacity are rightly spoken of as permanent elements of college life, their permanence is due to an underlying principle which is often overlooked. The enduring contribution of academic training is a point of view which imparts vigor to the friendships, and meaning to the college life; which gives a new incentive to the search for knowledge, a fresh conception of the value of character and the happiness of service. This point of view—the permanent contribution of college life—means all that is implied by St. Paul when he speaks of 'spiritual mindedness.'"

Miss McCook then spoke of the way in which college training develops this point of view, and of its value in the practical life of every day.

BARNARD BULLETIN,

BARNARD COLLEGE,
Broadway & 119th Street, COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y

MONDAY, APRIL 18, 1904.

We desire to call special attention to Professor Crampton's letter in this issue of the BULLETIN announcing the establishment and purpose of the Committee on Student Organizations. The need for such a committee is significant. In the first place, it indicates that the college is in the stage of development that is marked by innovations of various kinds. Within the last few years the number of students has increased to an extent that has made it possible to organize many societies. We have at present fourteen organizations such as the Debating Club, the Barnard Bear, the Deutscher Kreis, and others, that depend for their success upon the active interest of their members. Besides these, there are the social societies, the class organizations, and the Undergraduate Association, all of which demand more or less time from some students. At a college like Barnard with the present membership it is admittedly difficult to make so many organizations successful. The difficulty of getting a quorum for even very important meetings has been commented on so often lately that we need hardly call attention to it again. But it is certainly a condition that should not exist.

There must be a reason for it. Can it be due to a lack of interest on the part of the students? Or have we too many societies?

It seems to us that the reports required by the Committee on Student Organizations will compel an investigation of the condition of the whole social organization at Barnard for which the undergraduates are collectively responsible. Do they not need to be reminded of this responsibility?

In a period of establishing precedents it is necessary to proceed cautiously and pause frequently to make sure of our ground. There is at present a lack of recognized standards. The students are sometimes perplexed as to which is the best method of procedure, or they are perhaps too biased by one point of view to choose wisely. It is with an appreciation of the difficulty of this situation that the Committee on Student Organizations has been formed. There will now be a definite means of communication between the faculty and the undergraduates on debatable questions of college policy from which the students should benefit. At this time the Undergraduate Association must receive a fresh impetus to show its ability to be a self-governing body in the best sense of the term.

CORRESPONDENCE.

APRIL 14, 1904.

To the Editors of the BARNARD BULLETIN:

May I be accorded the privilege of announcing to the students of Barnard College through your columns a matter which is of general interest. By vote of the Faculty of Barnard College, a Standing Committee on Student Organizations has been established, consisting at present of the undersigned as Chairman, Professor H. L. Moore, Miss V. C. Gildersleeve, and Professor Wood as advisory member with reference to sports and physical exercise.

This committee has been constituted to exercise a general supervision over those student activities which bring Barnard College before the public, or which involve the mutual interests of the several student associations. The necessity for such a committee has largely arisen from the recent multiplication of student societies and the increased complexity of their interrelations.

Although the situation demands early action, still this action must be based upon a full knowledge of the facts involved. The first step will be, therefore, to establish a Bureau of Records in which shall be filed the list of officers and members of the several associations, the classified list of their social, devotional or other meetings, and such additional information as is contained in Annual Reports, in the Constitution and By-Laws, in plans of organization or in other printed matter.

The students have shown a deep realization of the difficulty and peculiarity of the problems which confront them. This Committee has been formed to aid them in their expressed desire to win even greater academic and social dignity for the College. It is in the hope that the students will

TEACHERS COLLEGE NOTES.

The Faculty of Teachers College has recommended to the University Council the appointment, as Honorary Fellow in Education of Teachers College during 1904-1905, of Mr. Ellwood P. Cubberley, Associate Professor of Education in Leland Stanford Jr. University.

An interesting portion of the Teachers College exhibit lately shipped to the St. Louis Exposition is a collection of recent publications of officers of instruction of the College. Aside from records of original technical investigations in history and sociology; mathematics, physics and chemistry; botany and zoology; psychology and history of education; the method of the recitation, school administration, and social phases of education, there is a series of volumes elaborating the methods of teaching English, Latin and Greek; history and civics; chemistry and physics; and a large collection of text books and editions of texts in ancient and modern languages, mathematics and the experimental sciences; education, music, and the arts. There are also complete files of the various periodicals published under the auspices of the College or its officers, and a full collection of syllabi of its University Extension courses.

A committee has been appointed, under the Chairmanship of Professor Rouillon, of the department of Manual Training, to arrange, for the last week in May, the usual annual public exhibit of the equipment and work of the various departments of the College.

A small exhibition of Sabatos weavings, the work of Mr. Wendell Volk, lecturer on handloom weaving, has stimulated so much interest during the present week that it will be removed from the department of Domestic Art and placed on exhibition for some additional days in the Educational Museum.

The free Wednesday public lecture at the College during the coming week will be delivered by Principal Sheppard, of the New York Commercial High School. The subject will be Commercial High Schools.

Mr. Augil Prettyman, Principal of the Horace Mann High School, has been elected President of the New York Schoolmasters' Association, and Chairman of its Committee on the Control of School Athletics.

Professor Dutton, of the department of School Administration, is announced to speak on Some Tendencies in Modern Education before the League for Political Education, Monday, April 18th.

NOTES FROM OTHER COLLEGES.

Under the direction of Dr. Brady of the Latin Department at Smith College, the class of 1907 is to present Horace's Carmen Saeculare some time in May. This will be the first time it has been given in America, and, as now proposed, will consist of three parts: the prologue, the sacrificial scene and the carmen. The carmen will be sung by fifty members of the class dressed as boys and girls in the Roman toga. The music has been composed for the occasion by Dr. Sleeper of the Music Department.
