"THE SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL."

"I go and leave my character behind me," said Sir Peter Teazle when he was leaving the reception room of Lady Sneerwell. Though the adept scholars of The School for Scandal may abuse his trust, Sir Peter need not fear the critic's pen. Last Friday and Saturday afternoons gave sufficient proof of his power to win the love and admiration of all who saw him. For its force and vigor the 1904 undergraduate play is indebted to Lord Teazle. His stormy fits of rage quickly changing into periods of jolly good nature showed that he possessed more emotional power than any of his companions. Nor could he be blamed for his infatuation for the little country girl even though she was flirtatious. The clever ruses with which she first angered and then soothed her poor husband made the second act the most delightful in the play. Her bewitching coquetry carried her through all five acts as triumphantly as through the mazes of the minuet when Ben. Backbite led her gracefully under the arch of swords.

A Rival of Lady Teazle in charm as well as in position was Lady Sneerwell. In this character there was something insidiously fascinating which held our attention steadily, no matter whether she was taking part in the conversation or not. A contrast to the serpentine grace of Lady Sneerwell was the troublesome vivacity of Mrs. Candour. We regret that gossiping was a fatal outcome of her character but we rejoice, that, since necessity obliged, she could fill her rôle so well.

The Surface brothers have next claim to our consideration. When we try to study Joseph's character of knave and moralist we find the only key to the combination in his flash-like changes of expression and gesture which reveal the hypocrite. They reveal furthermore that Joseph has more emotional strength than his brother, Charles. This lad's frank fascinating laugh endeared him to us from the moment he sold his family portraits and thanked them politely for their aid. He is too young to play with love though. If both he and Maria would drop the subject for a few more years, perhaps in some future time they would not cross hands like shy children. Not that we would advise Charles to neglect Maria. Far from it. We believe there are possibilities in the young girl which constant association with good-natured Charles might bring out. At present, it is to be feared she indulges in pettishness which is almost as monotonous as the good-nature of Charles.

Aside from the clever portrayal of character much praise is due to last week's performance for its stage management. The ladies and gentlemen never seemed to crowd each other or find difficulty in withdrawing from the scene. It is not often that a college play is worth four hours of a college day, but those of us who could spare the time were amply repaid by The School for Scandal.

BARNARD BULLETIN PRIZE SONG.

Written by Mary Lock, 1905.

Tune:—"The Lorelei."

I hear from old Morningside ringing,
A glad and jubilant strain,
Fair Barnard the theme of the singing,
Fair Barnard its joyous refrain—
We who have learned to love her,
Hopefully fought her fight,
Under her, banner triumphant,
Sing to the Blue and White—

We who with loyal endeavor,
Have raised that flag to the sky
Our honor shall deem it forever,
To keep it waving on high;—
Our charge as a band united,
Earnest, happy, and true,
Shoulder to shoulder marching,
Beneath the Barnard Blue.

THE FIRST COLLEGE FOR WOMEN IN SPAIN.

Over twenty years ago a school for girls was founded in Northern Spain by an American college woman, Alice Gordon Gulick. So wisely has it been conducted that it has made friends throughout the kingdom; its graduates are now teaching more than three thousand children in different parts of the country; its students are admitted to the examinations of the State Institute; nineteen have already taken the B. A. degree, and four have taken the degrees of the University of Madrid with honor.

Last year the school, which is called the International Institute for girls in Spain, was divided into two departments, academic and collegiate. The International Institute League of women's colleges and girls' schools was organized to aid the collegiate department of the Institute. Miss Josephine H. Short, secretary of the league, will tell of the work of the Institute, at the Chapel service on May 6.

UNDERGRADUATE ASSOCIATION.

A special meeting of the Undergraduate Association was held on Thursday, April 28, to discuss the adoption of a college flower. Before the regular business Professor Crampton, Chairman of the Committee on Student Organizations addressed the students on the proposed institution of a student council, whose office it should be to supervise all matters pertaining to Undergraduate interests, to deliberate on all questions when necessary, and to act as a go-between for faculty and students. This student council should be composed of the President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer of the Undergraduate Association, the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Undergraduate Association, the presidents of the four classes. Dr. Crampton stated that it was the desire of the faculty to place as much as possible of the government of the Undergraduate body in the hands of the students.

After Dr. Crampton had concluded, the President of the Undergraduate Association called for the report of the Committee on the adoption of the college flower. Rose McCormick, '04, chairman, reported that three flowers, namely, the white carnation, the blue fleur-de-lis, and the white rose had been chosen. Of these three the committee suggested that a selection should be made by the Undergraduate Association, and submitted to Dean Gill and the Trustees for approval. The report of the committee was accepted without amendment, and the selection of the flower resulted in the choice of the white rose.

BARNARD BULLETIN,

BARNARD COLLEGE,

Broadway & 119th Street,

COLUMBIA UNIV., N. Y.

MONDAY, MAY 2, 1904.

We publish in this issue the song to which the prize of five dollars offered for the best College song written by an undergraduate has been awarded. Although for the songs submitted the authors might claim more decided originality than is manifest in this one, or some other particular excellence, there was in every other case an objection which unsuited the song for the purpose for which it was designed.

None of the songs submitted for the Alumnae Contest were considered by the judges to be worthy of a prize, so the BULLETIN has decided not to award the Alumnae prize.

The announcement of the debate between Normal College and Barnard has brought our Debating Club into considerable prominence. To some it came as a surprise that the Debating Club was in a position to accept a challenge from any outside club. To others who have followed closely the career of the Club, it meant that another great step had been taken in its development.

The Barnard College Debating Club was organized by a few members of the Class of 1904 in their Freshman year. During that year its membership was open only to Freshmen, and its existence was kept secret. By the next year the Club was fairly well established—sufficiently so to justify its announcement. The members then decided to admit the new Freshmen and the Club became the Sophomore-Freshmen Debating Society. At the end of the second year the membership of the Club was opened to all classes and it then took its present name.

Its development has thus been along conservative lines, and it is especially due to its founders that care has been taken to make every step secure. Too much praise cannot be given to the girls of 1904 who have worked for the success of the Club.

Next year the present classes must be depended upon to continue their work. We are glad to hear that already several students have expressed their intention to join the Club and by another year its membership should be considerably increased.

A large number of members is especially desirable in a club of this character. The advantages that it affords are too well-known to need enumerating. It is sufficient to suggest that they should be well thought over before they are given up by those who appreciate them but say they have no time for them. Each class should be so represented in the Debating Club that inter-class debates might be possible. To lend interest to such debates Dean Gill some time ago offered a cup to be awarded to the winning class, but it has been impossible up to the present time to arrange for such a debate.

A Senior-Junior Debate ought to be one of the important and most interesting events of the year, and no one can deny that it would be tremendously worth while. We hope that enough interest will be shown in coming years to make this possible. The Debating Club is one that should receive the hearty support of many students.

We wish to add a word here—though it may be unnecessary—in urging every member of the College to come to the Normal-Barnard Debate on Saturday, May 7. Each undergraduate owes it to the Debating Club and to the College to be present. It is a rare opportunity to show our college spirit and we hope that everyone will take advantage of it.

LA SOCIETA ITALIANA.

La Societa Italiana will have a social meeting on Monday, May 9th at 4 o'clock. All members who intend to come will please put their names in locker 179, Junior Study, as soon as possible.

NEW LOCKERS.

One of the large rooms in the basement of Brinckerhoff Hall has been fitted up with forty-four lockers and two shower baths. The lockers are to be assigned first to the members of the Athletic Association who play basket-ball; then to those who play tennis, beginning with the Senior class.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the BULLETIN:

If the students are really anxious to have good college songs, and undergraduates do not seem able to write any that may be accepted and generally approved for their real poetic merit, why is there not a personal appeal made to some of the alumnae?

The song-book committee could easily write personal letters to alumnae like Miss Goodale, Miss Gillespie and Mrs. Alice Duer Miller, all of whom have written and still continue to write matter of real merit. It is not at all unlikely that a personal letter of the right sort would bring us some good results.

I sincerely hope that the committee will give this suggestion some consideration.

Yours truly,
E. A.
