SESQUICENTENNIAL EXERCISES.

A large audience of alumni and guests were present at the service of praise on Sunday, October 31st, at half-past three. After the usual academic procession had passed to the platform, the processional hymn, "Oh, Worship the King, All Glorious Above," was sung. Then followed responsive reading, the Te Deum Laudamus and the Lesson. The University hymn—"Stand Columbia"—rang out with even more than usual vigor under the leadership of Mr. Warren and the choir of St. Bartholomew's Church. The sermon was preached by the Right Reverend William Crosswell Doane, Bishop of Albany. After referring to the importance of choice in undergraduate life,—the necessity of proving things that are different in order to approve things that are excellent,—Bishop Doane spoke of the necessity of religion in education. The Hallelujah Chorus from the "Messiah" was then rendered by the choir.

The university convocation, which took place Monday, October 31st, at half-past three, was expected by many to be the most interesting feature of the Sesquicentennial. Accordingly, the gymnasium was crowded. This was the more remarkable in that an attempt was made to restrict seats to alumni. The academic procession was led by the older graduates; the Faculty and the Trustees followed.

When the university orchestra had rendered the prelude to "Die Meistersinger," the oration in commemoration of the 156th anniversary of the foundation of King's College was delivered by President Butler. Dr. Butler's address consisted of a careful outline of the history of the university from the founding of King's College, including the circumstances under which it came into being, and the ideals for which its representatives in different periods had stood.

After the address of the President, Dean Van Auinger made a brief, but eloquent, speech of presentation on behalf of the recipients of honorary degrees. The degrees were then conferred. Of these, twenty-three were Doctor of Laws, ten, Doctor of Science. President Butler then announced that eleven memorial professorships had been established in commemoration of the 150th anniversary. The enumeration of these memorial professorships was followed by the singing of "Stand, Columbia." The Rev. Boyd Carpenter, Bishop of Ripon, pronounced the benediction.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

The election for President of the United States held under the auspices of the Barnard Union took place on Friday, November 4th. It was preceded by a political mass meeting of all Republicans and Democrats. The two parties met at their respective headquarters and marched in line to Room 339, carrying banners, brooms, and pictures of Roosevelt and Parker. The cheering throughout the meeting was loud and enthusiastic, and was accompanied by whistles and drums.

The meeting was called to order by Miss Gildersleeve, temporary chairman of the Union, who introduced the chairman of the meeting, Hope Purdon, '05. Addresses were made by the following speakers: For the Republicans, Caroline Lexow, '04, Anne Greene, '05, and Ruth Fairchild, '06. For the Democrats, Lucie Mayo-Smith, '06, Agnes Ernst, '07, and May Parker, '04. All the speakers were received with uproarious applause and were frequently interrupted with cheers. They dealt especially with such campaign issues as the tariff, trusts and imperialism.

After the speeches, the meeting cast its vote individually in the lower hall.

The committee in charge of the affair worked hard for its success, and must have felt rewarded for its labor. The committee consisted of May Parker, '04, chairman, Georgina Bennett, '05, Isabelle Mott, '05, Lucie Mayo-Smith, '06, and Helen Perry, '07.

BARNARD COLLEGE,

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1904.

The general interest aroused by the political meeting held under the auspices of the Barnard Union was almost unprecedented in the history of Barnard. Since it was first announced there has been an atmosphere of enthusiasm about it.

This opening event in the activity of the Union is to us an auspicious one. It seems to testify to a vigor and energy that shall make the organization a potent factor in college life. It will stimulate interest in its work. It will call attention to its possibilities as a dominating influence among organizations at Barnard. We would not pose as prophets, but we can surely see in the spirit and character of the new Union a promise of a high standard of efficiency that ought to be a stimulus to every other society in college. We shall look to the Union to fulfill this promise of consistent development along the lines of greatest utility.

SOPHOMORES ENTERTAIN FRESHMEN

Last Thursday afternoon the Class of 1907 entertained the Class of 1908 with a Hallowe'en party. All the Sophomores were in characteristic costumes suitable for a regular country barn party. The lights were covered with bright yellow paper cut in grinning faces, apples were hung from the ceiling, and there was even a pumpkin. Real old Hallowe'en games kept the girls busy for an hour, and then the stage curtain rose on a scene in the lower world, at the tribunal of Pluto. It was the Court of Last Appeal, and many offending ghosts were tried.

General dancing followed, and amid many cheers for each class the party broke up.

OCTOBER 28, 1904.
To the Trustees and Faculty of Columbia University:

GENTLEMEN: The Japanese students in Columbia University present their congratulations upon the 150th anniversary of the founding of King's College.

We recognize for our native land—Japan—an indebtedness to Columbia University for its contributions to science and for its instruction of our fellow-countrymen. And, for ourselves, we would express our profound gratitude for the welcome we have received and the benefits conferred upon us.

With great respect, we are
Your loyal students,
