SILVER BAY CONFERENCE.

The annual student conference held under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association took place this year from June 22 to July 1 at Silver Bay on Lake George. It was attended by more than seven hundred delegates from all the eastern women's colleges, and proved to be one of the strongest as well as the largest college conferences ever held.

Barnard was represented by the largest delegation which has been yet sent from the college. It was composed of the following girls: Lily Murray, '05; Edna Stitt, '06; Juliet Points, Jean Disbrow, Sophie Woodman, Emma Cole, Edla Tibbitts, Florence Gordon, Daisy Yale, Mabel Blythe, and Amalie Althaus, '07; Marguerite Newland, Agnes Miller, Mabel Stearn, May Quinn, Elizabeth Fox, and Annie Turnbull, '08; Jennie Wylie, Helen Hoyt, Ethel Ivimey, Helen Aiguier, and Lotta Acker, '09. Barnard was further represented among the leaders of the conference by Janet McCook, '02, who gave the Bible course in the Life of Christ, and Alice Draper, '05, who led the class in the study of Comparative Religions. Another alumna present was Mrs. Thomas Smith Donohugh (Agnes Leaycraft, '01), who, with her husband, sailed for India during the first week in September, thus being the first student volunteer from Barnard to enter upon service in the foreign field.

The program of the conference was unusually full, and included some notable speakers, among them being Mr. Robert E. Speer, Dr. John R. Strong of the Rochester Theological Seminary, the Rev. Floyd W. Tompkins, D.D., of Trinity Church, Philadelphia, and the Rev. Thomas A. Sawyer, of Philadelphia. The chairman of the platform meetings was Mrs. Thomas Gladding, of Montclair. One of the special features of the program was the class held for the study of Home Missions, which gave a general survey of the work carried on among the immigrants, the Indians, the Mountain Whites of the South, the Mormons, and other classes of people peculiar to the United States. Students in the course received a very broad idea of the life and conditions of these people, with the result of widely increased patriotism and intelligent information about their country. The greater part of the Barnard delegation roomed in the Silver Bay Hotel, but a number of the girls lived at the Locusts, a mile down the lake, and came up to meetings on a specially chartered launch. The chief advantage of this separation was that it gave the extra opportunity to meet delegates from other colleges who were lodged in the two houses. Indeed, the social side of the conference was one of its most prominent features, and was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. A number of receptions were held, at which the colleges entertained one another, Bryn Mawr giving one in honor of Barnard, and Barnard holding one for Smith. The afternoons were always devoted to some sort of amusements, one being given up to an amateur circus in one of the large tents, which was voted the most successful, and another being filled by the exercises of College Day, when each college

MARIMPOL COURT—THE BARNARD DORMITORY.

When the "Nineteen-seven" girls were freshmen they hoped to see their own Barnard Dormitory at least by the time they were seniors. During the first two years at college the dormitory was only a "castle in the air"; last year it was a "castle" on paper; and this year it is an actual dormitory of brick and mortar.

The permanent dormitory on 116th St. is just begun, but the foundations of real dormitory life, we feel, have been laid in the life of the temporary dormitory. As the Barnard girls in college know, the Alumnae Association, supported by the trustees of the college, have engaged and fitted up the entire two upper floors of Marimpol Court in 122nd St. About thirty girls are now living there, and others who wish to be there cannot because all the rooms are already filled. Six are from the South, one from the East; another from Michigan; and the rest from homes in towns and cities not as far away. The Alumnae who have had charge of the furnishing of the rooms have made them cheerful and attractive. Each of the students has a room for herself, with plenty of light and air, and already a number of cosy "college" rooms have been fitted up.

The matron in charge is Miss Buckingham. Upper classmen, who, as well as freshmen, must find themselves feeling a little "strange" in their new surroundings, are also finding out that they are in a homelike place where their interests are carefully looked after, and where there are other girls with thoughts and aims in sympathy with theirs.

Some form of student self-government organization is soon to be formed. At present the girls are busy getting acquainted and scrambling around unpacking and straightening out their rooms to receive the other girls from college. It is a busy and happy place, and we feel the Alumnae are to be congratulated on the success of their undertaking.

LIBRARY NOTICE.

Students are requested not to ask to draw books before 4 o'clock. Home study should be planned in such a way as to obviate the necessity of asking this on days when it is necessary to go home early. This is imperative, as the books are for the use of all and not for a few individual students. If books are taken before the appointed time it seriously interferes with their use in the library. Four o'clock is the time for drawing books, and not any time from 2 o'clock on.

On Saturday books may be drawn at 11:30

MORTARBOARD NOTICE.

All students who have not subscribed already to the 1908 Mortarboard are urged to do so at once, as but a limited number of copies will be ordered. Subscription blanks may be had from any one of the editors, or from Rose

UNIVERSITY OPENING.

Columbia University held the usual exercises last Wednesday, September 26th to mark the opening of the 153d academic year. They were, however, peculiarly interesting, as Hermann Schumacher, "Dr. Jhr.," ordinary professor of political science in the University of Bonn, who is the first incumbent of the Kuhn Professorship at Columbia, presided.

The university procession marched from the different schools to the gymnasium, where the exercises were opened with prayer by the Rev. Hugh Berkhead, Rector of St. George's Episcopal Church.

A few words of greeting by President Butler to the members of the faculty and students followed.

William Herbert Burr, C. E., Professor of Civil Engineering, gave the annual address. Taking for his topic "The Technical School and the University," he spoke of the gradual development of the university organization during the last few hundred years and showed how the struggle between humanism and scholasticism had early centered around the German universities.

Dr. Schumacher brought greetings from the University and expressed the good will of the German people for the Americans. He spoke of similarities of the two countries and called attention to the contribution several notable Germans have made to our national development.

ALUMNAE NOTES.

Agnes Leaycraft, '01, was married on June 14 last to the Rev. Thomas Smith Donohugh, of Meerut, India.

Mabel Browne, '06, is the holder of the Curtis Scholarship in Mathematics for 1906-'07.

The engagement is announced of Madeleine Skinner, '03, to Mr. Thair McClarren.

Elizabeth Brautigam, '06, is engaged to Mr. Everett Marshall.

Clare M. Howard, '03, who has held the position of assistant in English at Wellesley for the past two years, has been appointed instructor in the same department.

Bessie I. Thompson, '03, has been appointed assistant in the department of botany.

Helen Palliser, '05, is teaching at Vassar in the department of botany.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1906

With the opening of the new college year comes a number of suggestions for improving the policies of the different undergraduate organizations. Chief among them is one which ought to interest every student, because it concerned the method of procedure hitherto adopted by Student Council. During the last two years that body has had the power to pass regulations for the welfare of the student body subject only to the veto of the Dean and the faculty committee on student organizations: a power which clearly relegated the control of affairs very largely into the hands of only the nine class- and undergraduate-officers who compose the council. Such a policy has always seemed inconsistent, to say the least, with the ideals of a democratic association. Therefore it is suggested that the regulations be submitted to the Undergraduate Association when in session, so that the college may vote on them. Thus the student body will have a power of veto over any unpopular or objectionable regulation, which will not, however, be absolute, but will merely compel the council to reconsider the measure. It may then, if deemed necessary, be passed over the veto.

If this plan is adopted, it should give satisfaction to both parties, in that it will give undergraduates a right to protest collectively against undesirable regulations, and will enable the Student Council to learn the real sentiments of the college, which, in many instances, it has never yet been possible to ascertain correctly.

The general attention showed to new students this year by upper class girls should be very gratifying to the college, in that it displayed a high degree of college spirit in one of the most charming and courteous ways possible, while the decoration of the freshman study by an unknown friend was undoubtedly much appreciated and added a great deal to the first day of college for the entering class.

The following letter is inserted at the request of the Class of 1907:

TO THE CLASS OF 1907:

In behalf of the Class of 1905, the Executive Committee wishes to express its appreciation of the honor that 1907 has done 1905 in dedicating the "Mortarboard" to our class. We realize the distinction which you have given us and sincerely thank the Board of Editors, and through them the class for the gratefully friendly words of the dedication. The feeling of interest and friendship which has existed between our classes since first 1907 came to college has by this latest expression of your regard been made the more lasting.

That you have remembered us and the two good years of our college life together is a great pleasure to us, but we cannot help feeling something of pride, too, in that you should have thought of such an original and substantial means of showing it.

With our heartiest and sincerest thanks, accept also our congratulations upon the success of your "Mortarboard."

For the Class of 1905:

FRANCES HOPE PURDON,
HELEN W. COOLEY,
MARGARET BYRNE,
EMILIE J. HUTCHINSON,

BARNARD BULLETIN:

I have just received a communication from Mr. Charles Bernheimer, Assistant Headworker of the University Settlement Society, 184 Eldridge street, New York City, requesting me to send him names of Barnard students who would be willing to act as club leaders or assistants for the University Settlement for year 1906-1907. Will any students who desire this opportunity for training in settlement work kindly communicate with me?

With thanks in advance for calling the attention of the student body to this matter, I am,

Very truly yours,

ELSA G. HERZFELD,

Graduate Elect of College Settlements Ass'n.

Barnard had not enough basketball players to make up a team to play in the series of match games which was held, but entered for the boat race. Unfortunately the lake proved so stormy on the day appointed that all thoughts of racing had to be given up. The tennis tournament was won by Smith.

BIBLE AND MISSION STUDY CLASSES OF THE Y. W. C. A., BARNARD COLLEGE.

BIBLE STUDY—1906-1907.

I. "The Life of Christ." Miss Janet McCook, '02, will conduct this Bible Study class. Miss McCook has led a large class here before, and needs no introduction to most Barnard girls. Mondays, 12:30-1.

II. "Devotional Bible Study." There will be four classes led by undergraduates. The object of these classes is that the girls may study the life of Christ informally with their own classmates, doing work preparatory to Miss McCook's course. Wednesdays, 12:45-1.

MISSION STUDY.

I. "China." Leader—Miss Eleanor Harris Baltimore, '06. Thursdays, 12:25-1.

II. "India." Leader—Miss Margaret Otheman. Bryn Mawr, '05. Thursdays, 12:25-1.

All Barnard undergraduates are invited to join a class so that they may leave college intelligent in regard to the Mission fields of the world as well as in other branches of study. Each class will have eight or ten sessions. In the second semester a course in Missionary Biography will be given.

• Full announcement of first meetings will be made on the bulletins.

A hearty invitation to these classes is extended to all Barnard girls.

Y. W. C. A. STUDENT SECRETARY.

The Young Women's Christian Association is most fortunate in having as Student Secretary for this year Miss Eleanor Harris, of Women's College of Baltimore, 1906. As soon as college is settled Miss Harris will have regular office hours, when she will be very glad to see any of the girls.
