UNDERGRADUATE ASSOCIATION MEETING.

A special meeting of the Undergraduate Association was held on Wednesday, April 3d, to elect the president for the ensuing year. Marguerite Newland was elected. The report of the Field Day Committee was read.

In answer to an invitation for delegates to be sent to the Peace Conference, it was decided that the delegates should be the president of the Undergraduate Association and two others, to be appointed by the Executive Committee.

FIELD DAY REPORT.

Article I., Section I.—The memorial ceremonies to be held in the theater before the athletic events shall be left in the hands of the Executive Committee of the Undergraduate Association. Section II. The said ceremonies shall begin at one o'clock.

Article II.—The athletic events shall be as follows: High jump, broad jump, basketball throw, baseball throw, discus throw, the finals of the tennis tournament and of the inter-class basket ball, the sixty-foot dash and the relay race.

Article III., Section I.—Miss Calhoun shall be invited to coach for Field Day. Section II.—The judges shall be Miss Cooley, Miss Handy and Miss Calhoun.

THE UNDERGRADUATE TEA.

On Friday, April the twelfth, the second Undergraduate Tea will be given. The committee in charge has invited a large number of patronesses, of whom the following have already accepted: The Dean, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. MacWhood, Miss Malthy and Mrs. Meyer.

At the regular April meeting of the Senior Class the following were elected for alumnae officers, to serve a term of five years: Juliet S. Points, president; Elizabeth Lord, vice-president; Florence Gordon, secretary-treasurer; Evangeline Cole and Helen Goodhart, members of the Executive Committee.

Pierena McLaughlin was elected chairman of the Tree-Day Committee.

At the regular meeting of the class of 1909, held Thursday, April 4th, four officers were elected for the Junior year, and a Field Day Committee was appointed. The elections were as follows: President, Eleanor Gay; Vice-president, Herlinda Smithers; Editor-in-chief of the 1909 Mortarboard, Eva vom Baur; Business Manager, Julia Goldberg. The Field Day Committee is as follows: Edith Talpey, Fannie Rosenfelder, Anne Ver Plank and the three members of the Executive Committee, Helen Scheuer, Laura Turnbull and Herlinda Smithers.

BASKETBALL.

The third of a series of games with Teachers' College was played Tuesday afternoon, March 26th, in the Thompson Gymnasium. The line-up was as follows:

TEACHERS		BARNARD
Miss Cutting	Forward	Adelaide Smithers
Miss Sherman		Herlinda Smithers
Miss Congor	Center	Julia Goldberg
Miss Beorone		Mary Maxon
Miss Pernisson	Guard	Florence Mastin
Miss Strope		Josephine Prah

The first half was most uninteresting and slow, even though the Smithers sisters played an unusually brilliant game of passing, as only they know how. Teachers' was given seven free throws, of which they took no advantage. Barnard made a basket from the field.

In the second half Florence Sammet substituted for Herlinda Smithers, who then played guard in Miss Prah's place. The game now became more exciting—the Teachers' team doing some excellent work in passing and goal-shooting, with the result that three baskets were made from the field and one from the goal line (by Miss Sherman), whereas Barnard scored four points by two free throws by Adelaide Smithers and one from the field by Florence Sammet. The final score then was 7-6, in favor of Teachers' College, giving them one victory out of three.

This is the last game which the college team will play this season, and the college owes them a debt of gratitude for the spirit and enthusiasm they have shown, for even though they were not always victorious they at least upheld an interest in athletics.

SILVER BAY.

The Easter Student Conference will be held at Silver Bay, Lake George, from June 21 to July 1. It is very necessary that all who are thinking of going should decide definitely as soon as possible, as the most desirable locations on the "campus" will be given out in the order of application. This means that if Barnard is to occupy a good cottage the blanks must be sent in soon, and moreover, if all the girls are to be together the blanks must be forwarded at the same time.

Names should be handed in to Mabel Stearn, '08, chairman of the committee.

There will be a spread on Wednesday, April 10th, at 12 o'clock in the lunch-room.

MRS. NEWCOMB'S TALK ON STONY WOLD.

On last Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Newcomb gave a talk on the Stony Wold Sanatorium at the Horace Mann Auditorium. The sanatorium is chiefly for the benefit of self-supporting girls who are in the first stages of tuberculosis.

Such a good cause as that of the Stony Wold Sanatorium cannot help but gain much sympathy, and, it is to be hoped, unflinching encouragement.

THE 1908 MORTARBOARD.

It is really very difficult for an instructor to tell whether any given number of the Mortarboard, such as that which has just appeared, is good for anything or not. He has not that intimate acquaintance with, say, the lunch-room, which a competent critic of the vigorous picture of its amenities, which figures in the present issue should possess, and he is therefore at a loss, compared with the student, in estimating the value or truth of such work. The only test that I have ever been able to apply to a publication like the present is that which it is both fashionable and accurate to call "pragmatic." From this point of view each Mortarboard is the best that ever was; each class is sure to find its own Mortarboard better than any other, and each is right. That is really the test. If the class that issues it finds it good, and will be likely to cherish it as a pleasant memory and book of reference in after years, then it serves its purpose, and what other people may think doesn't so much matter.

Unfortunately we have a way of asking for comparative judgments, and so I shall be expected to say whether I think this Mortarboard better or worse than others. That question, however, I am not going to answer. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. I believe that I have bought and read every Mortarboard issued at Barnard College—the present publication tells us of eleven predecessors. Some I have liked better than others—whereby my preference does not necessarily accord with that of the editors, but I do not remember which $1.50 (or did it use to be $1.00?) yielded the greatest return. I do not think that there is much to choose among different Mortarboards in regard to what might be called static elements. The Faculty seems to be a trifle more numerous than heretofore. There is one more fraternity, but the fraternity section, like the comic section of a Sunday paper, is not more exciting than usual. Tennis champions come and go, but tennis championships go on forever. There are still four classes in college, each with officers and members—and histories, and with more or less beautiful mottoes and colors and flowers. No one knows better than I that English A is prescribed for Freshmen, and English B hard by reason of briefs, but I do not know so much about History A, though I remember seeing it mentioned in the 1901 Mortarboard. I willingly welcome the reiteration of the information that I, as a person, am slenderer than some of my colleagues in view of the fact that years hence these may be interesting items of reminiscence to

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, 1907

Spring is here—and elections. Both adventures are welcomed with mixed feelings of regret on one hand and anticipation on the other. We can't do much toward changing the course of the springtime, and therefore we seem to turn all our energies toward directing the course of the elections. Much of the energy could be spared.

Elections are a nuisance because the voters make them so.

If the voter would let her intellect instead of her emotions influence her there would be much less re-voting and most efficient officeholders. The girls seem to vote for a candidate for one or more of the following reasons:

1. Because she is a personal friend.
2. Because she has fulfilled other offices satisfactorily.
3. Because hers is one of the names suggested, and one must vote for someone.

The potency of these reasons is not absolutely beyond question. Undoubtedly it is pleasant to see our best friend holding office; but unless we are convinced that she is really qualified to fill that particular office we have no right to vote for her. We should not confuse our personal estimate of the friend with our estimate of the candidate.

The second reason, that of rewarding a girl for former work by giving her a new office, is perfectly valid. It is the only way in which we can show our appreciation. But there is one danger in this system. Very frequently we overlook one girl, thereby punishing, even harming, where we would reward. If we would occasionally—and let those occasions be election times—keep our eyes open, jog our memories a bit and reflect a moment a good deal of trouble would be saved both for voters and officeholders.

The third reason that has been stated is obviously no reason at all. Yet 'tis true, 'tis pity, and pity 'tis 'tis true, especially in the case of minor offices. Minor offices, however, should be well filled and its duties efficiently executed or not exist at all. If they aren't worth good work we can get along without them altogether. Mediocre work never pays; besides, it is rather insulting to elect a girl by haphazard. Let her do the work and then criticise. It would be simpler for the voters to consider first and not have to criticise afterwards. But then that might take the last atom of pleasure out of voting.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC.

The department of music announces six concerts during April and May, on Tuesdays (one on Thursday), at 4:15 P. M., as follows:

April 16—Organ recital in St. Paul's Chapel. Horatio Parker, Professor of Music, Yale University.

April 18—Concert of chamber music in Earl Hall. Kenneth Bingham, baritone; Herwegh von Ende, violin; Modest Altschuler, violoncello; Professor Rübner, pianoforte.

April 23—Organ recital in St. Paul's Chapel. Henry Dike Sleeper, Professor of Music, Smith College.

April 30—Organ recital in St. Paul's Chapel, Richard Henry Warren, director, Church Choral Society.

May 7—Organ recital in St. Paul's Chapel. Felix Lamond, organist, Trinity Chapel.

May 14—Concert of chamber music in Earl Hall. Miss Kate S. Chittenden, pianoforte; McCall Lanham, baritone; Irving Cohn, oboe; David Gravowsky, clarinet; Samuel Perchonock, horn; Benjamin Kohon, bassoon.

DR. HAZEN'S LECTURE.

On Wednesday, April 3, Dr. Hazen, of the Department of Botany, delivered an interesting lecture before the Barnard Botanical Club. The address was on the subject "Green Algae," and was illustrated with a large number of beautiful stereopticon views, which showed the various wonderful forms of these plants. Some of the slides showed the habitats of the plants as well among the woods and in the fountains of Central Park and the Bronx. The audience felt that Dr. Hazen gave an extremely broad general view of his subject in the short time allotted for its discussion.

members of successive classes of Barnard and to me also, lest I forget. They do not make the present Mortarboard better or worse than any equally well printed college annual.

A recognized feature of that type of publication is the indigenoussness of its wit and humor. The jokes are usually not to be transplanted, are doomed to lie when removed, however tenderly, from the native soil and the fostering care of the class. In the present annual I, as an old hand at reading Mortarboards, fancy that I recognize a plant of hardier growth. The quatrain and the couplet entitled "The Whole Duty of College Girls" can be understood anywhere, and the gender of the pronouns also admits of change without impairing the currency of the jest.

There seem to be many good local hits in this number of the Mortarboard. An original feature is the machinery of the "Seeing New York," and the drawing of the recurrent figure of the "megaphonienne" is, in respect to drapery and line, better than most drawings in college papers. Why, after all, should college students draw well? If they were good draughtsmen they would probably be in the art school. To speak of candidates for the degree of A. and B. as good artists is a contradiction in terms. Another vigorous figure is that of the Bulletin. Individually the page entitled "Biography" and the "Sonnet to the Apartment House Overlooking the Quadrangle," with its accompanying drawing seem to me to be the best things in the number, and they are far above the average. The "New Course in Fee-siculture" plays with an amusing and naïve iteration on a simple theme. On the whole, the Mortarboard of 1908 is well up in rank among the twelve knights that grace the Round Table of Princess Jester in Barnard. Thirteenth juror is entitled to a place among its peers. It is a good-natured, wide awake fellow, who likes to have us laugh with it as it laughs at us, and who won't mind being laughed at a little in return. "Educatur jocando," as Mr. Dooley would put it.
