CLASS TEAS AT BROOKS HALL

Many students who cannot have the daily pleasure of residence life at Barnard had a taste of its joys last week, when the resident students from 1908 and 1910 entertained their respective classes at tea in Brooks Hall. The Senior tea was given on Monday the 14th, and the Sophomore tea on Thursday the 17th, from three to five o'clock.

Both teas were very informal, being held upstairs in the rooms occupied by some of the girls. The 1908 tea was held on the fourth floor, the 1910 one on the fifth, and in each case a series of small reception rooms had been formed by throwing open the doors between a number of adjoining rooms. Refreshments were served in each room, and each was rendered still more attractive by decorated tea tables, college flags and sofa cushions and charming pictures and photographs.

To some students these two teas doubtless gave the first opportunity of seeing Brooks Hall well. Now that the first excitement over it has died down, a feeling of real appreciation of all that the residence hall means to Barnard seems to take its place. It must have been evident to every guest last week what an immense amount of thought, time and money had gone to make up the luxurious home which Barnard now calls hers. Every detail of lighting, furnishing and decorating has been most carefully planned and carried out. And the fact that all this labor has resulted in a home which not only shelters a certain few students but provides opportunity to entertain every undergraduate is the most fortunate phase of Barnard's new residence life. The work of the Dean and trustees has culminated in a universal blessing as far as Barnard is concerned. Brooks Hall is a place to be proud of, and the hope is pretty general that the date for its housewarming will soon be set.

ASSOCIATE ALUMNÆ

The regular annual meeting of the Associate Alumnae of Barnard College for the election of officers, amendment of by-laws, etc., will be held in the theatre in Brinckerhoff Hall, on Saturday, October 26, 1907, at 10 o'clock promptly. The nominating committee presents the following nominations for vice-president (two-year terms): Virginia C. Gildersleeve, '99; Ellinor Reiley Endicott, '00; recording secretary (two-year term): Florence P. Cheesman, '03; Agnes L. Durant, '05; director-at-large (five-year term): Helen W. Cooley, '05; Katherine S. Doty, '04.

The Barnard College lunch-room is open on Saturdays until 2 p. m. The treasurer will be prepared to receive dues at the annual meeting.

IMPORTANT LECTURES

A series of most important and interesting weekly lectures is being given at Columbia this winter. These "Wednesday lectures" are philosophical discussions on the progress and development of the various branches of science and scholarship, each lecture being delivered by a man who has made the particular study at hand his lifework. The scope of this series is so wide that every student in the University must find his or her special interest discussed at some time or other during the season. These lectures afford the students of all departments of the University the opportunity of becoming acquainted with representative scientists and scholars, and therefore with representative modern theories and opinions, and also, if the entire course is attended, of obtaining a splendid broad view of the world's intellectual growth and achievements.

Professor Keyser opened the series with a lecture on "Mathematics," and this afternoon at four o'clock Professor Nichols will speak on "Physics." The full announcement of the lectures was printed in the BULLETIN on October 19.

The lectures are held in 309 Havemeyer every Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock.

BOTANY LECTURES

A series of lectures on botanical subjects is being given on Friday afternoons at the Botanical Gardens, Bronx Park. Fuller information may be obtained at the office of the secretary of the university, Room 213, Library.

NOTICE

It has been requested that the following notice be again inserted in the BULLETIN:

The library of Columbia University is open to all students of Barnard College for miscellaneous reading and for special investigation.

As far as the resources of the Ella Weed Library permit, all "required reading" or "special reference" work should be done in that library, even though applications for authors and texts cannot be granted at once. Whenever the demands of "required reading" cannot be reasonably met by the Ella Weed Library, the student will receive a memorandum slip from the custodian, which will be honored at once at the Loan Desk of the main library, to the extent of the resources of that collection.

JAMES H. CANFIELD.

SENIOR ENTERTAINMENT

The class of 1908 will welcome the freshmen on Friday, October 25, by an entertainment beginning at three o'clock in Brinckerhoff Theater.

A FRESHMAN CEREMONY

Chanting wild slogans of triumph and scorn, the freshmen, on Friday, buried their badges of inferiority presented to them at the Mysteries by their intellectual superiors, the sophomores. Having sung their song of defiance, they formed the ~~circle~~ ~~line~~ of two columns, carrying long festoons of green ribbon adorned with bells. Unaccustomed, as yet, to the angles and the slipperiness of the main stairway, the freshmen tripped over their green leading strings, and tumbled—some twenty of them—in a heap at the foot of the stairs. Recovering themselves quickly they marched through the lunch-room and out to the quadrangle. There, under the leadership of 1909, they sang more songs of defiance and exultation. Finally, in a burst of triumph, they cast their insignia upon the ground, marched back to their study jangling two melodious cow-bells, and feeling very much elated over their bloodless victory.

After their departure some junior of orderly instincts gathered up the discarded remnants of former insignificance and buried them in a secluded corner of the quadrangle.

On Thursday, October 17, the 1910 girls who are living at Brooks Hall, held an informal reception for their classmates in Rooms 607, 608, and 609.

The class will hold a Hallowe'en Party on Thursday, October 31.

1910 has appropriated ten dollars from the treasury to buy a Barnard 1910 banner.

The following Song Committee has been appointed: Gertrude Hunter, chairman; Naomi Maison, Leoné Spalding, Lillian Egleston.

THE CHAPEL CHOIR

The experiment of having a choir in chapel is being tried, and has so far helped the singing materially. The members practice after service under Mr. Ward's direction, and the use of the piano in accompaniment instead of the organ improves matters still further. The choir was organized under the auspices of the Christian Association, and consists of Margaret Yates, '08; Josephine Prahl, '08; Laura Armstrong, '08; Adelaide Richardson, '09; Anna Ver Plank, '09; Lee Alexander, '09; Gertrude Hunter, '10, and Lillian Egleston, '10.

TENNIS TOURNAMENTS

The final match for the 1908 tennis championship was played on Wednesday, October 16, by Clairette Armstrong and Florence Wolff. The scores were 6:3 and 6:4 in favor of the latter.

In the 1909 championship match Julia Tiffany defeated Herlinda Smithers. The scores were 6:3 and 7:5.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1907.

There have been several indications, lately, of a tendency to increase the number of taxes levied on the class to pay for the expenses of such things as class publications and class plays. It seems to us that a greater tax on the ingenuity of the girls, and less strain on their purses, is to be desired. To keep paying more and more for practically the same results is no great evidence of progress. To attain more with a smaller expense would show much more cleverness. Our class publications and class plays must necessarily be amateurish, and it is a great mistake to put this amateurish material in a would-be-professional setting. Plainly stated the situation is this: The committee in charge of any class affair naturally seeks to make it surpass all previous attempts in splendor and originality. This is as it should be. But it seems to us that this end should not be attained by making the class pay more. The girls in college are taxed very heavily; on every hand there are dues to pay. Therefore, the constant aim should be to reduce expenses where it is possible, and it is very possible indeed to reduce the cost of class plays and publications. It is the easiest thing in the world to attain effective results if you spend a great deal of money on the work or the material. That is no victory. But to achieve good contrive, and then to obtain a good result with little expenditure, is a triumph. This contriving and scheming heavy girls can be called upon to do her utmost.—it is good for her to use her brains for the sake of the class, and the class as a whole will become all the more interested in the work. But to levy a tax on a class already nicely supplied with obligations of a similar kind, does not call forth interest of a very kindly sort.

What has happened to our pride in the appearance of our studies? All last week the only noticeable attempt at decoration in the studies was a profusion of bits of torn paper. The floors, not only of the studies, but of the second floor hall, too, were strewn with torn paper, the tables were littered with it and with discarded blotters and broken pencils,—the very window-sills had their share. There is a scrap-basket in each of the studies, so there seems to be no reason for this state of affairs. The cause is, of course, thoughtlessness, but thoughtlessness is no excuse. Carelessness of this kind suggests habits of untidiness and a slipshod way of living. The condition of these rooms must have made a very bad impression indeed upon any visitors that may have seen them last week. It is surely our intention to have college "presentable" at any time to any number of visitors. An effort should be made to carry out the intention.

To the Editor of the BULLETIN:

The Barnard chapter of the College Settlement Association wishes to broaden its work somewhat this year. Formerly the scope of the C. S. A. was rather small. In addition to collecting the dues, which are $1.00 a year, and in having one or two lectures during the year, it has done very little. This year we intend to start a new department, an agency whereby students may hear of available positions in various settlements in New York, and where they can in general get fuller particulars about settlements than they may already have.

I believe that there are many girls who could and would do active social work if they only had sufficient information about it. We are here to give you the information. We already have the names of four or five settlements, some of them quite near college, where helpers are needed. Won't each Barnard girl ask herself whether she can't fill one of these positions?

Will anyone who is interested in any way in this work, please speak to me about it?

Sincerely yours,

GERTRUDE R. STEIN,

Sec'y. C. S. A.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15, 1907.

To the Editors:

About a week ago the BULLETIN published a statement to the effect that I was writing for Scribner's Magazine. I wish this were so, but respect for the literary standards of one of the foremost publications of the country necessitates a correction of the report. I am, at present, merely a humble member of the office force.

Sincerely,

EVANGELINE COFF, '07.

ARCHITECTURE COURSE

The School of Mines of Columbia recently announced that its courses in architecture shall henceforward be open to women graduates. Many applications have been received in the past few years from women who wished to study architecture, and genuineness of their desire is proved by the fact that, now that the department has opened its doors to them, the classes are crowded.

CHARITY ORGANIZATION APPEAL

The Riverside District Committee of the Charity Organization Society, 68 Manhattan street, would like to ask the co-operation of the students of Barnard College in supplying winter clothing and furniture for some of the families under their care. The persons to be supplied are of both sexes and all ages, so that clothing of any sort would be acceptable and can be received at any time at the above address. The committee have furthermore on their list of beneficiaries the names of several women desiring employment as dress-makers, seamstresses, and washwomen, and would be glad to furnish these names and addresses to any one needing the services of such women.

For further information, apply to the agent at 68 Manhattan street.
