SENIOR ENTERTAINMENT TO THE FRESHMEN

On the afternoon of Friday, October 25, the seniors entertained the freshmen, and, incidentally, the rest of the college, with a dramatization by Adelaide Requa of Thackeray's "Rose and the Ring." The audience, which was a large and enthusiastic one, unanimously voted the play a real success. The whole cast entered heartily into the spirit of the play, and were so irresistibly funny that the audience was kept laughing from the moment the curtain rose.

When all the characters took their parts so well, it is difficult to choose the best actress. Margaret Yates, as the Countess Gruffanuff, out-Thackerayed Thackeray in voice and action. Marie Young, as Prince Bulbo, raved and tore her hair in true Broadway style. Others deserving of special mention are: Marguerite Newland, as Prince Giglio; Louise Traitel, as Count Flaggiarno, and Florence Wolff, as King Padella. And the soldiers! Their tactics would call forth envy from any army in the universe, and their dexterity is equalled only by their imaginations—naturally it requires some imagination for four soldiers to act like thirty thousand.

The rendering of the lines was unfortunately not perfect. In three or four places the actors had to make up with presence of mind what they lacked in memory, and a couple of cues were missed. Nor was the problem of providing "business" for the temporarily disengaged solved. However, in view of the fact that the entertainment was supposed to be informal, and that there had been only a short time for rehearsals, much stress need not be laid upon these deficiencies.

It would hardly be fair to close an account of the play without a word of praise for the costumes. Most of them were made entirely by the girls themselves, and the result was certainly a splendid one. Great ingenuity on the part of the makers made the costumes as laughable as even Thackeray could wish, though he could hardly have conceived the effect of bloomers and plaid hose under the king's ermine (bath-) robe.

The cast of characters, given in the order of their appearance on the stage, was as follows:

Act I.

The Fairy Blackstick.....Hilda Wells.
King Valaroso XXIII., Usurping
King of Paflagnica.....M. Crowell.
Angelica, His Bee-you-ti-ful Daughter.....Adelaide Requa.
The Queen.....Alma Ash.
Glumboso, Prime Minister to Val-aroso.....L. Tattershall.
Countess Gruffanuff, Maid to An-

BARNARD CONFERENCE ON MISSIONS.

A number of new plans for the week-end Conference on Missions, which, as previously stated, will take place on November 16-17, are now announced. The open meeting for the University will be held in the Earl Hall auditorium on Sunday afternoon, November 17, and not in St. Paul's chapel. The hour for this session is four o'clock, and Mr. Robert Elliott Speer, who is well known as a speaker on subjects of interest to students, has been asked to address the meeting. There will be another meeting in Earl Hall at eight o'clock the same evening, where Dr. Lloyd, of the Episcopal Board, and Rev. Samuel Zwemer, D.D., of Arabia, are expected to speak. The two Saturday meetings, at eleven and eight o'clock respectively, are to take place at Brinckerhoff Theatre. Rev. Charles Cuthbert Hall, D.D., the president of Union Theological Seminary, will speak in the morning, and in the evening there will be addresses by Mrs. B. W. Labaree, of Persia, and Rev. C. A. R. Jauvier, of India. This list of speakers is probably not yet quite complete; but even as it stands, it includes some very prominent and interesting people.

The colleges who have been asked to attend the conference are as follows: Wellesley, Vassar, Bryn Mawr, Baltimore, Wells, Holyoke, Syracuse, Cornell, Adelphi, Smith, Radcliffe, Boston, Teachers' College, and the Art Students' League. For the entertainment of the delegates, the senior class has been asked by the reception committee of the Y. W. C. A. to repeat its very successful production of "The Rose and the Ring." The performance will take place on Saturday afternoon, and after it refreshments for the guests will be served in Brooks Hall.

PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK OF PRAYER.

The devotional committee of the Christian Association announces the following program which has been planned for the Week of Prayer, November 10-17:

Tuesday, Nov. 11, at 12:40 in 215. Subject, "America;" leader, Agnes Miller, '08.

Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 12:40 in 215. Subject, "India;" leader, May Quinn, '08.

Thursday, Nov. 13, at 12:30 in the theatre. Subject, "China;" leader, Mrs. Merrett. Music.

Friday, Nov. 14, at 12:40 in 215. Subject, "Australia;" leader, May Ingalls, '09.

GERMANISTIC SOCIETY LECTURES.

Beginning on Thursday, Nov. 7, a series of bi-weekly lectures are to be given at Columbia under the auspices of the Germanistic Society of America. The subject of the course is "German Dramatists of the Nineteenth Century." The lectures are intended primarily for the members of the society, but it has been rumored that it will be possible for outsiders to obtain tickets. If so, everyone who is interested in German literature should consider it a privilege to attend the course, which will be given by a number of eminent men from various colleges. The program follows:

Nov. 7, Kleist, Prof. Karl D. Jessen, Bryn Mawr.

Nov. 21, Grillparzer, Prof. Calvin Thomas, Columbia.

Dec. 5, Grabbe, Prof. Robert Herndon Fife, Jr., Wesleyan.

Dec. 19, Hebbel, Prof. Camillo von Klenze, Brown.

Jan. 9, Ludwig, Prof. Max Friedrich Blau, Princeton.

Jan. 23, Freitag, Prof. Marion Dexter Learned, Pennsylvania.

Feb. 6, Ansengruber, Prof. John Firman Coar, Adelphi.

Feb. 20, Sudermann, Prof. Karl Knortz, Tarrytown, N. Y.

Mar. 5, Fulda, Prof. William Addison Hervey, Columbia.

Mar. 19, Hauptmann, Prof. Rudolf Tombo, Jr., Columbia.

The lectures will be held in room 309 Havemeyer, at 4:30 p. m.

SONG PRACTICE.

Undergraduate song practice was held in the second floor main hall on Thursday, Oct. 24, at noontime. The attendance and the singing were both very satisfactory.

1911.

At the regular class meeting of 1911 held on Thursday, October 17, Natalie Stewart was elected undergraduate sub-treasurer.

BULLETIN ELECTIONS.

The managing board of the BARNARD BULLETIN recently elected Marian Crowell a managing editor, to take the place of Helen Loeb Kaufmann, and also elected Elizabeth Nitchie, '10, to the board of associate editors.

BARNARD UNION

There will be a Barnard Union meeting in room 139 at 11:50 on Wednesday, October 30.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1907.

The pantry stampede was as violent as ever last Friday, after the Senior Entertainment. The old joke about refreshments being the chief attraction at Barnard social affairs seems to be no joke at all, but just the plain truth. The conduct of the girls at these occasions when refreshments are served is ridiculous. Crowds throng the doorway leading into the pantry and impede the progress of those girls who have been appointed to serve. On every side are heard piteous entreaties for "just one cup of ice,—not for myself but for my friend outside," or indignant requests for some cake, "and hurry please, I've been waiting hours." Without the slightest consideration for others, some girls push and elbow through the crowd, fighting, literally, for their precious cups of ice.

Not one single girl of all those who attend our College affairs would even for a moment think of acting at a private affair as they practically all do at college. We see no reason for this change in manners. If the girls would remain in the Theatre and in the halls, behaving as they would at any private gathering they could be served quite as quickly and a hundred per cent. more satisfactorily. The girls in charge of serving the refreshments always have everything in readiness. Long before they are needed, the cakes are arranged daintily, and the cups are set ready on trays to be filled at the last moment. Were the committee allowed to carry out its plan, a half dozen assistants would carry the trays around while another half dozen were serving the cake. In a very few minutes every guest could be served,—decently. If each girl would reflect for a moment upon what a very unprepossessing figure she must make pushing, imploring, scowling and scolding, all for a cup of ice and a macaroon (or was it a ladyfinger? It's very important to get exactly what one wants)—if every girl, we say, would picture herself thus, and contrast with this picture the impression she would like to make at any private affair she might attend, we believe that our parties here at Barnard would be improved greatly in their general tone.

We would suggest that hereafter a special appeal be made to the members of the receiving or entertaining class, that they co-operate with the refreshment committee in this respect. Perhaps a large committee might be appointed to guard the access to the pantry and to keep paths open for the assistants. We believe that it would be for the good of the College to take drastic measures to break this bad habit of "rushing for the food." The plans for the improvement of this condition of affairs may seem ridiculous at first, but it will pay us to stand a little bit of ridicule and achieve a really important improvement in conduct.

Every organization finds it difficult to secure a satisfactory attendance at its business meetings. The larger associations, such as the classes and the undergraduate association, have solved the problem by posting a conspicuous notice of such meetings, reasonably far ahead of time, and by exacting fines for non-attendance. The smaller organizations, however,—the various committees and boards,—find it extremely difficult to get a full attendance. The reason for this is that too often notice of meetings is given verbally and is therefore soon forgotten or remembered incorrectly. Or again the head of the committee or board is perhaps inclined to think that her convenience must necessarily be everyone's, and she gives too short notice of her plans. It seems to us that if business methods were applied a great deal of time and annoyance would be saved. A good plan might be to make it a rule to consider only written notices valid, and to request a definite time, say two days' warning.

ARCHÆOLOGY LECTURE.

The New York section of the Archæological Institute of America announces that Mr. David George Hogarth, director of the Cretan exploration fund, will lecture before the Society on Friday, November 1, 1907, at 4:30 p. m., in room 305 Schermerhorn Hall.

The subject of the lecture will be "Ionia and Lydia," with particular reference to the results of the excavations at Ephesus. The lecture will be illustrated by a set of especially fine stereopticon views.

Members of the classical club will find the lecture of unusual interest, and they, as well as all other students who may wish to attend the lecture, are cordially invited.

To the Editor of the BULLETIN:

If I may be pardoned for introducing that time-worn subject at Barnard—"college spirit"—I should like to mention it in connection with the recent meeting of the Athletic Association. It is a fact well established that as regards the individual athletic sports and out-of-door games are very broadening, that they train men in greater numbers to think for themselves and to strive habitually to form independent judgments. It is also well established that when a group of these trained individuals get together, their interest in what they are doing is wonderfully effective in inspiring enthusiasm into those around them, and so our college spirit is produced.

The spirit and enthusiasm and interest of the members of the Athletic Association were very significant, because of the reputation for prowess in athletics the class of 1911 has brought with it, and because of the fact that most of the upper classmen present were girls who are seldom seen at other kinds of meetings. Girls of 1911, won't you continue your enthusiasm and use it, not merely for the glory of your own class, but for the glory of the whole college? And upper classmen, you who attend athletic meetings only, don't you think you can make your concentrated support produce great results for Barnard? Then each of us will feel that she is helping to make this year, which Alumnae call the turning-point in the history of the college, the beginning of a brilliant future for Barnard.

Sincerely yours,
IRMA ALEXANDER, '08.

To the Editor of the BULLETIN:

The 1909 Columbian is about to go to press, and lacks little toward its completion save the data which are to appear in the Barnard section. In a previous notice in the BULLETIN the Columbian editors urged the Barnard students to take an interest in this university book and to supply pictures and drawings. The first appeal has met with little response, and consequently the board again requests the co-operation of Barnard, and especially of the class of 1909. A representative of the Columbian in Barnard will be appointed within the next week to receive all photographs, drawings and items, such as fraternity lists, memberships of organizations, dramatic news and athletic data. All material must be handed in by November 8.

Sincerely yours,
 The Columbian Board of Editors.

DR. CHANDLER'S LECTURE.

This afternoon at four o'clock Dr. Charles F. Chandler, Mitchell professor of chemistry, will discuss the theory of the disintegration of the elements, and Professor Ramsay's experiments. This lecture is the third in the course of non-technical lectures dealing with the progress of the various sciences.
