Extracts from the Dean's Report for 1911-12

The recently published report of the Dean for the academic year 1911-1912 announces a total of $47,196 received in gifts during the year. Of this, $30,000 comes from the estate of Mrs. Mary E. Brinckerhoff, the donor of Brinckerhoff Hall, in partial payment of a legacy of $50,000 left to Barnard College for general purposes. Other important gifts have been made for scholarships. The most pressing need of the college is still for a "students' building" which should provide the gymnasium, the larger auditorium, reading rooms, rest rooms, and lunch room which are such primary necessities.

In spite of the handicap imposed by the inadequacy of gymnasium accommodations, the college hopes this year to improve its care for the physical welfare of the students. The department of physical education has done much in the past to help the students by advising them, by supervising their sports, and by giving them such gymnasium training as has been possible. They will now be aided by the work of the newly appointed university health and sanitation officer, Dr. W. H. McCastline, who will have jurisdiction over Barnard as well as Columbia. He will supervise the sanitation of the college, and give personal advice to the students concerning their health. The generosity of one of the trustees has made it possible for Barnard to secure also the services of a trained nurse, who will live in Brooks Hall, and will work under Dr. McCastline's direction in promoting the health of both resident and non-resident students.

Some progress has been made in enlarging opportunities for professional training, open to our students, and articulating our own curriculum with professional work. Philanthropy and social research are fields which are attracting many of our graduates. It is now possible for a Barnard Senior to take several courses at the New York School of Philanthropy, and to count them towards her Barnard degree. She can thus anticipate part of the requirements for the Diploma of the School of Philanthropy. The quality of our undergraduate curriculum and our connection with the Department of Economics and Social Science of Columbia University, enable us to offer exceptionally thorough training to women desiring to enter the new profession of social research. Another profession offering new and interesting opportunities to women is Architecture, for which they can obtain training in the Columbia School of Architecture.

Firelight Rekindled

We were quite mistaken in thinking that interest in the Firelight Club had dwindled. Not at all; only the traditional lazy spirit which inevitably takes hold of lovers of the chimney side seemed for a while to have completely conquered the executive committee of that club. However, they have unfettered themselves at last, for the opening meeting of the year is to take place on MONDAY evening, October 21st, at 8 o'clock sharp, in the library. The name of the speaker of the evening is as yet uncertain, but at all events the meeting will not fall short of last year's in point of interest, and it is even whispered that it will excel those, after the brief business of elections and the plans for the year have been attended to. All the members are therefore urged to come and bring suggestions

Athletic Association

The first regular meeting of the Athletic Association was held on Friday, October 11th, at noon, in Room 139. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and accepted. Also those of the following committees: Basketball, swimming, tennis. The report of the executive committee was as follows:

1. That a petition be made to the faculty, to have Field Day on Friday, May 2nd, with Friday, May 10th, for an alternate date in case of rain on the first day. This section was accepted as given.

2. That all games in all sports must be played unless one-third of the regular players are unavoidably unable to play. Otherwise the game must be played or forfeited. It was moved, seconded and carried that this section be inserted in the by-laws.

3. It was recommended by the executive committee, that the Association decide whether the exact number of points won by each class in the swimming meet should count toward Field Day, or 10 points, 5 points and 3 points for the first three places as in other sports. After some discussion, it was moved, seconded and carried that the latter plan be adopted.

4. That regulation numerals should be given in all the classes. This section was accepted as read, but arrangements for attending to the regulation of size, color, etc., was left until later.

The resignation of Marjorie Hillas as chairman of the basketball committee, was read and accepted. Winifred Boegerhold was unanimously elected in her place. A few announcements were made about the riding club for this year, and on motion the meeting adjourned.

Chapel

At the Monday Chapel, October seventh, the Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin, of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, gave an interesting talk on the relationship between God and Jesus, and the relation of both to man. He said that Jesus differed from God only as time differ from eternity. Jesus is a part of God; He is as much of God as there could be in a human being. He is thus less than the Father, but is therefore capable of being understood by man. So, through our understanding of Jesus, our brother and of our very flesh, we come to a certain understanding and knowledge of the Father, of whom He is a part and an expression.

On Thursday, October 10th, Academic Chapel was held. President Butler spoke on the relation of college to growth. He said that the great aim of life is growth, and college makes for better and fuller growth. The President carried on the figure of an unfolding plant. He said, first of all, we need strong roots—the discipline, learning and habits we have gotten in our school days. Then we must have rich soil. This we have here in college in the studies, the learned men and women who teach us, and the books with the stored-up knowledge of the world, which surround us. The atmosphere, also a requisite to growth, is partly provided for us in the spirit and comradeship of our fellow students and partly made by our own spirit and our own capacity for furthering and giving back the the inspiration of the comradeship.

If we will allow ourselves to take advantage of all these elements which we find ready to further our growth, we will attain the highest and fullest life that we are capable of attaining.

Deutscher Kreis Entertainment

Last Thursday, the Deutscher Kreis gave a large party, to which were invited all those who are interested in German. An especially large number of girls were present. After a few words of welcome by the President of the Kreis, Madelaine Bunzl, '13, 'Eigensinn' a one-act playlet by Rudolph Benedix, was presented. The parts were as follows:

Ausdorf, ein reicher Privatmann,
Marguerite Schorr, '14
Katharina, seine Frau... Hella Bernays, '13
Emma, beider Tochter... Lucille Bunzl, '14
Alfred, Emma's Gatte... Cora Lenner, '15
Heinrich (in Alfred's) Doris Fleischmann, '13
Lisbeth (in Diensten) Rhoda Freudenthal, '13

The play itself was a very clever little farce, and the funniness of its lines was, if anything, enhanced by the incompleteness of the actresses' preparation. The comedy had had but two rehearsals, so of course the lines recited by the players were not always those that the author had intended. Naturally, everyone in the audience enjoyed it immensely, if peals of laughter can be relied on as a sign of the audience's enjoyment of a comedy.

Mrs. Haskell, honorary President of the Kreis then told the girls about the reorganization of the club, and its many plans for the coming year. The plans for the informal fortnightly meetings, at which the German faculty will be present, seemed to be welcomed enthusiastically by the Kreis members.

Dr. Braun then made a very, witty little speech, proposing a toast to the well-being of the Kreis. The toast was then drunk in coffee, which was served in picturesque German steins.

A particularly funny essay on the "Deutsche Volkslied" was then read by Mr. Bechert. Several of these songs were then sung by the Kreis, before the girls left the party.

New Plan for La Societe Francaise

At a meeting of the Société Française, held at noon on Tuesday, October 8th, several changes in the Constitution were adopted, and plans for the coming year were discussed. After the reading and acceptance of the regular reports, the resignation of Miss Marguerite Allen, 1913, as treasurer of the society, was accepted, and Miss Ella Louria, 1915, was elected in her place. A resolution was then passed to drop from the roll of the French Society the names of all members who, having been informed of their neglect to pay their dues for the year 1911-12, have not paid such back dues within two weeks of the date of warning. By means of this resolution the society hopes to free itself from keeping on its list the names of members who take no active interest in the work and aim of the society.

In order to restrict the membership further, the following two amendments to the Constitution were then adopted: First, that membership in La Société Française shall be open to all graduate and undergraduate students of Barnard College, and to such students of Teachers' College as are taking courses at Barnard, who have passed course French B1, B2, or its equivalent, and who are found by the executive committee to be especially interested in La Société Française and its work. Upon recommendation of the executive committee, members may be elected by a majority vote of those present at the meeting at which the names are proposed; and second, that notices shall be sent out the first week in November, re-

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 16th, 1912

The calendar of events which appears in every issue of the Bulletin, gives notice of the most interesting open lectures given at Columbia. These lectures offer a very unusual opportunity to students at Barnard, and could be a very valuable supplement to many courses at college. For instance, the lectures on Mondays, before the School of Journalism, are full of all kinds of information, which we would not be apt to know about the methods and work on newspapers and magazines. Information which we may never be able to gain in so direct a way again. Later in the year the great French philosopher, Henri Bergson, will lecture at Columbia, in French to be sure, but for those who can understand it will be a wonderful opportunity. The fact that Barnard is a part of a great university is often forgotten by many of us, but if we stopped to think of the advantages in the shape of renowned profession and world-famed lecturers that we reap from our connection with so splendid an institution, we would find them very considerable.

Although our remarks about our Teachers' College neighbors are at times slurring, many of our Juniors and Seniors avail themselves of the opportunities offered there for educational training, and a little more sociable and friendly relation between the Barnard and T. C. students would do neither any harm.

We are going to establish, this winter, in the Bulletin, a column of Columbia news. This will be looked upon with varying degrees of favor and disfavor throughout the college, and there is a good deal to be said on both sides. On the whole, however, Barnard girls are naturally and normally interested in the Undergraduate events at Columbia and the Bulletin needs a series of news items of such news as may be of interest to Barnard and will be recorded in the Bulletin. There are many organizations at Columbia, which work for various purposes like clubs at Barnard, the Columbia French and German Clubs, the Y. M. C. A., the Socialist Club, etc., which plans and methods which are of real benefit and interest to us. We are interested in news, as well as in the stories of dramatic and important athletic events, that we expect to have a Columbia column, which will be of an interesting and successful nature.

After all, we are Barnard College of Columbia University, and from that fact and the opportunities and advantages which it offers, we may draw much inspiration.

Editorial of the Barnard Bulletin

With the termination of our summer holiday and return to the stimulating experiences of Barnard life—the new work in which we shall strive to improve our relationships to improve and the new ideas to begin—should come a moment when we pause to examine the basis of our judgments of people. No one of us can fail to notice how infinitely small are the factors which sway the balance in favor of a new girl, or against her. In a sense, our smallest words and actions are indications of our character, but sometimes this principle is pressed to closely, and we come to put disproportionate emphasis on appearances. Often such superficial things as lack of cordiality at the first meeting, a word wrongly reported, companionship with the "wrong set" will be so misunderstood—even by a girl whom we would credit with keener perception. Often a girl is influential, and a leader, so that others are bound to share her prejudice. Now if the "new" girl follows up this unfortunate first impression by actions which show her firm refusal to conform for the sake of conformity—if she strike out for herself along her radical lines, she is likely to be "queered" at once. It is the same old story: the conservatives, or, at least, the older faction always trying to find pegs to fit their holes, or to whittle them until they will fit. But when the peg is too large and too hard to be whittled with ease, they make the usual mistake of rejecting it entirely, forgetting that strength of purpose even along different lines, struggle against easy conformity, mean inward sincerity, that is thoroughly worth while. And against this they commit the sin of intolerance.

Now this superficial attitude is by no means the fault of the individual girl. It is a mental habit—this attaching of vital importance to the veriest subtleties—especially prevalent among women, and one that seems to arise from the fact that today and for ages past women have always done things on a smaller scale than men have. They have had less contact with the real world, so they have naturally built up a little intangible world of their own. This may be productive of good; it may make a woman delicately appreciative and sympathetic, so that she becomes a source of inspiration to her fellow-beings, or it may lead to false pride, self-centeredness and that abominable super-severity which is so often the cause of misunderstanding between women and other women and between women and men. A day never passes that we do not witness countless instances of just this pettiness and how wasteful it is!

College life ought to be an opportunity for gaining new light—throwing aside our worn prejudices and looking for the "eternal values." College education for women is a comparatively new thing; we are still in the world laboratory, as it were, and we must justify ourselves by showing the world that college really does fit us for life. With this task before us, we have no time or energy to spend on pettiness and subtleties. Let it not be said that we are the "weaker sex" in the face of the really big things which life offers.

Fox, 1914, Staff; Frieda Kirchwey, 1915, Manager; Margaret Terribery, 1915, General; Louise Walker, 1915, American. These girls, with the addition of the six "old" members, complete the total of eleven newspaper correspondents at Barnard. The others are: Marguerite Bevier, 1914, Brooklyn Eagle; Naomi Harris, 1913, Times; Jean E. Möhle, 1914, Herald; Isabel F. Randolph, 1914, Tribune; Edith G. Rosenblatt, 1913, Morning World; Ethel Webb, 1913, Evening World.

Barnard Riding Club

Darland's Riding Academy has offered the ring for the use of the students on Tuesday or Saturday evenings. The Riding Club, as it met last year, was an unorganized gathering of certain of the students who enjoyed riding, and who met for good time. As this, the club was certainly successful, but we have hopes that this year we can have a more definite organization. Will all students who intend riding this winter sign their names and also their preference of evenings (Tuesdays or Saturdays) and place them in Locker 167. See Study?

Have You Tried Jabberwocky Yet?

IT IS SUCH FUN; DO TRY IT.

We heard a Columbia Professor Jabberwocky astronomy the other evening. That was away over our heads, but he is not eligible for this Jabberwocky contest; only Barnard girls are; and the prize-winning ads will appear only in the Barnard Bulletin.

When you come in the College Drug Store, to look around and see what you can Jabberwocky in that ad, you will find a lot of unusual things not found elsewhere, nearby. Mullane's famous Cincinnati Taffies and our incomparable Sundaes and Sodas—those Vantine steamer gift baskets so uniquely filled. Those Oriental, Occidental goodies, all imported by Vantine.

You will also be able to get Jabberwocky information and Jabberwocky suggestions at

Student Council

The Council has passed upon a revised point system which will be brought before the Undergraduates for adoption next Wednesday at a special meeting of the Undergraduate Association. The system groups such organizations as Philosophy, Classical, Mathematics Clubs, etc. Under the term "Faculty Clubs." It is recommended that the BULLETIN and BEAR have one assistant business manager counting 40 per cent. The president of the Press and Musical Clubs will count points hereafter.

1915 Class Meeting

1915 held its second class meeting Wednesday, October 9th, in Room 339. The reading of the minutes was dispensed with, and the class proceeded to the regular business of the meeting. Miss Eleanor Lauria was elected chairman of Soph dance committee, and Miss Anna Paddock was elected chairman of the flower committee. An amendment to the Constitution, to the effect that fines for late class dues should be ten cents any time from one day to a month, instead of two cents per day, as hitherto, was proposed and passed. On motion, the meeting adjourned.

1916 Class Meeting

The class of 1916 held its second meeting Tuesday, October 8th, 1912, in Room 339. Miss Glenn, of the class of 1912, presented us with their gavel. A motion was made and carried, that we adopt the mascot, the dragon, and the colors, blue and buff, of the class of 1912. A committee on a motto was voted to be appointed by the chairman. Miss Dorothy Blondel was appointed cheerleader. Miss Drake and Miss Elma Klopfer were elected chairman of the decoration committee and chairman of the entertainment committee, respectively.

Brooks Hall Meeting

At the first regular meeting of the Brooks Hall Students' Association, Louise Fox was elected vice-president; Eleanor Houghton, secretary-treasurer; and Florence Schwarzwaelder, librarian. It was also decided that the fall dance shall be held on the first convenient Friday in November.

Buzzings of the Barnard B

Once on an evening calm and clear, a class bright as could be,
Was standing on a ladder, doing Boastronomy;
The Prof., who was a-lecturing, made a Hubbardent prayer,
From their point of Sturtevantage, they should gaze into the air.

But all at once there came a crash, and oh!
The dreadful sight!
A student went a-tumbling down, and fell into the night.
The doctor looked at her, and said: "It is Liggeting late;
If you don't mind, fair damsel, I shall now Lathamputate.

He stunned her, then, with Knapthta (no ether was around),
And in the Tassinfirmary he left her in a swoond.
She came to in an hour, and said: "Oh, woe is me!
In this Curtisolation I shall surely die." said she.

The lack of Trentertainment I know will drive me mad,
And this Cramptonerous Boyden of silence is too bad.
Just then the door, it opened, and a curious sight appeared:
It was a small Haskellephant, who asked her what she feared.

Speaking of uniting student organizations, why not join the English and the Firelight Clubs?
And wouldn't the Church Club and Deutscher Kreis make a good pair?
Isn't it a relief that the Junior show isn't a comic opera this year?
That's all today.
