HONOR CODE EXPLAINED SYSTEM REVISED

The following copy of the Honor Code is printed for the purpose of furthering the interest and knowledge of the new students in the Honor System maintained at Barnard, and of apprising the older students of the change in the arrangement of the Code. Freshmen and transfers who have not as yet signed the Code are advised to see Dorothy Miner as soon as possible.

HONOR CODE

We, the Students of Barnard College, do hereby resolve to uphold the honor of the College by refraining from every form of dishonesty in our academic work and in our college life, and to do all that is in our power to create a spirit of honesty and honor for its own sake.

RESOLVED—That we shall consider it dishonest to ask for, give, or receive help in examinations or quizzes, or use in them any papers or books in any manner not authorized by the instructors, or to present oral or written work that is not entirely our own, except in such ways as may be approved by the instructor, or to act in a way that is recognized as dishonorable in any phase of college life.

(Signed)

To maintain the college standard of honor, and for the good of the possible individual offender, Honor Board urges the witness of an infringement to consider it her responsibility to bring the matter to the attention of Honor Board, to speak to the offender privately in an effort to bring her into conformity with the college standard, and to take whatever action shall seem to best fulfill her duty to maintain and further a spirit of honesty in our college life.

PLAN VARIOUS PROGRAMS FOR ASSEMBLIES

The College Assemblies this year will be conducted with a two-fold purpose in view. From one to two each Tuesday is the only hour in which the whole college has a chance of meeting and of enjoying an experience in common. To emphasize this phase of college assemblies, each meeting will be opened with the singing of a few college songs. Also, there will be several assemblies in which individual students or various student groups will take part in the program.

The assemblies will be so arranged that every field of interest will be represented at least once during the year. Although particular speakers have not yet been decided upon, the committee is trying to get men who are prominent in the fields of current events, politics, dramatics, literature and art. There will also be several musical programs. The assembly committee will welcome students' suggesting particular speakers or subjects which the students feel have not been presented. Please hand all suggestions to Betty Kalisher.

The co-operation of the entire student body is necessary for the success of these assemblies. If prominent speakers are invited to address the college, they should at least be granted the recognition of a large audience.

BULLETIN TRYOUTS OPEN

Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, Seniors! Be a part of the college. Bulletin keeps you in touch with the latest news and with the important movements in college activities. By trying out for the editorial, business or printing board you can be on the inside of what is happening.

There are openings for your talent. The editorial staff needs people for general news and feature work. The latter includes dramatic, literary, music and art criticism. The printing staff attends to the physical aspect of the paper. It is particularly eager for competent proof-readers. The business staff wants enterprising girls to get advertisements and assist with the circulation.

All students who desire to enter the competition should apply to Bulletin Office, Room 407, Students' Hall, between the hours of 12 and 1 daily. Monday, October 12, is the last day.

BARNACLE

By Irma Simonton.

After a long and undisturbed rest this summer, Barnacle has returned to college ready to face all its new problems. And there are several hundred serious problems in the shape of several hundred not so serious Freshmen. Of course, all the Freshmen are interested in Barnacle, and we are here to tell them a little bit about it.

Barnacle is the monthly magazine of Barnard, written and published by the students. There are seven issues during the year, some of which are devoted to special purposes, such as the "Men's Issue" and the "Faculty Number," which we are planning to have.

And now, dear Freshmen, comes something of special interest to you. You, perhaps, do not realize how deeply Barnacle is concerned about 1929, and what a lofty opinion Barnacle has of 1929. To prove our interest, we are having an issue especially dedicated to the Freshman Class. It will consist of—but we mustn't tell you too much now. Rather, we will leave it until the middle of October, when the Freshman issue comes out, so that you may see for yourselves!

In the meantime, you may subscribe any day at noon in Students' Hall, or you may put your name and $1.25 in Barnacle box outside Miss Weeks' office.

We thank you!

ATHLETICS FOR ALL IS A. A. SLOGAN

By Elizabeth Reynolds

How often we hear the words and yet how little thought we really give to them—"Athletic Associations." Too often they are taken as a matter of course.

Last year an idea, new at least for Barnard, was brought forward—that of "Athletics for all and all for Athletics." In order to work more effectively toward this ideal, the question of eliminating varsity teams came up before the college. It was felt that since Barnard is in no sense a professional Physical Education Training School there should be no more time spent on the training of the better athletes than on that of those less able. It was therefore decided by a vote of the college that Varsity teams be discontinued. As our only outside, if it may be called outside, competitor was Teacher's College, we severed our relations with them insofar as actual competition was concerned.

The aim of A. A. this year is that chiefly of interesting everyone in athletics. There is something offered in the way of sports that should interest each girl at Barnard to do her part by going out wholeheartedly for at least one sport, whether she is a Senior or a Freshman. It is with the hope of really interesting everyone in Athletics that the A. A. is starting its season's work.

NEW DORMITORY HAS ATTRACTIVE FEATURES

Life in the new dormitory, which is being called Brooks West, has already become an accepted part of the scheme of things at Barnard. One improvement can already be noted in the fact that all the dormitory students now seem to be one united group. This has followed the elimination of the previous social barrier due to the existence of two practically separated dormitories.

One of the advantages of Brooks West is the fact that the Dean is able to have her apartments in the building. The Dean will probably attend dinner in the Students' Dining Room at least once a week. Several members of the Faculty, in addition to those already staying at Brooks Hall, have also been enabled to live at the college, Miss Dorado, Miss Wayman, Miss Gode and Miss Browne.

Other pleasant features of the new wing are the two large dining rooms. In addition to being very attractively arranged, a lovely view of the Hudson River and of the Drive is afforded the students. There are also four new parlors, the Green Room, and three Red Rooms.

UNDERGRAD PRESIDENT EXPLAINS ORGANIZATION

To those members of Barnard College who have already spent two or three years on this campus, perhaps the things I am about to say may seem too obvious to be necessary, but in conformity with the main purpose of the present issue of Bulletin, my remarks are addressed primarily to new students.

Student Government at Barnard College is by no means an idle phrase. Thanks to the earnest endeavor of many former students and to the co-operation of a liberal faculty, the Undergraduate Association of 1925-1926 lives its college life under as non-restrictive a constitution as one would find in any undergraduate school of standing in the country.

Several years ago, when a large number of the Faculty were convinced that students could handle competently those matters pertaining primarily to themselves, certain powers were delegated by them to duly elected student representa-

LIBRARIES OPEN FOR STUDENTS' USE

Students who are doing research work in some special field or on some particular topic will often find the Main University Library and its departmental branches a valuable supplement to the Library facilities of Barnard.

In addition to a General Reading Room and a Periodical Reading Room, the University Library contains a General Catalogue. This serves as a record of most of the books possessed by the University Library System.

The following are some of the principal Departmental Reading Rooms:

- Botany, 507 Schermerhorn.
- Economics, 604 Kent.
- Education, 312 Teacher's College.
- English, 603 Philosophy.
- Geology, 301 Schermerhorn.
- History, 604 Kent.
- Newspapers, 301 Journalism.
- Philosophy, 703 Philosophy.
- Physics, 401 Fayerweather.
- Psychology, 406 Schermerhorn.
- Science Reading Room, 301 Havemeyer.
- Social Sciences, 604 Kent.
- Zoology, 616 Schermerhorn.

A complete list of these Departmental Reading Rooms may be obtained in the General Catalogue Room of the University Library.

The New York Public Library also has a branch in the Main Library Building. Here many of the latest novels and lighter reading material may be secured.

Another excellent collection of books may be found at the New York Public Library at Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street. This contains much material that is not included in the University Library System.

COMMENT

To the New Students:

In addressing this first issue of the year to the new students, Bulletin wishes to apologize for any seeming negligence towards the Transfers. The number of students from other colleges this year is greater than it has ever been before, and certainly deserves our attention. It is, then, for the Transfers and for the Freshmen, especially, that all the organizations at Barnard have made an effort in this issue to introduce themselves and explain their purposes.

It must be remembered, however, that no amount of information will make you feel at home. You must be in the community and make yourself part of it,—which means not only attending classes between the same four walls but actually engaging in the extra-curricular interests of the school. There are enough different activities to interest the most varied types, and it is wise to begin now to look around in order to decide which ones appeal to your type of ability.

The College Assembly.

There will undoubtedly be some grumbling in response to the announcement that the opening assembly will be a compulsory meeting for all members of the Undergraduate Association. The complete individualist will complain that her right is being denied to do as she pleases, when, where, and how she pleases. The pseudo-individualist will complain that her right is being denied to do as she pleases, when, where, and how she pleases. The complete individualist is, of course, impervious to conviction. The other readily forgets her individualism when she discovers that she is overlooking something that is as important to her as to the mass of students.

This assembly is of importance to every student who is a member of the Undergraduate Association. It is the only time of the entire year when the association can reach every one with its plans for the year. Not only such knowledge of these prospects is important, but the active support and co-operation of every student is needed to make them a working possibility. The one is inextricably bound up in the other. You cannot be expected to give an intelligent support to your student organization without a thorough knowledge of its activities. And you certainly cannot know about the policy governing the year's activities without attending next Tuesday's assembly.

FORUM COLUMN

For the Expression of Public Opinion

This column is intended to be a battlefield for opposing points of view on college government and college life. What do the students of Barnard want in curriculum reform? Do you approve of the Honor System? What is the function of Bulletin and of Barnacle? These and similar questions which burrow deep into the roots of our tradition are, none the less, open for discussion. Barnard has always prided herself not on respect for customs, but on willingness to change whatever is antiquated and impracticable.

It is for YOU to express your opinion in the Forum Column so that a particular issue may be clearly defined, fought out, and settled in a fair and satisfactory manner.

All contributions for this column should be signed with the full name of the author. Only articles thus signed will be printed. Initials will be used in printing the articles if the writer so desires. Writers are requested to limit themselves to 250 words.

The editors do not hold themselves responsible for the statements and opinions which appear in the Forum Column.

Columnist Needed

In addition to the regular try-outs, Bulletin offers an unusual opportunity to those who have a sense of humor. "Cat Alley," the traditional humor column, has been closed for repairs for almost a year since the first feeble attempts last fall proved unsuccessful. It has seemed advisable, therefore, to start the new year with an entirely new thoroughfare of wit. Column conductors are needed. The competition also includes suggestions for a name for this column.

All students who desire to enter the competition should apply to Bulletin Office, Room 407, Students' Hall, between the hours of 12 and 1 daily. Monday, October 12, is the last day.

UNDERGRAD RECEPTION HELD

gives to such students an opportunity to gain a broader interest in the classics, to form pleasant associations with the Faculty, and to meet other scholars as well as fellow-students. Meetings are held once a month. Watch for the posters in Milbank.

UNDERGRAD ASSOCIATION TO CONDUCT FIRST ASSEMBLY

At the first meeting of the Representative Assembly it was decided that the Undergraduate Association would hold the opening college assembly. The Representatives feel that the student government should have at least one chance during the year to present its work and policies to the student body as a whole, and that such an opportunity should at the same time be of interest to the individual student. It was therefore decided that the attendance of all Undergraduate Association members to Tuesday's Assembly would be compulsory.

The classes will meet for song practice and roll call as follows:

Seniors in Even Study (wearing caps and gowns);

Juniors in Odd Study;

Sophomores in 302.

Freshman in 304.

The Faculty will meet in the Conference Room.

The assembly program will begin with a procession of the classes singing their class songs. This will be followed by the Academic procession.

Madge Turner, Undergraduate President, will then speak on behalf of the governing body, after which Dean Gildersleeve will address the assembly. The meeting will close with the singing of the Alma Mater.

DEBATE

By Dorothy Ashworth.

Debating this semester will consist primarily of inter-class debates, terminating in an assembly hour debate which will determine the winning class.

Debate Council will emphasize informal debating of the nature suggested by Professor H. A. Overstreet. The essence of this form of debate is the elimination of formal speeches, the participation of the audience in the debate at the conclusion of the presentation of two or three sides of a question, and the inclusion of rebuttal in the main speech.

Freshmen will be represented on Debate Council by a member of the class who will get in touch with all Freshmen who are interested in debate, and will help to build up a strong class team.

GLEE CLUB

To meet the demand for group singing, which has become very urgent at college in the past year, a Glee Club is now being organized. There will be a practice once a week, under the direction and supervision of one of the Faculty members from the Department of Music of Columbia University. The most important undertaking of the organization is the concert to be given at Christmas, when Bach Chorales and Christmas Carols will be sung. Plans are also being made for occasional smaller programs.

Glee Club try-outs are scheduled for next week. Watch the bulletin boards for further announcements. If there are any suggestions as to choice of music or details of organization, leave them for Ruth Coleman in Students' Mail.

NOTICE

Students are requested to refrain from blocking the main entrance to Milbank Hall by loitering on the stairs.

LA SOCIETE FRANCAISE

By Christine Hopkins.

La Societe Francaise extends a hearty welcome to all students, new and old, both to those who can speak French, and to those whose vocabulary is limited to "oui, oui." The purpose of the club is to further our knowledge of the French civilization, language and literature. The club activities include informal discussions, lectures, and dramatics. The membership is divided into two classes (1) open membership, which is extended to all students in sympathy with the object of the club; and (2) closed membership consisting of those fulfilling the requirements set by the officers of admission.

MATH SCIENCE CLUB

By Lillian Stahl.

Math Science Club will welcome as members all those whose interest lies in the direction of Mathematics, Chemistry, Physics, and other sciences. Our meetings take place on every fifth Thursday, and offer opportunities to become better acquainted with the various subjects which are of interest to the club members. In addition to meetings, two or three trips are planned during the year to various places of scientific interest. For instance, last year we had the pleasure of visiting the Ford Factory in Kearney, N. J., and of hearing and seeing the new Phonofilm. Everyone interested is invited to the first meeting, to be announced later.

MENORAH

By Mirra Komarovsky.

Menorah has been born in response to an interest and a need felt by a group of Jewish students of Barnard College to acquaint themselves with the Jewish past and to keep in touch with the most vital problems of the modern Jewish life. The specific topics taken up through lectures by outside speakers, discussions, and reading, vary from year to year with the interests of the members. Membership of the Menorah is open to the college.

MORTARBOARD

By Marion Wadsworth.

The year book of Barnard is a Junior Class publication. Mortarboard, published each spring by the Junior Class, is, primarily, a class book. But even with that fact so evident, it is also a record for the entire college of the activities, the personalities, and the spirit of the year. That the Juniors do the actual work of compiling the annual is not so important as the fact that the Juniors are taking their place in the

DEAN GILDERSLEEVE SPENT SUMMER IN EUROPE
Returns to College and Deanery on Campus.

Dean Gildersleeve spent her summer abroad, part of it at work in connection with the international educational groups in which she is interested and part in taking a month of rest.

The Dean went first to London, where she visited friends and engaged in work for the International Federation of University Women of which she is President, and which has its headquarters in that city. In particular, the organization was trying to secure the appointment of a woman to the Committee on Intellectual Co-operation of the League of Nations. The Dean also visited the British Federation of University Women.

From London, Dean Gildersleeve went to Paris for a short stay. As chairman of the board of managers of the American University Women's Paris Club she attended to certain administrative matters such as rules and budgets. During the summer the club was taken charge of by its secretary, Miss Dorothy Leet, a Barnard Alumna.

Council Meets in Brussels.

Dean Gildersleeve presided over the meeting of the Council of the International Federation of University Women in Brussels in July. The Council dealt with the applications for membership from other countries and made plans for the conference of the Federation which will be held next summer at Amsterdam. The Dean had not visited Brussels since the war and on that account found it especially interesting. The Council was given a reception by the King and Queen of Belgium, with whom Miss Gildersleeve had an enjoyable conversation. She also visited the famous old hotel de ville of Brussels, where she met Burgomaster Max, a delightful personage of war-time fame.

Returns to Campus.

The Dean spent a month resting in the county of Sussex before her return to America. Accompanying her, came a new Cairn puppy from Inverness, Scotland. His given name is Culaig Beag, which is Gaelic for "little dog"; he is, however, known as "Culy"—diminutively suggestive of our President as this may sound. The Dean is very glad to be back at college again and is at present busy getting settled on the campus. When the last painter has left the Deanery, she feels it will be very pleasant indeed.

College registration is a trifle more this year than last and the new students promise to be of good quality, Miss Gildersleeve stated.

Compares Universities.

Any contact with European universities and their graduates Dean Gildersleeve feels provocative of interesting comparison with the American. The problem of collegiate education presented is: how can we keep our American idea of a college education for every kind of person and at the same time raise our standard to the level of the European university? The Dean feels that the way to improve our American universities is not by abandoning the plan of giving a general college education to everyone who wants it, but by developing further along the lines of honor courses in such a way that the intensive study achieved by the best European students may also be possible for the best American scholars.

DEAN WOODBRIDGE PRESIDES AT OPENING EXERCISES

Professor Smith Talks on "Abuse of Law"

The opening exercises of the one hundred and seventy-second academic year of Columbia University were held on Wednesday afternoon, September 23, in the MacMillin Academic Theatre. After the opening prayer, Dean Woodbridge of the Graduate Faculty read a greeting sent to the assembly by President Butler, who was indisposed.

Education, according to Dean Woodbridge, should not be controlled by human authority, for then we have, not an intelligent and free people, but a coerced and persuaded people. The control of education should rest on the authority of discoveries which are made when men inquire into the "curious make-up of this curious world." Dean Woodbridge welcomed the students of the University, not to a beginning or continuation of education, but to the "disinterested pursuit of knowledge."

Law is a device for social control, but all forms of human behavior should not be controlled by law, was a statement made by Young B. Smith, L.L.D., Professor of Law, in his address on the "Abuse of Law." A certain domain of free choice is the priceless heritage from centuries before. This belief led Professor Smith to conclude that the questions to be considered before passing a new law are: first, does the protection of a certain interest justify interference with other interests?; secondly, will the law accomplish the desired results?; and lastly, is there a better way to effect these results?

Professor Smith feels that there are often other and better restraints than positive law. Morals and manners usually exercise greater control over the multitude than does positive law. Law is most effective and necessary in controlling the "few anti-social creatures who dwell in our midst."

Professor Smith declared that a prohibitory law which affects people generally has little chance of enforcement unless it is sanctioned by public opinion and convention. Laws should further human desires, not thwart them. For example, said Professor Smith, "observance of the Volstead Act has varied in different sections of the country in proportion to the view of drink as a social evil."

In conclusion, Professor Smith pointed out that since man is realizing that law is made to serve human interests, and can and should be changed as conditions change, hundreds of laws are being passed each week. But before such laws are enacted, serious consideration should be taken, for "law is dangerous in the hands of men who do not know how to use it."

Every day, 12-1, Students' Hall. Any student who does not pay will be debarred from student activities.

NEWMAN CLUB

By Rosamond Dermody.

Newman Club extends its greetings to the new students. For the benefit of those who do not know, Newman Club is the Catholic Club of Barnard, organized for the purpose of getting together, for mutual acquaintance and discussion, the Catholic element of Barnard. We generally, during the year, have a program of teas, lectures, discussions, and a few larger social affairs in which we manage to meet each other and exchange ideas with a common understanding and belief. We hope all the new students interested in the club and its aims will join and help promote it.

POLITICS CLUB

By Margaret Hatfield.

There is so large a part of college life which must, by its very nature, cease to exist for each of us on the receipt of our diploma that it behooves us to find those few things which can interest us during our four years here and which can be carried on with us to the new phase of life which presents itself after graduation.

The Politics Club is an endeavor to establish a connection between the world at large and the college student, and is intended to encourage and formulate intelligent curiosities and opinions concerning the political, social and economic problems which present themselves to the public each day. The club is open to the college, the only requirement being the daily reading of a newspaper. There will be meetings about once in two weeks, the first of which will be held in the second week of October. This first meeting, after the few details of planning more definite organization, will be turned over to Miss Killeen and Miss Kalisher, who have spent the summer at Geneva studying the League of Nations.

SPANISH CLUB

By Maria Teresa Romero.

Through the Spanish Club we try to bring students into closer contact with Spanish life, and to accustom them to the sound of the language. Each year Spanish Club tries to do something bigger and better. Our program for this year includes some very interesting lectures, a play, the celebration of Cervantes' anniversary, and perhaps another "Spanish Night."

Senorita Carolina Marcial Dorado, the head of the Spanish Department in Barnard, is a most enthusiastic worker, and it is indeed a pleasure to co-operate with her.

Members! New and old, welcome to Spanish Club! Watch the bulletin boards for the first meeting. Come! Boost the Spanish Club!

When rural service lines bring electricity to the farmer's door, many of his labor troubles are at an end. Motors, large and small, will do the many chores of farm and farm house for a few cents per day.

The Farm Electrical

Of the six and a half million farm homes in this country, only half a million have electricity.

Still, the advantages of electricity are widely known. But there is more to farm electrification than the installation of motors, lights and heaters. Current must be brought to the farm, and that means many miles of transmission line, supporting poles, transformers, and adequate generating equipment.

Slowly but surely the electrification of American farms is taking place. As farmers learn how to use electricity, rural service lines reach out farther and farther into open country.

Six million farms to be electrified! Here is a vast and virgin field for the application of electricity, with countless opportunities for college-trained men in the technical and commercial phases of this undertaking. And for the agricultural college student and others planning a future life in rural sections, it means a better, bigger, happier life-time now in the making.

Since its inception the General Electric Company has pioneered in the various fields of applied electricity. Today G-E engineers are co-operating with various State agricultural committees in the study of farm and rural electrification. These committees include members of the agricultural college faculties.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for Booklet GEK-1.

UNDERGRAD PRESIDENT EXPLAINS ORGANIZATION

tives Powers, that is, in the field of student organization and other extracurricular affairs. The elected student representatives combined themselves into an executive and judiciary body called Student Council. In the early days of Student Government, the college enrollment was small enough for frequent meetings of the whole student body for legislative purposes to be practicable. As the enrollment reached the thousand line, however, it became necessary to form a more wieldy body. The Representative Assembly was organized last year to meet this need. To this widely representative body Student Council has delegated legislative power, keeping for itself the executive duties, while the Honor Board handles practically all the judiciary cases. Over all the activities of these bodies the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs exercises a general supervision.

The membership of these three governing bodies is explained at length in the Blue Book which each member of the Undergraduate Association has in her possession. In order to become acquainted with student officers, however, and to understand all that Student Government entails, I would advise each member of the Undergraduate Association, whether new or old, to make it her business to be present at some of the business meetings. The Representative Assembly may be found every Monday at 12 o'clock in Room 304, Students' Hall, and the Student Council gathers on Thursdays at noon in Student Council Room (4th floor, Students' Hall). Each meeting of these two bodies is open to the entire college. In closing, let me take this opportunity to assure you that your presence and opinion is necessary, your co-operation is essential. In fact, as members of so small a republic, each one of you may play an active part in the fascinating game of government.

MADGE TURNER,
Undergraduate President.

Among the three hundred and forty-eight students now living at Brooks and Brooks West are several new foreign students from Norway, Finland, France, and China, and also some graduate students, almost all of the latter being Barnard girls.

The rooms for the students are all single, except on the eighth floor, where there are a few double rooms. The rooms are all arranged so that each student has plenty of air and sunshine as well as a view of the river or the campus. There is running water and a medicine chest in most of the rooms.

Other conveniences of Brooks West are the kitchenettes on each floor and an excellently equipped Student Laundry on the eighth floor. Then, too, there is a Post Office in which each student has her own mail box. The telephone switchboard, operated by four capable part-time student workers, is also worthy of note.

pleasure in working in the theatre, not only in acting but in staging, lighting and costuming. This year the "Wigs and Cues" is planning a workshop performance of three one-act plays which will be produced without any professional aid whatever in late November. In the Spring the society gives a professional performance. During the year there will be several teas at which some one prominent in the dramatic field will be guest of honor.

There will be an opportunity for those who are not members of "Wigs and Cues" to try out for the organization. Further information about these tryouts will be announced shortly.

Y. W. C. A.

By Mary Armstrong.

We have moved! For the benefit of old as well as new, we students would like to say that we have risen to even greater heights in the social world. In fact, we have risen way up to the top floor. Having moved all our worldly goods from our first floor office, we are even now getting settled in new quarters in Room 402.

Y. W. wishes to state that she will be at home after October first, and that she extends a most cordial—yes, an urgent—invitation to all to come and get acquainted.

Our program this year is going to whiz along, and if you're late in getting into the social swim, you may have to scramble hard to catch up. We shall have social hours with good, peppy music for dancing. Then there are problem groups where you can discuss with your friends your own pet solutions for the ills of the Universe. If you want a complete and handy library for your papers on social and religious subjects, come and use the one in our office; it's always at your disposal. Last, and far from least, drop in at any time and be sociable. If there's no one there, make yourself at home—our big plush divan is a wonderful place in which to curl up and read.

Don't miss our big house-warming, that's coming soon!

STUDENT ADVISOR PLAN GOES INTO EFFECT

The plan for student advisors to Freshmen, conceived and outlined last spring, went into effect this fall, during registration week. A committee of upper classmen, under the chairmanship of Sylvia Surut, assisted the Faculty in the making out and checking up of Freshmen programs. Since the plan for student advisors to Freshmen is a new one, still in its infancy, the work done by the girls this year was quite mechanical. However, the contact between the upper classmen and the incoming Freshmen served to create a certain intimacy between the two, and to make the newcomers feel at home within Barnard's walls.

1927 HOLDS CLASS MEETING

A meeting of the Class of 1927 was held on Friday, September 25, for the purpose of electing an entertainment chairman. M. Edith Harris was chosen by the class for this position.

STUDENT OWNED AND MANAGED

HONOR CODE REVISED

The change in the arrangement of the articles of the Code has been made to impress the students with the fact that they are not pledging themselves to report any infringement of the rules that they may witness. The suggestion is merely made that co-operation is advisable if a high standard of honor is to be maintained. Several plans are offered for bringing an offender to an understanding of her misdemeanor, the most feasible one being to give the information immediately into the hands of the Honor Board. In this way, any personal element will be eliminated, and real authority can be brought to bear upon the matter.

For students as yet unacquainted with the organization and management of the Honor Board, a few facts should be known. The Vice-President of the Undergraduate Association automatically becomes the Chairman of the Board. Four members, one from each class, are appointed by the Chairman in the Fall, and four members, one from each class, are elected in February. Their term of office is one year. The Board's business is to discuss cases brought to its notice, to find out the facts and impose a penalty where one is exacted. The penalty may range in degree from a reprimand for a minor offense to expulsion for a serious one. All decisions of the Honor Board, however, are only valid after the Committee on Instruction has passed upon them.

Dorothy Miner, as Chairman of the Honor Board this year, wishes the constructive aspect of the work to be emphasized. The board is maintained for the assistance of the student, not for her detriment.

It Takes a Load off the Student's Mind

IT doesn't require a four-year's exposure to well-informed circles hereabouts to grasp the hearty sanction of Parker Duofold craftsmanship among the older students.

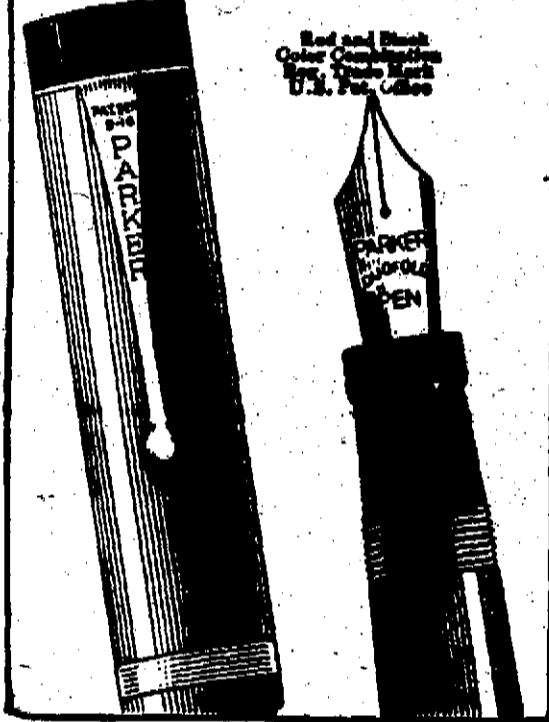

Those who know its 25-year point, Man-size Grip and Over-size Ink Capacity have come to depend on it in overwhelming majorities everywhere, but nowhere more than in the colleges.

Good pen counters wouldn't be without it—stop at the nearest one.
