

MARGARET IRISH IS AT STRASBOURG

FINDS HONOR COURSE OF VALUE IN STUDIES

Margaret Irish '25 is studying abroad this year. She is at Strasbourg pursuing courses in literature on the Veltin Fellowship. Miss Irish was an Honors student in English, Phi Beta Kappa. She was active in extracurricular activities at Barnard, Freshman Greek Games Chairman, Sophomore President of her class, editor of Mortarboard and Under-graduate Vice President.

Takes Courses at Strasbourg

In communicating with Miss Gildersleeve, Miss Irish writes:

"Strasbourg is impressive, but without strong personality as a city. . . . At the University there are courses for foreign students, one or two of which I follow for information. Everything else I take in regular University work. At present I am disappointed because five of the public courses on Alfred de Musset, Origins of the Drama in the 16th century, and others have been postponed indefinitely. It appears that the professors have calmly departed on vacations or that they are "souffrants"—and there are no substitutes. French organization is often lamentable and the public courses offered such variety here that it was one reason for my leaving Dijon. The French students say pleasantly, "Oh, yes, to follow interesting courses one must plan to be a student for ten years." My reading, however, I do in any case, since it is "personally conducted" along the lines that serve best. The philosophy courses I follow are mostly for method. One literature course is especially agreeable as a diversion. 'The Imaginary Voyage in English Literature of the 18th Century.' It is given in French by a benevolent professor. I enjoy the French way of handling the subject.

JANE DEWEY IS WORKING ON CHEMICAL PROBLEM

Jane Dewey, the winner of the first International Fellowship, is working on a chemical problem under the guidance of Professor Bohr in Copenhagen, Holland, according to a letter to Dean Gildersleeve.

Miss Dewey is "obtaining measurements of the intensity of the emission of the various spectral lines of helium in a strong electric field. . . . These measurements give an experimental check on their newest theories of atomic structure and dispersion."

BLIZZARD TRANSFORMS BARNARD CAMPUS

ASSOCIATE ALUMNAE PRESIDENT SPEAKS OF ITS WORK

On Monday, February 8, Mrs. Lowther, the President of the Associate Alumnae of Barnard College, and a member of our Faculty, addressed the Representative Assembly. She traced the activities of the Association in the past, particularly in its efforts to establish satisfactory dormitory accommodations for undergraduates, and described the recently founded Barnard Club. In referring to the forthcoming Alumnae Day, Mrs. Lowther expressed the hope that it would be the occasion of a true meeting and acquaintance of alumnae and undergraduate interests.

Miss Turner also emphasized the importance of seizing the opportunity on February 12, of attaining a closer contact and sympathy between those who are now, and those who have been, in Barnard.

The Undergraduate President read a letter from the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs concerning their action on questions and suggestions submitted by Student Council. The Assembly gave a unanimous vote of thanks to the Faculty committee for its generosity in regard to the Studies.

JOHN ERSKINE TO SPEAK

Professor John Erskine will speak at College Assembly next Tuesday at 1:10 P. M.

FALL FRESHMAN TO STUDY UNDER NEW CURRICULUM

All Required Courses Except
"Tools" Abolished

"The new curriculum will not provide for definite prescribed courses," said Dean Gildersleeve in her talk to the college assembly, on Tuesday, February 9. No longer will the freshman and sophomore be compelled to take the array of prescribed subjects which is now requisite.

This curriculum will go into effect next autumn and will effect only students entering as freshmen. The faculty decided that it would not be expedient for all students to elect the curriculum now on account of administrative difficulties.

After a great deal of consideration by the faculty it was decided to omit all prescribed courses except those which were needed as tools in any field. The Dean pointed out the difficulty in deciding just what courses were or were not fundamental. Finally, however, they decided that the only definitely prescribed courses will be English A and English C as they are now studied, Physical Education and Hygiene, which will include some of the present Zoology C, and the ability to read at sight one foreign language, chosen from French, German, Latin, and Greek. Aside from these no definite courses will be prescribed.

The new curriculum provides for a choice of one subject from each of the three large groups of academic work. The groups will consist of languages, literatures and other fine arts, of the social sciences, and of the natural sciences. From each of these three groups the freshman will choose one subject that particularly interest her. In this way the student will be able herself

LOUISE ROSENBLATT WRITES FROM ABROAD COMPARATIVE LITERATURE HER CHIEF STUDY

Louise Rosenblatt '25 who is studying this year at the University of Grenoble, France, has written the Dean an account of her life there. Miss Rosenblatt was an Honor Student in English, Phi Beta Kappa, and Editor-in-Chief of Bulletin in her junior year at Barnard. She was awarded the Franco-American Fellowship and as first alternate for the Caroline Duror Memorial Fellowship received that when Christina Phelps refused it.

Describes Studies

In describing her academic work, Miss Rosenblatt says:

"Grenoble presents the dual characteristics of a French provincial university and an international one. In addition to the usual courses for French students, a number of courses have been organized for the benefit of the large body of foreign students who have come here from all parts of Europe. I am attempting to participate in both aspects of the University. I plan to follow principally the lectures designed for French students preparing for the License in French literature; thus I shall become acquainted with the French treatment and interpretation of several of the major periods of their literature. In my independent work I shall naturally emphasize those subjects most in accord with my particular interest.

ALUMNAE DAY BRINGS MANY GRADS

February 12 is annually set aside for the graduates of Columbia University. Today the undergraduates at Barnard are asked to help the alumnae celebrate Alumnae Day.

1914 will have a class meeting in the Conference Room from two to three o'clock.

At three o'clock the Alumnae Dramatic Group will present in Brinckerhoff Theatre a comedy-satire by Booth Tarkington and a Grand Guignol Burlesque by Kenyon Nicholson. The cast includes Mary Benjamin '25, Isabel Cooper '22, Denver Frankel '24, Edith Halfpeny '13, Dorothy Lazar '26, Jeanette Mirsky '24, Hortense Opoznauer '26, Christine Straiton '12, and Lillian Walton '14. The Glee Club will give a program of songs.

Tea will be served in the College Parlor from four to six.

The German Club will keep open house in the Club Room from four to six.

At six o'clock there will be an Alumnae-Undergraduate Basketball Game in the gymnasium.

COMMENT

Alumnae Day

Today the old grads will demonstrate that they are not back numbers. In athletics and in dramatic entertainment they will show the younger generation that in spite of their years, they have not lost the enthusiasm and sprightliness of youth. It seems that alumnae met singly or in groups show greater lightness of heart than undergraduates who are weighed down by the cares of great problems of the world which they discover in text book and in lecture hall. Is it that the graduates have become confined to a smaller field of interests which leave them no time for concern or the sweeping reform movements, or have they risen out of the state of adolescence into self-satisfied maturity?

Perhaps it is an attempt to recapture their college days, untroubled by class-room responsibilities, a determination to be college girls once again.

Some of those who cannot be here in person have managed to come in other forms through the columns of Bulletin and tell us what they are doing.

We can regard this alumnae issue as a kind of prophecy for the future of those who are yet students, and as a suggestion to some who are hesitating at the cross-roads.

FROM THE SECOND BALCONY
THE MASTER BUILDER

There is only a slight externalization of ideas in "The Master Builder." Ibsen unfolds his drama almost continually by means of words, of conversations; and yet it would be heresy to say that this piece is "talky," as the accusation is often directed toward Shaw's work. In the case of the Irishman, it is he who does the talking; his characters often lapse into mere puppets for the express purpose of stunning the audience with some bright satiric phrase of the author's mind. One does not feel Ibsen as the perpetrator of the words of his characters; for this reason the lack of action does not effect the ascending emotions of the audience.

These are strange, but real people whom we learn about in "The Master Builder." Halvard Solness whose power to build and fortune grew like a stray blossom out of the ruins of his burned home—this master builder who turned from building churches to building homes for human beings, and who then in a last grand gesture, attempted to achieve the loveliest creation of all, a castle in the air, never seems mad with the awful import of insanity. The mixture of greenness and pettiness in his nature makes him twice vitally deceived. How could he possibly realize that his wife's tragedy arises not from the remembrance of the death of her twins but of the burning of the nine dolls, which had been the unborn children that she had carried beneath her heart? And then with all his fear of the younger generation, Solness never recognizes the enemy when it is upon him, but takes it into his home and into his empty nursery, in the form of the elf-like Hilda.

The tragedy moves swiftly with the sympathetic adoration of the master builder by the wise bewitching Hilda, to his surrender to her desires. Under her influence he climbs once more the tower of his new home to convene again with the almighty—to tell him that he will in the future build neither churches nor towers, but castles in the air. And his fall to the earth in this ecstatic moment is a more fitting end, a prettier loss than any other surrender to the other generation might have been.

The acting of the inimitable Eva Le Gallienne enhanced by the lovely, almost liquid quality of her voice, and a contrasting abruptness of movement, is surpassed by the perfection of Sidney Machat, as the master builder. All one can say of his greatness and restraint in the part is that he is never consciously acting for an audience. He is being the architect.

DESCANT METHOD REVIVED

The rehearsal of Descant, an old form of ornamental variation or counterpoint, sung by a few chosen sopranos, followed the seance on a recent Sunday afternoon at St. Paul's Chapel. This experiment of Professor Hall has evoked so many requests for a continuance of it, that beginning with Sunday, February 14, the congregation is invited to remain after services to participate with the choir in this ancient method of hymn singing. Services begin at four o'clock.

W. I. A. S. G. AND S. I. A. S. G. PROMOTE STUDENT RESPONSIBILITY IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS

The women students of the South and East through the W. I. A. S. G. and the S. I. A. S. G. of which organizations Barnard is a member are making possible the work which Miss Gail A. Burnett, Secretary of the Extension Department, explains in the following communication:

"The Women's Intercollegiate Association of Student Government and the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Government have recently created a distinct department for the extension of student participation in secondary schools. For several years the two Associations did this kind of work independently. In the Southern Association a Graduate Adviser directed the colleges in carrying on this work, and in the Eastern Association a committee of college students did it. Then as the amount of work increased, the two Associations realized that college students could not do this extension work efficiently on account of their many other conflicting duties. They, therefore, voted to employ a secretary whose whole time was to be devoted to extension work for both Associations. Such a Secretary was secured and her work began in the fall of 1925.

"Everyone always asks how the colleges happen to be doing such work for High Schools. It came about in this way. College student government officials visualized how much Freshman training would be simplified if the Freshmen had experienced the advantages of student government in the high schools and preparatory schools from which they came. They felt that their efforts would be repaid, if by helping secondary schools to develop such government, they would better prepare the oncoming college students for the responsibilities of self government there. It was not long, however, before the Intercollegiate Associations broadened their purpose in the extension work and saw the fine chance of helping secondary school students develop their sense of honor and good citizenship whether or not they ever attended college.

"Since the territory in which the Extension Secretary was to work necessarily had to be limited in some way, it has been restricted to the states in which there is at least one college that is a member of the W. I. A. S. G. or the S. I. A. S. G. This makes, in all, twenty-three states in which the work is carried on. It reaches over 3000 secondary schools.

"The work of the Department consists in gathering up information about student participation in government and relaying it on to secondary schools. It tries always to gain the support of state educational officials before approaching the schools. It attempts through correspondence to interest Principals, faculty, and students, and where specific help is needed, to give it. The Department is not originating plans or proposing new schemes of government; it is rather making it possible for the high schools that have worked out successful methods of government, to share their knowledge gained through experience, with thousands of other schools."

KUGLHUPF BOOK STALLS LAUNCHED BY ALUMNAE

Kuglhupf, a famous Viennese delicacy, provides a name for the Kuglhupf Book Stalls which has just been launched by two members of the Class of 1925, Thelma Burleigh and Marion Pinkussohn, with a third partner.

Kuglhupf Book Stalls is a combination bookshop and coffee house. There are books for sale and books in the circulating library, a fireplace by which one may sit and read and enjoy coffee and Kuglhupf. The enterprisers promise a "delightful Viennese atmosphere."

They also supply gifts and novelties which are "timely and attractive". They will even design personal bookplates.

Kuglhupf Book Stalls is located at 72 Washington Square, So.

FORUM COLUMN

for the expression of public opinion
To the Sophomore Class:

We are beginning to work for Greek Games. We had try-outs for the Chorus, but very few of you came. Mr. Doersam has consented to give us preliminary training in singing before we start on the actual Greek Games music. He will hold simple try-outs for those who want to join the Chorus, today, Friday, at 4 o'clock in the Conference Room. After the try-outs, at 4:15 we will have our first rehearsal in which the Freshman Chorus will also take part. Mr. Doersam says that he will not be able to work with less than forty people from each class. At present, we have about twenty.

Some of you have misunderstood. Chorus membership does not necessitate or imply Glee Club membership. Also, the snow has fallen to put the earth to sleep. It did not aim to act as a sedative for Sophomores. Please all understand correctly—and Soph Glee Club members, chorus members already chosen, and those who wish to be chosen, make your appearance this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Conference Room.

Sincerely,
MAY FRIEDMAN,
Soph. Chairman G. G. Music

INVITES VISITORS

The class in public speaking, English 52, extends an invitation to all interested students, to visit their meetings, Thursdays from 3 to 5 o'clock in Room 339. The topics to be discussed are posted a week in advance on the special bulletin board on the first floor of Fiske Hall.

CLASS MEETING 1929

The Class of 1929 held a meeting last Friday noon. The President, Marion Churchill, welcomed the February Freshmen and asked them to remain after the meeting to learn about Greek Games.
 Margaret Andrews was elected member of A. A. Board. The remainder of the meeting concerned announcements, primarily about Greek Games. Miss Howard urged interest in Greek Games dancing, and Betty Kalisher spoke for a similar interest in Greek Games Chorus. Jane Hillyer asked for lyric contributions, and Elizabeth Reynolds stressed the necessity for athletic support. The Treasurer, Olive Bushnell, spoke of the importance of each member paying her "head tax" immediately.
 The Dance Chairman called the attention of the class to the rule in Blue Book concerning guests, other than Barnard students, at college dances. She also asked that more people sign up for the dance in order to insure its success.

CAMP WORK

The Occupation Bureau has a call from the Jewish Board of Guardians for volunteers for swimming, dramatics, arts and crafts. Any students interested should see Miss Doty.
 There are also some paid positions in this and other camps for several qualified candidates.

FACULTY NOTES

A course of five lectures on American Foreign Policies, from the Declaration of Independence to the Washington Conference, will be given on Monday evenings beginning February 15 at 8 p. m., by Edward Mead Earle, the Community Auditorium, 12 Park Avenue.

LOUISE ROSENBLATT WRITES FROM ABROAD

ests and my plans for future work in Comparative Literature.
 "I have become very much interested in the lectures of Professor Chevalier on French philosophers and the history of ideas in France. For purposes of comparison as to method, I am attending his lectures on the history of philosophy with the material of which I am more or less familiar.
 "Of the courses intended for foreigners, I attend regularly those giving practical work in speaking and writing French, and in translation of English. My work in translation with Professor Farmer, who has a profound understanding of both English and French, is an especially valuable preparation for work in Comparative Literature."
 Miss Rosenblatt feels that her travels in Europe before the opening of the University have been of great value. She took a trip to Mon. Saint Michel and Brittany, and spent a month in Paris and a month in Italy.

JUNIOR PROM WILL BE HELD AT RITZ CARLTON

The Junior Prom is being held the evening of February 19 at the Ritz Carlton Hotel from 9:30 to 3:00. The guests are Dean Gildersleeve, Miss Weeks, Prof. and Mrs. Earle, and Prof. and Mrs. Braun. The patrons and patronesses are, Mr. and Mrs. Wright D. Goss, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Kridel, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. John T. O'Brien, Justice and Mrs. John V. McAvoy, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Martin, Mr. Richard Meyers, and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hargrave. The committee is as follows: Elizabeth Metzger, Katherine Kridel, Gertrude Hargrave, Marian Emelin, and Margaret Reimund. Elizabeth Metzger is Chairman.

NEW CURRICULUM

to open new channels of knowledge. Miss Gildersleeve pointed out the importance of delving deeply into one field and of knowing that field well. "The new curriculum," she said, "provides for this in much the same manner as the old one." Twenty-eight points will be required in the major subject, which will be elected as usual at the end of the sophomore year. Finally, in this connection the Dean read extracts from an article by Abraham Flexner in "School and Society," which accused the American colleges of lack of thoroughness. As a remedy it urged that college students should "sink their shafts deeply" in one field and become masters in that field.

GLEE CLUB NOTES

Members who entered the Glee Club last semester are to sing in the theatre on Alumnae Day, February 12 at 3:30. Students who have classes from three to four o'clock that day are not to cut them for this purpose. All members who are able to participate will meet in cap and gown at 3:20 near the telephone booths in the basement of Milbank. The group will sing "Didn't it Rain" and Brahm's "Love Song."

All Christmas music must be returned on Monday or Tuesday, February 15 and 16, during the noon hour at the long table in Students' Hall. This is the last chance to return music and members who fail to do so will be fined. No time can be taken at Tuesday rehearsal for collection of music.

Glee Club invites the college to a musicale and tea, on Wednesday, February 17, at four o'clock in the college parlor. Harrington Van Hoesen, an eminent baritone from Toledo, who is soon to appear in New York, will give a group of songs.

ROGER BALDWIN WILL SPEAK ON CLASS STRUGGLE

On Wednesday, February 17, at 4:10 P. M., Roger Baldwin will address members of the Social Problems' Club, and as many outsiders as can be accommodated, on "Social Work and the Class Struggle." Roger Baldwin is known particularly for his imprisonment during the war as a conscientious objector; and for his work as secretary of the American Civil Liberties Union, whose function is to secure free speech and constitutional rights for those who seem to need them. Since his graduation from Harvard in 1905, he has been active in various forms of social work, and is particularly competent to speak on both his subject and that of Class Struggle.

Other speakers who will address the Club this semester, are Clarence Darrow, Professor Erskine, Dr. Kilpatrick, and William Green, President of American Federation of Labor. All students are invited to attend these meetings, but a larger Barnard membership is urged.

FELLOWSHIP OPEN FOR STUDY IN JAPAN

Last year the Japanese students of New York staged several Japanese dramas at International House and gave the proceeds to found a scholarship to send an American student to Japan. $1,500 is now available. Applications will be received from native born Americans, men and women, between 25 and 35 years of age. The award will be made to the candidate who is judged by the Committee to be the best investment.

Inquiries should be addressed before April 1 to the Japanese Brotherhood Scholarship Committee, International House, 500 Riverside Drive.

The award will be made not later than May 1.

Dr. Laura Drake Gill, Barnard's ex-Dean, died a week ago Wednesday in Berea, Kentucky, where for the last three years she had been a member of the Faculty of Berea College. Dr. Gill was appointed Dean of Barnard on May 1, 1901, subsequent to the Spanish-American war in which she was manager of a Red Cross Hospital in Cuba, and for two years after the war in charge of the Cuban Orphan Society.

After her resignation from Barnard in 1908, Dr. Gill became the organizer of the first Vocation Bureau for College Women, in connection with the Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston. Besides being an able executive and teacher, Dr. Gill attained many degrees and also served the nation in its last two wars.

Radcliffe Favors Debating

To test the feeling of the college with regard to the continuance of intercollegiate debating, the Radcliffe Debating Council held a noon-hour meeting. The question at issue was, "Resolved, That Radcliffe shall withdraw from intercollegiate debating."

According to the vote taken, after the affirmative and negative arguments had been presented, only two people out of seventy-seven thought Radcliffe should withdraw.

Wellesley Divides School Day

Statistics on the division of their time, compiled by Wellesley College students, shows that books get increasing attention through the four years. The freshman spends about 4½ hours a day studying, the sophomore 4¾, the junior 5, and the senior 5½.

Dancing ranks high as a recreation. About 30% of the freshmen and sophomores list it first among forms of recreation, but only 7% of the seniors rank it first. The theatre and reading come next in popularity.

The outdoor sports are general favorites. Bridge met with little enthusiasm. Talking was a popular form of recreation, especially among the freshmen.

Freshmen admit spending as much time "prinking" as in eating, but the other classes reverse this proportion.

Of 235 students who reported, 93 were undecided as to their careers. About 90 plan to teach, 24 to do social service work, 22 to take up business or banking, 19, secretarial work, 14 intend to go into some field of artistic work, 8 expect to marry, 7 to study medicine, and 5 to continue their study of music.

Yale Offers Many New Facilities For Drama

With the coming of Professor George Pierce Baker to Yale, from the Harvard '47 Workshop, and the opening of the new drama school, has come the breaking of the ground for the new Yale University Theatre. The Theatre will meet the needs of lecture rooms, one seating 100, another 50, a third 25; of workshops for storing and repairing lighting equipment; for making scenery and costumes; of rehearsal rooms; of a social room for the actors; and of adequate quarters for the Yale Dramatic Associations.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMS

The United States Civil Service Commission will give the following examination:

Recruitment applications for junior positions will close February 27. The date for assembling of candidates will be stated on the admission cards sent applicants after the close of receipt of applications.

The examination is to fill vacancies under the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., at an entrance salary of $1,500 a year. After the probational period of six months required by the civil service act and rules, advancement in pay may be made without change in assignment up to $1,800 a year. Promotion to higher grades may be made in accordance with the civil service rules as vacancies occur.

The duties consist of the preparation and rating of the various technical, scientific, professional, and clerical examinations announced by the Civil Service Commission for filling vacancies in the Field or Departmental Services of the United States Government, and conferring with the heads of departments or governmental agencies concerning vacancies and the requirements for satisfactorily filling the same.

Applicants may be examined in not more than two of the following subjects: chemistry, economics, French, geology, German, Italian, physics, sociology, and Spanish.

Competitors will be rated on general information (questions designed to test competitor's general information), and a discussion of at least 300 words on one of three topics, to be written in the examination room.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the board of U. S. civil service examiners at the post office or custom house, any city.

DR. MEIKLEJOHN TO TEACH AT WISCONSIN

Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn has accepted a post in the department of philosophy of the University of Wisconsin. He will commence work at the University at the beginning of the second semester.

In a statement President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin said:

"Dr. Meiklejohn is one of the great and gifted teachers of this generation. His philosophical studies have been enriched by fruitful contacts with activities outside the boundaries of his special subject. I think Wisconsin is to be congratulated on Dr. Meiklejohn's appointment. From him we expect productive scholarship and provocative teaching."

In 1923 Dr. Meiklejohn was forced to resign from the presidency of Amherst College because of opposition of his liberal curriculum reforms. His popularity among the students was attested by the fact that 13 seniors refused their diplomas as a protest against his resignation.

Glad That She Took Honors Course

"I am unspeakably thankful that I have the Columbia degree, because of the respect everywhere for Columbia; and I am more than glad that I did Honors work. It is impossible to calculate the value of such things coldly. Honors Course shows its result best now when I plan and carry out my own reading entirely.

Visited Heidelberg

"For the last week-end in November I went to Heidelberg and was enchanted. I had always heard romantic things of it and found most of them true. There was deep snow—so I saw the mountains and the castle in most favorable circumstances. I stayed over an extra day to see "Saint Joan" as "Die Heilige Johanna." Ilsa Ferch, who had been away with me all the last day. . . We went to the play together in the evening. Two nights before, I had seen "Rose Bernd" in the Heidelberg Theatre, to compare it with the New York production of three years ago. "Die Heilige Johanna" was beautifully done, though a bit of the edge came off Shaw's irony in the German tongue. It was twice as interesting to see it after being familiar with the New York production and the French one.

Plans To Study In Paris

"I plan to go to Paris for the spring term, and I hope to be able to stay over long enough to go to Geneva for part of the summer and to see more of the British Isles. Perhaps all this will materialize if the exchange stays high, and if I keep a divine faith in respect to a position when I come back!

"This morning I received a letter from an old doctor in Dijon, telling me that he had met Professor Erskine at the General's at tea one afternoon. I am so sorry that I missed him and also the pleasure of seeing together three such fascinating characters as a professor of literature from Columbia, a venerable doctor and a well-known General."

80 COUPLES ATTEND SOPH HOP

The annual Sophomore dance was given in the gymnasium in Barnard Hall on the night of February 5 from nine till twelve-thirty o'clock. About eighty couples attended. The patrons and patronesses, who received, were Dean Gildersleeve, Miss Weeks, Professor and Mrs. Braun, Mr. and Mrs. Payne, and Mr. Peardon. The gymnasium presented a pleasing appearance, its walls being covered with blue-gray hangings, whose monotony was relieved by red and gold dragons. The favors were attractive leather memorandum books, which also served as dance programs. Edith Colvin won the lucky number dance and received a compact as a prize. The committee was composed of the following girls: Florence Spiltoir, Chairman, Noel Stone, Florence Atkins, Josephine Firor, Adele Norton, Gertrude Thompson, and Harriet Van Slyke.

MARY AGNES HAMILTON TALKS ON RAMSAY MacDONALD

"The space between what is and what is to be has got to be traversed." This is the keynote of Ramsay MacDonald's political philosophy and the foundation of the success of the Labor party as stated by Mrs. Mary Agnes Hamilton, known also by her pen name Iconoclast, who addressed a group of students interested in social sciences, Monday afternoon in the College Parlor.

"Ramsay MacDonald and the Labor Party" was the title of her talk and Mrs. Hamilton pointed out that these two subjects went hand in hand, the history of the leader explaining that of the party. Non-sympathizers with the Laborites are inclined to think of MacDonald and the Labor Party as two different things; Mrs. Hamilton believes that Mr. MacDonald is not only representative of the party, but rather that he contains in his story all the aspects of the labor movement.

All his thought has been profoundly colored by scientific outlook. His contribution to the socialist literature of the world has been in the form of analogies, suggested by the evolutionary theories. He believes that the process by which society changes is one of growth and hence he is strongly opposed to communism.

Career in Labor Movement

MacDonald's career in connection with the labor movement may be divided into three stages. The first of these covered the development of his own thought and the application of it to the building up of a labor party. MacDonald is a pacifist and a socialist. As a socialist he believes the end must be reached by means continuous with the end, which is a cooperative society. When the various intellectual radical groups and the trade unions joined forces, MacDonald became secretary of the committee elected by the trade unions to set up a labor party. In this capacity he gave years of constructive work and attained a thorough and intimate knowledge of the industrial as well as political aspects of the movement.

The second stage of his career covers his attitude towards war, and communism. It will be remembered that the justifiableness of supporting the war became an issue which caused the split in the labor party, MacDonald leading the minority group in opposition. The split was without any fundamental bitterness and the party as a whole had the greatest respect for the dissenting faction. All free-minded people, especially when they lost their illusions about the War, admired the man who withstood the most cruel forms of public opinion. His stand strengthened the moral authority over his party and the public, and despite the loss of his parliamentary seat and the lack of mention in the press he never lost the hold on the opinion of his party.

When sympathy for Russia had a great temporary influence in favor of communistic methods, he took up the fight against it successfully. He spent two years speaking and writing

STUDENT COUNCIL REPORT

At the meeting of Student Council on January 14, the plans of the Freshman Class for their Dance were submitted and approved. The resignation of Margery Meyers as college representative to the Representative Assembly was read, but action on it was postponed until Miss Meyer's reasons could be obtained. It was decided to nominate candidates for Assembly Chairman at a special meeting on the following Friday. The former Chairman, Betty Kalisher, has resigned. Announcement was made of the four Tuesday one o'clock periods which have been set aside for Class-meetings this Spring.

At the meeting of Student Council on February 4, the Undergraduate President read a letter from the Dean announcing the appointment of Helen Robinson as Assembly Chairman.

The President also read a letter from Miss Weeks concerning the action taken by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs on the suggestions made by Student Council in regard to the Studies and other matters. The Class Presidents were asked to take up the matter of appointing committees for the Studies, and Dorothy Ashworth was requested to obtain the desired information about the present activities of the National Federation of Students.

After considering a letter from Margery Meyers explaining the reasons of her resignation from Representative Assembly, it was decided to hold a joint meeting of Student Council and the Eligibility Committee to discuss the matter.

Letters from the Chairman of the Students Loan Committee and from the President of the Associate Alumnae thanking Student Council for their action in aiding the Fund were read.

It was announced that Mrs. Lother, President of the Associate Alumnae, would address the Representative Assembly on February 8, and that on Alumnae Day, February 12, Student Council will act as hostesses at tea.

Respectfully submitted,
DOROTHY MINER,
Undergraduate Vice Pres.

On The World Court
The Weekly News Release of The World Court Committee of the Council of Christian Associations contains the following information on the Student Poll.

"The National Student World Court Poll was the most successful poll of student opinion that has ever been taken. 130,000 students in 333 different institutions voted. Whereas the students voted five to one in favor of the United States entering the World Court, the ballot was no landslide and the variety of opinion and the varying vote in different colleges and parts of the country showed that students were thinking and did have very definite opinions.

"The National Collegiate World Court Conference at Princeton was perhaps the first truly national STUDENT conference. The World Court Committee had nothing to do with it, nor did any advisory committee of Faculty or other 'Elder Statesmen'".

ing on the reasons for socialism, and his philosophic opposition to communism.

The third stage comprises the experiments of a labor government. In this especially did MacDonald demonstrate his principle of traversing the space between what is and ought to be.

The secret of MacDonald's success as an orator is the fact that he always has had the courage to tell the truth, and that he speaks of ordinary work to which he joins an ideal seen ahead.
