U.N. Fervor Nipped In Bud

35 Respond to Appeal; Assembly, Jobs Delayed

The Dean's appeal last spring for Barnard girls to volunteer for work in connection with the General Assembly brought forth a burst of enthusiasm from the student body only to be nipped in the bud by the postponement of the General Assembly until Fall.

Originally, the plans had been to choose ten girls on the basis of their linguistic ability and interest in world affairs with alternate selections working either full or part time.

The duties tentatively assigned included temporary clerical assistants, work in preparation for the opening of the Assembly, checking press credentials at the opening of the Assembly, and taking notes in relays on the early proceedings of the Assembly. The volunteers were to have worked under Dr. W. Bryant Mumford, Special Assistant for Planning of the UN and Captain J. de Noue, Head of Protocol.

Two Get Permanent Positions

However, the postponement of the Assembly until Fall meant that the majority of the girls could not fulfill their duties because of the opening of school. Only two, Kathryn Schneider and Mary Mitchell, did any extensive amount of work during the past summer. Permanent positions were obtained by two post-graduate students, Jane Weidlund and Claudia Marck.

Thirty-five Apply

Those students who volunteered for UN jobs both successfully and unsuccessfully were Marie-Louise Emmet, Barbara Wheatley, Betty E. Troper, Mona Thelander, Mary Mitchell, Kathryn Schneider, Cecilia A. Stiborik, Rosary Scacciaferro, Maya Pines, Phoebe Parry-Jones, Mary Nicholson, Madeline Weigner, Ellen Aladin, Annette Kar, Gloria Iland, Rolla Kananof, Shirin Deurim, Charlotte Brandis, Gabrielle Steiner, Dolores Pember, Nancy Holland, Cornelia Michaelian, Eva F. Maze, Claudia Marck, Jane Weidlund, Margot Loewy, Rosalie Lo Curcio, Mary Ellen Hoffman, Hertha Haberland, Florence Grant, Lucille Frackman, Doris Augustine, Hope Simon, Fary Yetka, and Vivian Kaye.

Increase In Enrollment Makes Dorm Total 365

Improvements Made in Freshman Orientation

Miss Mary E. MacDonald, assistant to the Dean in charge of Residence Halls, has announced that 365 Barnard College students will be residing in Brooks and Hewitt Halls this year. Eighteen of this number will be staff members, while Kings Crown Hotel will house twenty students, all of whom are veterans with the exception of two. There will be no undergraduates staying at Johnson Hall this year.

Because of the increased demand for living space in the Residence Halls, a new plan has been found in which the three suites on each floor of Brooks Hall will house four students. A study for four people will adjoin two bed rooms with double decker beds. This is the first time in the history of the dormitory that such a plan has been instituted.

DEAN ADDRESSES REP ASSEMBLY WELCOME...

Johns Urges Freshmen to Attend Meeting

At the first meeting of the Representative Assembly, to be held on September 30, at 12 noon in Room 408 Barnard Hall. Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve will open the meeting with an address to the Assembly.

Dean Gildersleeve will speak on the importance of Rep. Assembly to both students and faculty. She will stress the influence Rep. Assembly may wield on the activities of Barnard's student government.

Miss Carol Johns, Undergraduate President, urges all students to attend this meeting and says, "I hope as many new students as possible will attend this first meeting of Representative Assembly." All new students as well as students of all classes will be welcomed to this meeting.

All freshmen and transfers may observe the student government of Barnard in action. At this meeting a review of old business as well as a survey of new tasks will be presented.

Rep. Assembly is the legislative body of Barnard College and is composed of ten members from each of the four classes, members of the Student Council and is presided over by the Undergraduate Association President. The Freshman class elects its delegates to the Assembly a few weeks after the beginning of classes. This delay will give the members of the incoming class time to know each other and determine whom they think will be the most capable delegates.

Adviser to Sophomores

The plan of having a Sophomore Adviser, which was introduced in February 1946, is being continued this year.

Miss Eleanor Hyde, Lecturer in American Studies and English, will again hold this position. She will be glad to give information and advice to sophomores about various academic questions, such as the major subjects and their relation to future careers, and similar matters. She will refer students to appropriate officers for more detailed advice.

Miss Hyde's office is in Room 131.

Virginia C. Gildersleeve,

Columbia Opens 193rd Year At Exercises This Afternoon

Acting-President Fackenthal Will Extend Greeting to Gathering; William J. Robbins to Deliver Address on Challenge of Science

The opening exercises of the 193rd academic year of Columbia University are being held at three this afternoon in McMillin Academic Theater. Acting President Frank Fackenthal, speaking on the student's function in the university, will extend the greeting. The featured address will be given by Dr. William J. Robbins, who will speak on the "Challenge of Science."

Welcome Freshmen

Barnard is prepared to tender its new students a full welcome, with special activities lined up for today and for Saturday.

Today's program of events commenced at 11:30 in the morning, when the incoming students reported to the Barnard Hall gym to meet their student hostesses. From there, they were escorted over to the opening service at St. Paul's Chapel at noon.

Following the services, a luncheon for the students is to be held in Hewitt Hall. Special guests at this luncheon include Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve, Professor Virginia D. Harrington, Dr. Lorna F. McGuire, Carol Johns and Lawrie Trevor, who will dine in the North Dining Room. Professor Louise H. Gregory, Dr. Gulielma F. Alsop, Miss MacDonald, and Senior and Junior class presidents Evi Bossanyi and Martha Muse will be guests of honor in the South Dining Room. After the luncheon, the opening exercises of Columbia University will be held in McMillin Theatre at 2:45. At four will follow a reception for the new students.

Saturday Activities

This Saturday, September 28, other welcoming activities have been scheduled. At three the Undergraduate Association will extend a special greeting to incoming students in the Barnard Hall gym. Tea will be served on the North Terrace a half hour later. Then at eight o'clock in the evening, a dance for Resident Freshmen will be given in Brooks Hall. On the following week, Saturday, October 5, an introductory dance also will be held for the Day Freshmen at the same hour, in the Barnard Hall gym.

Student Hostesses

Lawrie Trevor, chairman of Freshman Day, appointed forty hostesses to assist her, among whom are twenty Seniors, fifteen Juniors and five Sophomores. They include Joan Abbrancati, Priscilla Block, Lois Bochever, Evelyn Boxhorn, Mable Brown, Nancy Cameron, Hui Chen, Muriel Chevius, Audrey Cox, Aline Crenshaw, Elizabeth Eastman, Betty Green, Alta Goalwin, Katherine Goldsmith, Hertha Haberland, Virginia Haggerty, Mary Elizabeth Harry, Mary Elizabeth Hayes, Barbara Hewlett, Nathalie Lookstein, Dorothy Lowe, Mabel Elizabeth Lowe, Beverly McGraw, Ruth Maier, Margaret Mather, Jean Mezaros, Ruth Montgomery, Rita Molinelli, Helen Pond, Ruth Raup, Hannah Rosenblum, June Ross, Georgia Rubin, Elaine Ryan, Isa-

Dean Appoints 25 To Staff

Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve has made public the appointment of twenty-five new members to the Faculty and teaching staff.

Dr. Conrad Arensberg, who received his PhD in Sociology and Anthropology from Harvard University and who has taught at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at Brooklyn College, is succeeding the late Professor Willard Waller as Associate Professor of Sociology. During the war, Dr. Arensberg served with the U.S. Strategic Bombing Survey in Japan.

Miss Mary E. Macdonald, graduate of the University of Michigan with a Master's degree from Columbia, has been appointed Assistant to the Dean in charge of Residence Halls. In addition to teaching in many schools, Miss Macdonald was in the Waves for three years, where she did executive and administrative work in Oklahoma, California and Pearl Harbor.

King Is Appointed

In the Chemistry Department, Dr. Edward J. King has been made Assistant Professor. Dr. King is a graduate of Iowa University and a Ph.D. from Yale, where he is now teaching in addition to his appointment at Barnard. New appointments to the Chemistry Department also include Miss Judith Bregman, A.B., instructor in Chemistry; Grace Wentworth King, lecturer in Chemistry; Ardis Paul, lecturer in Chemistry; and Louise Speers and Mary Jane Williams, assistants in Chemistry.

Dr. Aubrey Gorbman has been appointed assistant professor of Zoology. A graduate of Wayne University with a Ph.D. from the University of California, Dr. Gorbman, in the past year, has been working at Yale on a grant from the Jane Coffin Childs Foundation and has been teaching in the Department of Anatomy at Yale Medical School.

Other Appointments

Other new members of the faculty and teaching staff of Barnard College include: Marie Moucha and Ruth E. Franz, assistants in Botany; Janet Racolin Sundelson, instructor in Economics; John A. Kouwenhoven, Associate in English; French R. Fogle, instructor in English; Edith Glassenberg, assistant in Fine Arts; Elizabeth Rodrigue, instructor in French; Robert Aura Smith, lecturer in Government; Basil Rauch, lecturer in History; Miriam Skinner, assistant in Physics; Bernice M. Wenzel, instructor in Psychology;

Report Food Saved In May

Mrs. Mabel Jordan, head of the cafeteria, has announced that the food conservation plan put into effect in the cafeteria during the last week of classes last Spring was very successful. She estimated that 66 pounds of flour, 37 pounds of sugar and five pounds of shortening were saved during the two days when no cakes, pies or cupcakes were served.

Mrs. Jordan emphasized that no money was saved, because desserts were substituted for the accustomed baked goods. The probable amount of baking which would have been done was 14 layer cakes, 6 squares, 6 dozen cupcakes, and 26 pies.

Food conservation measures were taken following a meeting of the International Relations Club food committee with Mrs. Jordan. The cafeteria independently limited the use of white bread on certain days.

NOTICE TO STUDENTS

Lockers may be obtained through the Comptroller's Office through October 15. This includes both gym lockers and those located in the basement of Milbank Hall.

SEPTEMBER, 1946

In September 1943 the editor of BULLETIN wrote to the new students, "It is only fair to tell you at the outset... that college in wartime is not, and cannot be, and should not be even a facsimile of the real college life..."

We don't have to look far—to the crowded college registration lines in colleges, to the national and international headlines—to realize that we would be fooling ourselves if we decided that Barnard could be all back to "normal" even this fall, three years later and a year after the end of war.

We are lucky to be in college. With veterans crowding all institutions of higher learning, too many young women are either postponing their entrance into college, or are giving up further education. Under these circumstances, Barnard students may rightly feel responsible for making the most of their access to books and libraries, their associations with the teachers and lecturers, and their participation in student activities.

Barnard students can do more than learn. They can apply their knowledge to the solution or relieving of problems around them. Community Service is seeking volunteer workers for settlement houses and hospitals. Political clubs on campus may be expected to take part in elections this fall, and to promote campaigns of their own on other subjects. Political Council will entertain speakers and coordinate the activities of Liberal Club, Action for Democracy and International Relations Club.

We cannot sympathize with those students who put "action" before thorough acquaintance with the issue acted upon. As college students we must make an era of change in the world about us an excuse for well-considered contributions to public affairs.

BULLETIN urges the new students to use their creative effort and energy with care, and to give full support and thought to their various activities at Barnard. They enter on a college career which is set in a not-yet normal world.

Profile:

CAROL JOHNS, BARNARD BABY, GROWS UP TO BE PRESIDENT

by Ruth Landesman

The traditional success story usually involves the little boy peering in at the gates of the mansion as the great man walks by. Perhaps some small resemblance to that tale can be found in the story of the little girl who played hide-and-seek in the halls of Barnard and grew up to become president of the Barnard Undergraduate Association.

Every student at Barnard is acquainted with Mrs. Johns, dispenser of student mail. Carol was a true "Barnard baby" imbued with its traditions and atmosphere. She was brought up on campus and she played ball on "Jake" when "Jake" was nothing more than a man's name to other seniors.

Fashion Scene:

The Junior Creators' Guild section of the New York Dress Institute played host in New York for five days this summer to Miss Betty Green '47, and Miss Hui Chen '48, in what was for the Guild a publicity assignment, for the girls a wardrobe-building experience.

Selected from Barnard's undergraduate body for their scholastic averages and their extra-curricular activities (less officially, for their shapeliness), Miss Green and Miss Chen, with five delegates from five other representative women's colleges (Duke University, Middlebury College, Texas State College for Women, the University of Minnesota, the University of Washington), enjoyed a brief look-in upon the world of fashion. The seven girls stayed at the Shelton Hotel, from which headquarters they were much escorted about, dined, interviewed, and photographed by style experts. Pictures of all seven delegates will be appearing in various fashion magazines.

The Institute inaugurated this form of advertising to show the new fall fashions being worn in women's colleges. Barnard and Middlebury were chosen to represent the women's colleges of the Eastern states.

Dean Gildersleeve Returns After Six Weeks In England

Dean Attends Meeting of University Women, Plans Exchange of English, American Students

by Elaine Ryan

An airplane left Shannon, Ireland, on August 26, put out to sea, developed engine trouble, returned, unloaded its passengers, then some hours later again attempted its flight, only to return a second time. Finally, on the third try, the trip to Gander, Newfoundland was undertaken and completed.

One of the passengers on the plane was Dean Virginia Gildersleeve, who was returning home after six weeks in England. But while the trip back was thus disagreeable, her stay in England was, according to the Dean, very satisfying.

Spending the first three weeks of her trip in London, Dean Gildersleeve attended the meeting of "The Council of the International Federation of University Women" there.

For the Dean, who is past president of the Federation, this meant the meeting again of many old friends for the first time since the war. It meant also discovering that many others had died during the war years.

The Dean tells, by way of example, of the present president of the Federation, a Polish doctor, who lived and worked in Warsaw during the war, and who survived to tell in London of her experiences. But there were 30 other members of the Polish federation who had died. This situation, remarks the Dean, was repeated in many of the other federation groups; for instance, those of Finland, The Netherlands, France and Norway.

To Aid University Women

At the meeting, relates the Dean, plans were made to help university women in these and in other European countries to "catch up" with activities they had missed during the war years. The "American Association of University Women," which is the American member of the International Federation, plans to bring women to the United States in this connection.

Other business discussed included the possibility of sending some American women students to Oxford. The Dean believes that a few may be able to attend next year.

Turning to more personal recollections of her trip, the Dean discussed London and its people as they appeared to her after the war years. "The city is damaged, and the people are tired," remarked the Dean. But she added: "The British have great staying power." The Dean has great confidence that, despite the shortages and inconveniences and troubles they are now enduring, the people will pull through to better times. One especially noteworthy thing, according to the Dean, is that despite shortages, the food is well-regulated, and the children, who look healthy, invariably get enough to eat.

Countryside Relatively Untouched

The second half of the Dean's trip to England was spent in the country, in Sussex, where the Dean had a cottage. Most of her time here was spent in sorting out personal possessions, after sale of the cottage. The Dean remarked that the changes in the country due to the war were less noticeable than in the city. The country was still beautiful and relatively untouched, for, while bombs had passed over Sussex, which was a part of what was commonly called "Buzz Bomb Alley" (indicating the route bombs took to London), no bombs had dropped on the villages.

The country was, on the whole, more pleasant than the city, but in both places the Dean had an interesting and satisfying trip.

As Undergraduate President, she is going to concentrate on Community Service this year and on building up college activities that have fallen off because of the war. She would like to reestablish the pre-war relationship between the Sociology and Psychology departments and Community Service whereby majors in those departments used Community Service as an outlet to their activities.

This summer she arose at 3:30 A.M. every morning and delivered milk all day in Yaphank, Long Island. She has also been a soda jerk in a confectionary store, and will supply original recipes for the most delicious concoctions upon written request.

Besides driving a milk truck, she is very proud of her trip to New England alone in a 1934 Ford two weeks after she received her license. She went up by car to save money and spent $32.00 on repairs.

Philosophy Major

Miss Johns is a major in Philosophy and "loves it" but is leaving the future "for the gods to decide." In addition to Philosophy, she loves music (can play "Yankee Doodle" with one finger), collects books, and always paints her own house.

While her friends enjoy her accent which she occasionally assumes and is a cross between French and Spanish, she won her eternal fame in the Class of '47 as one of the three soda jerks in Junior Show who sang "Oh we ain't the Waldorf and we ain't the Ritz, we don't reserve tables, if you're lucky you sits."

After commuting four hours a day to and from Amityville, Long Island, for three years, she has been lucky to obtain a room in the dorms this year. Firmly entrenched in her new headquarters, the "chief" forecasts a promising year.

Co-op Wants New Members To Work One Hour A Week

Co-op Exchange, the student cooperative of Barnard College, supplies new and used textbooks at reasonable, reduced prices. Co-op, a non-profit organization is located in the basement of Milbank Hall, directly opposite the stairway, for the convenience of Barnard students. For the first few weeks, Co-op Exchange will be open from 10 A.M. to 3 P.M. To become a Co-op member, just sign the poster in the entrance hall (Jake) of Barnard Hall, or write to Elsie Koerner '48, Co-op Chairman, through Student Mail.

Those interested in consumer cooperatives, economic principles and practices or in the functioning of business enterprise are urged to become members of Co-op as well as patrons. Members of Co-op make a low price policy possible by voluntarily spending one hour a week selling books.

Co-op Exchange wants new members. There are no membership dues. The sign-up poster is on Jake. The purpose of Co-op Exchange is to stimulate the interest of the college in consumer cooperation.

Columbia Awards Degree to Archbishop Fisher

The Most Reverend and Right Honorable Geoffrey Francis Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate of All England, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at Columbia University at a special convocation in his honor at Low Memorial Library Monday, Sept. 16.

The degree was conferred by Dr. Frank D. Fackenthal, acting president of the University.

28,000 Students at University; Enrollment Largest in History

Enrollment at Columbia University for the school year 1946-7 is the largest in the 193 years of the university's history. During the registration period, which extended over ten days, 28,000 students, including about 15,000 veterans, were enrolled. The huge registration required special facilities that were centered in the circular corridors of Low Memorial Library. Edward J. Grant, registrar of the university, estimates that about 80% of the male population of Morningside Heights will be veterans.

Of the 5,000 applicants who applied for freshman admission to Columbia, only 700 were admitted. Of the entire enrollment of 2,400 about 2/3 will be veterans. Normal pre-war enrollment of Columbia College was kept at 1,800 and will return to not more than 2,000 at the end of the present emergency.

Stout Asks Volunteers For Community Service

Shirley Stout, chairman of Community Service Bureau, has extended a request to Barnard students to volunteer for service in either the Community Settlement, St. Luke's Hospital, or the Barnard Thrift Shop.

Miss Stout reports that there will be a sign-up booth for volunteers of all classes on Jake from 12 to 1 on Thursday and Friday.

"Community Service needs dependable girls to whom it offers an opportunity for service to their school as well as to their neighbors. We believe," said Miss Stout, "that psychology, sociology, pre-medical and economics majors should be especially interested in the opportunities for field work in the play school at the Morningside Community Settlement, at St. Luke's Hospital (as nurse's aides) and in the Thrift Shop, an organization which sells old but good clothes, junk jewelry, and bric-a-brac—the proceeds of which are contributed to an undergraduate scholarship fund."

By limiting the number of agencies to one of each class and by trying to confine them to those in the immediate vicinity of Barnard College, Community Service Bureau hopes to make their program more satisfactory for both day and dorm students.

The faculty advisors who will aid each group of volunteers are Professor Margaret Holland, for Morningside Community settlement, Dr. Marjorie Coogan for St. Luke's Hospital, and Mrs. Mary Riley (alumnae officer) for the Thrift Shop.

FIVE CAMPUS GROUPS HOLD TRYOUTS

TO HOLD TRYOUTS FOR GLEE CLUB

Tryouts for the Barnard College Glee Club will be held Thursday, September 26, from 4:00 to 5:15 p.m. and on Tuesday, October 1, from 4:00 to 5:00 p.m. in Room 408, Barnard Hall. Upper classmen as well as freshmen are invited to try out whether or not they have previously been members of the club.

The director of the group is Igor Buketoff who was formerly at the Juilliard School of Music and who is now teaching at Columbia University. Mr. Buketoff is also director of the Columbia College Glee Club. The two glee clubs plan to give a concert in the spring together with the Columbia University orchestra.

The Barnard Glee Club also participates in the Christmas assembly and other activities are being planned. The officers of the group are Muriel Chevious, president; Czara Robertson, business manager; Ruth Cocks, secretary; June Billings and Mary Sultz, librarians. Nancy Ross Auster, publicity manager, has resigned.

Rehearsals are scheduled to be held every Tuesday and Thursday from 5:00 to 6:15 p.m. The first rehearsal will be held next Tuesday, October 1.

Hold Bulletin Tryouts For Old, New Students

All students, both new and old, who are interested in joining the Barnard Bulletin's Associate News Board, the About Town Staff, Photography Staff, or the Business Board, are invited to attend a tryout meeting on Monday at 5:00 in the Little Parlor.

Old students who wish to apply for positions must be academically eligible. As stated in Bluebook, this includes maintaining an academic average of 2.00, together with a satisfactory physical education record, and having the approval of the College Physician to enter into activities.

Tryout requirements will be announced at the meeting. After completing these requirements, students join Bulletin as probationary staff members. At the end of the probation period, those students whose interest and merit have been consistently high will be appointed permanent members of the staff for which they have applied.

Students interested in joining the photography staff should have a camera, flash bulb equipment, and access to a darkroom.

CURC BECOMES STATION WKCR

The Columbia University Radio club will begin operating its station, WKCR, formerly CURC, tomorrow evening. Thereafter there will be broadcasts every weekday evening from eight to twelve, except on holidays.

A premiere show will be held October 3 in McMillin Theater, from nine to ten. Information about tickets will be posted shortly by members of the club.

Tryouts Any Time

Students who are interested in radio work are invited to visit WKCR any day or evening. No regular audition schedule has been arranged yet, but members of the personnel department will be present to interview newcomers.

Considerable renovations and changes have been made at the radio station, and, according to a member of the radio club, "You'll really be surprised at the way the place looks."

Bear Needs New Talent For 3 Staffs, 3 Issues

The aim of the Bear, official undergraduate magazine, is to reflect Barnard's literary outlook, and to give encouragement and criticism to talented undergraduates. All students are urged to submit their essays, stories, or poems to Editor Mary Roush, and also to submit pen-and-ink sketches or cover designs. Freshmen and transfers especially are urged to try out this fall for positions on the art, literary, or business staffs.

The Bear is published three times a year, in December, in March, and in May, with the subscription included in the student activities fee.

WELCOME...

bel Sarvis, Helen Trevor, Natalia Troncoso, Margaret Weitz, Helen Whitecotten, and Mary Wilson. Doris Biggio and Sheila White-stone will usher.

These activities have been arranged in order to acquaint the new students with college life and to make them feel at home at Barnard.

CHOOSES STAFF FROM ALL CLASSES

Mortarboard, the college annual published every spring by the Junior class, reviews the activities of the four classes and the various organizations for the year. Headed by Editor Joan Abbrancati and Business Manager Shirley Kamell, the publication chooses members of its staffs from all four classes of the college.

AA Playday For Freshmen On Friday

Picnic, Folk Dancing Are Highlights of Event

As is customary, A.A. has planned a full afternoon for the Frosh Playday which will be held on the afternoon of Friday, September 28, on the north lawn at 4 o'clock.

Freshman Playday offers a good opportunity early in the semester for new students to become acquainted with each other and with A.A.

First on the agenda are games, followed by folk dancing. A highlight of the afternoon is an outdoor supper prepared by the Camp Committee, accompanied by a general sing. Afterwards, freshmen will be introduced to the Physical Education faculty and the A.A. president, Betty Green.

Jane Ross '49, in charge of the day, promises a "simply wonderful time." Miss Ross is Chairman of the A.A. Games Committee. Those in her committee assisting are Alta Goalwin and Margaret Weitz, '47, Ruth Montgomery and Barbara Hewlett, '48, and Jackie Hill and Bambi Elliott, '49.

A.A. also announces a Folk Dance party, Friday night October 4, and a College Barbecue at the Barnard Camp on Sunday, October 13.

In addition freshmen are urged to sign up for the inter-class tennis singles tournament to be held throughout the outdoor season. A poster for this purpose will be on Jake until October 3.

CONCERNING LETTERS

Bulletin is happy to accept Letters to the Editors from students wishing to express opinions. Bulletin is the students' newspaper, and strives to represent its readers accordingly. Letters must be submitted to Ruth Raup, Editor-in-Chief, before 10 A.M. on Tuesday for the Thursday issue, and before 10 A.M. on Thursday for the Monday issue.
