BARNARD BULLETIN

Barnard Women Petition Governor

initiating a mass petition campaign to convince Governor Rocke-

The petition is worded: "As students and newly enfranchised voters, as faculty, staff and administrators at Barnard College and Columbia University, we urge you, Governor Rockefeller to and Columbia University, we urge you, Governor Rockefelier to vete any attempt to repeal the New York State abortion laws." Although the Governor has indicated that he will veto any repeal bill, it was felt that additional pressure should be put on the Governor to counteract the extensive lobbying efforts of the right to life" groups

Center in Barnard Hall, the College Activities Office in McIntosh and the Barnard Bulletin Office, 107 McIntosh It will also be circulated throughout the dormatories at Barnard and Columbia Although no plans have been finalized it is hoped that the petitions can be delivered in person to the Governor on Monday

Issues 'Discussion Memorandum' By CAROL RICHARDS Last Friday, the Joint Com mittee of Trustees of Barnard College and Columbia Univer-News preliminary report The report Analysis entitled a 'dis cussion memorandum' offered little that had not been previously announced in a Senate Report issued in the fall It also left the financial issue which is najor stumbling block be sweted A common question asked about the memorandum

Joint Trustee Committee

was why it was issued at all Probably the most controver sial feature of the memorandum was its outlining of tenure pro cedures for Barnard faculty The memorandum stated that in the case of future nominations from Barnard for appoin ment or promotion to a enured asso-inte professor or appoint ent to a full professor-hip Execut ve Vice President for Academic Affairs shail convene five person University leve ad hoc committee to review the nomination and render advicsity as to whether the appoint ment shall be made. The reort further stipulates that the ad hoc committee consist of pu least two Barnard faculty mer cedures that could be taken if the ad hoc Committee declines to recommend the rominated faculty member for tenure unfavorable decision can be as unfavorable decision can be as cepted and the appointment or promotion not be made the President of Barnard can ask the President of the University to appoint another ad hoc com-mittee if it is believed that there is evidence of some prothere is evidence of some pro-cedural defect or rregularity or the President of Ba nard Col-lege can recommend to the Uni-versity President that he disregard the ad hoc committees ad vice and recommend to the Trus tees that the promotion or an pointment be made At a faculty staff meeting a Monday a number of junior fact ty rrembers expressed then disapproval of the proposed ten ure procedure. They feel that under the new procedure they will be under a sort of double reppardy" because they in es nce, have to be tried twice in order to receive promotion or tenure Actually the person will have to be approved three times because the department must initiate the procedings From the department the proposal for tenure or promotion will go to the Barnard Commit on Appointments and Promotion (ATP) and finally to the ad hoc committee Assistant Profesor of English Catharine Stimpson expressed the view that the new procedure was additionally unfair because two sets of criteria would be applied in judging the candidate for tenure or promotion. She felt that despite the emphasis put or teaching ability at Barnard it would not be as important a tee Ms Stimpson further questioned how a committee com posed of non-Barnard facults members could judge the teach ing ab hity of a Barnard faculty member iber It cares me that the ad hoc comm has no objective way of col-lecting evidence of teaching ability. She fel that even though there would be two Bar rard members of the ad box committee they would still be

Catharine Stimpson

Robert McCauchey

Assistant Professor of History Robert McCaughey told Bul letin that he viewed the vitu ation more optimistically. He felt that the ad hor committee would take into account the cif ferences in the situations that Barnard and Columbia faculty members have to confront Bar nard faculty members have a (Continued on Page 2)

Food Service ChieftoLeave

Ms Eleanor Smith Director of Food Services at Barnard College will leave Barnard at the close of this semester. This will conclude 17 years of ser-vice to the school In a state-ment to Bulletin Ms Smith noted that she was offered a posttion as an assistant to the sup-ervisor from Servomation, the catering firm which will begin handing meal services next se-mester Ms Smith felt that she might come into conflict with the new superv sor over certain maintenance standards

Me Smith also indicated that her new job with Servomation would have entailed a 46% decreare in salary

A meeting was held on May 9 acquaint Barnard personnel with the new service. No final decision has been made with Servomation, however as to the retention of present employees.

As a result of the New York Assembly's vote to repeal the eralized New York State abortion law, women at Barnard are

the repeal bill

The petition is available now for signature in the Women's

Freshmen Offer Complaints, Advice

numerable times during their first year here, a few freshmen once again accosted for their oninions, this time on an end-of-the year favorite, "Wh do you think of your first year

Although it was apparently an inopportune time to solicit opinions concerning school, with paper deadlines and exams wait ing grimly around the corner, a group of freshmen did consent to discuss their exper-iences at Barnard. Although most of the comments were fastructive criticisms saraked in Reactions to academic life at Barnard were surprisingly var-

"I found that I was not at all prepared for the work at Bar-nard, although I went to a rathmanding high school The work load here is heavy and I found I had to work all the time to keep up"

"I don't think Barnard is anywhere near as demanding as I had expected I think they should have more requirements, especially for undirected peo-

"Although there is incredible

Plans Underway for Coed Orientation

The Columbia-Barnard joint Orientation, for the incomin class of 1976, will be held Fri day, September 1 through Mon-day, September 4 Plans are "enthussastically underway," acording to Barnard coordinator, Dulce Chicon Working with her are Columbia coordinators, Ray Vastala and Rich Gualtiers and a commuttee of both Barnard and Columbia stu-

The orientation program will The orientation program will be completely coed with the exception of housing, all meals, tours, floor parties and activities are cosponsored by both colleges Special activities will include a Saturday afternoon reception and dessert hour honoring both Barnard President Marcha Determinant Co. dent Martha Peterson and Co-lumbia President William Me-Gill, a picnic, an outdoor dance to be held in a tent on South Field in conjunction Casino to be held in the lobbies

Casmo to be held in the lobbuse of Hartley, Lavingston and John Jay Halls, theatre parties to Siticks and Bones and Two Gentlemen of Verenza and an open house at MacIntosh In addition to the social activates, seminars have been acheduled on various topics of the seminary and th ing Sessions during which the sponsors and freshmen will get together to discuss the major fields of study available at Bar-nard and Columbia, including information professors The sponsors will be following certain established guidelines, but it is hoped that this format will contribute to a relaxed, peer to peer rela tionship

Tours of New York sites will once again be available for the once again be available for the out-of-town students, but all ternatives for the commuter/ local students will be football and softball games, frisbee local students will be football and softball games, frisber throwing and swimming in both college pools After Orien-tation officially ends on Monday, extra activities scheduled are the Circle Line Tour of Manhattan and a Holly House excursion BOM and Mac Ac ——lappined programs for Tuesday and Wednesday to fill in the time before classes begin

on Thursday

Heavy responsibility for the success of the upcoming orientation will be with the 150 soonsors 60 from Barnard and 90 from Columbia To fully inform the sponsors of their duties and a quaint them with the schedule, a special sponsor crientation will be held two days before the freshmen ar-rive, August 30 and 31

In addition to the regular or-ientation plans, BOSS and LASO are sponsoring special activities for incoming black and Latin students Plans for orientation programs to be sponsored by and for A an students have not as yet been freedom with housing rules the academic aspect is too struc tured Too much emphasis is put des and requirements

This last comment was disputed though I don't think there's much emphasis put on grades No one cares about your grades but yourself" But a few girls felt that the pressure for grades came from the other stu

ients, not from the professors The teachers don't really care what sort of grades you get as long as they think you stand the work But I know girls who will beg a professor for the few points between a C+ and a B— It's difficult to compete around here because there are so many other students are willing to go to ridicu lots lengths for a better grade" Compared to the academic aspect most freshmen found the cial life very free and easy ing I think the freedom w have as far as housing rules go is very valuable Withou, this freedom, its difficult to form a sense of personal responsibility

"In schools with strict housing rules, the students spend all their time figuring out how to break or get around the rules and the authorities have to spend all their time trying to enforce them Although most students were relatively happy with dorm life there were a few complaints In BHR there's no place where you can meet and talk except in the bathroom It would be so much easier to meet and get to know people on the floor if there were someplace where you could sit and talk I don't see why they can't convert one room on each floor into a lounge, as they

A single remark about the so-cial life at Barnard seemed to sum it up fairly well "There is no social life as such You make your own social life here. There always things going on (Continued on Page 2)

Publication Notice

This is the last issue of Bulletin for the school year

Bulletin can always use reporters, reviewers photogra-phers and people to do lay out We hope that you!] think of joining us in the fall

All Orientation Sponsors

Committee Members

AND STUDENTS WHO WILL BE AT SCHOOL BEFORE LABOR DAY

Bulletin

NEEDS PEOPLE TO WRITE FOR THE

ORIENTATION ISSUE

IF YOU'RE INTERESTED PLEASE CALL

CAROL RICHARDS OFFICE - X2119

HOME - X4972

NO STAFF MEETING TODAY

Hamilton

Copp Center OPOX

Two XEROX Shops 2933 (B) Broadway 114-115 Streets

1133 Amsterdam Ave.

Phone: 666-4113 Service Anywhere

NEW SERVICE! Reductions zed MAPS CHARTS, IBM Sheets

Open Daily 8AM - 7PM Saturday 9AM - 7PM

next CPA Exam. Long Island

516 538-8176 Newark 201 622-1313 New York 212 751-4643 White Plains 914 428-8917

TERMPAPERS

CALL TOLL FREE

enn_628_0852

MAMA JOY'S

2892 BROADWAY

FUTURE CPA'S

Learn Now About the

Open 8 a.m. to 1 a.s

C **I Collect (301) 656-5770
EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH, INC
5530 Wisconsin Ave. • Suite
Nathington, D. C. 20015

Rose section, western and perfections on the control of the sections have a more $5, 44 degree, I instant $5, vis.s.

1/5 OF USA

Freshmen . . (Continued from Page 1)

around campus, movies and parties, but there's no single "in place" to go. Everyone can do what he wants because there is such a variety of things to do around here."

One student objected that the atmosphere is too tense. "People seem too embarassed to meet other people. When you walk down the street, people avoid your eyes."

Relations with Columbia was discussed as an important part of social life. Although most students felt social relations with Columbia men were open enough, they complained that their only level of contact with Columbia men was social, "I've only had about two or three Columbia guys in all of my classes put together. You get nceting guys on a stric ly social level all the time. If there were more cross-listed classes, there would be more of a chance to talk to guys on an intellectual basis. An all-girl closs is an unreal situation. The seminars at Columbia were an excellent remedy of this situa-

Living in New York City was so discussed, of course: "I liked New York City a lot before I came here Now I hate

"I like living in New York because there are so many pla-ces to go. But the trouble is, you can't go to most of them alone. There aren't many places around here where you can just go cas-ually with friends."

"It is dangerous, but if you're careful and use your head you'll probably get through with only one or two muggings."

"The scariest experience I had was when a cop tried to pick me up on a bus."

Main complaints were about the meal plan, the medical ser-vice and the freshmen advisors. I think more people would be willing to stay in BHR if the meal plan weren't compulsory. "The medical service is too backed up and slow, especially the gynecologist. It's ridiculous how few hours the gynecologist is available." The freshmen advisors don't n to know anything. They're perfectly willing to talk to you and look things up for you, but it seems like they shouldn't have they

to look everything up, the Although most of the students were glad for the chance to air thour complaints all those mestioned said they planned to come back to Barnard next year.

READS 5

DUBLE or TRIPLE your speed Understand more, retain more Nationally known professor Class forming now READING SKILLS 864-5112

PAPADEM FLORIST

Flowers, Gifts & Candy Guarantee Top Quality At Lowest Prices In Area 2993 BROADWAY MO 2-2251 MO 2-2080

Campus Air Charter Flights TO LONDON AND PARIS Call JOEL or LINDA HA 4-4582, ext, 6371

Book Review

The Female Dr. Johnson

By SARA SOLBERG

antobiography by Beatrice Lil-lie. Doubleday, 360 pages, 17.95 Being funny has become Bea Lillie's living. One wonders how it is to live under the reputation of being "the funniest woman in the world." One wonders even what it is that makes one person "fun-nier" than another, And, in this

Every Other Inch a Lady. an age of high-blown scepticism, one wonders if the laughs produced are genuine or whether they aren't just the automatic human response to seeing laugh eards flashed at them (like Pavlov's dogs). Is Bea Lillie genuine? The answer to the question is, I am almost sure, yes; but I'm afraid I have to add that she is not on authoress. The trouble with writing one's own memoirs is that unless one has complete sang-froid about such as modesty, accuracy, tact, etc. ne is inevitably going to run up up against one's own ego. Clearly, this book of Bea Lillie's was a major production — careful of possible libel suite, getting all the necessary copyrights for quoted songs, etc. and this fact creates a certain unesse on the part of the read-Supposedly, the book is itten "like it was," straight from the shoulder, Annie Oakley-like, without pretension (since that's the thing Bea Lillie seems to have con-Yet of ension in urse there was pretenthe writing of her memoirs for one thing, it reveals that Bea Lillie is convinced as her niest woman slive - and, al-though perhaps this self-awareness ought not affect the read-er's reaction, I can't help feeling some of the humor go out of the "Lilleanisms." For anof the "Lifeanisms." For an-other, the ups and downs of "the business" — i.e. show business — spell jealousy, rivalry, pettiness, failures, triumphs, short and long-lived fame, and so on. There's no use hiding it, because we all know that show biz is a cut-throat world just much as gangster Chicago

Forgive my cynicism - I do love to sit around and quote

Bea Lillie as much as the rest of you (like her quoted remark about the oceanliner, the Queen Mary — "When does this place arrive?") — but I question the totality of her triumph in that world of shattering and shattered egos. I could have wished for more candour in her book more level-headed (and though she and her friends like to claim that that is what she cannot be, she can be since she was a stage success) re-flection on the meaning of her life.

Besides that dour note, I found her autobiography highly entertaining - very often witty, sharp, quick, less often quietly humorous. I looked for the real "comic sense" - that which produces a smile as opposed to a guffaw — and thought I sensed it in the authoress, I could not put my finger to it in her pages, I am convinced Bea Lillie was and is a rare bird, a comedienne on the almost classic sense, but I am afraid she was not born to be funny on paper. I should have liked to see an encounter - both written and verbal -between James Thurber and Bea Lillie, since the latter shone in conversation, en situation, and the former shone on They might have made pretty fine comedy topaper. gether.

From her childhood in Toronto, to her marriage with Sir Robert Peel (she became, no lie, Lady Peell) to the death of her only son in World War II, Bea Lillie selectively paints merry picture of herself. the picture, incomplete as I am sure it is, is absorbing enough as humor, without having be dragged down by tragedy even by melodrama. Bea Lil-lie's fancy takes turn after whimsical turn, and the trip through famous-person-land i fur. If you decide to give thi book a try, give Bea Lillie more credit than she herself reaches for as an authoress. Probably, she was and is a Successful and Humorous Human Being - an accomplish-ment, That she writes with a heavy hand should not deter us from recognizing in her one the wispy and wry female Dr.

Joint Trustee 'Memorandum'

(Continued from Page 1) greater teaching load and a generally lower pay scale.

The "discussion memorandum" also affirmed the curriculum arrangements approved by the Columbia Sena tember, 1971. The Senate Re-port called for common access for the students of both Bar-nard and Columbia to the cour-ses in each, but also left the degree requirements for students registered in each college up to the Faculty of that college. This, in addition to the financial arrangements seems to be the second big question that the Trustee Report leaves unanswered (and there is no way that they could have answered this question without interfer-ing in the province of the fac-ulty). The report recommended that joint committees be formed on the departmental, faculty (Committee on Instruction) and budgetary (University Subcommittee on the Budget) levels. Thus, those who are waiting for fast progress on the departmental level, may be in for disappointment.

The Joint Committee of Trus tees of Barnard and Columbia consists of Katharine Auchincloss, Wallace Jones, Martha closs, Walface Jones, Martha Peterson and Catherine Wood-bridge for Barnard, and Benja-min Buttenweiser, William J. McGill, Harold F. McGuire and Samuel R. Walker for Columbia University.

President Peterson has said that any student who wishes to comment on the report should do so in writing to the Public Relations Office, Milbank Hall.

"Loose Ends, Burst Cartons and Bits of String"

Professor T be o dor Gaster, Chairman of the Department of Religion is returned at the end of the 1971 academic year. In a in-terview with Bulletin reporter Derval Walsh, Professor Gaster d that in the future Barnara ted that in the juture Barnara ust be careful to retain its aca-mic integrity and not allow essing economic needs to force into a total merger with Coessing eco lumbia.

Although he will teach ReRigion V1001 next fall Professor Guster hopes to spend much of his fiture completing his two major works; one a translation of the Poetic books of the Old Testament and another on reconstructing the mind of the ancient Near

"A lot of people think that "A lot of people think that when one retires, one's career is at last presented packaged and gift-wrapped, but this is not so. It is a mass of loose ends, burst cartons, and bits of string. One feels not that one has long stretches of time ahead, but that one has little time and too much to do in it.

"If one comes into college teaching with the idea of serving up p canapes for one's stu-future banquet of life, dens' future banquet or ine, then I suppose at the end one can stand like a French chef in the doorway of a steaming kitchen, wipe one's hand on one's apron, and congratulate eneself that the stuff was halfway edible as I had that one wasn't just going to teach a subject, but to open up a world, then the present climate of Universities in this country is a little sadden-

ing. What has mainly happened is that teachers have become technical instructors without a serious philosophy about the place of their subjects in the general map of cultural life. Subjects are therefore taught without the general frame of reference of the humanities as a whole, and there is more emphasis on teaching 'all about it' This, I think, is the real heart of the present unrest. It may come out in preoccupation with particular political or social ismes, but basically what is lacking is any connection between the direct experiences of people today, and the whole her-tage of what is taught in the raditional curriculum. This does traditional curriculum This does not mean that no connection exists, but only that the Uni-versity has tended to forget it in a greedy rush to cater to young people who merely want a degree in order to qualify for more money The catering to this need requires a plant which is so expensive that the real needs of an academic education tend to be sacrificed in order to pay for it Sanskrit will be sac-rificed as a luxury in order to meet the costs imposed by cour-ses on 'the problems of the single girl.

"One would hope that in the proposed realignment of Barnard/Columbia relations, more attention would be paid to reestablishing the values of schol-arship and learning, and less paid to the balancing of the budget of the University. One should sacrifice the University to education, and not vice versa. The thing which disturbs me at

Prof. Theodor Gaster

amply the ruffling of the wate a s,mply the ruffling of the wa'e s of chacs by the breath of Cre-ntion However absurd the ex-press on of the unrest may be, the absurdity must be counterbalanced by the healthy zest of youth I have enjoyed Barnard.

eresent on my retirement is the sense that almost everyone is talking in terms of adminis-tration, and not education.

"All this sounds pessimistic. One might think that it is due to the climate of our times, but maybe it is due to the brushing of the wings of the Holy Spirit, I am extremely sanguine about the future because I realize that the present disturbance may be prettiest girls on campus nave been in Religion Vi001 Is has helped more that some of the most intelligent note been most intelligent nave been 'here too I shall certainly miss them, as I shall miss my cileagurs, and the one thing I dread mo-t is that when I might be pointed out to Freshmen on the campus they might reply Oh. I thin ght he died somewhere around the time of Dickens' "I always sow the program

It has belied that some of the Religion not as mere informational courses but as an ottempt to present to students the exciting ontions suggested by other men's views of the wer d and mar's place in it As such, the program is perhaps the most reiting of all in the humanities I tried also to show students that religion was not just a cer-ies of churches, but an activity of the human spirit which found expression equally in the airs ed in several secular channels In the field one's principal chal-lenge is that one has to breek down inherited stereotypes before one can get anywhere It is also necessary to teach noonle what really underlies metaphors and symbols I shall feel -ewarded if this or entation con-tinues at Barnard."

COLLEGIATE RESEARCH & ADVISORY SERVICE 2 Sylvan St.

Rutherford, N. J. 07070 (2011) 933-6117 (3979)

"A COMPLETE LINE OF WRITING SERVICES"

Monday - Friday 10 - 2 - (Summers)

Mon. - Fri. 8:30 - 4:30 - Sat. 11 - 4 - (Fall-Spring)

Take 'Minor' Out of Minor Latham

Not too much publicity is given to the Minor Latham Playhouse. In fact, many Bar-nard students don't know a nard students don't know a thing about it. I don't know who I am to talk about it, actually. I spent fifteen munutes trying to finds it on Thursday, wanting to see "Rye Bread" and "Sweeney Agonates." But nobody else seemed to know

The playhouse is in Milhank, and you can get in through the door on the east wing of the building, or by walking east on the ground floor, it's worth finding, even if you don't like the particular play that they're doing. For example, I enjoyed just being there, even though the first play "Rye Bread" (by Kenneth Janes) was not exact ly my cup of tea, what with its supposedly meaningful consupposedly meaningful fusedness, mother compl communication gaps and other timely things. It just didn't make it as far as I was con-cerned, although I might add that th ere were people in the e that seemed to be audience that seemed to be getting omething out of it. My point is that it didn't mat-- the atmosphere made up for everything.

The theatre is small, cozy, and (let's not be euphemistic) delapidated, and that's really nice. I don't like big, slick looking theatres. The atmosphere is less intimate, and you realize after a while that they have to think about profits to keep it looking like that. The keep it looking like that. The chances are very small that you'll get a play like "Sweeney Agonistes," the second play on Thursday's bill, in an audience pleasing, profit seeking theatre. And that's too bad, because T. S. Eliot wrote one hell of a T. S. Ellot wrote one hell of a play about Sweeney and his disarmingly clear view of real-ity ("death is life, life is death") that surfaces through the chatter of empty people. You get the feeling that the only interest of the Minor Latham theatre is theatre, and I'm not being redundant. The choice of plays is determined by artistic value, and if you differ with the powers that be at Minor Latham about what is artistic in one case, you is artistic in one case, you might agree the next. And, in-cidentally, the acting is great. The small cast filled the the-atre with their intensity and sincerity.

See a play at the Minor Latham Playhouse, You'll have Latham Playhouse. You'll have to like something about it—whether that means the theatre, the acting, or the play. But even if you're impossible to please (in which case I'll apologize for this article) at least you'll know where the theatre is, the next time some-

LOWEST YOUTH FARES TO EUROPE

Icelandic's Daily Schedule Jets From New York To Luxern bourg in The Heart Of Europe

$165 Yound trip jet

Ages 12 thru 25. Show proof of age. Add $10 each way for Peak Season departures eastbound June 20 thru July 25 and west-bound July 20 thru Aug 31. Good for overseas stays of up

$195 FOUNDATION FARE

Ages 26 thru 29. Show proof of age and enrollment in bona fide school. Add $10 each way for Peak Season departures east-bound June 1 thru Aug 31 and westbound July 1 thru Sept 30. Good for overseas stays of up

$125 COUTH FARE

Ages 12 thru 25. Show proof of age. No extra charges. For youths wishing to remain overyouths wishing to remain over-seas more than a year, this fare is an exclusive with icelandic and is less than half the com-parable one-way fare of any other scheduled airline.

To Icelandic Airlines 630 Fifth Avenue, N.Y. 10020 (212) Pt. 7-8585 Send folder CN on Youth/Student Fares to Europe.

Ctrout City_

My travel agent is

ICELANDIC

Legal ABORTION You have a CHOICE

CALL AT OUR EXPENSE 212-442-0262 A NON-PROFIT SERVICE

ARTISTS

Submit Line Drawings for 1972-73 STUDENT HANDBOOK COVER The Student Whose Illustration is Chosen WILL RECEIVE $25 Submit Entry to PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICE

118 Milbank Hall BY MAY 12 For Further Information, Call Ext. 2037 -----

THE STANES AND FAR AND SAME AND AND SOCIOUS SERVING SE

CASH PAID FOR TEXTBOOKS!

PAPYRUS will buy back all current editions for the HIGHEST catalog prices. Come in anytime of the day or night. We're open 7 days a week till midnight

Friday and Saturday till 1:06 a.m. P.S.: We sell the N.Y. Times on Saturday night and Sunday for your convenience.

PAPYRUS BOOKSELLERS 2915 BROADWAY NEW YORK, N.Y. 10025 RI 9-6800

AND STATEMENT OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY

BARNARD BULLETIN

Barnard College, 107 McIntosh Center, New York, N. Y. 10027 Telephone -- 280-2119

Published weekly throughout the college year except during vacution and examination prizeds by the students of Barrard College, in the interests of the Barrard Corminants, Available by subscription yearly for $6.00.

Editor-in-Chief CAROL RICHARDS

Assistant Editor
LAURA BREVETTI

Business Manager ELLEN McMANUS

CARTOONIST JAN OSCHERWITZ STAFF: Jerry Groopman, Sara Solberg, Susan Kane, Diane Bernstein, Michaelle Friedman, Linda Spiegel, Sonia Teitz, Stephanie Spanos, Jenny Bremer, Katie Cowdery, Barbara Winkler, Jill Woolman, Derval Walsh, Betsy Groban, Nadine Feiler, Mirlam Frank, Donna Redel, Priscilla Konecky, Margo Ann Sullivan.

Frinted by, Boto Printing Co. 222

Again, the War

As our parents' attitudes and goals were inextitipably shaped by the Depression and the Second World War there is little question that ours will forever be marked by the War in Indochina and our futile efforts to end it. We have grown from children terrified by the prospects of Communism, Nuclear Attack by the Russians and missies in Cuba to young adults even more frightened about the reality of our own nation's power and destructiveness. Our mass participation in anti-war protests, has been one of the identifying qualities of our generation. As our parents told us the stories where they were and what they were doing when Pearl Harbor was attacked, so will we recount to our children our participation in the 1970 Strike and how we felt when we learned about the deaths at Kert State Churestry and Agekon State College.

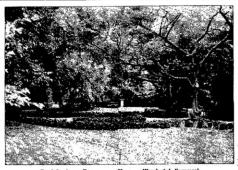

We could have beer watching "This Is Your Life" Morday night when we watched President Nixon's speech because we'd seen and heard the whole scenario so many times before. Yet it was still numbing and shocking that one man could have all that power. One man could singlehandedly order the mining of all North Vietnamese Harbors along with the heaviest bombing of that country in four years. He was able to do this without the consent of Congress or the people of this nation not to mention the Vietnam. The fact that his actions constitute people of largely a face saving maneuver for the United States and "the office of the Presidency" absolutely boggles the mind Tom Wicker wrote in the New York Times on Tuesday that our President has become an Emperor. Wicker couldn't have said it better.

It is trapic and frightening that the War in Vietnam is a heavier and wider War as the Class of T2 is about to graduate college than it was when they graduated high school. And this is after years of protests have rocked our nation and campuses. It is no wonder that we feel so powerless. If we have learned anything here at Barnard it is that change is so hard to effect.

Yet we must keep trying to end this war even though our efforts have so far been met with defeat. Columbia deans are joining students and faculty in Washington to lobby for anti-War legislation. BULLETIN hopes that the Barnard community, including administration, will not remain quiet.

We feel, however, that ultimately the answer lies in removing: Ruchard Nixon from the Presidency. George Mc-Govern who has said that he would stop the bombing of N. Vietnam as his first Presidential act, would provide a meaningful alternative to the machismo-linked War policies of the last two Presidents.

McGovern's aucess in the primaries has largely been due to his ability to attract a large and entusiastic group of volunteers. New York is a vital primary for McGovern and his campaign headquarters hopes to swamp the stakewith volunteers in the next month. We feel that working for the Presidential Candidacy of George McGovern is the best way to help end the war, and urge Barnard students to do so. Perhaps, then, this War can be finally ended.

Good Luck on Exams . . . Have a Wonderful Summer

In The Morning Mail

"Right to Life"

To the Editor:

Your editorial of May 4th dismines the opponents of liberalined short on as "so-miled right to life groups" and asks "sowhat meaning the phrase right to life 'groups' and asks "sowhat meaning the phrase right to life has when mean and woman cannot choose the kind of these they want to leads" "this is shabby arguing. If there are good reasons for a liberalized abortion law, then these should be stated; and a mocking misrepresentation of opposing views should be unnocessary.

As I understand the anti-abortion groups' argument their main assumption is that a right to life is more undamental than any of the rights invoked in favor of abortion (e.g. the right the right to choose a kind of the). Hence the right of the fetus to live takes precedence over the right of the mother to avoid the burden of pregnancy, however heavy this burden may

This is a respectable argument, and its cogent refutation is quite difficult. The usual move accepts the liberation premises of the anti-abortionists but claims that the fetus is not a person and so has no rights, and hence no right to life. difficulty with this move is that the criteria for being a person are not clear. Is it on grounds of lacking some set of capacities e.g. for thought or enjoyment, that the fetus is not a person? Or is it on the ground that the fetus is not viable apart from the mother. I do not know how to determine the criteria of personhood, but whichever of these sets of criteria is chosen, the implications may be unacceptable to many proponents of a right to abortion. (To the so-called "right to abortion" ups?)

If personhood requires certain sensity or intellectual or emotional bagocities which a fetus lacks, then other similarly defective humbar must also be held non-person, and so without rights and so may legitimately be killed. Euthanssia in such cases would have to be held as permissible as abortion talking of voluntary euthanasia, but of the killing of those who are unable to indicate their de-

Viability is however, he favorite candidate as a criterion of personhood and the limits of personhood the limits of the limits of the limits of limits of limits of the limits of limits of limits of limits of the limits of limit

Such progress may presum-ably be extended. If we try to argue for liberalized abortion on the grounds that being a persor requires viability we will end up saying that whether a being is a person depends not on what that being is or may become, but on what the state of technology is. Such an assumption flies in the very face of the very libertarian tradition within which both sides of this argument are being conducted. I that tradition holds that rights are attributable to sentient beings on grounds of possession or potential possession of very general moral or intellectual capacities, and not on the grounds that the conditions necessary to realize these ed. To drop this latter assumption would commit one to holding that those who died of starvation in Binfra or in Bengla-desh had no right to survive since the means for their doing so was unavailable - and I-sus pect most who use libertarian arguments would not want to committed to such a view

If we want to find convincing arguments for liberalized abortion laws I suspect we shall have to go outside the libertarian tradition, and rest our beliefs on some very stong assumptions about the overriding importance of quantity over quality of life. Some of us may not find such premises and their corollaries acceptable.

In the meantime it seems important to consider the issue a little more calmly. To argue for the impermisability of about one on mean arguing for compulsory childbirth, or for eabrogation of a woman's right to control her own body can to matter of fact some anti-abortion groups are rather keen on this), or for controls or control acquious ception or for forced setting-tion, Let us try to keep separate problems separate.

Onora Nell

Dear Editor:

Re: "Save the Abortlon Law" editorial, Thuraday, May 4, 1972. "What rights does an unrights de Russian Text have a replay to the control of t

This ago is characterized by an immense selfethness and self interest. You speak of rights, but you don't understand what constitutes a right. You merely mouth empty phrases. I urge you and beseech you to exercise the property of the prop

Sincerely, Thomas C, Melo College, 73.

I would like to clarify a point that I made in my editorial last week, When I stated "What rights does an unwanted (Continued on Page 8)

Ed. Note:

A.J. Liebling Counter-Convention

"And in the Third Ring..."

By SALLY BUTTON

It was labeled "journalism"s Woodstock" and, at the end of two days of non-stop panel discussions, there couldn's be a better comparison. All the superstars of Ame American press and electronic motion were gathered together to accept the worthipful adulation of more than 1,500 in., hie audience and to hold one long en-of more train 1,500 m. In a sunimence and to hold one long en-A convention of pourmaises is no different than one of Shriners, handressers, or, for that matter, newspaper publashers, who were convening Actoria, and who were outer Actoria, and who were outer the impetus for this A, J Liebhing Counter-Convention of reporters, sponsored by MORE, the year-old New York journalism review.

A. J. Liebling wrote a column for The New Yorker called "The Wayward Press," a regular feature until his death in 1863. His observation that, "The American Newspaper Publishers Association convention reaches here the same season.

as the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus Like the 'Big Show,' the convention always bears a certain resemblance to its predecessors' it seemed that the Martin Luther King Labor Center had its share of animal acts this year. Suppose this year, however Panels were dominated by trendy topics such as "The New Journalism," "Raction," Sexism, and Elitism," and

"Should There Be a Womer's Page" Vethum, and the sears created there by the American press, was curously omitted

from discussion
The faces behind the by-lines were there for all to see and hear, and hear I sat next to one man who had flown in from Texas just for the event
"I'm a media freak," he said
"They'll be talking about this for a long time, and I just Winston Churchill said, "It is better to be making news than taking it, to be an actor rather than a critic." For the first time, those anonymous people who take down the events in everyone else's world were given a chance to make their own, and they did it in style

Tools Wassilald

Newsweek, Time, The Village
Voice, the New York dailes,
WBAI, and Sterling Cable Television covered the pro-make it downtown to witness Tom Wolfe Above Hoffman Otto Preminger (one might ask con journalism Answer be at like his pre-coverincent like ...

age) Gloria Steinem Der
Schapp, Dan Rather Joe Mi
Davic Halberstam
Kemp Gunness Davic Halberstam Renata Adler Murray Kemp Gape Pressman Charlotte Cartis Greenfield, Edwin Goodn Tony Randell (same qui-Gooden r answer as above) Sulner Seymour Hersh Jack Zion, S Newfield Newfield and assorted other names ad credentials I ned up to consider the proplem of writing news in these United States in 1972

My one conclusion writers shouldn't attempt to speak in public The 1500 pairs of eager earn head first fairs of ever one's collective article which would be entitled lines I would be entitled lines I but they won't give me an advance" The traditional complaints were aired publisher control of news, lock of marries for good writers discrimination in the newstoom too writch the seesan it served its purpose But concrete solutions and with the seesan it served its purpose But concrete solutions and with the statistic proposals were as if four it to pan down as a taket to the Ton Waker bunches on

An A J Learning poster proceeding the process of the control of the con-

print period Let the califord decide not the editor of he has vised reporters either One answer was provided

One answer was provided by Jum Stiff to Journal that kindle who has nurshed in not deally called Brooklyn Today. The state of the state

It is not much that it is a beneing. The cuttern of Brossbin 2000 600 strong will be-juch offers them dails — no just the tenement fires in Bed Sts, bir the political deals made between John Crews and Wra e Espon to for judicelyin, and if of the real God'stir et al. of of the real God'stir et al. of the Brooklyn wherfren No one gets he news from a

No one gets by news from a messapper answer Walter messapper and work was to be the control of t

Vide an element of truth Brooklyn Today: 'en iro., The World?

PARTING SHOTS

The Nature of Things at Barnard

By JENNY BREMER

I'm not sure exactly what I see tout to accomplian my years as Undergrad Prendent, but whatever it was I know I didn't accomplish it. I got into this whole thing through a very some cinion made on the last possible day I felt a vogue desure to protest the very nature of things at Barnaid, the maissie which hung almost paineably around the campus, dereching it is a not of damp despar and bore-

Student governments are not known for their frequencies of for their responsiveness — I certainly did not enter the office with any illusions as to the power of Undergrad on the committee system, even on this sub-did not be the responsive to student needs and interests and to strengthen the student once as much as possible, slight though the change might be

Nonetheless, I find that I have finished my term in office and things are pretty much the same as when I entered, and I find this disappointing What, then, has been the pur-

What, then, has been the purpose of it all? Aside from very personal benefits, nothing at all. I have learned a lot about government and politics, certainly more than any Barnard government course ever taught me. I have gottem a lot of free lunches and I have met a lot of interesting people.

ing people.

To those who have been helpful to me, especially Ms. Meyers, I want to express my thank for your advice and support. To those who have not, who shall remain nameless, I wish to express my thanks for the experience with which you have profess to the experience with which you have profess to good use later. But beyond this there is nothing that I can point to which justifies the liter.

Jenny Bremer

ally hundreds of hours of my time which Undergated devoured II this all sounds sontewhat butter, it is because I feel is alter, and the second feel of the motioning was accomplaised 11 had no real goals, and I expected hittle else from student government. The term student government are the second for the second feel of the second fee yean express students demedia and ideas, though the expressont becomes only a game when both the administration and we ourselves know that the students have expressed no destres and present no ideas flow and I elaim that students are comed over tuition raises or anything else, when no voice is raised in protest, and why should the administration listen to my claims?

I realize that part of the blame for the lack of student effectiveness can be laid in Undergad's lap. We had no clear idea of what we wanted to accomplish nor did we believe we could ac-compliab it if we tried As a issulf make of the first senseties was firstered away hashing with such diverse and nane rissues is the the Chiefergad hudges, elections and the coedicutional status of the yearbook. When we did to meetings to discuss the failure of the committee system of the need for a voting student on the trustee board, kept office hours and wrote articles, however there was no zeepone. Some day I will figure out why any twin against out the control of the control of Witting as I am immediately following Nixon's announcement of the blockdaing of Haiphorg Harbor I can hardly call for massive protests of the cancellation of the Food Service even if I wanted to, but Barnaid students respond as much to the one as to the other, which is to say, not at all So it really does not matter what I say or whether I say anything at all, does at?

I began this year by making, a plea to students to act on whatever issues apposed to them as important or within their influence, a plea which went unheeded I end it by offering my best unthes and sympathy to those who follow me and with the syncal observation that people get a government of the syncal observation that people get a government of the syncal observation that is not very good at all that case, fellow Barrand students, that is not very good at all.

Tenth Series Of 'Dance Uptown'

Junet Soares, Director of DANCE UPTOWN (a concert series based at Bainard College's Minor Latham Playhouse) has an-nounced a Tenth Series to take place at four locations on the Barnard Columbia Campus in May

THE FRIDAY EVENING PROGRAM - MAY 12, 19, & 26 will start with a large group work by Rudy Perez called LOT PIECE to be performed on Low Library Plaza at 7:15 pm. The audience will then move into the Minor Latham Playhouse at 8.00 p.m to see newly commissioned works by choreographers Have Kohav Sara Rudner and Douglas Dunn, and Judith Willis. The final work wil be viewed on Altschul Plaza, to be performed by a new group called Movement Projects, with a structure set by chorcog apher Art Bauman and a score by musician Eiganor

THE SATURDAY EVENING PROGRAM --- MAY 13. 20. & 27 will start at 7 15 pm on the Barnard Lawn with a new outdoor ork by Cliff Keuter At 8 00 p.m. at the Minor Latham Playhouse the audience will see THE BEGINNING OF DINOSAUR LOVE by the audience will see THE HEMINING OF DIMORAUM LOVE by Toby Armour with her company a time choreographed by Sandra Genies, and a quartet by Claudia Gitelman This program will then move to Altschild Plasa for Lin Lerner's PIECE FOR MA-GICIANS MUSICIANS AND DANCER featuring juzz musicians Perry Robinson and Richard Youngstein

In addition, a performance of Whitney Bergman's GRASS DANCE is planned as a special event for MAY 5th & 12th at 12 noon and 12 30 pm on the Barnard Lawn.

In case of rair Cliff Keuter and Rudy Perez and their com es will perform in the Barnard gymnasium, and the Art Bauman and Lin Lerner works will take place at the Minor Latham Playbouse

Tickets are $2.00 and $1.00 with student ID and will be sold n entry into the Minor Latham Playhouse at 8:00 p.m. evenings For further information, please call Minor Latham

This Tenth Series of DANCE UPTOWN is made possible with support of the NEW YORK STATE COUNCIL ON THE ARTS,

CLASS OF 1973 SIGN UP

NOW

To Get Your

SENIOR PICTURE TAKEN

For The

1973 MORTARBOARD

Film Review

Haymische Ego

By JERRY GROOPMAN

I really don't want to write this review; not that it spoils engendered by film, only I fear I will fall far short of communicating how much fun Woody Allen is in his movie "Play It Again," How often do we spend Sam. How often do we spend two hours laughing hard at the unparalleled mishaps of the greatest nebish of this century? I had a cramp in my left side after the film, a testament to his creative genius. How often his creative genius. How often can we go into Radio City Music Hall and give each other elec-tric shocks off its carpets and drink in all that 1930's WPA art on the walls? How often does a GP rated film cause four old biddies who sat behind us to pick up their Macy's shopping bags, straighten their ace-bandage stockings, and storm out in the middle? How often is Jewish humor reworked into a modern, pleasing form?

I go to Woody Allen films with two types of people: either girls am attached to, or so with a sense of humor. It is plain lousy going by yourself, because so much of the joy rests in that fast glance at your friend whose face registers the same laughter. Go when you're in a good mood, a bad mood, exams are bothering you, the day of your last exam, when you're sick of school or when u're romantic about the city. It is a "perfect treat, anytime of ay or night.

I know I shall never be a poet or novelist because I write stories or poems that merely stories or poems that merely surround one or two appealing lines which jump into my head Thus the work is three-fourths garbage and one-quarter intriguing Allen however splits at fifty-fifty, in that his previ two films, "Take the Money and Run" and "Bananas," both ap-peared to have been made for the sake of a slew of gags and one-liners. This one is different: there are still, to everyone's de-light, a bushel of funny jokes and slapstick situations; but, for time, there is more acting, and a bit more emotion. The shlump still picks out a yahrzeit (memorial) candle when looking for some intimate lighting to seduce a girlfriend and exclaims, when appraising a voluptuous dancing grit, "I would sell my mother to the Arabs for her," but one senses that the shlump can do more than expand his shlumpyness. TENNING DESCRIPTION OF THE PROPERTY AND THE PARTY AND THE FUTURE CPA's Learn How to prepare for the CPA exam.

prepare for the CPA exam Becker CPA Review Course Call Collect:

New York Long Island White Plains (516) 538-8176 (914) 428-8317 (201) 622-1313

Woody Allen n is awfully good, the v

MAD magazine used to be He is in a typical predicament of being dumped by a woman and now in search of a new one; he 'strikes out" as ever, and con off as the 98 pound weakling, balding, with a big Jewish nose all haymi and small haymische ego .who is thrown around by the unfeeling real world. Yet here we have a spirit to guide the floundering soul, and that is the ghost of Bogart, Allen is looking to recreate the character who, though tough and grimey, re veres human relationships and chends how things be. The film begins with the last scenes of "Casablanca" when Humphrey Bogart peels off his "toughy" mask and is willing to sacrifice himself for the safe passage of two others, one a woman he loves, Allen repeats Begart's lines verball as the end of his film, and, and the end of his film, and, somehow, it fits perfectly, as the perfectly and the word possible of the hash the h repeats Bogart's lines verbating his "tough" exterior but by the

I made a list of "good" lines, but hold back on them, recognizing that they fall flat when out of context. Take it on faith that the film as a comedy is ex cellent. It lags at moments, and some of the shticks become corny and are overused, but in the end you know it was worth -

nebisher facade that most peo ple take as being him.

The plot is a simple one. Al-lan (Woody Allen) is a film critic of the dreamer variety that spends Saturday afternoons catching old films in half-described theaters. His wife, played by Susan Anspatch of "Five Easy Pieces" fame, feels "unfulfilled" by him, and leaves. Desclate, he turns to two friends, Desolate, he turns to two friends, Linda (Diane Keaton) and her husband Dick (Tony Roberts). They console him, and try to set him up with other girls. From the first, it is clear that Linda and Allan are "made for ch other." Though she ex-bits a refined non-Jewish beauty, she is a neurotic, hype-chondriacal, high strung girl that any Jewish mother would cherish. She is not a princess by any means, being a bit too of her condition. Her hus band. Dick, is overplayed as the efficient executive type, who calls into the answering service at every change in lo cation. He ignores her and seems out of joint with her feelings; she slowly turns to Allan, a man whose sex appeal does not match hers and whose neuroses tend to be out of control in social situations. trol in social situations.

They are an odd couple, but actually a good one. Although the homilies like "I love you for yourself" are dragged into it, there is a sense that they complement each other and achieve freedom of emotional expression in each other's presence The affair does not force the comedy into pathetic or asinine emotion. Go see "Play It Again, Sam." It helps if you're Jewish and from New York, but that's only half the game; you have to know how to laugh.

Cut the High Cost of Xerox WHY PAY 7

Walk Downstairs and Save

COPYQUICK

749-7650

ZOOPRAXINOGRAPHOSCOPE

BRINGS TO THE SCREEN

"CULLODEN"

Tonight — May 11 — Lehman Auditorium, Altschul Hall — Admission 75 Cents — 7:00 and 9:00 P.M.

Pictures talk. Some little boys don't.

Some inner-city ghettes have special schools. For little boya who don't talk.

Not mute little boya. But children so withdrawn, so afraid of failure, they cannet make the slightest attempt to do anything at which they might fail.

Some don't talk. Some don't listen. Most don't behave. And anything at which they might fail.

Some don't talk. Some don't listen. Most don't behave. And anything at which they might fail.

Some don't talk. Some don't listen and they don't behave. And anything they might be the some stated to be the some state they are distributed to take pictures.

And then the take pictures and began to talk. They said "This is my house." "This is my dog." "This is my house." "This is my dog." "This is where I like to hide." They began to explain, to describe, to communicate And once the channels of communication had been opened, they began to learn they began to learn We're helping the children of the inner-city. And we're also helping the adults. We're involved in inner-city job programs. To train unskilled people un useful jobs. What does Kodak stand to gain from this 'Well, we're showing how our products can help a teecher-and maybe creating a whole new market 'And we're also cultivating young existence who will somedy buy their own cameras and film. But more than that, we're cultivating alert, solicities cardet citizen Who will someday be responsible for our society.

After all, our business depends on our society. So we care what happens to it.

