GIVE AND TAKE THRIFT SHOP

or

Ramifications of Rustling for Random Rummage

HEAR YE! HEAR YE! "It's smart to be thrifty" has a new meaning to Barnard alumnae. The Thrift Shop, undertaken jointly by the Barnard Alumnae Association and Neurological Institute, opens Wednesday morning, October 6, at 10 o'clock at 1272 Third Avenue, near 73rd Street, (Tel. RH 4-9452). The paid executive, Mrs. Marshall Potter, will be on duty from nine-thirty till five, six days a week. The paid staff comprises a porter and a cashier. The shop will be open Mondays to Saturdays, inclusive, from ten to five, and Thursday evenings until nine o'clock; Thursday evening is to be BARNARD NIGHT. Those who have jobs and want the fun of helping should apply for Thursday evening shift.

On Tuesday, October 5, there will be an informal preview, or Inspection Day.

The Incorporators are: Elizabeth Wright Hubbard, president of the Barnard Alumnae; Mrs. C. E. Adams, vice-chairman, (Neurological); Pamela Poor Harris, secretary of the Thrift Shop board of directors and chairman of the ways and means committee; Mrs. Minerva C. Morris, (Neurological), treasurer; Dorothy Maloney Johnson, acting chairman of pricing; and Mrs. Frederick L. Tilney (Neurological). The original committee includes, for Barnard; Ethel H. Wise, chairman of soliciting; Rose Marie Wise Younker, chairman of store soliciting; Frances McGee Rusch, decorating committee chairman; and Charlotte Verlage Hamlin. The incorporation certificate designates the proceeds to the Barnard scholarship fund and such other uses as the board of directors of Alumnae Association may choose.

There are many committees, chief among which are:

SOLICITING COMMITTEE: We must have a constant flow of rummage, for the bugaboo of the Thrift Shop is being sold out. Everything is wanted from broken ash-trays to cast off evening dresses; from torn socks to empty perfume bottles; from fancy boxes to broken toys; as well as objects of value, antiques, pictures, bric-a-brac, kitchen utensils, books and especially men's and children's clothing. Miss Wise's committee will solicit alumnae, trustees, faculty, students, and outside friends.

There is also the committee to SOLICIT RUMMAGE FROM STORES; both wholesale and retail shops give us old or worn, damaged, or faded stock. The chairman, Mrs. Younker, begs you all to send into the Alumnae Office a list of your store or manufacturing contacts, wholesale or retail, in any line of business except food, with the information as to whether you would approach them for rummage or would give the committee a letter of introduction to them or can tell us who else can approach them.

The SELLING COMMITTEE, under the chairmanship of Miss Nan Reiley, is filling volunteer schedules for Barnard's quota of shop time. We have Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings, ten to one-thirty; Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, one to five; and Thursday evenings, five or five-thirty to nine. There must be a shift captain and three workers for each of these periods. Mrs. Potter, the paid executive, will give a training class for workers at 2 p. m. Tuesday, October 5, in the shop before the Inspection. Each worker is requested to come one-half hour early for instruction on her first day in the shop. For those who do not want to pledge a half-day, a week, or a fortnight, there is an emergency sales list which would give the hours of availability and Mrs. Potter could telephone for reserves.

COLLECTING is a most important committee. Deliver all rummage to the shop if you can; if not, notify the Alumnae Office in writing the date after which rummage will be ready. If it is furniture, please specify, and our truckman will be sent. All Barnard rummage must be tagged for Barnard as we receive the whole profit on it and only half the profit on undesignated rummage. Barnard blue tags can be had from the Alumnae Office. Each collector will bring tags. The local Barnard clubs in the metropolitan area have been good enough to cooperate in collecting rummage in their districts. New York Barnard Club members are asked to notify Miss Yard.

There will be a SALVAGE committee for the repair and cleaning of articles. Applicants are badly wanted for this committee and also for the CLERICAL committee, under Yvonne Moen Cumerford, chairman. Last but not least, the SOCIAL or ENTERTAINMENT committee urges you to give bundle bridges or luncheons or Thrift teas to stimulate the giving of rummage.

For general information, phone the new Alumnae executive secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Orne Young, or her assistant, Miss Page Johnston.

BARNARD COLLEGE

ALUMNAE MONTHLY

On And Off

The Campus

BARNARD COLLEGE has offered her alumnae the use of Barnard Hall every Tuesday evening during an experimental period for sociability, discussion, and activity. It is to be regarded as a meeting place in which to visit, to renew old acquaintances, and to make new ones over a cup of coffee. And the Alumnae Association is planning to make it a place for you to join with other alumnae in some special interest: to read and produce plays, to learn more about the music of yesterday and today, to sing, to participate in a panel discussion of "what's new" in your field of occupation, and to dabble in the arts.

"Alumnae Night" Plans

THE plans for your Tuesday evenings have been formulated on the basis of 141 questionnaires returned to the committee during the summer. 101 alumnae signified an interest in some aspect of shop-talks; of these, 42 were interested in the personal appraisal work shop series; 67 were interested in some musical activity, 53 in physical recreation; 43 in a Little Theatre, and 29 in clay modeling. 120 alumnae were willing to pay a small fee, 18 forget to answer the question, and only one was unwilling. These figures add up to more than a total of 141 as some alumnae were interested in more than one group.

The Alumnae Night programs will open on TUESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER TWELFTH. At half past eight that night there will be an informal reception given by the College in the College Parlor. Dean Gildersleeve unfortunately cannot be present as she is entertaining the Conference of Alumnae Presidents and Secretaries of the Seven Women's Colleges that evening in the Deanery. She has, however, asked Miss Weeks to receive in her place and has expressed the hope that she may join us later.

At this opening reception there will be ample opportunity to meet the leaders of the various groups, to discuss the form the activities will take, and to decide in which of the offerings to participate. Enrollment for the term may be taken that evening or on one of the following two Tuesdays. There will, of course, be a fee to cover the cost of professional leadership and materials. Further details will be found in the Alumnae Night Folder which will be sent to alumnae in the metropolitan area.

At the moment of going to press, it is impossible to give full details concerning the personnel of our group of leaders. It has already been announced, however, that Douglas Stuart Moore, noted American composer-conductor-author on our Barnard faculty, will open the music appreciation group series; that Florence Gerrish will head the Little Theatre group; that Theodora Baldwin, '00, has offered her fine collection of costumes to the Little Theatre and will herself be Mistress of the Wardrobe; that Clairette Armstrong, '08, psychologist at the Court of Domestic Relations, will head the psychology, child training, and mental hygiene series of shop-talks and lectures; that Gena Tenney, '33, will head the Glee Club group; that Marie Bernholz Flynn, '18, will be treasurer; that Alice Rice Cook will head the personal appraisal work shop series.

The Alumnae Night committee includes: chairman, Gena Tenney, '33, assisted by Ray Levi Weiss,

'15, Eva vom Baur Hansl, '09, Helen Appell, '32, and Elizabeth Wright Hubbard, '17, ex-officio.

Summer Jottings from the Riverside Building

SOON after the Monthly went to press in June, forty or more Staten Island alumnae sponsored an out-of-door bridge at which $125 was raised for the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund. This was the first time that the Staten Island group had met, and the affair proved so enjoyable that tentative plans were made for an evening party in the fall.

Mildred Kammerer, 1919, chairman of the Staten Island group for Fiftieth Anniversary Fund, was in charge.

Faithful volunteers in the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund office during the summer were:

Henrietta Swope, 1925, who worked long and patiently with Edna Wetterer on building up a card file of all the contributors to Barnard College since its beginning, which is now complete.

Marie Bernholz Flynn, 1918, carried on her volunteer work in building up a card file of people interested in various activities as reported in the newspapers.

Alice Burbank Rhoads, 1923, for part of the summer kept her committee active and is preparing its program for the fall.

Beatrice Lowndes Earle, 1917, made her home in Canaan, New Hampshire the headquarters for all the floating members of the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund Committee in New Hampshire and Vermont.

Catherine Strateman, 1934, in spite of a heavy schedule at summer school, managed to drop into the Riverside Building occasionally to work on an index of the alumnae and their committee activities.

Mrs. Ruth Overton, 1899, of the New York Land Committee, has been working on a list of real estate men in New York who will be appealed to to help with the Riverside Quadrangle.

Alix Causse, 1929, continued her active efforts to interest people in Barnard and its need for endowment although she was in Ontario, Canada.

Any one wanting "ammunition" about the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund Committee and its program is welcome to a copy of Twenty-five Questions About Barnard College and Its Development.

MY summer was a very good one. The trip over on the Queen Mary was exceptionally pleasant, with smooth seas, sunshine and lots of deck tennis. Then came England, green and peaceful in the country, excessively crowded in London, with portions of Coronation decorations still up, and emotions connected with the royal family still seething in the hearts of the English.

There was considerable business for me to do in London, and the British Federation of University Women gave me a luncheon at Crosby Hall. I could not get over to Paris in time for some of the international meetings I wanted to attend, but I arrived there on July 13th, to preside at the Council of the International Federation of University Women at Reid Hall. Eight extremely busy days in Paris were crowded with Council Sessions, private conferences, com-

It was intensely interesting to hear inside information about developments in Spain, in Palestine, in Russia, and elsewhere. Despite the calamitous events in various parts of the world the psychological atmosphere seemed to me somehow less "jittery" than in recent summers.

From the Fund Chairman — Marion Travis

IN June 1937 the Alumnae Fund completed its fifth year of service—a year in two respects the most important since the inception of the Fund in 1933. For, working in close cooperation with the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund, the annual Alumnae Fund was accorded a definite function in Barnard's financial plans. And the Fund total for 1937 was by far the largest yet attained.

When the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund set out to raise $4,500,000 for Barnard the alumnae as a whole were asked, as their part, to make yearly contributions through the Alumnae Fund, thus building up an expanding source of annual income to supplement Barnard's endowments. The Fund Committee feels that this policy is justified in the 1937 results. Nearly $28,000 came through the annual Alumnae Fund, almost twice the total reached in earlier years and 50% more than in 1936; individual contributions were over $13,000, two and even three times more than they amounted to in earlier years; the average gift rose from ten to fourteen dollars; and nearly two hundred alumnae sent checks who had never given before.

The growth of the Fund this year is due to a combination of factors: better times; the intensive work done by class representatives and officers in many classes; interest in Barnard's financial problems stimulated by the publicity of the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund; and a general realization that alumnae funds are increasingly important to all colleges now that income from endowments is curtailed and new endowments not easily found.

Probably the greatest stimulus to giving in 1937 was the advance promise from the college that all unrestricted gifts would be applied towards the purchase of the Riverside land. This was a deviation from the usual policy of using Fund money each year for current needs. (A table on page 9 shows how alumnae gifts for five years have been employed.) An exception was made this year because there was a pressing need to pay for the land, and it was felt that the alumnae would wish to help. In result practically all individual contributions were unrestricted, and are buying "square feet".

The 50% growth of the Fund this year came not only from the rise in individual giving, but was sustained throughout the whole list of Fund receipts. The classes made a splendid showing, especially 1912, whose 25th year gift helps pay for the land, and 1927, whose 10th year offering will be used in part to redecorate Miss Gildersleeve's office, the balance for the land. Contributions from the various Barnard clubs were larger than ever before. And more than $5,000 was received in special gifts.

The Alumnae Fund is the channel for all alumnae contributions to the college, stimulating giving, and presenting in its records a complete picture of all alumnae benefactions. Therefore 193 special gifts made by alumnae this year through the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund have been credited to individuals and classes by the Alumnae Fund, and were reflected in the imposing list of 1937 Reunion Gifts reported in the June Monthly (see Table on page 9). The financial report enumerates separately these special alumnae gifts, grouping them according to their designations. They total more than $20,000, bringing the grand total of alumnae gifts for 1937 to more than $48,000 from 1,064 donors. Of this amount, $35,852 helps pay for the land. The balance is to be used for special immediate needs or in permanent funds.

In conclusion the retiring chairman lists her manifold indebtedness: to the Associate Alumnae, for the opportunity given her to work in a most worthwhile enterprise, and for a vastly interesting personal experience; to the central committee, the class representatives and the Fund secretaries, whose hard work makes the chairman's lot a happy one; to Dean Gildersleeve and the advisory committee for aid and comfort; to all the officers of the Associate Alumnae and members of the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund Committee, Monthly editors, and officers of the College, who have helped the Fund in many and various ways during the last two years.

The annual Alumnae Fund is well established, with more than one thousand loyal supporters. The new chairman, Lucy Morgenthau Heineman, '15, brings to the work energy, enthusiasm and great good sense. May she and the 1938 committee find a second thousand donors and carry the Fund to far greater success.

ADMINISTRATION NOTES

THE administration announces the appointment of Dr. Willard Waller as associate professor of sociology in Barnard College. Dr. Waller is a graduate of the University of Illinois, and has the degree of Master of Arts from the University of Chicago and that of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Pennsylvania. He has taught at the Universities of Pennsylvania and Nebraska, and for the last six years at Pennsylvania State College, where he is at present chairman of the Social Studies Group. He has written numerous articles on sociological subjects, especially in the fields of criminology and educational sociology.

Professor Waller will give full time to his teaching in Barnard College, where he will conduct the elementary course in sociology and two electives.

This appointment is made because of Professor MacIver's transfer to the Graduate School.

An important new appointment is that of Dr. Henry A. Boorse as assistant professor of physics and executive head of the Barnard section of that department. He is a graduate of Annapolis, and has done graduate work at Columbia and Cambridge, England.

In the department of French, Mr. Andre Mes-nard, who has been for some years on the staff of Columbia College, will come to us as lecturer. He is a specialist in language, being particularly interested in grammar.

To succeed Mr. von Helms as lecturer in German, Mr. Kurt von Forstmeyer is coming. Other new appointments are: Dr. Edgar R. Lorch as instructor in mathematics, Miss Jane Harting as instructor in physical education, Dr. Richard E. P. Youtz and Dr. S. D. Shirley Spragg as instructors in psychology. From this department Dr. Georgene Seward, Barnard '23, has resigned to accept an assistant professorship at Connecticut College.

The following new titles have been announced: Arthur D. Gayer, assistant professor of economics; Elizabeth Reynard, '22, assistant professor of English; Marion Lawrence, assistant professor of fine arts; Florrie Holzwasser, '11, assistant professor of geology; Gertrude Braun Rich, '27, instructor in philosophy; and Caridad Castellano, associate in Spanish. The leaves of absence for 1937-38 include Professors Byrne, Moley, and Earle; for the spring session, Professors Braun, Latham, Reimer, Riccio, and Wayman.

Professor Grace Langford and Professor Louis Loiseaux have retired, as of June 30, 1937.

Introducing = = =

Anne Gary Pannell

"I've failed that course miserably, my dear; it was the most horrible examination." Anne Gary's brilliant achievements in the field of historical research have never been able to blot out of my memory those words of hers, said as we struggled together in Milbank basement dyeing Greek Games costumes.

Anne was chairman of costumes that year, and in those days each class dressed all its members, which meant that in this case 230 costumes had to be made. All through college, Anne was always delegated to do the en masse jobs. From costuming, to getting the class rings, to editing Mortarboard, and finally marshalling for us as senior president, she did yeoman service for 1931.

While taking part in all these extra-curricular activities, Anne went right along acquiring honors in her scholastic work. As our student at the Zimmermann School for International Studies in Geneva during the summer of Junior year, she ably represented Barnard. Returning home, she took honors in history during her junior and senior years and upon graduation was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Her fellow students voted for her as the recipient of their Student Fellowship grant and with this award she went to Oxford to study. At the end of a year, Anne was given an Oxford Research Studentship to study at the Institute of Historical Research in London University. English universities rarely give grants to women students and almost never to an American woman, so Anne's award represented a real achievement on her part.

Between terms Anne returned home, not for a vacation but to do research for her thesis. Her Oxford tutor had suggested that she check the records of the thirteen original colonies, look up some source material in Canada, and search the files of the then uncatalogued Huntington library in California. Anne did not manage to cover the field entirely, but she did work in the eastern libraries, particularly in Philadelphia and in Washington. There in the Library of Congress, she and Emilie Young, of the Barnard history department, spent many hot summer days.

Anne returned to England and completed the residence requirement for her degree. The title of her thesis was: "The Political and Economic Relations of English and American Quakers, (1750-1785). This thesis examined the political and economic activities of an Anglo-American religious organization, the Society of Friends, during the critical period in the history of the first British Empire from the peace of Aix-la-Chapelle to the establishment of the American Republic."

"The object of this thesis was to investigate the principal causes of the political and economic influence of the Quakers in Anglo-American affairs between 1750-1785, and in some measure to assess the extent, value and results of that influence both to the Society and to the Anglo-American world."

After completing a year of teaching in Alabama College at Montevallo as instructor in history, where she gave a survey course which covered the universe from prehistoric man through the N. R. A., Anne returned to England. There on January 23, 1936, she received her Ph.D. degree from Oxford University. Leaving England, she came home and taught at Montevallo for the spring semester.

In Atlanta, Georgia on September 2, 1936, Anne married Henry Clifton Pannell, a professor at the University of Alabama. They have a young son, Henry Gary Pannell, born July sixth. They live in Tuscaloosa, where Anne is continuing to do some research on newspapers of the Reconstruction period. She is the chairman of social studies for and is on the executive committee of the Alabama division of the American Association of University Women and maintains, more or less by remote control, a keen interest in Barnard and her class.

In spite of her splendid record, I am sure that down in the magnolia country, Anne Gary Pannell must occasionally be haunted by shades of Botany A!

Her Work in the Southwest

By Gulielma F. Alsop, M. D.

SOME of the most strange by-products of disease and of its modern scientific cure, are found in the personalities of the patients. And one of the greatest disasters that can happen to anyone, whether old or young, is to be a queer sort of creature, some one whom other people do not want to have around, some one who is a burden to a group. For then only socially minded individuals, truly philanthropic people, will ever seek out such a person's company. And that spells doom in all social relationships, and complete unhappiness. So, when this fate overshadows children, we are doubly eager to help them from out of its shadows.

Such, perhaps, has been the fate that has lain in wait for children with a long drawn out chronic illness, as rheumatic fever, chronic nephritis, chronic sinus infection and asthma. The very nature of these diseases necessitates constant and exquisite care of these children. If a sinus case so much as sneezes, that child would be kept home from school in New York City. The rheumatic must be sheltered and protected in a thousand ways. And never, for a moment, is a single day in the asthmatic's life clear sailing and simple. Each sick child is the center of his family, his universe. If he is peevish and does not eat his special diet, his mother, his nurse are in consternation. And eating or not eating is a sceptre which the child unconsciously, and later consciously, wields, giving him a quasi-divine right to attention and importance and power. These satisfactions are quite proper and essential in every make-up, but they should never be satisfied by illness. These children are family tyrants, unhappy themselves, in unhappy homes. And so, little by little, year by year, though science may ultimately cure the child of a physical ailment, science has also given the child an unhappy and undesirable personality. The only help for these children is to take away the importance of their illness. Their only help is to be compared, not with well children, but with children equally handicapped.

Besides the problem of personality, in the case of these handicapped children, is the problem of education. Each child is apt to be absent yearly one, two or three months, and all studies are interrupted. And added to the home influence is the school influence, which is a subtle compound of attention and despair.

Three years ago a British trained nurse opened a school for these chronically ill children in Tucson, Arizona, staffed with teachers of formal education and of all branches of occupational therapy, as handicrafts, painting and music. Dr. Vivian Tappan, Barnard 1919, is the school doctor. She has the double duty and the double interest of bringing back to normal life the sick personalities as well as of bringing back to normal life the sick bodies.

Dr. Tappan has at her disposal all the knowledge and skill that she has gained in her specialty of pediatrics and all the knowledge that she has gained since she joined the staff of the Desert Sanatorium in 1929. Besides the usual doctor's armamentum of drugs, she has used those natural, physical measures which are available in the southwest, the sun itself, the hot, dry air, the lessened strain in the desert, where values and perspectives are altered. She knows that she can help the children, because she and the desert together have been doing it. Many of these children are on special diets, but since that is usual, a special diet is no path to distinction. Many of the children have special treatments adapted to each case, and since that is so, neither is a special treatment a road to distinction. In fact, all are once again common and ordinary, and each child can be a mere unit in a group instead of the focus of all the family attention and solicitude.

Dr. Tappan is specially fitted for this position, both by her training and by her enduring interest in children and their welfare. She took her A.B. from Barnard in 1919, her M.A. from Columbia in 1920 and her M.D. from Johns Hopkins in 1927. She was for two years house officer at Johns Hopkins, until she went west to be on the staff of the Desert Sanatorium, where she was head of the pediatrics department until her resignation last spring. She is Arizona State chairman of the American Academy of Pediatrics and during this past spring temporary medical advisor to the Navajo-Hopi Indian Reservation. At present she is making a special study of children who are handicapped by asthma, and is at the moment busy preparing a paper on asthmatic children to be read before the American Academy of Pediatrics in Los Angeles in November.

"Children with chronic sinus trouble and children with asthma should be sent to the desert if the parents can possibly afford to send them," she said to me, "for normal times in the warm, clear, dry climate will give them their best chance of recovery. Tuberculosis can be cured at home just as well as out in the desert, but send to the southwest the little children with asthma, with sinusitis and with rheumatic infection, and lessen, if possible the handicap which they may have to carry in life."

Dr. Tappan looked quite able to do so. An indescribable air of health and assurance radiated from her, a knowledge that, in that sunny and dry climate, under those bare hills, the small human creatures who had been caught in the vice of an inescapable illness would once again return to health and well-being and power,—a knowledge that she knew this path to health and could set the feet of the children walking down it.

In fact, it seemed to me that she carried the desert in her pocket.

THE BARNARD CLUBS

The Barnard College Club of New York, which is in the twelfth year of its very active life, has scheduled an interesting program for the coming season. The club announces the election of the following officers for the year 1937-1938:—president: Mrs. James J. Walsh (Margaret Kelley), 1913, vice-president: Mrs. Clifford R. Hale (Elva French), 1925, secretary: Miss Annette C. Decker, 1927, treasurer: Mrs. Walter G. Thomas (Margaret Terribery), 1915.

For the third successive year, the club will conduct a drive to provide funds to establish a scholarship at Barnard. The two previous winners of the scholarship are now attending the College. Beginning on October first, and continuing until November thirtieth, the Club will sell 25 cent subscriptions for a Caribbean cruise. There are two unusual features of this year's drive. First, the winning ticket will provide passage for two persons instead of one on the Colombian Line 18-day cruise. The ports of call will be Port-au-Prince, Haiti; Kingston, Jamaica; Puerto Colombia and Cartagena, Colombia and Cristobal, Panama Canal Zone. Excellent first class accommodations have been assured and the trip may be taken at any time between January first and June first, 1938. The other feature is a second drawing, the winner of which will receive a cash prize of $50.

The scholarship drive has always been of major interest to club members and a prize is awarded to the member who sells the largest number of subscriptions for the cruise. This year, the activity promises to be even keener than usual since the trip is to be enjoyed by two persons. The drawing for the winners will take place at a supper dance on December third. Mrs. Clifford Hale is chairman and Mrs. Arthur M. Tode is assistant chairman.

The winter season at the club begins with the opening reception on the afternoon of October twentieth. The officers of the club will receive, assisted by a special committee of which Mrs. Florence deL. Lowther is chairman. On October twenty-ninth, Dorothy Gray, the beauty expert, will demonstrate the correct use of cosmetics. Three different types will be selected among the guests to act as subjects for the demonstration, which is expected to throw a very new light on the use of make-up. A new activity of the club this fall, which will influence the general health and physical well-being of club members, will be exercise classes conducted by Dorothy Nye. As her work is of a corrective nature, members will be taken in small groups and will receive individual attention. The evenings of duplicate bridge for men and women will be continued this year.

They will be held on the second Wednesday of each month beginning October 13th. Top score cups will be awarded at each meeting and also a special prize for the series.

On Monday afternoons, beginning in November, tea will be served for members and their guests. These informal Monday teas have been popular in the past, and there is frequently a guest of honor whose presence lends additional interest. At the first Monday tea, there will be a speaker to explain the phases of jury duty, to which the women of New York State are now eligible. The second guest tea will be in honor of Priscilla Lockwood Burge, who is the recipient of this year's Club scholarship at Barnard. Also in November, it is planned to hold a Science Dinner. There will be alumnae speakers who have done distinguished work in this field, and several of the Barnard science faculty will be invited as guests.

The activities indicated are only a part of the full and interesting program which the club is planning for this year. As members return from their summer homes or summer holidays, there will be new suggestions and new points of view which will evoke more and more events of interest.

Note: Any alumna interested in helping the Barnard College Club scholarship drive may obtain subscription books from the Alumnae Office any morning from 10 to 12.

Westchester

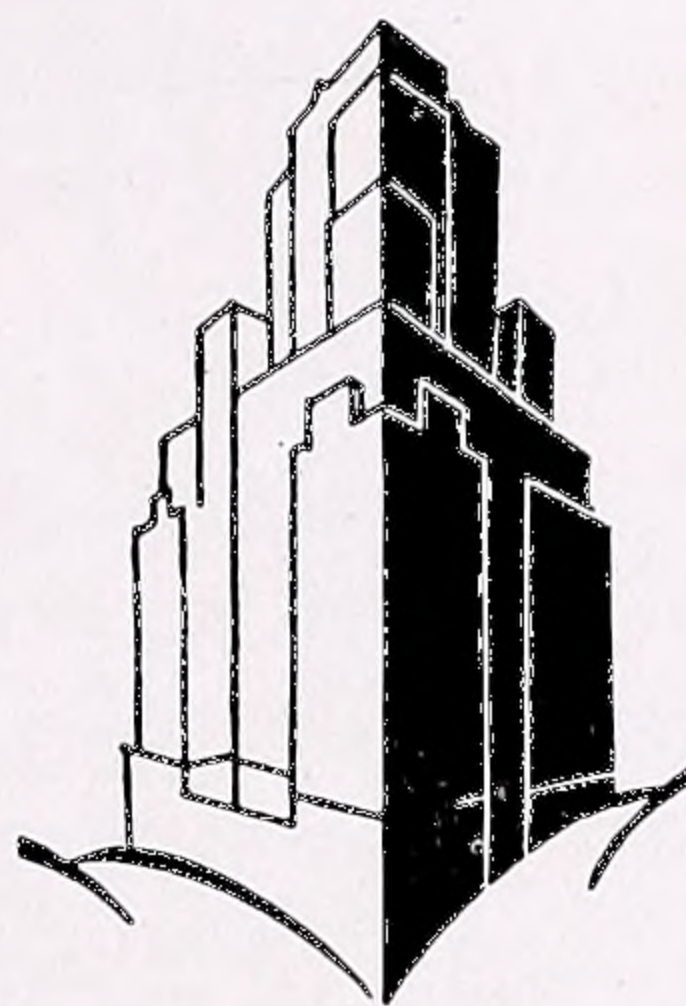

Barnard-in-Westchester opened the year on October second with a tea given by the directors to the members of the class of 1937 who live in Westchester, to the club's scholarship holders, and to the club members. Mrs. Daniel Callahan (Madge Turner) '26, program chairman, was in charge of the affair, which was held at the Westchester Woman's Club in Mount Vernon.

So successful was the dessert bridge and fashion show given by the club last fall that a similar affair will be held at the Orienta Beach Club on October 23rd. Mrs. Nat W. Morrow, Jr. (Laura Bang), '24, chairman of ways and means, will be in charge, assisted by Mae Belle Beith, '21.

At a recent board meeting, a committee was appointed to consider a suitable memorial to Mrs. George L. Close, a charter member and past president of the club, who died during the summer.

Committee chairmen for the year are: scholarship, Mrs. John Hanselman (Margaret Bush), '21; publicity, Elsie Cobb, '32 and Mrs. Richard Block (Peggy Strasser Block), '33; hospitality, Mrs. Frederick Jenkins (Winifred Gorton), '21; contact, Mrs. Morton Singer (Sylvia Jaffin), '30; membership, Mrs. Robert Fuller (Florence Jenkel), '26; and sub-freshman day, Mrs. Sherman Hooker (Dorothy Skinker), '15.

Mrs. L. Brewster Smith (Natalie Shinn), '06, is president of Barnard-in-Westchester.

Barnard Publishes

LATER CRIMINAL CAREERS by Sheldon Glueck, and Eleanor Touroff Glueck, Barnard, 1919. The Commonwealth Fund, New York.

IT is impossible in a short review to do justice to a serious piece of scientific research such as that presented in the Gluecks' latest book. Nor is this the place for a critical analysis of the mass of statistical data which has been so carefully compiled and studied. Suffice it to say that the data have been handled with caution and that no extravagant claims are made for the statistical results. One question which may well arise is: to what extent may the 500 subjects be considered typical of the criminal population? Formulation of broad general theories would necessitate a careful study of this point.

The Gluecks have subjected to microscopic examination the lives of some 500 criminals from the time of their incarceration in the Massachusetts Reformatory for Men to the end of a ten-year period after their release. What happened to them provides a story not only of scientific importance but also of considerable human interest.

In the second five-year period after their release from the reformatory, a distinct tendency toward reform became apparent. The non-delinquents markedly increased. The Gluecks analyzed sixty-three factors statistically in an effort to discover which ones were most important in effecting the reform. It is somewhat startling to find that only one factor out of the sixty-three proved to be significantly correlated. That factor was age. Non-delinquency increased rapidly up to the age of 36 and then declined. Apparently the process of maturing and settling down is important in itself in reducing criminality among these men. If they have not reformed by the age of 36, there is little hope for them. Implied is a distinct relation between adolescence and crime, for the kind of malefactor these criminals represent.

What about those who do not reform? Why has the settling process of time failed to work in their case? Psychological and mental defects seem to be the answer. As time went on, the contrast between delinquents and non-delinquents became increasingly evident. The delinquent showed far greater incidence of psychological and mental abnormality. This is especially significant, as all the criminals appear to have had comparable social and economic backgrounds. It looks as if environment had little to do with their future careers. The evidence suggests that many youthful criminals will reform with the passing of time as such, unless they are mentally deficient or psychologically abnormal.

This brings us to the forecasting device which the Gluecks have developed on the basis of this study. They found that if certain factors, which were known at the time of the conviction of the criminal, were rated according to a definite scheme, the scores of the individual men were closely correlated with their future activity. For instance, if a man scores 175 points or over, his chances are 8 out of 10 of becoming a useful member of society during the ten-year period after his release; if his score is 150 or less, his chances fall to $1\frac{1}{2}$ out of 10. The Gluecks suggest that such tests be made at the time of a criminal's conviction, to be used along with other evidence in determining the kind of sentence he should have. If such a test can be relied upon, it seems futile to spend time and money trying to reeducate those with a rating of under 150. They will probably become habitual criminals, whatever educational processes they are subjected to, and it must be decided to what extent they should be permanently restrained in order to prevent them from becoming a social menace.

The individual case histories with which one chapter deals will be of greater interest to the general reader than the more scientific statistical data. It is surprising to find that in many of the cases cited, a member of the family first asked the court to commit the youth to the reformatory. It seems to be the case, too, that a happy marriage, or a congenial job will assist in shortening the time of settling down, and will, therefore, aid reform. Reform is usually accompanied by better family relations, steadier working habits, and a better economic life.

The Gluecks have done an excellent piece of scientific research. The conclusions are so suggestive, and in many instances so contrary to the usual beliefs concerning the behavior of criminals, that they ought to be made more widely available. Who would have suspected, for instance, that from all the economic, social, and psychological factors which influenced the lives of these criminals, age alone would emerge as the significant element in their reform?

CLASS EDITORS

Several classes have already appointed a "class editor" who is to be responsible for collecting items of interest about her classmates and sending them to Jean Macalister, class notes editor, 450 Riverside Drive, before the 15th of each month. Class presidents who have not already done so are urged to appoint some one immediately and send Miss Macalister her name and address.

1903 ANITA BLOCK has been in Europe since July. After stays in London and Scandinavia, she entered Russia on August 1st for a trip of six weeks, returning to Moscow for the Drama Festival September 1st to 10th.

1906 JOSEPHINE PADDOCK had an exhibition of her paintings, with Miss Ryerson of Vassar, at the public library in Greenwich, Connecticut, from September 15-30.

1910 Hermine Kopp, daughter of FRANCES BURGER was married in May to Louis M. Bronn, in Los Angeles.

1915 Mrs. Bernard D. Burhoe, (BEULAH WELDON) has been appointed guidance counsellor at Westbrook Junior College in Portland, Maine. Dr. Burhoe has been very active in vocational guidance work, and addressed the 21st annual conference of the American Occupational Therapy Association in Atlantic City in September.

1918 DR. HEDWIG KOENIG is assisting Dr. Alsop temporarily.

1919 Engaged—DOROTHY BROCKWAY to Harold S. Osborne of Upper Montclair, New Jersey. Mr. Osborne is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and is transmission engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. The wedding will take place in the early spring. Miss Brockway is continuing as headmistress of the Spence School.

ISABEL SMITH BEMIS is a secretary in the physics department at Columbia.

MIMOSA PFALTZ-FEJOS is doing laboratory work with Vitacon Products, Incorporated.

1920 DR. ANNE McHENRY HOPKINS was the anaesthetist during the month of July at Salem Hospital, Salem, Mass.

Born—to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd H. Crews (JULIA LESSER) a son, Richard Lawrence, in July. Richard has a sister, Dorothy Lilian, now two years old.

1921 DR. MARY JENNINGS was made a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons in October, 1936. In addition she was certified, last June, as a specialist by the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology. She has recently moved her New York office to 901 Lexington Avenue.

Necrology

1895 Mrs. Charles Sears Baldwin (GRATIA WHITHED), widow of the late Professor Charles Sears Baldwin, long professor of English at Barnard, on June 15th, 1937 after a long illness. She was a loyal member of her class and a faithful alumna of Barnard. Her intellectual interests were shown in the book she wrote on "The New Beatrice", a story of the philosophy of Dante's Divine Comedy. She leaves two children; a daughter, Catherine (Mrs. Frederick Woodbridge), Barnard, '27, a son, Marshall, and two grandchildren, John and Jane Woodbridge. One daughter, Jane, died when she was eight years old.

1902 Mrs. George Lytton Close (EDNA CHAPIN) permanent president of the class of 1902, on August 28, 1937. Long active in the Barnard Club of Mount Vernon, Mrs. Close was a charter member of Barnard in Westchester, succeeding to its presidency in 1936 having served as first vice-president of the club since its organization. For three years before her death she was active on the campus as a member of the Alumnae Fund Central Committee and served also as her class representative on the Alumnae Fund Committee.

Ex-1909 Mrs. C. Ludwig Baumann (BERNICE LEERBURGER) during the past summer. Her daughter, Mrs. Max Sternberg (ELIZABETH BELLE BAUMANN) ex-'31, has recently had a son.

1911 JEANNETTE STEINECKE on July 7th at her home in Queens Village, after a long illness.

1914 RUTH ESTELLE GUERNSEY, headmistress of the Oxford School, Hartford, Connecticut, on August 31, 1937. Miss Guernsey entered educational administrative work after a distinguished career as a teacher. After graduating from Barnard in 1914, she taught Latin one year at the Mary Lyons School in Swarthmore, four years at the Masters School in Dobbs Ferry and four years at the Lenox School in New York. In 1923 she went to the Oxford school as assistant principal and in 1929 was appointed headmistress, succeeding Miss Mary E. Martin, founder of the school. Her administration at the Oxford School saw the registration in the college preparatory classes more than doubled, necessitating a move to larger quarters. Carrying the Barnard tradition with her, Miss Guernsey instituted an annual spring festival which has become a lovely counterpart of Greek Games, with the emphasis placed on athletics. Miss Guernsey was a leader in many civic and educational activities in Hartford.

She served as president of the Associate Alumnae of Barnard College in 1920, and last year was instrumental in organizing the Hartford Barnard Club.

Ruth Guernsey came to Barnard from St. Agatha. At college she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. In 1918 she received her Master's Degree from Columbia in Classical Philology.
