ALUMNAE MONTHLY

On And Off

The Campus

ALUMNAE in the metropolitan area have marked November 14th as an important date on their calendars. For on that evening Barnard will hold her golden jubilee dinner.

The scene of the event will be the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor, where the dinner is to be held under the joint chairmanship of a committee of trustees and alumnae headed by Mrs. Alice Duer Miller. Other members are Mrs. Ogden Reid, Miss Mabel Choate, Mr. Gano Dunn, Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Mrs. William L. Duffy and Mr. Dave Hennen Morris, representing the trustees; and Mrs. Frank Altschul, Mrs. Peyton R. Harris, Mrs. Reginald Lee Johnson, Mrs. Willard Blakeslee Stoughton, Mrs. Walter Grant Thomas, Miss Sally Vredenburgh, Mrs. Maynard C. Wheeler and Mrs. Alfred F. Loomis, ex-officio, representing the alumnae.

The fiftieth anniversary celebration will continue on the following day, November 15th, when the College has declared a holiday in order that two sessions of an Anniversary Convocation may be held. The morning session is primarily for the undergraduates,—the afternoon session for faculty, alumnae, some undergraduates and many distinguished guests. There will be addresses by President Nicholas Murray Butler, Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve, a representative of the Alumnae Association, and Dr. William Allan Neilson. Unfortunately, owing to limited space in the gymnasium, it will not be possible to invite all the graduates. It is expected that invitations will be sent to all the early classes, to all officers, directors and committee members, and to the presidents of all the classes and of the various alumnae clubs. The committee is working on a plan whereby the number may be extended.

The faculty committee in charge is headed by Professor William Tenney Brewster. Assisting him are Professors Henry E. Crampton, Marie Reimer, Gertrude Hirst, H. L. Hollingsworth, Raymond Moley, Elizabeth F. Baker, Eugene H. Byrne, Associate Dean Gregory, and Dean Gildersleeve.

Administration Notes

THERE are to be a good many changes in the faculty for the new academic year. The most unexpected is that in the department of economics, where our new professor and chairman of the department of economics and social science, Mr. Harry D. Gideonse, resigned after Commencement Day to accept the presidency of Brooklyn College. His one year with us showed how brilliant and stimulating a teacher he was. We regret his departure, but realize that his deep interest in the problems of general education made the post at Brooklyn College very attractive to him.

In the emergency caused by his departure, we have been fortunate in securing Dr. Ida C. Greaves, formerly of Iowa State College, M.A., McGill University and Ph.D., London School of Economics, who will conduct a section of elementary economics and offer during the first term a course in "Problems of Monopoly and Monopolistic Prices." This will be substituted for Professor Gideonse's course in economic history, which will be postponed until the second term, when it will be given by some other professor.

In the department of botany, Professor Tracy E. Hazen retired at the end of last year, after serving for thirty-six years, during which his scholarly work brought much distinction to the College. During this year his work will be carried by a former student of his, Dr. Harold C. Bold, who will be with us as visiting lecturer in botany, on a year's leave of absence from his position at Vanderbilt University. Mr. William G. Whaley, already connected with the Columbia University department of botany, will also serve as lecturer.

Professor Raymond Moley has been granted a year's leave of absence, to devote himself to writing. This has caused some rearrangement of courses in our department of government. We are very fortunate in having secured Dr. Vera Micheles Dean of the Foreign Policy Association to give the course in International Relations in the winter session, as she did with such distinction three years ago.

Professor Moley's course in American Political Life will be conducted by Mr. Kenneth W. Hechler, with occasional lectures by Professor Moley and others. Mr. Hechler is a graduate of Swarthmore, who is just completing his work for the doctorate at Columbia University and has done considerable teaching there.

To our regret, Professor Hoxie N. Fairchild, who has been a valued member of our department of English since 1927, is being transferred from Barnard to the Graduate School at Columbia. Two new instructors in English have been appointed—Miss Grace Frick, a graduate of Wellesley College, who is completing the work for the doctorate at Yale University, and Mr. Joseph W. Martin, a graduate of Haverford, who has the M.A. degree from Oxford University, and is working for his doctorate at Columbia.

Professor James H. Oliver, our specialist in ancient history, is to be absent on leave throughout the year, continuing his work on the Agora excavations in Athens on a grant from the Council for Research in the Social Sciences. His work is to be carried by Mr. Edwin M. Wright, a graduate of Wooster College in the class of 1918, who has had a very interesting experience and background for teaching ancient history. Born in Tabriz, Iran (Persia), a son of an American missionary, he has taught and been principal of a high school in that country and for some years he worked on the repatriation of Assyrian minorities in northern Iraq.

From Miss Doty

AT the moment, employment conditions seem to share the general uncertainty. Looking back at the past year, however, with its ups and downs—dull throughout the fall and summer of 1938, busier in the middle winter and the spring, and with things slowing up again in the apprehensions of this summer—it has been, on the whole, not too discouraging. We made (July 1938 - June 1939) a few more "permanent" placements than in 1937-1938, though a few less temporary ones. 1054 orders were received, 319 of them for permanent workers, and 629 placements were made, 117 of them in permanent positions. Earnings from these appointments amount to about $173,000.

Since our numbers are so small, the changes which they show in different fields cannot be taken as truly significant of trends. We might note, however, that calls for statistical assistants picked up, while those for laboratory assistants continued to decrease. Though we ourselves placed a few less social workers and librarians, alumnae taking graduate training for these occupations were promptly placed by their professional schools. Some increase in interest in merchandising enabled us to make more placements in that field. More part-time selling, mother's helper, and camp counselor jobs have also been secured for undergraduates.

Some thirty or so of our people succeeded in getting past the requirements as to age, size, etc. and obtaining World's Fair jobs—as cashiers, waitresses, hostesses, interpreter-guides, secretaries, and a couple of semi-executive posts. Most of these jobs cleared through the Bureau.

Civil service opportunities continue to interest students and graduates. Barnard supplied a considerable number of the thousands taking the federal examinations for "junior professional assistant" in a variety of fields. The city examination for social investigator attracted a good many; even that for typewriting copyist—a junior clerical job giving entrance to the administrative offices—drew students and some young graduates. In federal, state, and city services there are, of course, examinations for more experienced people, and many, especially those in the statistical, social, and science fields, offer advancement opportunities to our alumnae. Positions thus secured recently have ranged up to $2400 in salary, and the senior ranks offer four or five thousand.

Have You Heard

. . . that Professor Moley's book, which has been running in serial form in the Saturday Evening Post, is just off the press.

. . . that Mlle. Marie Mespoulet's book "Images et Romans," recently published, was dedicated to Dean Gildersleeve.

. . . that Mrs. Ogden Reid was one of the passengers on the first trip of the Yankee Clipper during the past summer.

. . . that Margaret Holland, instructor in the physical education department, who was a passenger on the ill-fated Athenia, reached home safely on the Washington on September 18th. Miss Holland drifted about in an open boat for seven hours before being picked up by a Norwegian freighter and deposited in Galway, Ireland. On the Washington, she shared the ship's playroom with Mrs. Reinhold Neibuhr, wife of the professor of Applied Christianity at Union Theological, and her two children, as well as three other women. Also on the ship were Dorothy Crook '33 and Mildred Curran, ex-'26.

Miss Tuzo, also of the department of physical education, was married during the past summer to Captain John J. Mockrish in Savannah, Georgia. Captain Mockrish is captain of the S.S. New Orleans. Mrs. Mockrish will continue on the physical education staff.

. . . that the October issue of the Survey Graphic, an education number entitled "Schools: the Challenge of Democracy to Education," is of particular interest to Barnard alumnae. Beulah Amidon '15, a member of the staff, is the special editor of the number, responsible for its plan, the notable list of contributors, and the general editorial handling. The contents page carries a picture of Ruth Marshall Billikopf '19, since "a major factor which made possible the Education Number is the Ruth Marshall Billikopf Memorial Fund." Dr. Horace N. Kallen of the New School for Social Research, writes a brief appreciation of Mrs. Billikopf's life and work. Helen LePage Chamberlain '24, assistant editor of Survey Graphic, handled lay-outs, proofs, and other production details of this large special number.

. . . that, owing to the war, there are more foreign students than usual at Barnard this year. Registration has not closed as the Monthly goes to press;—therefore no definite figures are available until the November issue.

Pursuing Millions and Chasing Dollars for Barnard

THE General Committee of the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Hooker Talcott, will continue its activities from its headquarters in the Riverside Building up to November 15th. From September 15th to October 15th, Mrs. Talcott will keep regular office hours, conferring with her committee members and planning for the intensive solicitation which her committee will undertake from October 15th until the date of the actual celebration on November 15th.

The Honorable Dave Hennen Morris, chairman of the Men's Committee of the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund, whose executive group includes Mr. Walter D. Fletcher and Mr. Francis T. P. Plimpton, with Mr. Lucius H. Beers and Dean Gildersleeve "ex officio," will have regular meetings at the Downtown Association during October and November.

Anyone knowing of a millionaire in search of a worthy project to endow, or an elderly lady with a large fund to dispose of and an interest in young women, or any like prospect, please notify either Mrs. Talcott or Mr. Morris; or if they can't be reached, report to Helen Kennedy Stevens at the Riverside Building. We can promise that the person will be tactfully but persistently pursued.

The Dean writes us:

A GLIMPSE of an earthly Paradise, followed by a very bad dream from which I kept expecting to wake up but did not—those are the most vivid memories of my European experiences of 1939.

Almost immediately after we received King George and Queen Elizabeth at our University I went out to Southern California and enjoyed a month's rest in the lovely scenery and glorious climate of that wonderful coast. Sailing from New York on July 22nd I spent six days in London and thence voyaged on a charming Swedish steamer across a blue North Sea to Sweden and the beautiful city of Stockholm, where I stayed ten days, working very hard most of the time as President of the great Conference of the International Federation of University Women.

In the haven of peace, prosperity, beauty and friendliness provided by the genius of the Swedish people, and in the radiant summer weather that smiled upon us, there seemed to be no international difficulties which good sense and good temper could not solve. Nearly 550 university women from 25 different countries discussed their interests with amiability and enjoyed together the delightful and bountiful hospitality of the Swedes. The Polish delegation, one of whom, Madame Adamowicz, was elected President to succeed me, set us all a wonderful example of poise and calm.

Sweden showed us what mankind can achieve in creating a good life for a whole community. With no poverty, no unemployment, no slums, very little crime, wonderful social services, a high standard of education and development of the arts, money to erect such beautiful new buildings as the great Town Hall of Stockholm, Sweden seems to have solved all the problems that afflict the rest of us. If she can do it, perhaps we can. Let us pray that she may be preserved unharmed through the storms of war, to serve as a shining example.

From Stockholm I went on to Finland, where I spent three days at Helsinki. I had long admired the Finns from a distance and wanted to visit their beautiful, modern capital. So I greatly enjoyed learning through my Finnish friends more about the character and the problems of this sturdy, honest, able people, with ideals so like our own, perilously placed at the extreme north-east corner of the Europe that we know, next door to Russia, under whose tyranny they suffered so bitterly in the past.

It was on August 19th that we left Finland; on August 20th that, after a radiant Sunday in Stockholm, watching the happy Swedes enjoying themselves, we took a train for Hamburg. Germany looked much like any other country. There were crowds travelling, peasants working in the fields, very few soldiers to be seen. But on the evening of August 21st in Hamburg, there seemed to be some shortage of food at the restaurant and a newspaper had headlines reading "Polish Army Masses on the Frontier," "London in the Grip of War Spirit." We reached Paris the morning of August 22nd, to be greeted by the astounding news of the Russo-German Pact.

Paris looked incredibly beautiful as I sat in the Tuileries gardens wondering if I were seeing it for the last time. On August 23rd I crossed to London and through the strange days of the next week, under what was felt to be the imminent danger of air raids, learned to love and admire anew the common people of England — their patience, their poise, their good temper, their humor, their quiet resolution.

Rushing far to the North through stormy seas, crowded but unperturbed, the Queen Mary brought us safely home, the day after England formally declared war.

I saw a number of Barnard people during the summer. Two moments stand out. The first was at a party of Barnard alumnae in London on August 1st, organized by Doris Gundry, '27 and held at the home of Beatrice Becker Warde, '21, in a sort of roof garden overlooking the Thames. Beatrice Becker has become a distinguished typographer and her firm had just had an order to design a new font of Arabic type. Hearing this, Gertrude Stern, '27, remarked that she was working on translations from the Arabic, and they fell into zealous discussion. Great fun!

The other moment was at Waterloo Station,

London, where a special train for the Queen Mary was being loaded on the morning of August 30th. There appeared Jacqueline Dawson, '38, our Murray Fellow of the year, who had been studying last winter at Newnham College, Cambridge. "I'm seeing my sister off," said she. "And what are you going to do?" said I. "Oh, I'm staying on. I've volunteered for service."

... and Emma Bugbee:

QUEEN ELIZABETH carrying a gas mask! King George in uniform, his mask in a khaki bag slung over his shoulder! Both Their Majesties going calmly about their job, which is now to be figureheads of a nation at war, as last summer they were symbols of an empire's desire for friendship.

It is pleasant now to recall those four days out of a fairy tale—days when both nations were on their good behavior, when (despite heat and crowds) nothing really disagreeable happened, and so far as one knows, Their Majesties really had a very good time.

Certainly they gave every evidence, as they bade farewell to their host and hostess at Hyde Park, of having had the time of their lives. That going-away party at the little country railroad station late at night was as different as possible from the formality and patent nervousness that marked all the principals during the welcoming ceremonies at the Washington railroad station. At Hyde Park it all looked like any country host and hostess bidding Godspeed to a nice young couple of whom they were very fond—newly-weds perhaps. There was laughter and cordial handshaking, waving of kerchiefs—and a jest from His Majesty:

"Perhaps I'd better be getting aboard. I'd hate to have the train go without me."

The final words were lost in the tumult, but there was no doubt that what they were saying was:

"Goodbye. So nice to have had you. Do come again soon."

"Goodbye. It's been wonderful. Come and see us whenever you can."

The four days had been a study in progressive informality with the climax, not the moment when Their Majesties first tasted a hot dog, nor even when the King and the President splashed about alone in the sun-drenched swimming pool, but when the visitors stepped into the President's own little blue Ford car and he took the wheel to drive them to the picnic. No secret service men! No aides and ladies in waiting! No uniformed chauffeurs! Just the President and the Queen on the front seat, and the King and the President's mother on the rear seat—all four looking just tickled to pieces at their own audacity. (Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of course, had gone on ahead to do the work.)

This spectacle, by the way, was not intended for the public, and for all I know may have been entirely unpremeditated. I like to think that the President, who always enjoys driving his week-end guests about the woody roads of the Hyde Park estate, suddenly turned to Their Majesties and suggested debonairly that they drive with him rather than in the huge official touring car and that Their Majesties, looking hastily around and seeing no one to forbid the escapade, jumped delightedly into the little car and escaped their guardians with whole-souled delight.

Certainly the press had no intimation that the President would drive Their Brittanic Majesties up a three mile dirt road to the hilltop picnic spot. It was only by good luck that a few of us, actuated solely by feminine curiosity to see what a queen wears to a picnic, perched ourselves on the stone wall where the picnic trail turns off from the main road, and there watched for the royal party to pass. The same good luck—plus a certain doggedness that characterizes his craft—inspired one lone photographer to take a stand at another cross roads.

And thus the world got the story and the picture—and a memory which one cherishes the more tenderly today as pictures of quite a different sort arrive from London's air raid shelters.

ALUMNAE

LUCY MORGENTHAU HEINEMAN laid down her gavel last June as chairman of the Alumnae Fund, having served her two-year term during a difficult and extremely successful period in the Fund's history. It would be more accurate to say that she laid down her pencil, filing cards, and telephone, for Mrs. Heineman was most emphatically a working chairman. She supplied in good measure the general direction required of a chairman; she formulated policies that were vigorous and efficient; she watched over the Fund to make sure that it collected all that it could for the College and yet hurt no one's feelings in its inevitable requests for more money. But in addition to all this, she worked at the actual mechanics of the job. Whenever she was in town she came to the Alumnae Office three or four afternoons a week. She entered endless amounts on personal cards, she added and subtracted and double checked, she wrote copy and letters, she carried books to the Bursar's—she performed, with a happy briskness that is hard to describe, a thousand and one unexciting tasks that the Fund requires. Her hard-pressed executive secretary says that the Fund could never have come through such a boom year on schedule without her, for your committee is handling on the original part-time basis the nearly 1500 alumnae who have been added to our family since the Fund started in 1933. That such a mailing list was reached, and that the Fund's totals rose to new heights, is largely due to both the faith and the works of Mrs. Heineman.

* * *

AND now we give you Catherine Baldwin Woodbridge '27, Alumnae Fund chairman for the coming two years. Mrs. Woodbridge is the daughter of our late beloved Professor Charles Sears Baldwin, and of Gratia Whithed Baldwin, who was a loyal and generous alumna of Barnard. We welcome the new chairman, and wish her all success in the task before her.

Lucy Morgenthau Heineman

As long as Barnard alumnae inhabit the earth, the name of Marian Churchill White will stand out among them. She has been known as "our most versatile alumna" ever since she stepped off the platform of Class Day back in 1929. Those who have had the pleasure of working with her this past year as fund secretary have never quite become accustomed to the fact that any one person can do as many things as she can and do them so well. She writes the most appealing appeals, draws the best looking posters, and has that super-super efficiency you read about in "The Secretary's Handbook." As a side issue, she can always tell the best story and goes on record as out-talking anyone about gardening.

Of course we're going to miss having Marian here every day. Working alongside of her has been a combination of having the Encyclopedia condensed in three easy lessons, Visiting Day at Art School, and a three-ring circus. We'll miss her as fund secretary, but we don't have to say goodbye, because Marian is still another superlative:

PROJECTS

Barnard's "most loyal alumna." She'll be around still, giving us her tireless assistance, her keen wit, and her valuable ideas. And a good thing, too, because we're certainly depending on them!

* * *

THERE will be a new face behind the battered Old Fund desk this fall, when Amy Schaeffer '37 takes over the executive secretaryship. Miss Schaeffer is president of her class, and will be remembered by all Monthly readers as the author of numerous lively articles in these pages. The Schaeffer touch also lightens pieces on food and gardening in the Sunday Times. Watch for those literary allusions in the Fund paragraphs this year; you will get good reading. You will also get efficient action and intelligent cooperation at Fund headquarters, so plan to drop in now and then to cheer on the new secretary. She'll be there in the afternoons, beginning October 1st.

Thrift Shop

IT'S Fall again, another season; for us, the same office; but for you, maybe a new apartment. Remember how we told you last spring that we could do your spring cleaning for you? Well, we can make moving easier for you too by clearing out all your old rummage and left-overs. Some alumna will call for it, the Thrift Shop will sell it, and Barnard College will get a nice fat check at the end of the month.

Don't forget the Shop this winter. It's the Prosperity Shop at 1137 Third Avenue, near 67th Street. The Alumnae Office will gladly receive any orders for collection.

Remember the Thrift Shop!

Catherine Baldwin Woodbridge

RECREATIONAL classes conducted by the department of physical education are again open to Barnard alumnae on Tuesday evenings. The fee is $7.00 for the winter session, covering 14 Tuesday meetings, 8 to 10 p. m., from October 17, 1939 to January 30, 1940, inclusive, omitting December 26th and January 2nd. The fee is $6.00 for the spring session, covering 12 Tuesday meetings from February 6 to April 30, 1940, inclusive, omitting April 9th.

Registration will take place in Room 209, Barnard Hall, on October 17, 24 and 31, from 7 to 9:30 p. m., for the winter session, and on February 6 and 13, 1940, for the spring session.

Familiar Faces

WHEN you pay your first visit to the Alumnae Office this fall, you will again be welcomed most cordially by Page Johnston, our efficient Alumnae Secretary. Her picture (and it doesn't flatter her) adorns the upper corner of the preceding page. On our right we have Priscilla Lockwood Loomis '13 who is beginning her second busy year as Alumnae President. She's back in New York, safe and sound, after a summer in England with her family. Another familiar face in the office is that of Ruth Inscho Buchanan '38. This indomitable trio is able and willing to assist you in doing anything, from running a reunion to looking up an address. Try them and see!

From the Fund Chairman == Lucy Morgenthau Heineman

THE year 1938-1939 marked the seventh year of the Alumnae Fund and the return of Marian Churchill White, its first secretary, to that same position. The Fund was certainly fortunate in having her, and all the faithful alumnae who fall into the category of former contributors were rewarded by the appeal for which she was mainly responsible. Barnard's Fiftieth Birthday was duly honored by the little figures representing the undergraduates of preceding years. We cannot help but feel that this year's generous response was partly owing to the charm of this leaflet.

As most of you know, the request for contributions this year, which reached you early in February, was undertaken by two separate groups. The Alumnae Fund appealed to the 2,427 former contributors and also to the entire classes of 1937 and 1938. To this first appeal it received 562 responses. The Fiftieth Anniversary Fund approached all the alumnae who had never contributed in the past. They sent two appeals to 2,890 people and received contributions from 60.

Later in the season, between April first and May first, the class representatives wrote to all alumnae who had not responded. The chairman and the central committee take this opportunity to thank these representatives for the fine work they did in contacting their classmates. This follow-up resulted in gifts from 80 new contributors and from 371 who had given in the past.

The customary dinner in December was dispensed with this year, since the class representatives were not needed in the sending out of the first appeal. A delightful dinner with Miss Gildersleeve in the dual role of hostess and chief speaker was held in the spring, just before the follow-up letters were sent out. Miss Gildersleeve inspired some fine writing on the part of the class representatives and fired them with enthusiasm for their undertaking.

I think we all feel that this was a typical year in the Fund's history except for the fact that it marks Barnard's fiftieth birthday. This fact, together with the special work of the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund and the celebration of National Barnard Day, helped to swell the total amount and the number of contributing alumnae. However, many alumnae gave with more than usual generosity in 1936 when we appealed for the land, and this year gave what we hope will be the amount of annual gifts in the future. More alumnae responded this year than ever before. As a matter of fact, each year in the Fund's history shows an increase in the number of individual contributors.

The Fund is to be congratulated upon having secured Catherine Baldwin Woodbridge of the class of 1927 as chairman for the next two years. May she lead it forward to a new high, with an ever-increasing number of alumnae contributing to the total.

The Barnard Clubs

Los Angeles

Mary Fisher Torrance '02, on a trip to the San Francisco Fair and Alaska with her husband, was entertained at an informal tea on July 6th by Elizabeth Cutting Gillett '01.

Club members present to greet Mrs. Torrance were Adaline Wheelock Spalding '97, Jessie Brown '02, Helen Beery Borders '31, Adelaide Hart '06, Edith London Boehm '13 and Louise Fox Connell '14.

New York

Members of the Barnard College Club were hostesses at the Hospitality Headquarters for University and College Women at the World's Fair during the week of September 11th. These attractive quarters, located in the Home Furnishings Building near the I.R.T., B.M.T. and L.I.R.R. entrances, offer a most convenient place to rest and have tea. The registration to date has exceeded three thousand, including representation of every state, every province in Canada and thirty-one foreign universities. All Barnard alumnae are cordially invited to call at the headquarters and make use of these facilities.

On Wednesday, October 18th, the club will hold its fall opening reception for members and their guests. Alice Burbank Rhoads '23 is chairman.

This year the club has again decided to raise its annual $700.00 scholarship for Barnard by selling subscriptions on a Raymond-Whitcomb travel certificate of $250.00 with an alternative of $200.00 in cash. A second prize of $50.00 and a third prize—"Reflexions" by Ciro of Paris—will be awarded. Eva Hutchison Dirkes '22 is chairman. All alumnae, whether members of the club or not, are invited to participate in this enterprise and may obtain books of subscriptions (ten at 25c each) from the club or the Alumnae Office.

Club officers for the coming year are: president, Mrs. James J. Walsh; vice-president, Mrs. Kimball C. Atwood, Jr.; secretary, Lucy B. Welch; and treasurer, Marion Travis.

Philadelphia

Eighteen alumnae and their husbands met on Friday, September 8th, for a reunion supper party at the home of Carolyn Whipple Phillips in Overbrook. Interesting accounts of summer travels in Europe, Mexico, Canada and the United States provided most diverting entertainment. Special guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Ruprecht of Wynnewood, brother-in-law and sister of Adele Alfke Thompson.

Westchester

Barnard-in-Westchester's opening tea was held on September 30th at the home of Peggy Strasser Block in Scarsdale. Mrs. Walter H. Gilpatric, president of the Westchester Council of Women's College Clubs, spoke of the aims and plans of that organization. The "Thirties" were guests of honor at this tea, and members were glad to greet Miss Helen Phillips, of Pelham, Westchester's scholarship winner for this year.

Plans were completed for the fashion show and bridge to be held at the Orienta Beach Club, Mamaroneck, on October 21st, proceeds of which are for the scholarship fund. This is always a gala occasion for Westchesterites.

Buy-Ways

The Lincoln Warehouse, occupying a full block between 69th and 70th Streets on Third Avenue, has been recognized for 56 years as one of the best in the country. One reason for their success is the interest, care and personal attention given to all accounts, small or large. So don't hesitate to take advantage of their services if your requirements happen to be small. The low cost will surprise you.

Last-minute visitors to the Fair will be glad to know of accommodations practically at its doorstep. Nancy Thomas Cort '29, for a very small sum, will provide you with a room and breakfast. She lives at 42-35 158th Street, Flushing.

Marion Boyd, of Boyd and Manning, 489 Fifth Avenue, is interested in placing Barnard girls in jobs. She has done this with considerable success, and is pleased with the reports she has received from employers. If you are looking for a job, go in and talk with her.

Dorothy Nye is operating as usual, at her studio at 33 East 51st Street. You'd better take your figure up there right away and see what she can do for it. With the world what it is today, a girl can't afford to overlook anything as important as health and looks.

The Leona Fur Studio, at 335 West 57th Street, invites you to come in and try on the latest fur coats. These coats, you may remember, have been used in fashion shows, after which they are re-conditioned and sold as good as new at prices many have learned to love.

MARY DEMAREST, who returned to China the latter part of 1936 after a three-year stay in this country, is still carrying on at the Baptist Mission in Yangchow. She reports unusual opportunities for service due to the influx of refugees who came to the Mission compound for safety when the war reached Yangchow.

LEE ALEXANDER AUCHINCLOSS reports that she is busy being a grandmother and doing social service committee work on the side. She has three grandchildren—two boys and a girl. This is a record for 1909!

HERLINDA SMITHERS SERIS, who taught evening classes at Brooklyn College last year, has recently received her appointment as a regular instructor in the college. Hereafter her work will be mainly in day classes.

1913 BRENDA UELAND is the author of a book, "Me," published by G. P. Putnam's.

1914 (Class Editor—ALICE CLINGEN, 56 Seventh Avenue, New York, N. Y.)

A letter of interest to 1914, from IPHIGENE OCHS SULZBERGER, reached the editor of the Monthly in July:

"The Class of 1914 had such a successful 25th reunion dinner on Alumnae Day that the members present felt some gesture of appreciation should be made to the four people whose ingenuity and hard work had made the dinner such a pleasant event.

"Consequently, a collection was taken up and used to purchase four flower bowls of Steuben Glass which I sent, on behalf of the Class of 1914, to the four members of the committee—Peggy Schorr Meyer, Lillian Walton, Jeannette Unger Kander and Charlotte Lewine Sapinsley.

"The answers I received were so charming that I shall take the liberty of quoting a little from each: Peggy Meyer said, 'While I don't feel that my efforts toward making the party a success deserved such a lovely gift, I do appreciate it and will always cherish it.' Lillian Walton wrote, 'I am delighted with it and I assure you it will be a constant reminder of 1914.' 'I've always been taught,' Charlotte Sapsinsley's letter read, 'that virtue was its own reward, and the bang with which the reunion went over was really all the committee wanted in the way of recognition. Please accept my very special thanks for the beautiful glass bowl that came to me with a very kind message from 1914.' And Jeannette Unger said, 'I do want to thank you and 1914 for the lovely bowl. It shall always be a reminder of a most pleasant event connected with Barnard.'

"I feel certain that our class would like to know how gratefully their gifts were received, and so I should be very thankful if you could publish this letter in the next issue of the Alumnae Monthly."

MARY ROGERS ROPER

It was May Roper's exquisite sensitiveness that drew one to her. Her scholarship was of course well known to her fellows. Her gentleness, her truly high vision, placed her among the "Illuminatae."

I knew her at Miss Low's and Miss Heywood's school where she set a high standard for her fellow students. I knew and welcomed her at Barnard in the days of Kappa Kappa Gamma, and the "Greek sisters" were proud to count her in Beta Epsilon.

After graduating from Barnard in 1896, she studied at Oxford. For two years she taught in New York, and then went to her aunts' school to teach Latin and Greek. In 1927, after the passing of Miss Heywood, she became principal of the Low-Heywood School in Stamford, Connecticut.

Her influence will be greatly missed throughout the educational world, and in that smaller sphere of her own school world. She was a member of the National Association of Principals of Girls' Schools and the Head Mistresses' Association, and was much interested in civic betterment in her own locality.

In her passing, on September 20th, the alumnae have lost a distinguished "American lady"; a friend of all the finest in our land.
