Please

send the Alumnae Office your wedding announcements and notices of new permanent addresses. The Board of Directors of the Alumnae Association has voted to continue to send the Alumnae Magazine to all the graduates of the College without charge for the next three years. You can help us get your magazine to you.

REUNION IN JUNE 1948

It was a beautiful day—not too hot or cold. The grounds were at their best, and older alumnae marvelled at the green shade and flowering shrubs produced by the once vacant lot. The alumnae looked gay, also, in summer silks and hats which were hats. The class of 1943 cheered them with cups and cakes in the entrance hall of Milbank, among those marble pillars which every alumna knows. At 5 P.M. the Brinckerhoff Theatre was filled and overflowed with members interested in the annual meeting of the Alumnae Association.

No reports were read; mimeographed copies of them were distributed; and after a brief address by Lucy Morgenthau Heineman '15 the names of the officers and directors of the association for 1948-1949 were announced.*

Our President called attention to the fact that four of these directors came from cities outside the area of New York: Dorothy Kirchwey Brown '10, from Boston; Doris Williams Cole '41, from Northampton; Muriel Valentine Hayward '07, from Winnetka; and Gertrude Schuyler Whitney '16, from Milwaukee.

Mrs. Heineman spoke also of the increasing integration of the alumnae in the affairs of the college, and of the frequent conferences held last year with Dean McIntosh, with Mrs. Richard Whitney, Director of the Development Plan, and with Aileen Pelletier Winkopp '33, the new Director of Publicity, to forward the welfare of the college. This increasing importance of the alumnae will be greatly aided by the fact that the Alumnae Office is at last leaving the Riverside Building, and will be housed next autumn in Barnard Hall, alongside the Occupation Bureau and near the Public Relations and Development Plan offices.

Then came the always dramatic ceremony of presenting gifts to the college, by the agents of the reuning classes, to the Dean of the College. The grand total was announced at $24,258.00. (Respective contributions are printed at the head of the reuning class notes.) The number of contributors was 1850, or less than 21% of the total number of alumnae.

Dean McIntosh thanked the donors in a warm and informal speech. She said whimsically that her experience this year had been rather the reverse of receiving, what with the enormous increase in the cost of everything. The College coal bill, for instance, swelled from $9000 to two thirds more of that amount. Wages have increased thirteen and fifteen per cent, and salaries have been raised.

However, we may be proud that the very first money for the Development Plan has come from the alumnae, partly through the Loan Committee's contribution of $20,000 from the interest on loans. This will be spent in erecting a two-story building on the North Terrace of Barnard Hall, this summer. It will contain a lounge for the day students, and a snack bar. Brooks Hall will also be repaired and redecorated.

In conclusion, Dean McIntosh reminded her audience that if we work together and begin to realize what Barnard has meant to us, as we take advantage of our situation in New York, as a metropolitan college, we can go forward with new courage and we shall not fail our leader, Virginia Gildersleeve, guest of honor at the Reunion Supper that night.

On that the alumnae scattered and strolled to their respective dining-rooms where an admirable buffet supper was laid out for each class. This new idea in the matter of the Trustee's Supper was the plan of our amazing alumna, Dorothy Quinn '26, who as dietician has wrought culinary wonders all year in Hewitt and Brooks Halls. The gymnasium in Barnard Hall was also flanked with buffet tables, as was the central circle where sit Deans, Trustees and Faculty. There came the Dean Emeritus, hailed with joy, as well as Acting-President Fackenthal and the following trustees: Mrs. Alfred Meyer, Mrs. Ogden Reid, Mrs. Alfred Hess, Mrs. Arthur Sulzberger, Mrs. William L. Duffy, Mrs. David Muzzey, Mrs. Dana Backus, Mr. Lindsay Bradford, Mr. Frederic Rhineland King, Mr. Francis Plimpton and Mr. Walter D. Fletcher.

For the first time a receiving line was formed to which each alumna was introduced. The Trustees were thereby more realized, and so was the alumna. The formality did not dampen the festivity, however, which grew to the usual crescendo from hum to uproar and continued long into the evening. Ninety alumnae stayed the night in the residence halls, where who knows how long they revelled in a recapture of their youth.

The Trustees should be heartily and sincerely thanked for their generosity in giving a big and beautiful fiesta to the Barnard alumnae.

Five year Fund total $2723.50 plus $7000 in war bonds.

Twenty members of the class of 1903 met in the Little Parlor on the evening of June reunion. After the usual assurances to one another that "you haven't changed since Freshman year" they partook of supper from the buffet set up for them, during which time Clare Howard introduced a game of dubious pleasure. It consisted of a sort of "musical chairs," by which at the end of every three minutes each alumna moved up to the second seat beyond her and conversed hard with the new neighbor thus gained. The trouble with it was that people who became really interested in these conversations shrieked like mandrakes when they were separated. However, the game was interrupted by the arrival of (1) the ice cream, (2) Helen Rogers Reid, (3) Dean McIntosh, who had left the multitude in the gymnasium and was visiting the reunion classes in their private rooms. Some of 1903 had not seen her before and were delighted, and so were the others.

Those present were: Jessie Addoms, Gulielma Alsop, Florence Cheesman Remer, Gertrude Clark Hitchcock, Helen Cohen Stockwell, Mary Harrison Morse, Elsa Herzfeld Naumburg, Ida Hope Mackenzie, Clare Howard, May Johnson Newton, Lucile Kohn, Elsbeth Kroeber, Marion Latham Richards, Helen Rogers Reid, Lucy Sherman, Madeleine Skinner McLaren, Elizabeth Thompson, Laura Van Cise Miller, Elizabeth Walters Wesley, and Anna Ware Collins.

The class of 1908 celebrated its fortieth reunion with a repetition of an Animated Magazine given in their Freshman year. Florence Klabor, Editor, as Alma Mater, was the cover. The contents contained four five minute addresses: Psychosomatics for Everyday Life, by Clairette Armstrong; Work of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, by Ellen Duffy; What Our Children Are Doing, by Gertrude Marburg; Interview with Prince Humbert of Italy, by Rita Reil. Also included were letters from Elizabeth Fox DeCou, Florence Mastin and Mary Daniels, read by Eleanor Hufeland, and vital statistics given by Jessie Houston. Advertisements as in the original skit were for Danderine, by Clara Eaton, and for Baker's Cocoa, by Mary Dorrance. Those present were given paper and pencil with instructions to renew their youth by taking notes of the proceedings and later to write them in the form of a letter to one of the absentees.

Present were: Lillian Heim Anathan, Clairette Armstrong, Dora Askowith, Martha Boardman, Margaret Golde Bryant, Mary Budds, Marion Crowell, Mary Maxon Dorrance, Ellen O'Gorman Duffy, Clara Eaton, Josephine Prabl Gilbert, Jeanette Kaufman Herkimer, Pauline Steinberg Hirschfeld, Jessie Houston, Eleanor Hufeland, Florence Ernst Kaufman, Mildred Kerner, Florence Wolff Klaber, Laura Armstrong Lovejoy, Gertrude Wells Marburg, Mabel Peterson Paul, Mabel Stearn Pfeifer, Elsie Quinby, Gladys Quinby, Rita Strauss Reil, Helen Vieth Rigby, Florence Sammet Rothschild, Rose Beekman Sittenfield, Ethel Everett Smith, Gertrude Stein, Annie Turnbull, Olive Roe Wallstein, Freda Peck Whittlesey, Margaret Yates.

The class of 1913 celebrated its thirty-fifth reunion with forty members present at dinner in Barnard Hall. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that a minimum of entertainment and a big opportunity for personal visiting were most desirable, so a few short informal speeches constituted the only program.

Sherry and hors d'oeuvres were served by the class before dinner. Joan Sperling Lewinson presided, Edith Halfpenny reported on the class gift to the college and other financial matters, and Mariette Gless Barkhorn, Dorothy Cheesman Howe, Mary Stewart Colley and Marion Newman Hess talked to the class for a few moments. Dorothy Cheesman Howe related some of her interesting experiences in a small war plant. Mariette Gless Barkhorn spoke about the Virginia C. Gildersleeve Fellowship Fund. Marion Newman Hess spoke on public relations and counselling and interpretation, and Mary Stewart Colley on the Child Study Association.

Among those present were: *Priscilla Lockwood Loomis, Helen Foland Graham, Mary Voyse, Edith Halfpenny, Marguerite Neugass Katzenstein, May Hessberg Weis, Madeleine Bunzl Blum, Miriam Grenelle Mandalian, Helen Crosby, Hazel Martin Spicer, Lillian Waring McElvane, Lucy Powell, Lillie Reilly, Irma Von Glahn, Marion R. Thirty strong the Reunion Class of 1918 stormed the citadels of Barnard and chalked up another victory over the thirty years that have passed since a phalanx of graduates charged forth brandishing diplomas, vowed to conquests of infinite variety. Although too many veterans were missing, we regulars did not look at all like the Lost Generation of the fictioneers.

With the dignity befitting our years we described old battles, from careers to grandchildren, or planned sorties into social, political or economic territory.

Few of us had won the Battle of the Bulge; but the majority confessed, when the smoke cleared and we leaned on our rifles of good talk, that age has its compensations.

The Trustees' Supper defies further analogy. No military mess hall ever achieved such quantity and quality as the feast spread before us in the flower-strewn Deanery. General Millie Griffiths, beloved leader and seasoned veteran of many successful campaigns, was again chosen President. On her staff Peggy Giddings will function as Treasurer and Major General.

Participating in the maneuvers were:

Alice Gibb Abel, Mary Barber, Edith Bauman Benedict, Harriet White Blackadar, Helen Pierce Broderick, Fannie Rubenstein Bruner, Elsa Grimm Bunn, Sophie Schulman Felton, Charlotte Dickson Fisher, Marie Bernholz Flynn, Ruth Markey Frank, Wendela Liander Friend, Mary Welleck Garretson, Peggy Giddings, Mildred Blout Goetz, Millie Griffiths, Natalie Plough Harris, Bertha Sherline Jovis, Margaret Rothschild Katzenstein, Hedwig Koenig, Tessie Mayer Kramer, Florence Lennon, Mary Murphy, Mimosa Pfaltz, Aline Sanborn, Florence Barber Swikart, Marion Washburn Towner, Carolyn Harris Waller, Esther Schiff Wittfogel, and Marion Levy Wolff.

Our 25th reunion really began last November at Rose Catoggio Larkin's home, when a large number of the class met for tea. Helen Gray Schnur and Ruth Lustbader Israel were hostesses at the latter's home in January, and a spring tea took place at the Great Neck home of Estella Raphael Steiner, reunion chairman. Naturally, only those in the metropolitan area could attend, but they suggested and discussed plans and undertook to write to all the other members of the class. We have heard from nearly one hundred people. Over sixty attended Agnes MacDonald's delightful cocktail party before Trustees' Supper. There were seventy at supper in the College Parlor. Margaret Mead, Ethel Wise, and Garda Brown Bowman were called upon to speak because of their work in unusual fields. Singing of our old college songs and of others written for the occasion by Edythe Sheehan Dineen and Dorothy Maloney Johnson enlivened the evening. To augment our five year contribution to the Alumnae Fund, Yvonne Moen Cumerford conducted a raffle of donated gifts. There were on hand albums of photographs of our families and homes, which Helen Gray Schnur and Helen Pattenden McKean prepared.

1923 congratulates Barbara Seward, daughter of Georgene Hoffman, the first class daughter to be graduated from Barnard. Barbara was graduated yesterday magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa, too.

The following were present: Grace Becker, Jessie Beers Galloway, Mildred Black, Frances Boas Michelson, Alice Boehringer, Margaret Bowtell Wetherbee, Garda Brown Bowman, Alice Burbank Rhoads, Gertrude Cahill Hollinshead, Katherine Bouton Clay, Hazel Dean Warren, Dorothy Dockstader Bronson, Winifred Dunbrack, Mary Foxell, Pauline Fulcher Stone, Helen Gray Schnur, Phyllis Haig, Katherine Hankinson Cummings, Dorothy Harris Rubin, Elsa Hattorf, Eloise Hoctor Sage, Anita Hughes Meyer, Esther Jennings Denison, Mildred Kassner Joseph, Katherine Kerrigan, Elizabeth Klein Isaacs, Nagla Laf Loofy Hafely, Mary Langton Carroll, Ethel Lewis, Irene Lewis Donaldson, Claire Loftus Verrilli, Ruth Lustbader Israel, Katherine McElroy Kent, Ruth McIlvaine Voorhees, Agnes MacDonald, Charlotte MacNamara Guedalia, Dorothy Maloney Johnson, Hanna Mann Wallerstein, Dorothy Manning Ford, Emily Martens Ford, Emily Marx House, Margaret Mead Bateson, Yvonne Moen Cumerford, Edna Moreau, Effie Morehouse, Leah Murden Bayne, Jean Murray Craig, Leone Newton Willett, Katherine O'Brien, Helen Pattenden McKean, Emily Petri, Helen Pless

We met in the afternoon at a cocktail party at the Men's Faculty Club at which the guests of honor were Miss Mabel Weeks and Professor and Mrs. Thomas Peardon. At 6:45 we gathered in Odd Study for the Supper, the highlight of which was a visit from Dean Gildersleeve and later one from Dean McIntosh, who gave an informal talk. After greetings from our Reunion Chairman, Betty Sussman Griffin, our permanent president, Harriet Tyng, presided at a brief business meeting, at which it was decided to hold another cocktail party in June 1950. About eight members of the class, including our novelist, Zora Hurston, then spoke informally on their careers since leaving college. One of the speakers, who had taught in several of the leading eastern colleges, held the attention of all when she said that she had always found the Barnard alumna to be characterized by an intangible something which could only be described as tolerance, and which she thought stemmed directly from the influence of Dean Gildersleeve. After reading letters and passing around snapshots from some of our classmates unable to be present—one letter came from Jo Firor Wyman in Cairo, Egypt, and another from Helen Hayes Riches in Afganistan—the Twentieth Reunion came to a close.

Present at the reunion were: *Maybelle Schopp, Dorothy Stickle Fitz Gerald, Sylvia Stark Ehrlich, Clara Fisher Miller, Zora N. Hurston, Eleanor Rich Van Staagen, Dorothy Mallory, Ruth Van Duzee Ashley, Victoria Abraitys, Thelma Barasch, Edith Burrows Manning, Dorothy Welch White, Alice Ittner Macaulay, Rosalie Bleimeyer, Victoria Bradess, Lillian Bratter Willman, Alice Mandel Roth, Louise Plumer Minnum, Louise Schaad Jordan, Lillian Yabrow Kaplan, Alma Frankenfelder, Dorothy Woolf Abern, Kathleen Dunn, Florence Leven Kandel, Constance Friess Cooper, Sue Osmotherly, Shirley Wilner Kapp, Elvira Schulman, Eleanor Michelfelder, Martha Boynton Wheeler, Ruth Richards Eisenstein, Ethel Barnett Neuberger, Margery Nelson Spellman, Anne Anastasi Foley, Florence E. One of Vi Ballance Haseman's neighbors (thirteen years old, we hasten to explain) expressed amazement over Vi's returning to college for her tenth reunion. "Are there many of you left?" she inquired in an awed voice. Well, there were fifty-eight 1938-ers hale and hearty enough to be present at a lively meeting in the Faculty Dining Room. Punch was served and everybody exclaimed over the delicious buffet supper, a wonderful new idea.

The results of a questionnaire were read and discussed, followed by a short business meeting at which the following permanent officers were elected: Ruth Inscho Glick, president; Agusta Williams, secretary; and Audrey Snyder, treasurer. Sibyl Levy Golden was named fund chairman, to be assisted by Virginia MacEachern Dunford and Helen Hirsch Acker. Dean McIntosh spoke briefly at the close of the evening.

Alumnae present included the following: Marjorie Harwich Drabkin, Mary Rhodin Carey, Marcia Bacon

Langsam, Elma Oliver, Frances Adams Olsen, Harriet Harlin, Ruth Girardi, Janine J. Ratel-Sednaoui, Jean Bullowa, Jean Libman Block, Leonore Schanhous Krieger, Harriet Heineman Marcus, Mary B. Well hi . . . it's been so . . . how stunning you . . . what is your married name . . . any pictures with you . . . how old are they . . . due in September . . . how are you feeling . . . he's working with . . . no! I thought she . . . perfectly marvelous . . . the new Dean . . . why not a cocktail party next time . . . but really! And so it went with '43 so much had happened. New jobs, new engagements, new marriages and new babies. It was so good to be back at Barnard!

With five years of gossip to sandwich into a few hours time, it was hard getting down to business, but '43 was never a class to leave loose ends lying around, so a business meeting we had. Gathered in the Hewitt living room, where we had done very well by the delicious buffet supper, we were called to attention by Peg Jackson McComas, and the election of class officers for the next five years resulted in the following: President: Phyl Hagmoe Cowan, Vice-President: Margaretha Nestlen, Secretary: Laura Ponticorvo, Treasurer: Barbara Valentine Hertz, Class Agents: Carol Ann Hawkes, Sylvia Klion Disenhof, Bobette Weiner Lewton. Thanks were extended to the Reunion Committee and to the retiring class agents, Margaretha Nestlen and Maureen O'Connor.

Our most serious thought for the meeting was a proposed memorial to Denise Donegan Skelton.

COUNSELLOR AND FRIEND

In June of this year another of the outstanding members of our Faculty will retire from active duty. Professor George W. Mullins, a graduate of the University of Arkansas, started teaching Mathematics at Barnard in 1913 and since then has been an increasingly vital force in college affairs. Under his guidance the Department of Mathematics was made over and the subject as he and the able young scholars whom he recruited taught it, came alive. Students and faculty esteem and respect him because in addition to fine scholarship they recognize in him a human being of breadth and understanding. Louise Comer, a former colleague, writes: "In the classroom he was a great inspiration. He used to quote B. O. Pierce, of Harvard, saying 'Mathematics is the science of drawing necessary conclusions'. In his calm, quiet, unhurried way he would direct the thinking of his students so that they might discover for themselves the 'necessary conclusions' to a set of hypotheses. He had unlimited patience and good humor and his students became devoted to him. I recall the conclusion of one course when the members clapped so long and loud, to his great embarrassment, that he finally retreated to his office, and the clapping continued for about three minutes after his departure."

His staff too are devoted to him and love to recall choice episodes. Mary E. Ladue once shared his office while she was an assistant. Professor Mullins was 'phoning, giving someone the name of the head of Mathematics and Dean of the Graduate School at Brown University—Professor R. G. D. Richardson. The person at the other end of the wire couldn't get the initials clearly. Miss Ladue was somewhat surprised to hear Professor Mullins say very distinctly, "R. for Roland and G. D. for 'G - - D - -'." At the conclusion of the call, he suddenly realized her presence and apologized profusely for his lapse.

Able and stimulating though he has been as a teacher and writer of mathematics text books, his administrative and organizational talents were discovered and soon put to service. Many of us will remember with gratitude the years 1929 through 1931 when he served as Acting Dean during Dean Gildersleeve's sabbatical leave and subsequent illness.

During the late war he had the satisfaction of baffling Annie Meyer, our former Registrar, when, with the aid of Mary E. Ladue and Louise Comer, he organized a course of Cryptography designed to prepare qualified seniors for important secret work in the Navy. Naval Intelligence took charge, swearing all to secrecy. Even Annie Meyer was powerless to penetrate the wall of silence. Disapprovingly she referred to the work as "that course" to the amusement of George Mullins, and I might add, of many others.

For thirty-three years he has given devoted attention to the interests of the College Entrance Examination Board. He was Director for ten years (1936-1946) and now is Chairman of its Executive Committee. The Board's scope and influence under his guidance has been greatly expanded. During the war, in conjunction with the Army and Navy Training program, the Board under his direction met the emergency by preparing and giving examinations to six hundred thousand young men.

First as Treasurer and then as Trustee he has given great service to the American Mathematical Society and has seen it grow to a position of eminence.

To Louise Comer again we are indebted for a personal touch. "His desk in the office I shared with him grew increasingly rickety. Certain drawers invariably stuck tight at the wrong times; but he was attached to it since it had been his for thirty odd years. He used to say that he wanted it to last as long as he did at Barnard. It did!"

For a man of his achievement there can be no actual retirement—merely release from routine. He has great plans for Barnard's future and we shall hear more of these later.

THE RETURN OF URANIA

For twenty years, since the beaming rectangular face of Professor Jacoby vanished from the Barnard scene, Urania was but the step-sister of the other Muses at Barnard. Astronomy 1-2 maintained, to be sure, its listing in the catalogue: but it was preceded by the asterisk which, you remember, marks courses given at Columbia. The return of Henrietta Swope '25 last fall has changed all that. Urania has been restored to her rightful realm, and the deprecatory asterisk has been removed.

The darting brown eyes and quick, soft speech of Henrietta Swope give evidence of warmth, of humor and wisdom cultivated by years of busy study and human contacts. After taking her A.M. at Radcliffe in 1928, she was for fourteen years a research assistant in the Harvard College Observatory. Then a year on the staff of the Radiation Laboratory at M.I.T. preceded a Navy Department assignment as research supervisor of long-range aid to navigation (LORAN) in the hydrographic office.

In the attic of Columbia's Pupin Building, that near-sky-scraper which dwarfs the tiny domed observatory of yore, the Barnard astronomy class meets on Tuesday evenings to work with globes and transit instruments. When the weather is fair, they climb to the dizzy height of the roof, and gather around the twelve-inch telescope to scan the heavens and to learn their rightful place in the cosmic scheme. That, to Miss Swope, is an important phase of the course—one that can be absorbed equally well by the science student and the arts major. She is concerned about the multiplicity of distractions that beset the Barnard girls of today. Yet she finds them keen and interested.

The astronomy class doesn't need its own private telescope yet, but a bit of room to call its own will surely be necessary as soon as news spreads of the return of Urania.

Barnard Entertains

Barnard was hostess to representatives of sixteen eastern colleges at an intercollegiate weekend, April 24 and 25. Fifty-eight girls participated in a sports playday, dinner and square dance on the college campus on Saturday, and on Sunday journeyed to the Barnard Camp in Westchester for a barbecue dinner, hiking and other sports. Young men from Columbia, Yale and Princeton joined the delegates for the square dance in the college gymnasium.

Swimming, deck tennis, badminton, basketball, volleyball and tennis were scheduled for the playday, in which mixed teams from all the colleges participated. Lunch on Saturday was served outdoors on North Terrace, and at four o'clock there was a tea and a community sing in Brooks Hall. Half of the delegates spent Saturday night at Barnard Camp; the others remained at Brooks.

Colleges participating were Adelphi, American University, Brooklyn, College of The City of New York, Hunter, New Jersey College for Women, Queens, Radcliffe, Russell Sage, Swarthmore, Temple, Vassar, Wellesley, Wells and Wheaton. The intercollegiate weekend was the first of its kind for the colleges taking part, previous play days having been smaller and confined to one day. It was planned to promote friendship between the colleges and to emphasize "playing together" as opposed to intercollegiate competitions.

GREEK GAMES 1948

Artemis was the goddess to whom the games were dedicated this year, and the legend of Iphigenia formed the action of the entrance. The sophomores won, in spite of the fact that the freshmen were peculiarly graceful and strong. (Cartwheels were a playful gesture for some of the entering throng.) In the dance of the attendant nymphs of Artemis the freshmen had a simpler, more lyric approach than the sophomores who were, according to the judges, more dramatic. The freshmen wore long robes of silk jersey which fluttered and clung to their bodies, while the hunting band of sophomores wore short tunics and took on stylized movements. The choreography was original. Jean La Guardia, '50, composed the music for the sophomores and Ruth Bergquist, '51, for the freshmen. Joan Houston '50 and Beatrice Laskowitz, '50, tied for the winning lyric.

ECONOMICS WITH A LIGHT TOUCHProfessor Barbara Wootton

Straight economics facts tempered by a keen understanding of human nature and human reactions have been served to Barnard undergrads and Columbia graduate students by Professor Barbara Wootton who has been visiting professor in economics for the spring term. One of England's foremost professional women, Mrs. Wootton is professor of social studies in the University of London, a chairman in the London Juvenile Courts, member of the British Broadcasting Brains Trust, and of the Royal Commission on the Press.

Students comment that Mrs. Wootton makes them think in new channels. She talks of planning, and on the foundations of wage policies, stressing angles not previously highlighted. Her own personality—gracious, feminine, completely British and radiating charm—brings a light and sparkling touch which makes economics seem less formidable to her students.

Mrs. Wootton grew up in a family where education was important. Her father was a well known student of the classics, and made the standard edition of Plato's Republic. Her mother was an early advocate of recognition for women as students in Cambridge. Mrs. Wootton herself has been concerned with adult education, particularly for workers. A part of her career has been devoted to teaching and part to other fields of workers' interests, such as the Trades Union Congress. She has been "inside the walls" of the University of London for the past four years.

Ten years have passed since Mrs. Wootton's last visit to the United States. The principal change she finds here is one in attitude. "The United States has now come into the world," she says. "Its people are concerned with international affairs. There are great signs of growth and of promise for the future. The undergraduate group, perhaps only because of youth, is apt to think that the answers to world problems are much easier than they are. The graduate students, most of them veterans, understand the real complexity of our problems. Both are aware of their responsibilities and anxious to do their part."

During her visit here Mrs. Wootton has lectured at the University of Rochester, Yale and New York University, also at Mt. Holyoke, Sarah Lawrence, Queens, and Hoffstra Colleges. On her return to England she hopes to start work on a book dealing with wage policies. Her previous books include "Freedom under Planning," "Plan or No Plan," and "Lament for Economics." She worked very closely with William H. Beveridge in preparing material for his "Full Employment in a Free Society" which was published in 1945.

On Active Leave

At the beginning of the Spring Term, Professor Henry S. Sharp of the Department of Geology returned to Barnard from a prolonged leave, during which he was employed as a geologist in the Western Pacific by the Military Geology Unit of the United States Geological Survey. Among the duties of this branch of the Geological Survey is investigation of the innumerable islands in the Western Pacific now occupied by the United States. Studies are made with particular attention to mineral deposits, construction materials, water supply, and topographic features of military importance.

During this Pacific work Professor Sharp travelled and lived with the Army, and had an excellent opportunity to see conditions in the islands formerly occupied by Japan but now under our administration. From Tokio, a tour of inspection was made of Guam, the Admiralty Islands north of New Guinea, the Philippines, and the island of Okinawa. Three weeks were spent in reviewing the geology of beautiful but shattered Okinawa, where the geological field work was carried on amidst the wreckage of war, and the commonest "fossils" were often empty cartridges and shrapnel scattered on the rocks.

From Okinawa, Professor Sharp flew to the Palau Islands, midway between Guam and the Philippines. These islands were the center of the South Pacific Empire of the Japanese. Five months were spent in the Palaus, where Professor Sharp and two other geologists lived with a platoon of Army Engineers on the site of a once important, but now completely destroyed Japanese Naval Base on the island of Malakal. The Japanese mined important deposits of aluminum and phosphate ore in the Palau group, and in addition to the general geology these were a subject of special study. Among many interesting experiences, Professor Sharp numbers his presence on the small island of Peleliu on the day when the last contingent of diehard Japanese came out of the limestone caves of Bloody Nose Ridge, and surrendered with great formality to the Marines.

Soon after our Geology Professor's return to the United States last August, he suffered a series of severe illnesses, which prevented his return to college until the second term. He has now almost completely recovered, and in addition to his academic work is engaged in writing official reports of his field studies.

A New Course

Howard M. Teichmann, successful young radio writer, has added to his other activities a course in radio script writing here at Barnard. For the past two years Mr. Teichmann's course in Radio Writing has attracted numbers of students. Mr. Teichmann's dynamic personality, the media with which he works, the people whom he brings up to the classroom to tell about their work in radio, contribute to a fascinating class in practical writing.

Latest of arts, the radio is a different and delicate thing, and the special format of a radio script must be learned as well as an understanding of the type of scripts which are being sold today. These are essentially the points which Mr.

Teichmann endeavors to make clear. His class is an informal, intense two hour meeting each week during the course of which the subject of radio is discussed: the type of program which is broadcast at night, the type of program which is broadcast during the day, and their relative merits and defects. The role which the writer must play in the huge machine which makes up radio is emphasized, and new ideas on programming and special shows are encouraged and discussed.

Besides the practical side of radio writing (we compose one half-hour original script, one adaptation and several short scripts during the term), we learn the story of radio—the story of the beginnings of a business that was teething at the same time we were. Mr. Teichmann goes back to 1927 when there were no actual programs. He traces the informal musical groups which broadcast without scripts to the time when scripts were introduced and programming was planned throughout the day from six o'clock in the morning to eleven fifteen at night.

Right now the possibility of musicals and dramatic shows being broadcast after midnight are an innovation on the radio scene which will be highly instrumental in bringing out new writers. If late at night programming is added to the present eighteen hours a day, which is the performance of most of the four major broadcasting companies, it is obvious that the necessity for new writers will become a crying need. And that is where Barnard's course in Radio Writing enters the scene, we hope.

Mr. Teichmann, slight, dark, with an eager and penetrating mind, is in great part responsible for the success of this new creative writing course. His experiences in the theatre and in radio make him a humorous and animated lecturer. He was stage manager for Orson Welles' Mercury Theatre and wrote scripts for the Mercury Theatre On The Air. He has written for numerous programs, including the Cavalcade of America and the Helen Hayes Theatre; currently he is editor for the Ford Sunday Theatre Hour. Planning bigger and better radio, motion picture scripts, and a play on Broadway this fall, Mr. Teichmann still has time and the interest to continue his course at Barnard.

Well settled after two years of putting his theories into practice, he is comfortably speculating upon next year's crop of students and awaits the fame and fortune of recent alumnae.

THE THRIFT SHOP

After the Dean's dinner, with her plea for the very many things Barnard needs, we are impressed anew by the easy way you all can help, besides giving money. Transmute your articles no longer needed into money for Barnard, by sending them to the Shop (922 Third Ave.) If you have a really good donation you can get something off your income tax too! Only ask us about it.

We need more than goods, however. We must have help in the selling and pricing if we are to continue to make money. We cannot price goods without someone to do it, and every day we have no seller we pay $4 for a substitute.

Again the Shop will be closed in August, but open all July.

It is with very deep regret that we mention the loss of one of our finest workers, Elfie Cahen Rosebery of the class of 1904. For eight years Elfie gave every Friday afternoon to the Shop, pricing or selling. Her wide experience in the art world made her pricing invaluable along those lines, and her energy and loyalty to Barnard cannot easily be replaced. To those of us who worked with her, her death leaves a great void.

The fiscal year of the Shop has been changed from March to January. We are happy to announce a dividend of $800. making a total of $2,500. for the year.

June Reunion 1948

All of us remembered Dinny so well—a leader of her class, bear pin winner, everything a Barnard graduate should represent. Din died suddenly and tragically in May of 1945, and 43's class history would be incomplete without a chapter dedicated to her memory. Carol Collins Patrick was elected chairman of a committee to investigate suggestions for a memorial in her name.

The highlight of the evening was a surprise visit from Dean McIntosh, who dropped in to give us a word picture of Barnard-in-the-future, all of which we received with great enthusiasm. And then as suddenly as it started it was over—last minute exchange of addresses, promises to write, call, make safaris to far-distant country towns for visits, and a unanimous resolution to make ours a yearly reunion.

Present and accounted for were: Jeanne Alberts Mahon, Matie Armstrong Molinaro, Shirley Aronow Samis, Rosemary Barnsdall Blackmon, Enid Belding, Flora Benas, Marjorie Bender Nash, Mary Roberta Bradford, Lena Braren Norton, Marion Bromilow, Deborah Burstein Karp, Mary Virginia Callcott Kahl, Carol Collins Patrick, Jean Dodson Farrell, Virginia Donchian Murray, Helene Dresner Cole, Flo Fishman Morse, Ruth Geyer Harrison, Helen Gorrie, Marilyn Haggerty, Phyl Hagmoe Cowan, Florence Harwich, Carol Ann Hawkes, Anne Heene Serra, Virginia Hill Donohue, Frances Hussey, Ruth Imbert, Peg Jackson McComas, Sylvia Klion Disenhof, Sybil Kotkin Harlam, Beatrice Kremsdorf Brown, Janet McDonald, Mary Milnes, Margaretha Nestlen, Bette O'Connor Weichold, Maureen O'Connor, Laura Ponticorvo, Gretchen Relyea, Eleanor Suttle Jones, Helen Sweeney Tynan, Elfriede Thiele, Barbara Valentine Hertz, Sophie Vrahnos, Elsie White Farrell, Bobette Wiener Lewton, and Byrd Wise. Sorry if we missed any others who were present. 'Twas a merry group, to be sure.

A Word for 1948

DEAN MCINTOSH told the three hundred Barnard seniors in her farewell address to them that they should search for occupations worthy of their training rather than jump at the first offer of a paycheck. She warned the June graduates against being stampeded into marriage just to keep up with their friends, and urged those who did plan immediate marriage to use their brains and training to keep up a satisfying intellectual interest along with baby care and household chores. Future husbands should be subtly trained to expect their wives to have interests outside the family, she said.

One Of Ours

The Erskines are one of the First Families of Columbia. Four of them went to college there and were prominent. Each in his own way added life and love to the place. Helen Erskine, '04, is known to most alumnae, for besides serving as President of the Alumnae Association from 1931 to 1934 she became Assistant to the Dean in charge of Public Relations. She and her dog Russet have been a feature of our campus for the past fourteen years, as they trotted between Barnard and Milbank Halls, escorting visitors, photographers and reporters in the way they should go. She has been attendant on all assemblies, banquets, reunions and festive occasions as a duty which was also a pleasure, for she knew people and enjoyed them.

In fact, she has a talent for enjoyment. As a student she was a little repressed by the responsibility of being a New Woman, but when she was graduated she became a gaiety girl. Not that she went into musical comedy; indeed, she went to the Columbia graduate school and took her M.A. under William Allen Neilson; but at about the time that her brother John wrote The Private Life of Helen of Troy, she too went abroad to Europe, and returned so exotic and adorned that an alumna at June reunion took her for a Russian countess.

Even before the fiftieth anniversary of Barnard and the fund-raising of that time, a need of more publicity for the college was felt. The old attitude of scorning the newspapers was unfortunate, because anything to our detriment was sure to find its way to the newsrooms while anything to our credit was unnoticed. Barnard decided to submit to publicity, and Helen Erskine, as a person acquainted with a good deal of the world, was chosen to attend to it.

It is now a matter of course to have "write-ups" attendant on all our ways. We forget that it was

Helen Erskine who introduced them. Now, like so many of Barnard's notables, she has reached the retiring age, and the undergraduate correspondents will miss her guiding hand and the officers of the college will miss her joi de vivre. She will continue here work at her downtown office, however, so if any institution wants discriminating and superior advertising, tell it to go to Helen Erskine, 551 Madison Avenue.

The alumnae will not lose her, for she is one of ours who truly loves Barnard.

THE BARNARD CLUBS

WASHINGTON

Barnard-in-the-State-of-Washington had three meetings and is planning two more before September. The December luncheon meeting was held in the Cloud Room of the Hotel Camlin and was particularly notable for the presence of Mrs. Theophil Feist (Jessie Levy '09) from Tacoma, her first meeting with the club. In March, nine of the eighteen members gathered at the home of Mrs. Roy C. Miller (Marie Louise Chancellor '16). There the president, Mrs. Curtis Green, (Evelyn Hagmoe '40) told of a Seattle girl for whom she had succeeded in obtaining a Barnard scholarship, but who was unable to accept it for lack of immediate rail fare.

BERGEN

Olga Bendix '33, of Teaneck, was elected president of the Barnard-in-Bergen Club for two years at a meeting at the Girl Scout Little House on May 17. Other officers named were Louise Ulsteen Syverson '33, vice president; Kathryn Small Garber '31, treasurer; Evelyn Good '47, recording secretary, and Mary Lucchi '45, corresponding secretary.

Dr. Eleanor Hyde was guest of honor at the meeting, at which a buffet supper was served. She talked on regionalism in literature and described new studies in American Civilization at Barnard. The Scholarship Committee announced the award of the $200 Bergen scholarship to Miss Kathleen Burge of Edgewater, N. J.

LOS ANGELES

The April meeting of the Barnard Club of Los Angeles County was held at the home of Edith Boehm in Westwood. After a delightful picnic lunch and the usual business meeting, our new president, Beatrice Stern, introduced our honored guests, Professor and Mrs. William Haller. Professor Haller then gave us a most interesting talk on Barnard, past and present, and that was followed by an informal question and answer period.

When the meeting adjourned, members assembled and boxed packages of food and clothing for needy families of Europe.

Those attending were: Helen Borders '31, Jessie Brown '02, Eva Glassbrook Hanson '22, Ruth Triggs Ingham '37, Marie Luckenbacker '21, Olive Moore '19, Eleanor Taylor Oaks '19, Ruth Weill '24, Beatrice Stern '25, Esther Anderson Clark '39, Rosalind Jones Morgan '23, Erica Weary '19, Helen Goldstone Kitzsinger '23, Christina Smith Graham '43, Georgene Hoffmann Seward '23 and Gertrude Pierce '23.

NEW YORK

The Barnard College Club of New York City met on April 26 to hear Mrs. Sturges S. Dunham review recent books. She lingered longest on Carl Van Doren's "The Great Rehearsal," which draws an encouraging parallel between the many problems and disagreements of the period following the American Revolution and the present difficulties in the United Nations. Some members went out afterwards and bought the book. . . . On May 24, the Early Afternoon Group had the privilege of hearing one of our members, Janet Robb '20, talk on the United Nations. As an accredited and constant observer at Lake Success, she was able to give a great deal of first-hand information. . . . The so-called "Acquaintance-ship" tea, which the Seven Colleges give annually, to inform preparatory and high school students concerning the opportunities in the various colleges, was held at the Mount Holyoke Club on April 14. We were represented by Katherine Brehme Warren '30 and Patricia Evers '46. Mary W. Wilby '45, Assistant to Miss Palmer in the Admissions office, provided exact and up-to-date information for the sub-Freshmen. . . . On May Day the Junior members of the Seven College Clubs gave a very delightful afternoon party in the ballroom of the Savoy Plaza Hotel. Mary Powell Pensyl '44 was our representative on the committee.

WESTCHESTER

The annual meeting for the election of officers and directors of Barnard-in-Westchester was held on April 10th at the home of Mrs. Arthur S. Meyer (Marion Wolff '12) of Scarsdale. The slate of officers, headed by Mrs. Alfred E. Waller (Carolyn Harris '18), was accepted as offered by the nominating committee.

Frances Marlatt '21, then introduced the speaker of the occasion, Dean McIntosh. Miss Marlatt expressed the interest and admiration of friends of Barnard in observing the amazing way in which Mrs. McIntosh has managed to meet the many challenging problems of her new position.

What these plans and problems are, Mrs. McIntosh then explained: the extensive physical needs of the college, new buildings, and the efforts of the "development plan" to raise money to provide them. . . . Her aim is to turn out young women well integrated to meet life in the modern world. Her listeners were obviously full of enthusiasm for the Dean and of renewed enthusiasm for Barnard, at the end of her talk.

Tea was served, poured by Gene Pertak Storms '25, and Julia Lesser Crews '20. The Dean continued to chat with the many members anxious to have a few words with her.

CLASS NOTES

Louise Shaw Richards is retiring from her duties as Supervisor of Academic Buildings at Barnard and will take up residence at her country house in Litchfield, Connecticut.

1901

Isabella Cooper has completed as an anniversary publication for "Foreign Affairs" an analytical index covering all issues of the last twenty-five years.

1903

An Achievement Award for Public Service, awarded by the Women's National Press Club, was presented by President Truman to Mrs. Ogden Reid (Helen Rogers), president of the New York Herald Tribune.

1904

The class with deep regret reports the death on May 6, 1948, of Elfie Caben Rosebery, a devoted alumna whose work for the Thrift Shop has helped to send scholars to Barnard.

Caroline Lexow Babcock has moved to Blairstown N. J. . . . Helena Fischer Shafroth has returned to Washington, D. C. from the Canal Zone.

1905

Amelia Hill won a $100 listener's prize in an essay competition in Mrs. Stokowski's music course at Town Hall. . . . Lydia H. Sparkman, formerly Mrs. D. D. Williams, is now married to Willis C. Stephens.

1907

The degree of Doctor of Humane Letters was conferred on Agnes Ernst Meyer by Russell Sage College for her notable services both as a journalist of the Washington Post and as an active worker for social progress.

While staying at the Hotel Geneva in Mexico City last February Sophie Woodman was delighted to meet Elizabeth Fox De Cou '08. Sophie was traveling in Mexico and Guatemala with friends, and Elizabeth, who had recently lost her husband, was vacationing from her home in Eugene, Oregon.

Rita Reil (Marguerite Strauss) has lately returned from a flight to Europe to secure for Duell, Sloan and Pearce, publishers, for whom she is foreign editor, documents left by the late King Victor Emmanuel of Italy. She conferred with the former King Humbert of Italy and obtained an option on the documents, one of which is understood to be a diary.

1910

Johanna Julia Schwarte, Public Health Nursing officer at the Institute of Inter-American Affairs in Bogota, Columbia, was in the midst of the revolution in that city. The nineteen young women of the School of Nursing there spent twenty hours a day of what was to have been their graduation period in taking care of the wounded and dying, she reported in an interview described in the New York Times of May third.

1913

Maria de Villavilla, formerly Mrs. Edward Frankel, Jr., has announced her marriage to Maurice P. Doody.

1914

Louise Adams Holland has won a Guggenheim Fellowship this year. . . . Alice Clingen is secretary to Harold B. Haskins, business consultant. . . . Winifred Boegehold was represented by a watercolor entitled "Piermont, New York" at the annual exhibition of the National Association of Women Artists.

The class announces with deep regret the recent death of Evelyn Caben Friend, whose family has suffered a double loss in the death of her aunt, Elfie Caben Rosebery '04, last month.

Babette Deutsch has been giving a course in modern poetry at the Columbia School of General Studies. She has in preparation a book on modern poetry to be published soon by Holt and Company. . . . Cornelia Geer Le Boutillier is at work on a book on democracy which, she says, contains among other things an analysis of Marx and an adverse criticism of Communism. . . . Grace Diercks Kaas was appointed vice-principal of Essex Fels Junior High School.

The class has sustained a sad loss in the death of Helen Higgins Taylor and extends sincere sympathy to her mother and children.

The Class of 1919 held its twenty-ninth reunion on April 15th in the private suite of the Women's National Republican Club. The event was celebrated with a cocktail and dinner party. Adele Alfke Thompson presided.

Those who came were Elizabeth Herod, Elecia Carr Knickerbocker, Grace Munstock Brandeis, Dorothy Brockway Osborne, Edith Lowenstein Rossbach, Blanche Stroock Bacharach, Sari Rosenberg Dunn, Constance Lambert Doepel, Dorothy Morgenthau Eaton, Edith Willmann Emerson, Leolyn Smith Sens Goss, Sophie Koerner Gottlieb, Eleanor T. Glueck from Boston, Dorothy Belle Goldsmith, Dorothy Potter Grupelli, Marjorie Herrmann Lawrence, Jean Macfarlane, Grace Morgan, Marie Muhlfield O'Donahoe, Gertrude Geer Talcott, Jeanne Ballot Winham, Julia Treacy Wintjen, Carlyn Whipple Phillips from Philadelphia, Francis Reder Ruskin, Frances Rule, Bertha Mann Schulman and Georgia Schaaf.

New Class officers elected, after the thirtieth reunion was planned, were:

President—Edith Lowenstein Rossbach (Mrs. Lawrence), 1112 Park Avenue, N. Y. C. 28.

Vice-president—Jeanne Ballot Winham (Mrs. Albert), 44 Prospect Park, W. Brooklyn 5.

Secretary—Georgia Schaaf, 1051 Clay Avenue, New York City 56.

Treasurer and Chairman—Dorothy Belle Goldsmith, 121 Madison Avenue, N. Y. C. 16.

The class resolved never to become older than twenty-nine!

Janet McKee, president of the Freshman Class this year at Barnard, is the daughter of Rose LeVino McKee.

Mark Your CalendarTUESDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1948

You'll have a chance to revive or retain your figure when the evening sports program re-opens on this date to continue until the end of the first term on January 18. Fee: $7.50 and $.50 for physical examination.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22, AND SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1948

This is your opportunity to meet new members of the College's faculty and administration and to learn about some of the plans in store for Barnard. There will be sessions Friday afternoon and evening and again Saturday morning climaxed by a luncheon Saturday noon.

FULL ANNOUNCEMENTS OF BOTH EVENTS WILL BE MAILED YOU IN EARLY

Dr. Dorothy Swaine Thomas, who is now considered one of the foremost women sociologists in the United States, has been appointed professor of sociology at the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Thomas received her first faculty appointment in 1927 as an assistant professor of sociology in the Teachers College of Columbia University. In 1931 she was appointed associate professor of sociology at Yale University, a position she held until 1935 when she was appointed director of research in social statistics at Yale in 1939. During 1939 and 1940 she served as a staff member of the Carnegie Corporation Study of the Negro in America. In addition to her professional work in the United States, Dr. Thomas lectured abroad as a visiting professor at the Social Science Institute, University of Stockholm, Sweden, in 1933, 1935 and 1936. She is author of a number of books including, Social Aspects of the Business Cycle, 1925; The Child in America, 1928; Some New Techniques For Studying Social Behavior, 1929; Observational Studies of Social Behavior, 1933; Research Memorandum on Migration Differential, 1938; and Social and Economic Aspects of Swedish Population Movements, 1941. Her most recent publication is the first volume of a two-volume work entitled Japanese-American Evacuation and Resettlement: The Spoilage.

Leonie Adams, now a lecturer in English in the School of General Studies at Columbia University, has been given leave of absence to accept appointment to the Chair of Poetry in the Library of Congress. In 1928-30, it may be remembered, she was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship in creative writing. Her published works include "Those Not Elect," "High Falcon," and "Lyrics of Francois Villon," which she translated and edited.

Louise Rosenblatt and her husband, Sidney Ratner, announce the birth of a son, Jonathan, on April 16, 1948. . . . Hope Tisdale Eldridge assisted in the publication by the Census Bureau of its most important projection of population trends in a decade under the title, "Forecasts of the Population of the United States: 1945-1975."

1927

Katherine Krenning is working for the National Bureau of Economic Research.

On May eighth the class of 1927 held a luncheon at the Barbizon. Among those present were Miriam Michelson Bodner, Emma Henry, Mildred Bisselle Fewlass, Margery Meyer Levy, Rosalind Schlesinger Salomon, Dorothy Frankfeld Seligson, Priscilla Gates Hinds, Eva O'Brien Sureau, Annette Decker Kynaston, Harriet Reilly Corrigan, Junice Moses Oliver, Camilla Cowan von der Heyde. Next year's reunion will have as chairman Margery Meyer Levy who will be glad to hear from any of her classmates who have suggestions to make.

1928

Harriet Tyng is the author of a book of poems, "Vermont Village," published by the Stephen Daye Press. . . . Frances McGee Robinson was married to Royal Mooers Beckwith on January 20, 1948.

1929

Dorothy M. Hurd, ex-1929, is now married to Eduard Baruch.

1931

Anna Taranto (Mrs. Luigi Quagliata), now living on Via Civinini 7, Rome, Italy, would be happy to serve tea to any Barnard alumna who may arrive in Rome.

Leocadia Kukowski was married to Eugene John White on September 27, 1947. "Lee" is living in Bayonne, N. J. and has been a Counsellor in the Guidance Department for the high school since 1940. . . . Milo Upjohn is a social work supervisor with the Episcopal City Mission in Philadelphia. . . . James David Wolman was the latest addition to the family of Roslyn Stone Wolman. He was born on October 29, 1946.

Dr. Gulielma Alsop and Professor Minor Latham were guests of honor at a reunion dinner of the class of 1932 held on May fourth at the Women's Faculty Club. Those present were: Miriam Schild Bunim, Elma Samuels Rosenberg, Ella Fraade Rosen, Frances Mack Lewis, Lucille Knowles Freedman, Lorraine Popper Price, Ruth Henderson Richmond, Caroline Atz Hastorf, Gertrude Leuchtenberg Lewis, Margaret Schaffner Tenbrinck, Dorothy Roe Gallanter, Anne Orlikoff Schiller, Helen Garfinkel Wollin, Hilda Minneman Folkman, Isabel Boyd, Edna Black Kornblith, Blanche Tausick Jacoby, Elma Krumwiede, Caryl Curtis, Martha Maack English, Elise Keil, Virginia Weil Burman, Adelaide Bruns Cann, Agnes Dugan, Alice Haines, Anne Davis, Norma Keeley Coman, Beatrice Camp Nosworthy, Elizabeth Hopkins McDowell, Juliet Blume Furman, Hortense Calisher Heffelfinger and Helen Appell.

Hilda Minneman Folkman announces the arrival of Jonathan Vaughn on last March 25th. Dr. and Mrs. Folkman have two other children, Rebecca Jule, aged six, and Benjamin Lowell, who is three years old. . . . Dr. Margaret E. Tenbrinck whose article on Indigestion in the January issue of "Today's Woman" has been previously mentioned in the Alumnae Magazine, writes us that the subject was suggested by Margaret Mueller Freer '32 with whom she collaborated in preparing the manuscript. Dr. Tenbrinck signs herself "yours for accuracy"—and we feel it's a trait to be encouraged!

Frances Fortune is a secretary in the public relations department of the National Lead Company. . . . Katherine Montgomery formerly Mrs. Charles Stone, is now Mrs. Edward T. McGann.

1936

A third son has been added to the two progeny of Bernice Sutherland Stark. William Seckel was born July 6, 1947. His brothers are Donald Morrison, aged two and a half, and David Sutherland, aged seven. The Starks are living in Mt. Lebanon, Pa. Natalie Weissberger Paul announces the arrival of a future "Barnard girl"—Jane Paul—born on December 11, 1947—sister of John D. and Barnard '68(?)

1937

On December 20, 1947, Margaret F. Becker was married to Richard A. Smith. Margaret can be reached at 714 W. Packard Avenue, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

1938

From Kyoto, Japan comes a cheerful letter from Marion Hellman Sandalls. She says that she does substitute teaching in the American School in her spare time—"when not excursions, shopping in the PX, the Commissary, Japanese stores, or entertaining our many Japanese and American friends." Major and Mrs. Sandalls and their two children have "four house servants and 10,000 servant problems—but who's complaining!" She asks for donations of warm clothes since the people are without heat in homes and schools. . . . Margaret Blun Bowden announces the arrival of "a very new daughter," Young Miss Bowden has been preceded by two brothers and the family is living in Savannah, Georgia. . . . Sara Meyer Krimsley has recently married Orville N. WHY I smoke Chesterfield

(FROM A SERIES OF STATEMENTS BY PROMINENT TOBACCO FARMERS)

“I think Chesterfield is a good-smoking cigarette and I like them. They have a good, ripe-tobacco taste and they’re mild.”

“Nobody pays a higher price to get good-smoking tobacco than Chesterfield. They buy my sweet, ripe tobacco. Looks like a gold dollar in the barn.”
