Announcement

THE ASSOCIATE ALUMNAE of Barnard College has recognized through the years the necessity of adjusting plans to meet changing needs. The greatest need today is for assistance to the College in its effort to make itself more useful to the undergraduates and to the community it serves through its graduates.

With the organization of regional and local committees of the Development Plan under way, every possible effort is being made to promote the success of Barnard's financial campaign. Under the leadership of Dean McIntosh, the entire program is moving ahead quickly. Actual solicitation of funds begins early next fall.

Alumnae of the College will take a leading part on all of the local committees. The Associate Alumnae has already given impetus to the Development Plan through a loan to help finance the Student Lounge. Recently the Board of Directors of the Associate Alumnae took another step to assist the College in carrying out its plans, which promise to assure Barnard its position of leadership in women's education.

The Board voted at its March meeting to assist the campaign by making known all the news of the College, the faculty, the students, the Development Plan committees and their progress, through a regular monthly publication mailed to every graduate of the College.

This bulletin, which will be assembled by the College's Director of Public Relations (Aileen Pelletier Winkopp '33) in cooperation with the Alumnae Secretary (Mary Roohan Reilly '37), will take the place for one year of the Alumnae Magazine. Instead of receiving your magazine five times next year, you will receive a smaller, more informal bulletin every month. You will have class and club notes; all the news of the Associate Alumnae activities; more news about the College and its development.

The Associate Alumnae of Barnard College is proud to cooperate with Dean McIntosh in this project. With all of the alumnae well informed on the opportunities at Barnard today, the College should surely achieve success in gaining wide financial support for its future plans.

June Reunion • 1949

BETTER AND BIGGER than ever was Alumnae Day on June second. A program of continuous interest lasted from 2:45 P.M. to possibly 2:45 A.M. or whenever ended the reminiscences of those who had accepted the kind invitation of the college to stay all night and have breakfast.

The day began with the presentation of a bronze bust of Dean Emeritus Gildersleeve, executed by Malvina Hoffman and given to the college by the late Lily Murray Jones '05. One of her sons, all three of whom attended, made the presentation, to which Dean McIntosh responded for the college. Followed much circling of photographers, in which Miss Gildersleeve suffered herself to be posed with the bust, and some suppressed laments by alumnae because the bust did not resemble Miss Gildersleeve. All agreed, however, that it was a loving gift which would be cherished.

• Business Meeting

Adjournment to the business meeting in Brinckerhoff Theatre brought the alumnae through the campus, where the sight of the old trees, shrubs and new flowers assured them that the annex to Barnard Hall had not encroached upon the old Jungle, as had been rumored. The business meeting was briskly and efficiently run off: amendments to the by-laws, review of the year by the Alumnae President, presentation by the Barnard Botanical Club of a Research Fund of $5000. in memory of Herbert Maule Richards, report on the Alumnae Fund by the chairman and a most elaborate chart. The chart was very impressive but it lacked the human charm of the class gifts being presented to the Dean one by one on the Brinckerhoff stage. However, since the chart stands for the work of 700 agents throughout the country, it gives a fairer picture of the energy of the alumnae than could merely one representative. Today, from 2800 donors, the Fund totals $39,604.50.

An informal reception in the Gymnasium, featuring Faculty, Trustees, "champagne" punch and music by the Barnard Chamber Music Workshop, made an hour of meetings and recollections before supper. On exhibit was an architect's drawing of the proposed new building on Riverside Drive. The style is neither renaissance like Milbank nor gothic like the Riverside Church, but modified modern like the Butler Library. Another object of interest was the new Student Lounge, or annex to Barnard Hall, so lively and artistic in its furnishings.

Modern, too, was the Trustee's Supper in the Cafeteria. Gone were the circles of kindergarten chairs, the plate in the lap, the strawberries and ice-cream. Instead, the guests circled around a buffet of smorgasbord, and bore their plates to real tables. The reuning classes were disposed in rooms of their own, but there were plenty of other alumnae out of the 800 present who went hopefully looking into every face in the search for old friends. Many were found, amid sounds of joy.

An unintentionally dramatic moment was the entrance of Miss Gildersleeve making her casual way to the table of the 343 Club, when a great burst of applause followed her and shook the room.

After supper the Gymnasium again, where the Faculty repeated parts of their Follies. Henry A. Boorse, Professor of Physics, John E. Smith, Assistant Professor of Religion and Philosophy, and Richard P. Youtz, Associate Professor of Psychology, put on an excruciatingly funny parody of a Faculty Committee, and the staffs of the Dean's and the Bursar's offices, — Emily Lambert, Frances Barry, Marie Stahl, Audrey Seltzer, Ruth Philpotts, Jean Rhodes and Martha Lawrence Wieners, performed a weird Dance of the Goons. Lovely was the Barnard Chamber Music Workshop in its rendition of Mozart's Quartet in G Major. Priscilla Thierry, musician-in-residence, Barbara Crane, Ruth Ihrig and Lee Lyman, gave deep pleasure to all, and led up to the more serious part of the evening—words from Dean McIntosh. Caroline Duncombe Pelz, Chairman of the Reunion Committee, to whom is owing much gratitude for all these arrangements, introduced the Dean in a graceful little speech and thanked the Faculty for their unheard-of appearance after Commencement Day, and the Chamber Music Workshop for their sacrifice in playing that afternoon as a background to a thousand talkers at the reception. Then everybody lent their ears to one of the Dean's rapid, earnest, inspiring speeches about the future of Barnard.

• Dean McIntosh Speaks

"We are nearly at the second half of the twentieth century," the Dean said, in part, "a time that looks full of problems. But Barnard has traditions which fit her well to meet those problems. First, a tradition of scholarship, founded by the giants of the past, the professors the older alumnae remember. Though those early teachers have left us, be assured that today's Faculty, chosen by Dean Gildersleeve, are in no way less able to lead.

Anyone who has lived through the debates of a curriculum committee knows that this Faculty have characters fundamentally strong.

"The second great tradition of Barnard is our international one, begun by Dean Gildersleeve. In this we should continue to prepare ourselves and strive for leadership. At Columbia we may study

OF COURSE we had known it since 1899, so it was with a sense of corporate achievement that we began to assemble for our semi-centennial reunion at the unveiling of the bronze portrait of Virginia C. Gildersleeve.

You see, we had prophesied fifty years ago that she would be running the college. We had not anticipated that she would also be instrumental in the formulation of a world-wide plan for safe and sane living.

We wanted time to talk over the affairs in which we had been participants, and so retired after the alumnae meeting to Virginia's apartment for a refreshing cup of tea, with sherry for the more modern-minded among us. In addition to our hostess there were present: Agnes Dickson, Adelaide Hoffman Marvin, Grace Goodale, Marjori McAneny, Alte Stilwell Kervan.

Our greetings went to our absent classmates, and we recalled with tender pride the achievements of the classmates whose friendships we had shared in the past: Mary Brackett, Alice Duer, Martha Ornstein, Ella Seligsberg, Mabel Smith, Amelia Wolhfarth.

Tribute was paid to those great teachers—Nicholas Murray Butler, James Harvey Robinson, Franklin Giddings, James Hyslop, and others to whose progressive thinking we are glad to attribute the fact that nearly half of our class of twenty are still active in some sort of constructive work for the betterment of human relations.

A GROUP of 1904's met and gossiped at a pre-union tea-party given in May at the Women's University Club by the class president, Charlotte Morgan. And their forty-fifth reunion year drew back to College on June second seventeen of the present members:

"Let us give Barnard the resources she needs. Avoid defeatism. Why should we not find the support we deserve? We are a great college in a great city. If we really believe deeply enough in Barnard, we shall succeed."

from Princeton, Romola Lyons, Elizabeth McLean, Lizzette Metcalfe Meiklejohn, Charlotte Morgan, May Parker Eggleston, Hilda Popper, Nellie Thomas Hart from Winsted, Edith Van Ingen Darling.

Letters were read from several absent members, and those present gave brief summaries of their activities since graduation and of the size of their families. In spite of a natural prevalence of recent retirement by themselves and their husbands, several are still teaching, one in advertising, one keeping up some of her medical work. And most of them are active as volunteers in community affairs—among them May Eggleston, chairman of our Barnard Thrift Shop unit. Competition for the largest number of grandchildren was marked!

AS USUAL, 1909 is very well pleased with itself. Sixty-eight percent of its members (more than any other class) participated in the Fortieth Anniversary gift to the college of $4,000—a round hundred dollars for each year of alumnahood. Thirty-six members of the class returned for a hilarious review of our undergraduate years, with the help of our Mortarboard, extracts from the columns of the New York press of our day, several memorabilia and pictures from our past projected on the wall of the Conference Room where we convened.

As Jessie Cochran Reymond read the Class Roll, those present responded not only for themselves but for others from whom they had received letters of greeting and regret that they could not be with us: Helen Aiguier Warner, Una Bernard Sait, Ruth Hardy, Helen McPherson, Else Smith Bard, Mary Swenson Palmer, Lucy Thompson, Florence Gerish.

Herlinda Smithers Seris and Alice Grant told what little they knew of the war and post-war experiences of Adelaide Smithers and Mary Demarest, both of whom are serving as missionaries in China.

Three who had travelled the farthest to be with us on this historic occasion were Mildred Schlesinger Ragan, from Washington, where she is engaged in nutrition research for the National Coun-

A Corner of the New Student Lounge

Historic Occasion

THE OPENING of the Student Lounge on May 5 was accompanied by much cheer and picturesque detail. The door was covered with cellophane and barred by blue ribbon which was cut by the president of the Undergraduate Association, Mary Jean Huntington of Portland, Oregon, after she had received a large, symbolic key from Dean McIntosh. Mary Jean then stepped through the cellophane like Alice through the Looking-Glass as the door was opened from the inside by Mrs. Richard Whitney, Director of the Development Plan, and the new building was officially gained.

Before giving the key Dean McIntosh spoke a few words to the throng of students and Faculty standing in the May sunshine, saying that this was one of her happiest days at Barnard. And indeed it should have been, for among her first efforts was the provision of some gracious room for the day students.

The Student Lounge, decorated by McCutcheon, is as charming as anything in the newly furnished Brooks Hall. Blonde woodwork, curtains of natural linen scrolled with green leaves, chairs and davenports of dark green, light green, and tile-pink leather are grouped around low coffee-tables and an occasional card-table. On one side of the lounge is a fireplace and on the other a snack-bar. The proportions of the large square room are peculiarly pleasing, and open as it is on three sides, light and air give it almost a country-club atmosphere.

This addition of the first new building in twenty-five years makes us feel that things are moving forward. Indeed, architect's drawings showing the exterior design of the long-hoped-for academic building on Riverside Drive have already been submitted. The firm of O'Connor and Kilham, architects of the new Princeton library, are in charge. Anyone who has seen that superb building thrills in the knowledge of what we may expect.

cil of Research; May Ingalls Beggs who flew down from Wellesley where she is Assistant to the President of the College, and Una Logan who took in the reunion on her way to see her children living hereabouts.

Others present were: Mathilde Abraham Wolff, Helene Boas Yampolsky, Marion Boyd, Emma Bugbee, Dorothy Calman Wallerstein, Antoinette Carroll, Lilian Closson

IN SPITE of the advancing years, 1914's thirty-fifth reunion was a delightful occasion. Twenty-nine of us gathered at the reception in the gymnasium. Refreshed by the champagne punch served there, we proceeded to the Deanery which had been set aside for us alone.

We had no planned entertainment, but the features of the evening were an excellent buffet supper, the reading of letters from ten absentees and the recounting by each one of us of our activities and lives to date. Every account was interesting and amusing and the general conclusion was that all of us were happy and content with our lot whether our chief interest was our children and grandchildren or our business or professional success.

As the evening advanced, all of us seemed to slip back to those days of long ago, and to each other, at least, we seemed to become, in the words of Louise Fox Connell's letter, "ever young and free."

Those present were: Winifred Boegehold, Mary Ross Townsend, Charlotte Lewine Sapinsley, Lillian Walton, Jeannette Unger Kander, Esther W. Hawes, Caroline Burgevin, Dorothy Herod Atwood, Sarah Struges, Ruth Talmage Herbst, Clara Shackleton, Fanny Schwartzman Ress, Beatrice Heineman Deschere, Juliette Rosenthal Brisk, Esther Beers Corregan, Jean Barrick Crane, Helen Shipman Bayliss, Margaret Brittain McLaughlin, Jean Earl Moehle, Virginia Brittain Martin, Florence Palmer Edgell, Irene Track Hraba, Eunice Curtice, Elisabeth Schmidt, Alice Clingen, Florrie Holzwasser, Isabel Randolph, Gladys Bateman Mitchell, Peggy Schorr Meyer.

Edith Lowenstein Rossbach, beloved Class President, died two days before our thirtieth reunion which she had so ably and happily planned.

The show went on. It was what Edith would have wanted.

Jeanne Ballot Winham presided at our party and Dorothy Brockway Osborne was general chairman and toastmistress. Speakers were Emilie Young Muzzey who told us about Mrs. Mackintosh and the new Barnard and Adele Alfke Thompson who in As You Were took us back to the years 1915-1919 raising nostalgic memories of almost forgotten classmates and faculty members.

Lucile Wolf Heming described the work of denazification that the League for Women Voters is trying to do and told of seven German women who were brought here and who returned to their own country astounded at our democratic world.

Dorothy Brockway Osborne did an amusing skit with statistics. Most of us are cooks and housekeepers and we do NOT like it. Jeanne Ballot Winham, vice-president, was selected by unanimous vote to the Class presidency.

Those present were: Aline Buchman Auerbach, Isabel Smith Bemis, Myrrha Wesendonck Borum and Carolyn Whipple Phillips from Philadelphia, Mary Campbell, Marian Townsend Carver, Eleanor Curnow, Emily Dowling Di Crocco, Elsie Dochtermann, Dorothy Morgenthau Eaton, Edith Willmann Emerson, Pamela Thomas Faber, Dorothy Goldsmith, Dorothy Potter Grupelli, Sophie Koerner Gottlieb, Elizabeth Herod, Lucile Wolf Heming, Elecia Carr Knickerbocker, Marjorie Herrmann Lawrence, Ernestine Lind, Selma Gross Lorenz, Lenore Guinzburg Marshall, Armitage Ogden Markham, Edith Reid Merritt, Grace Morgan, Emilie Young Muzzey, Ruth Jarvis Moody, Frances Reder Ruskin, Marjorie Clark Swanson, Janet Meneely Shepard, Bertha Mann Shulman, Gretchen Torek Stein, Gertrude Geer Talcott, Adele Alfke Thompson, Edna Siems Thorpe from Berkley, California, Edna Van Wart, Jeanne Ballot Winham, Julia Treacy Wintjen, Gertrude Bunger Zufall, Hattie Wegener, Dorothy Brockway Osborne.

'24 HAS DONE IT AGAIN! What other 25 year class has a member of the faculty told, "You've a good-looking class?" Even an interested participant couldn't disagree with that opinion in the face of the following 61 examples:

May Bennet Goddard (all the way from Texas), Frances Clark, Olive Gunn Angus, Charlotte Farquhar, Ruth Losee, Myra Condon Hacker, Margaret McAllister Murphy, Frances McAllister McCloskey, Grace Kahrs, Georgia Giddings, Ethel Quint Collins, Jeanne Ullman Weiskopf, Olga Frankenstein Newman, Mildred Garfunkel Levy, Norma Englander Herzog, Ruth Ackerman Benenson, Agnes Cooper Hamilton (Albany), Helen LePage Chamberlain (our new director), Dorothy Fetterly Brower, Virginia Colgan Pitcher, Ruth Cushman Graydon, Helen Miner Austin, Katherine Morse McKinney, Helen Cross Brown (Liberty), Mary Bradley, Ella Sherpick Helmsley, Mary Pyle Fleck (Pittsburgh), Laura Bang Morrow, Marion Sheehan Kelly, Fanny Steinschneider Clark, Marjorie Candee Houck, Dorothy Steele McCrea, Adele Bazinet McCormick, Marie Louise Cerlian, Elizabeth Price Richards, Lillian Harris Planer, Florence Seligman Stark, Virginia Harrington, Helen Hoyt Chapin, Helen McDermott Platt (Merion Station), Louise Baker French, Myla Thayer Rousch, Edith Heyn Myers, May McLaughlin, Genevieve Colihan Perkins, Suzanne Jobert, Giuseppina Mina Scacciaferro, Jan Gay (Helen Reitman), Ruth Huxtable, Mary Ognibene, Edna Trull Bird, Dorothy Smedley Kneble, Eleanor Pepper, Barbara Kruger McKenzie (Reunion Committee, Thanks for the swell party!), Helena Archibald Waller, Florence Denholm, Cicely Applebaum Ryshpan (Washington), Ruth Mehrer Lurie, (Boston), Lucia Alzamora Reiss, Nelle Weathers Holmes (Amherst, N. H.)

First hand news and reminiscences were supplemented by letters and messages from Elizabeth Alford McMaster (twin daughters), Isabelle Harrison (gardening), Nellie Jacob Schelling (St. Gall and a mountain climbing family), Frances (Felsher) Hughes (LOOK), Charlotte Iltis Wilkinson (Nairobi in prospect), Elizabeth Waterman Gilboy (farming). Some of those present reported greetings or news from Alice Heideman Freas, Dorothea Smith Buick, Jeanette Mirsky Ginsburg, Helen Green Price, Gilda Monzillo Marsh, Helene Searcy Puls, Roberta Bennett Parpart, Elizabeth Lambrecht Eberlin, and Hortense Veilchenblau Schoenfeld, who is in the Hospital for Special Surgery, suffering from an attack of polio.

Dorothy Marvin whom an inconsiderate patient prevented from attending, sent greetings by her mother, Adelaide Hoffman Marvin of the class of '99.

With great difficulty Virginia Harrington finally persuaded the reunioners to suspend their gleeful recognition and recollections for the business of electing officers for the next five years. All the present incumbents were continued in office: Virginia Harrington, president; Marie Wallfield Ross, vice-president; Ruth Losee, secretary; Mary Bradley, treasurer.

THE FLOWERS came in on suburban trains, the punch bowls came up from downtown, the recipe came from one state and the wherewithall from another, the snapshots of children, homes and gardens came from the whole Eastern sea-coast and as far west as Michigan, as seventy women of 1929 demonstrated that they could still arrange a cocktail party and 20th Reunion with no fuss or frenzy.

The hand that rocks the cradle (and three more cradles will be in use before the year is out) or, in some cases, rocks the courtroom or classroom, seemed to be quite steady at the bar of the smart new Lounge in the annex. After a buffet supper that made us proud of Barnard's dietician we held a class meeting and decided not to impeach our officers this year. The announcement that we had given the college about $14,000 since graduation created a mild furor. Then we listened with pride to our bank vice-president, our U. S. Customs lawyer, one of our writers, our farmer, one of our teachers and a housewife. Before we had exhausted the list we were summoned into the gymnasium for the general program, and we reluct-

THIRTY-SIX MEMBERS of the class of '34 met for their 15th reunion in the Smoking Room on the 3rd floor of Barnard Hall on June 2 at 5:30 o'clock. The members revived old memories and brought each other up-to-date over cocktails (presided by Elinor Remer, Anna Jacobson Schwartz and Natalie Joffe Moir) followed by a delicious buffet supper given by the Trustees.

Margaret Gristede MacBain, Class President, greeted the members and then turned over the meeting to Helen Cahalane McGoldrick who congratulated the class on its youthful ebullience.

Aileen Winkopp Pelletier, '33, gave us some results of the survey on the "College Graduate of 15 Years Ago." Obviously they married, had children, had careers. Fifty per cent of them think careers can be combined with marriage and children but if a choice had to be made, by-and-large marriage would win. Almost every course in the curriculum was mentioned by some as preparing them best for life. Some of the benefits of their college education were "intellectual insights, breadth of understanding, vocational preparation," etc.

The Class presented $200 from their class fund to the Development Plan of the College.

A committee of four was elected to plan the 20th reunion of five years hence: Helen Cahalane McGoldrick, Stephanie Morka Call, Sue Lockwood Adams, and Helen Stevenson Austin. Whereupon the class moved into the gymnasium for the rest of the day's program.

The following members were present: Anne Augusta

THE TENTH REUNION of the Class of '39 was an outstandingly successful and happy event. Attendance was excellent, and genuine enthusiasm and class spirit were evident. The fact that the party was held in the newly decorated Hewitt living room added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion. Beautiful flowers which adorned the room and lovely carnations worn by all gave a festive touch.

After ample time for conversation, punch and supper, a brief business meeting was conducted by the Class President, Jay Pfifferling Harris. Minutes of the fifth reunion in 1944 were read by the Class Secretary, Kathryn Limberg Gould, and a few other matters were taken care of, including the election of new Class Officers. They are: President, Jay Pfifferling Harris; Vice-President, Elaine Hildenbrand Mueser; Secretary, Kathryn Limberg Gould; and Treasurer, Ruth Halle Rowen. Janice Hoerr Schmitt was appointed Class Editor.

Those recorded as present were: *Rose Grillo Ames, Ninetta di Benedetto, Shirley Dowd Bernstein, Ara Ponchelet Blanc, Dorothy Zirn Blauth, Millicent M. DOROTHY ROBB SULTZER

TALL, straight, slim, silver-haired is the newly elected President of the Barnard Alumnae, Dorothy Robb Sultzer, 1920. Looking at her to-day, I am impressed with how completely the modest woman of 1949 is the fulfillment of the shy, lovely girl of 1918, as I first saw her.

We were all in the big gym together, Freshman and Sophomore "athletes," struggling to learn how to throw a discus and yet keep our balance, how to pass a torch and lose no time about it, how to get over a hurdle and not send the cross bar flying. Here I first noticed the quiet, blonde Sophomore, intent on mastering classic discus form. During "time out" we were drawn to each other, both long-legged girls, giggling at our own ineptness, but enthusiastic over doing our best for our respective classes. So began the acquaintance which was to become a lasting friendship.

A Math major and a year ahead of me, Dorothy was in none of my classes. Nor were her extracurricular activities mine, for the Y.W.C.A. claimed much of her leisure time. We came together again on Student Council when Dorothy, a Junior, was Undergrad Treasurer, and then, the next year, Senior Class President. That June, I joined the Silver Bay delegation, of which she was chairman, at Lake George, an experience of spiritual inspiration and good fun. The leader of the delegation from Bryn Mawr was Millicent Carey.

A picture of the collegiate Dorothy Robb would be incomplete without mention of her active interest in her church, particularly as Sunday School teacher and Camp Fire guardian. One of the liveliest minstrel shows I've ever seen was presented by her group, a happy, well-trained crowd of youngsters under her earnest direction!

Then Dorothy became an alumna, went to work at the A. T. & T. as assistant to an engineer, and a year later married that engineer.

The years between her Senior Class Presidency and her approaching Alumnae Presidency have been devoted primarily to running a comfortable and most hospitable home, and rearing three healthy, energetic children. True to her convictions, however, through these busy years, she has somehow managed to serve such groups as the Mt. Vernon Girl Scouts, the Family Service Association, and for fifteen years to superintend the kindergarten department at her church. Recently she has organized the Mt. Vernon Day Nursery as a separate agency of the Family Service.

With such a president, we Barnard alumnae may surely anticipate a year of proficient administration. Now, with her Billy graduated from Lehigh, through with Army war service, and married; Harriet, a Wellesley alumna of a year; and Mary, a brand new Barnard alumna, Dorothy enters her new office free of the cares of raising a family but endowed with the wisdom and understanding acquired through that experience. We can still see in her the eagerness to learn and the conscientious will to serve which I first saw in the young Sophomore; and like that struggling Greek Games athlete, she can still laugh at herself!

Fortunate Barnard alumnae!

LUCY MORGENTHAU HEINEMAN

DEAR FELLOW ALUMNAE,

It hardly seems possible that, by the time you receive this issue of the magazine, I shall have completed three years in office. It has been a distinct pleasure and privilege to have served you, and I want to thank you most humbly for having given me this opportunity. Elsewhere in the magazine you will read about your new president, Dorothy Robb Sultzer '20, whom I welcome to her position as head of the AABC.

It seems fitting that I should address you about certain things that have happened during these few years. We have had, as you know, two exceedingly fine, stimulating conferences. We all look forward to next year's which will be held on November 18-19. We hope that many of you, at a distance, will plan to be present.

The Development Plan is well under way with Dean McIntosh as the chairman of the Steering Committee. The regional and class agents who did such a magnificent job for the Alumnae Fund this year are being recruited for the Development Plan and will, I am sure, render yeoman service to that all-important cause.

This will be, for a year at least, the last time that the magazine will wear this familiar dress. Your Board of Directors voted to suspend this type of publication for the year 1949-50 and to send you instead a monthly release so that you may be kept abreast of current information on the college, the faculty, the student body, the alumnae, class notes, club notes and all the facts that will enable you to know exactly what is happening and when.

May I, in expressing to all of the alumnae who have worked with me during these past years, mention especially our editor-in-chief, Clare Howard '03, to whom we all owe a vote of thanks for her able editing of the magazine. She will spend the next year in compiling the long projected and much needed index covering the contents of the magazine since its beginning in 1912.

The best of good wishes to the alumnae in all their undertakings for the coming year, particularly to our new publication which we shall all await eagerly.

Reunion Classes Report

1944 • Fund Total: $1,962.25 plus two bonds maturing at $200.00

MEMBERS of the Class of 1944 met in Room 408 of Barnard Hall and renewed old friendships at a buffet supper. Jean Vandervoort reviewed the activities and accomplishments of the class graduation, basing her report on questionnaires that had been filled out by the individual members. At the business meeting Shirley Sexauer Harrison reported on the Alumnae Fund and a panel of twelve names was nominated for the positions of class officers for the next five years. Ballots will be sent out by mail. So successful was the meeting that the members voted unanimously to have another reunion in the near future. A vote of thanks was extended to Frances Philpotts Williamson, Chairman of the Fifth Year Reunion Committee.

From Athens

I THINK I shall tell you about extra-diplomatic life in Athens. My diplomatic life consists in being Librarian at the United States Information Service, which in turn consists in being librarian, personnel officer, administrator, clerk, secretary, interviewer, decorator, architect and plumber; and above all, in conveying America as lying somewhere between a land of dreamlike cities with dancing in the streets and a producer of refrigerators and gold.

Even in Athens there is some danger of mines or small raiding parties of bandits, so that travel is greatly restricted. I have been lucky enough to make two field trips for the Office. My first impression of Konitsa—a war-blasted village in the Pinus Mountains a few miles south of the Albanian border—was one of such contrasts. We had jeeped over seventy-five kilometers of unspeakable roads (mine-swept that morning) and arrived cold and hungry. At the first tavern we stopped and devoured large plates of stew, ballasted by chunks of bread. And while we ate, we listened to music provided by a table of villagers (all male) who were drinking wine and singing as if their hearts would burst. The music was wildly melancholy—but it was music.

After the north, life in Athens seems easy and safe. Here the Enemy is at his most ruthless; but here, also, Democracy is at its strongest. It is a great struggle and everyone in Greece is fighting in it and staking everything he has. Peace is the ultimate hope of every Greek, but before peace "nike." And it will be a victory richly deserved.

• Chicago

MARCH 10 was a big day for the Barnard Club of Chicago. Dean McIntosh was guest speaker here at a luncheon held for Barnard Alumnae, members of the Women's College Board, and the Chicago College Club.

An interested . . . and interesting . . . group of about 80 attended the luncheon at the Chicago College Club, and were charmed listeners to Mrs. McIntosh's talk. Her discussion of the problems of education, with a following question and answer period was both provocative and constructive.

Previous to the meeting the Barnard Alumnae gathered about 30 strong to meet the Dean. Mrs. Oscar Haywood (Muriel Valentine '07, was hostess at an informal pre-luncheon "sherry party," at which time we were privileged to hear from Mrs. McIntosh her plans for Barnard, the problems to be faced, and the facts of the college's financial situation. We were all delighted with this opportunity to meet our new Dean.

After the luncheon, Mrs. Haywood introduced Mrs. McIntosh to the members of the group and their guests. Barnard-in-Chicago is planning a Spring meeting, with the date tentatively set for April 27th.

• Detroit

BARNARD in Detroit is small but active. In addition to our own business and social affairs we have had three meetings with the Columbia Club, one a dinner, one to see the installation movies of General Eisenhower, and a cocktail party at which Connie (Bright) Holt '42 and Marjory (Nichols) Boone '33 gave a two piano recital.

This year we gave $78 for the Scholarship Fund. Next year we are joining the Seven Eastern Women's Colleges in a series of programs for children. This has a double purpose, to raise money for the scholarship fund and to introduce the children of Detroit to ballet and music at a level they can appreciate.

At our last meeting we discussed the statistical report in the Christmas issue of the Alumnae Bulletin on dissatisfaction with preparation given at Barnard for marriage. The general opinion was that the influences for good human relationships function most actively in the pre-school years and that the art of wife and motherhood is almost instinctive. Intellectual college courses would not very much influence the basic attitude. We think that the lack which women feel reflects the social attitude of the time with its emphasis on careers and competition with men. We are very happy to note an increasingly broad program of working with our brothers across the street instead of competing with them. College should and does give you the acumen and power to deal with various social and business situations.

One tenth of our group and very active, Jane Stewart, is leaving us for Chicago where she will be working on neighborhood problems for the Welfare Council of Chicago, 123 West Madison Street, Chicago.

Dorothy Starr, Secretary, 645 Merrick Avenue, Detroit, will be glad to hear from any Detroiter interested in joining Barnard in Detroit.

• Los Angeles

THE May meeting of the Barnard College Club of Los Angeles County was held on May 7 at the home of Ruth Triggs Ingham '37.

After a delightful luncheon, our regular business meeting took place. Reports were given by Eva Glassbrook Hanson '22 on activities of the Seven Colleges Conference. Barnard was well represented at the dinner in honor of Miss Sarah Blanding, President of Vassar College, which was held at the University Club on April 28.

Mrs. Hanson has been interviewing candidates for the Seven Colleges' Scholarships both in Southern California and in San Francisco. Elsa Mehler '12 then told us of the meeting she had attended where plans were made by the Seven Colleges for an annual garden party to be given for the girls who plan to go East to college.

As this was a special meeting to interest other Barnard graduates in this area in our club, the president, Esther Anderson Clark '39, then introduced all the new members attending for the first time. To acquaint the newcomers with the old members, each of the old members in turn gave a brief sketch of her interests and activities. Among our members we are proud to count a poetess, an engineer, a consulting psychiatrist, a laboratory technician, several teachers, homemakers and a grandmother.

Members attending were: Edith London Boehm '13, Helen Beery Borders '31, Esther Anderson Clark '39, Elizabeth Cutting Gillette '01, Hermine Margon Grossman '33, Eva Glassbrook Hanson '22, Ruth Triggs Ingham '37, Helen Goldstone Kitzinger '23, Edith Hearst Layne '45, Marie Luckenbacker '21, Helen Hoyt Lyman '09, Elsa Mehler '12, Olive Moore '19, Rosalind Jones Morgan '23, Elinore Taylor Oaks '19, Winifred Roe '22, Ruth Weill '22.

• Pittsburgh

THE Barnard Club of Pittsburgh has had a number of luncheon meetings at the College Club since our last report in the Alumnae Magazine.

The Club was happy to welcome back Althea Goeltz Jones '28, one of our founding members who had been living in Rochester, N. Y. for the past seven years. We were also happy to welcome a new member, Bernice Sutherland Stark '36 whom we had heard of through the trusty Alumnae Magazine.

Our President, Rosemary Casey '26 will be hostess to the Club at a luncheon on May 14th, at which time we expect to hear full details of her play "Sister Hildebrande" which won a $5,000 award from The Christophers, a group dedicated to promoting Christian principles. We are all very proud of the fact that Rosemary Casey's script won first prize out of the 648 submitted for the competition. The latest reports are that Guthrie McClintic will produce the play in the fall.

Members attending our meetings of the past season were: Ruth Fine Balsam '29, Jane Flickinger Beer '40, Margaret Hatfield Breckenridge '26, Hazel Burkholder '12, Rosemary Casey '26, Merla Rosenfield Crip '34, Lucille Fiske Cuntz '30, Mary Pyle Fleck '24, Gertrude Cahill Hollinshead '23, Margaret Southerton Hough '12, Althea Goeltz Jones '28, Gertrude Robin Kamin '25, Maxine Rothschild Male '31, Ruth London Newland '22, Grace McIlhenny Remaley '26, Ruth Abelson Seder '31, Hattie Sonheim '15, Bernice Sutherland Stark '36.

• San Francisco

REPRESENTATIVES of the Barnard Club were entertained March 15 by the Mills College Club, together with alumnae representing twenty-eight other women's colleges all over the country. Mills is a women's college situated in the hills across the Bay from San Francisco on a beautiful campus almost sub-tropical with its palms and eucalyptus trees. The meeting was held because, as the invitation from the Mills Club read, ". . . we feel that there is a strong bond of common interest among the alumnae of women's colleges throughout the country. . . ." There were refreshments and a brief and interesting program. Dr. Lynn T. White, Jr., president of Mills, in an informal talk said that young women in the western four-fifths of the United States are so accustomed to co-educational institutions they are unaware that a woman actually has more freedom in a women's college than in a co-educational one. He spoke of the financial difficulties of privately supported colleges and said women's colleges have special difficulty because women live longer than men, wives outlive their husbands and then memorialize their husbands in the husband's college; also, women persist in believing that men are more important than women and that men's education should have prior claim on any available money. The head of the home economics department at Mills, Miss Zilpha Bates, spoke of the kind of education a woman should have. She raised the question whether the education given a man is good enough for a woman and said college should prepare a woman for life as she will probably live it, prepare her for adjustment to family life and domestic and home-making problems. Apparently there are two schools of thought on that, for later in the afternoon two young Mills graduates, both wives and mothers, discussed that point and agreed that they "wouldn't spend any college money learning something you learn anyhow when you have to."

Star over Barnard

BARNARD alumnae who remember the golden-haired Agnes Ernst of 1907, even then showing a lively interest in public events, have watched with wonder and admiration her evolution into a citizen of dynamic power. At first, after her studies at the Sorbonne and her marriage to Eugene Meyer, she favored aesthetics and wrote Chinese Painting as Reflected in the Thought and Art of Li-Lung-Mien; but with her husband's acquisition of the Washington Post she became more and more interested in writing up social problems for that paper and identifying herself with many kinds of work for the public good.

Mrs. Meyer is a Member of a committee that founded maternity centers in New York City in 1912, was Chairman of the Westchester County Recreation Commission from 1923 to 1941, Member of the Library of Congress Trust Fund Board since 1929, Trustee of Barnard College since 1933, Member of the President's Commission on Higher Education, Member of the Federal Hospital Council and Advisory Committee, Member of the Executive Committee of the National Health Assembly and President of the Social Legislation Information Service, Inc.

In all these offices she is no silent member, but uses her notable power of expression, her trenchant presentation of social problems, to telling effect.

"During the war our stirring trustee spent four years studying the social impact of the war effort in Great Britain and the United States. Her studies of twenty-eight major industrial centers were published in book form under the title Journey Through Chaos. Since then she has been working on a program of social reconstruction part of which finds expression in the National Citizens Commission, for Public Schools, of which she is a member. This Commission, announced May 16, is the first independent national association of laymen set up for public school improvement in the last century.

How deeply concerned with public schools is this earnest American may be remembered by her speech before the Herald Tribune Forum last year. She said in part:

"There are at least a dozen states whose public school system is not merely inadequate but so ineffective that large districts in these states have nothing that can be called a system of public schools More than three million American boys and girls go to schools financed at this poverty level, and two million go to no school whatever.

As a trustee of Barnard, Agnes Ernst Meyer has taken a lively interest in her old college, installing improvements and backing them with generous gifts. To mention only a few, she perceived the need of a Freshman Adviser and financed one; she organized and financed at Barnard, in conjunction with the New York School of Social Work, an Institute of Community Organization and Leadership during June 1945; she has twice presented the college with a series of concerts by the Busch Quartet. Alumnae should be grateful that we have such a remarkable, benevolent, actively gifted citizen among the friends and directors of Barnard.

The Thrift Shop

FIRST OF ALL, don't let us down during the Summer and Fall! We shall be closed Saturdays in July, and in all of August.

Now for some short notes. One: A call to the Shop, EL. 5-9263 (new number) will bring Henry to pick up rummage below 96th Street. Above 96th Street, please leave it at the Alumnae Office; mail it (922 3rd Avenue) or bring (near 56th Street) or contact the Chairman, BU. 8-1088. For articles needing express, always contact the Chairman, or if she be away, the Shop.

Next: Please put a note on your donation if you want a receipt of the amount for income taxes. Please excuse late "thank yous" this month.

Finally, due to some excellent rummage from the Midwest, South and New York, March was our best month this year, and we turned in $750.00 for the quarter. This makes $2,450.00 for the year—$22,330. since the Shop started.

ALICE GODDARD CHASE

Died March 12, 1949

It is not easy to confine within a brief space what I would like to say about Alice Chase. For I found in gathering the facts about her life that there were so many varied facets that probably no one who knew her in any particular field had a real appreciation of all she did for other groups.

I am not presuming to say anything about her relationship with Barnard, although everyone who met her must have realized how deep was her devotion to her college.

Some of us knew her in the Women's University Club where she was a charter member. Others had the privilege of working with her for many years in the New York City Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Because of her seafaring background, with five generations of master mariners on each side, one of her most absorbing interests was in the Mariners' Family Asylum on Staten Island, a home for Aged Women of the Sea.

She taught History and English for nearly fifteen years at Berkley Institute and Adelphi in Brooklyn. For some time she taught English to foreigners and she also worked with negro groups in the YWCA. Although she may never have used the words Human Relations she lived fairness and justice.

• 1911

From a little steamer on the River Niger in French West Africa Lillian Schoedler has written a grand long letter unfortunately too long to be printed in our little magazine, recounting her whirlwind journey over Europe, Ireland, and Africa during the past years. Cooped up in the U.S.A. for a decade our dynamic alumna has got away and will probably not return until 1950. Just now (February, 1949) she is planning to spend a few months in French and British West Africa and Equatorial Africa before returning to Europe.

She landed in France a year ago and on her first day in France, a Citroen car, completely equipped for European travel, was placed at her disposal by the widow of a French senator whom she had once taken on a tour of the U.S. In this fortunate gift she set off for Belgium, Holland, Brittany, Normandy, Switzerland, Austria, Germany, and the Italian Lakes. Then to England, not to sightsee, but to meet friends. "Not only English friends, but so many others from far-off places who chanced to be in Britain this summer—from Columbia, Peru, Buenos Aires, Terra del Fuego, from Kenya, Tanganika, Zanzibar, Capetown, Mexico, Australia—"

We wish we could tell you all.

The class of 1911 announces with deep regret the death in February of Lotti Greiff.

Sabra Follett Meservey was awarded the Public Service Fellowship by Barnard last month. The award is made annually to a woman college graduate showing promise of usefulness in public service and is open to candidates all over the country. This is the first award to be made to a graduate of an Eastern college.

Winner of the Murray Graduate Fellowship in 1945, Sabra Follett resigned it to accompany her husband, a physicist, to Istanbul, Turkey, where she taught English at the American College from 1945 to 1948. Now studying history at Columbia, her special interest is in improving American understanding of the Near Eastern countries, particularly Turkey.

Friends of Iris Davis were shocked to read newspaper stories of her desperate illness, and prayed that her father's efforts to have experimental radioactive material flown to her bedside would prove successful. The special flight from Oak Ridge was arranged, but after months of effort, death came to Iris at the age of 24 in London, May 14.

It is especially difficult to think of Iris gone in view of the very vital role she played in college extra-curricular life from the time she arrived here from her native England. Chairman of the schoolwide drive as a sophomore, she also served as class officer and president of Menorah while carrying an accelerated program. As late as last May, she was taking graduate courses at Columbia, and early in July she began the European tour on which she was stricken. Iris was strong, kindly, wise, and friendly. Her loss was not her parents' alone. We send our sincerest condolences, and we grieve with them.
