Announcement

Columbia CORE presents a "Forum on Police Brutality" tonight at 8 p.m. in Harrick Theatre. Theodore Weins, Herb Calhoun, Benjamin Garcia, Jr., and Jey Martin will speak. Admission is free.

Letter...

(Continued from Page 3) be to see how little this bloody, tragic event will disturb the life of our city and country. Moreover, we will proudly celebrate the birthday of Washington, and congratulate ourselves in the freest country in the world, a country in which each may stand up and have his own fear of persecution, imprisonment, and certainly never unlawful violence. The lies and distortions and other bohemes with which we must consider will be treated out whenever they are needed as if nothing at all had happened to them once and for all. They will continue to exist side by side with these ingrained chunks of reality and it will be the few not the many for whom an event such as today's initiates their final and complete exposure as the frauds they are.

One hopes that there will come a time in this country in which it will be unheard of for the announcement of the assassination of a controversial figure to be followed as was that of Malcolm and assassinations. Not, instead, yet insidious, voice tinging a commercial for an inaccessible company. "Our Constitution guarantees us the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." February 21, 1968

JOIN BULLETIN

Katarine Gibbs Memorial Scholarships

---

Full tuition for one year plus $500 cash grant

Open to senior women interested in business careers as aspirants to administrators and executives.

Outstanding training information now available at the College Placement Bureau.

---

St. Paul's Chapel
COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY
Amsterdam Ave. & 117th St.

11 a.m. Morning Prayer and Sermon: "LOVE AND ITS REGULATIONS" - The Chaplain of the University. 8 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Holy Communion.