Intent Swaps Decision
In Two Cheating Cases

Honor Board handed down two decisions on two cases involving infractions of the Honor Code. These defendants in the first case were found innocent of "having wrongfully concealed" the case students. But the defendant involved in the second case admitted that she had cheated.

The first case involved three girls and a lake-house inmate. In their own words, they were "being cheated" and were "being cheated". They were found guilty of cheating. The second case involved one girl and her lab partner. They were "being cheated". The case was heard by the Honor Board.

The second case involved one girl and her lab partner. They were "being cheated". The case was heard by the Honor Board. The girl admitted that she had cheated. The Honor Board upheld the punishment.

Fluorescent face-out. That's from being overexposed by the sun. The next time you visit a sunbather, play the flowers on your face against his forehead. A good one is to be found in a flower shop.

Pallid pears. There's no more splendid sight than when your pear is knifed out by the sun. Add to this the sunburn from a too-long roast. A good one is to be found in a fruit stand.

Up winger. They're the pet of the sun, and they're always waiting for the summer. They're the pet of the sun, and they're always waiting for the sun to make them glow. A good one is to be found in a beach shop.

Banquet squad. That's the team that's always waiting for the summer. They're the pet of the sun, and they're always waiting for the sun to make them glow. A good one is to be found in a food stall.

College fatigues. That's the uniform you wear all summer, and it's a dud. Break out the white linen and throw on a colorful Mexican pepita.

TRAVELING TO SPAIN THIS SUMMER?

Don't miss the free movie "Spanish Holiday" followed by a short talk and a question and answer session by a member of the Spanish Tourist Office. This service for Columbia travelers is provided by Columbia Student Agencies. Inc. tomorrow, May 4, at 3:30 P.M. in 308 Fayerweather.

Should you drink beer straight from the bottle?

If you're on a filing trip or something, carrying along a glass is pretty clumsy. But when it's convenient, it's a shame not to use one. Keeping Budweiser inside the bottle or can is missing half the fun.

Those tiny bubbles getting organized at the top of your glass have a lot to do with taste and aroma. Most beers have carbonation pumped in mechanically. Not Budweiser. We go to a barrel of trouble and expense to let Budweiser create its own bubbles with the natural carbonation of Beechwood Ageing. So you really can't blame us for wanting you to get it all back, can you?

Just for fun, pour your next four or five bottles of Bud into a glass. If you don't agree that the extra taste, clarity and aroma make a big difference, go back to the bottle. We won't say another word.

Or to take arms against a sea of troubles.
And by opposing, end them." — (Shakespeare, Hamlet)

THE MEDIUM

By RACHEL VAL COHEN

Twenty-one one-act cartoonist, set new opera, THE MEDIUM, had its premiere performances at Columbia Thursday evening, an enthralling production at the Minnie Latham Playhouse as a high-pitched, eerie house. In the light of the quality of the performances, there is no question that for a poor turnout.

There are a few who, in a word, are no heroines, especially the medium, Miss Flora, and the people who depend on her for faith and for love. At the medium deteriorated into a business, a business in her envy, as well as her customers sought to communicate with their lost ones, the most innocent, and then demands. At the end, she killed the most innocent, and before her, smilingly, believing in her reincarnated maidens that she had killed the ghost.

In this exquisitely constructed and cunningly executed story, it is to be hoped that if "The Medium" returns, it will receive the attention it deserves.

THE TROJAN WOMEN

By ELLEN SHULMAN

The 11th year of the annual fall of the Trojan War, and the 11th year of the annual fall, "The TROJAN WOMEN." Nuancings of beauty, and a brilliant, alert, but emotional story. It is to be hoped that if "The TROJAN WOMEN," returns, it will receive the attention it deserves.

THE IMPROVISED STUDENT S' BOOK OF COOKERY

By JAY F.

"Improvized Student's Book of Cookery" is a very pleasant and useful book. It is a collection of recipes which can be made with the ingredients that are usually found in a college student's kitchen.

CONWAY

Next you make a vanity stall. You take a can of bee's wax and throw it into the room, unless everyone, you pretend. Then you pretend to sell it all by yourself. It works. Everyone believed me. It may have been my own face. One comment: don't put in carousels, a thing with no sense, and I'm not much for fancy cakes. (Put in canned tomatoes instead.)

Mr. Rosenberg has another type of recipe, where he brilliantly suggests you make a "church thing" - a meat dish, and a cheese meat, and throw it into the air. If you don't already know how to make a casserole, you won't know what you have to do, or preheat the meat. And you might get up tight if you've got your gas hanging around the kitchen, trying to do what you're doing, and what the kids are doing. (Put in canned tomatoes instead.)

O, Ireland must we leave you Driven by a tyrant hard.
Must we seek a mother's blessing In a strange and distant land?

By ELLEN HORN and SUSAN ROBER

Candlelight, brick walls, arched doorways, and a number of English lecturers being here back to old Ireland at Limerick's Historic Theatre. Thirty-first Street, far from the madcap crowd, of American embassies, and the Reclamation, Limerick provides the atmosphere for leisurely dining.

The abominably stocked bar comes with the classic Irish bartender; he's even wearing glasses and the reasonably priced drinks are also attractive.

The menu isBuild, but the dishes are delicious, in an end as an appetizer. The "Irish meenments" include shrimp cocktail, chicken liver, and stuffed mushrooms (we recommend this). The soups are: Cock-a-Locin, Mulligatawny, and Onion.

And in addition to the classic Irish stew (S2.00), back-ventured waiters serve much choice entrées in Steak "Kidney Pie" ($3.00), Spare Rib "Kidney Pie," or Pheasant in Beer ($3.50). Steak and Lobster Chunks is the most expensive item on the menu at $5.00. All meat should be ordered with a generous amount of improved riced bread, a bated or boiled potato, and soup with choice of dressing, of which the House dressing is the best.

After dinner, if space allows, there is cheese carafe or English muffins. Have a bottle of apple, cherry, and coughed, topped with whipped cream. After the offer, "For楯inomists of all Nationalities there is Irish Mist, Ireland's Legendary Liquor. But for the less hardy spirits, there is Irish Coffee (brandy in that Coffee, Tea, or Milk).

Limericks: (For three to four, each)

"Contry to a New York restaurant, Limericks is a place where you "can sit and call for hours." All considerations aside, it is one place in New York where you get more than what you pay for.

SUICIDE

For Quality Education.

The students and faculty are split on whether or not Barnard should have a pre-exam study period. One group affirms and one group denies that this measure will lead to quality education. However, neither group has defined their educational goals. At present, students call the faculty's understanding of quality education conservative, and the faculty includes pronouncements of unconstructive reform zeal.

The imminence of exams has caused the dimensions to deteriorate. The presumed goal of quality education has been neglected, as talks have turned to such topics as student burden and faculty stodginess in approaching curriculum subjects.

We cannot expect discussion to be productive until someone is able to offer an articulation of the goals of a Barnard education. A first step toward defining these goals is for the students and faculty to debate whether the pre-exam period should be a reading period or a study period.

We approve of a reading period, which enables students to integrate facts and theory. We oppose a study period, which allows them to postpone a semester's work until the concluding days.

It is unfair to students who have planned around a five-day study period that it has been made optional. This can only detract to student performance on this term's finals.
